PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 108th CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION

Vol. 150

WASHINGTON, THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 2004

No. 44

House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m.

Monsignor James C. Kidder, Pastor, Holy Trinity Catholic Church, El Dorado, California, offered the following prayer:

O God, our loving Creator, our experience of Your fidelity in our lives can often be overshadowed by our fears of the future. We know the uncertainty of our plans and the difficulties we face in our aspirations. We need hope. Not false hopes that are unstable, but the hope of faith that can support and give courage. Your fidelity, Lord, is unchanging. You do not retreat. You do not know deception. Your fidelity is our hope.

Help us to be mirrors of Your fidelity, for the first, the last, and the greatest gift we have to offer others is our life. Help us to exist for those who entrust their well-being to us. A complete gift as great as this does require Your fidelity to us.

On this first day of April which could be filled with pranks, illusion, and humor, we thank You for the ability to laugh, which is a gift from You to release the tensions pent-up within and to open our eyes to envision Your truth all the more. We thank You, too, for the gift of a smile, a wonder that we can freely share to brighten the days of others. May we go forth today to share that gift generously. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from New York (Mr. ISRAEL) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. ISRAEL led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Mr. Monahan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed a bill of the following title in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. 275. An act to amend the Professional Boxing Safety Act of 1996, and to establish the United States Boxing Administration.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. There will be ten 1-minutes on each side.

THE OIL FOR FOOD SCANDAL

(Mr. PITTS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, the United Nations has a terrible track record on appeasing dictators. The growing scandal surrounding the Iraqi Oil for Food program is a good example.

While the Iraqi people suffered from shortages of food and medicines, Saddam Hussein looted billions of dollars in U.N. aid to fund his military and buy friends around the world.

Manufacturers and trade brokers in Europe, Russia, China, and the Arab world benefited from billions Saddam Hussein funneled to them, all courtesy of the U.N. Oil for Food program. Those who profited from Saddam's generosity have become propaganda mouthpieces for his corrupt regime.

As Saddam's friends criticized how sanctions made the Iraqi people suffer, they pocketed billions of aid intended for the people they claimed to care about. No wonder they were against liberating the Iraqi people. They were profiting off of their suffering.

These coconspirators with Saddam Hussein should be exposed. Their selfishness and deceit have cost Iraqi lives.

WHITE HOUSE THREATENS VETO OF TRANSPORTATION BILL

(Mr. DEFAZIO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, 2.8 million jobs lost, 1.1 million long-term unemployed with expired benefits, 24 months into a jobless recovery spurred by record deficits and trickle-down tax cuts. But finally, today, hope is on the horizon.

Mr. Speaker, a $275 billion highway bill, it should be more, is pending. It would create real jobs to meet real needs, put Americans to work; and, yet, the White House is threatening a veto. April fool, or is it fools at the White House?

COURT OF APPEALS CONSIDERS PARTIAL-BIRTH ABORTION

(Mr. BURGESS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Speaker, currently, the Court of Appeals is working on the partial-birth abortion ban which we passed in this House twice during the past year and the President signed into law in December.

Mr. Speaker, it has been over 25 years since I first learned of the procedure of newborn circumcision, not something we normally think of in this House, but, Mr. Speaker, it would be unthinkable today to perform that procedure without some type of anesthesia, because we all know that a newborn feels pain.

But we are asked to discount the possibility of fetal pain perception when dealing with the language of partial-birth abortion. We are asked to suspend our knowledge of pain pathways and assume that a scalpel laceration, skull fracture, dural tear, and brain laceration will pass unnoticed by the child, as long as his or her head is still in the birth canal.

By any measure, intact dilatation and extraction performed in the last trimester of pregnancy is never the only option for concluding a pregnancy when the mother's health is compromised. Induction of labor or Cesarean section may both be used to complete a pregnancy when the mother's health is threatened.

The only theoretic advantage of a partial-birth abortion is this: It guarantees that the baby will be dead upon delivery.

BEWARE OF BUSH ADMINISTRATION OFFICIALS BEARING MEDICARE BENEFITS

(Mr. EMANUEL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, when the House voted on the Medicare bill, we and the American people were told its cost was $400 billion. Later, we found out that the Bush administration and congressional leaders knew all along it would cost actually $550 billion. What is a mere $150 billion among friends?

Not a single benefit has gone to a senior citizen, and the taxpayers are stuck with an additional $150 billion on top of the misappropriated $400 billion. Beware of Bush administration officials bearing Medicare benefits.

Prescription drug costs have skyrocketed over the last several years, six times the rate of inflation. It is like a sale at Nieman Marcus: Prices are jacked up by 50 percent before the discount of 25 percent.

In 2001, drug costs increased by 16 percent; in 2002, 18 percent; in 2003, 19.5 percent. The prescription drug benefit will do nothing to protect senior citizens from skyrocketing cost increases.

Instead of depending on a flawed Medicare law that punishes taxpayers and does little to help our senior citizens, we need to lower drug prices here in the United States by allowing competition and choice to exist in the market and allow people to buy their drugs in Canada and Europe where they are 50 percent cheaper than here in the United States.

RECOGNITION OF UPCOMING ELECTIONS IN BELARUS

(Mr. SHIMKUS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to bring attention to the upcoming elections in Belarus.

While most of the former Eastern Bloc countries have demonstrated varying degrees of democratic progress since the Soviet collapse, Belarus has slipped back into a Soviet Union-style dictatorship. Belarus's current President, Alyaksandr Lukashenka, was elected in July, 1994. The country's political and economic repression intensified in 1996 when President Lukashenka orchestrated passage of a constitutional referendum that provided him control over all of the branches of government and society as a whole. The President then disbanded the parliament, and only those members loyal to him chose to serve in the new legislature. He extended his term of office to 2001, and the 2001 election lacked transparency and democratic administration.

In response to the repressive political environment, we need to focus our efforts on helping to promote an institutional survival of the country's democratic political organizations and helping their leaders and activists prepare for political and public policy roles in a future democratic Belarus.

The important thing for the current regime in Belarus to understand is that Washington and the world are watching.

MOURNING THE DEATHS IN FALLUJAH

(Mr. ISRAEL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ISRAEL. Mr. Speaker, if we wanted to understand the line that divides good versus evil, it was drawn in Fallujah yesterday.

Four people were providing security to deliver food to the people of Fallujah, and some of the people that they were seeking to feed killed them, mutilated them, massacred them.

Mr. Speaker, today's Wall Street Journal said this of the situation in Iraq: "It is not a good sign that Iraqis feel free to mutilate the bodies of dead Americans in front of the world's TV cameras." Then it goes on to say, "A year without justice has also been a year without enough deterrence, and Fallujah now have more reasons to fear the consequences of working with the Americans than the consequences of killing them."

Today we mourn the deaths of four people who believed in a better world.

In the White House, the Pentagon, and the State Department, we must redouble efforts to ensure that the perpetrators of these crimes are punished. Justice will lead to security, security will lead to stability, stability will lead to democracy, and democracy will bring again justice and liberty for all.

HONORING THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF PHYSICIANS OF INDIAN ORIGIN

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to highlight the important work of the American Association of Physicians of Indian Origin, or AAPI, which includes 35,000 physicians and 10,000 medical students and residents throughout America.

Indian-American physicians have been pioneers in medicine and health care for centuries, and by working together through AAPI, they have made important contributions to the American medical profession. In South Carolina, Indian-American doctors such as Dr. Kaushal Sinha are especially meaningful, giving service in rural communities.

Also, an Indian-American, Dr. Seshadri Raju, performed a life-saving double-lung transplant on my predecessor and mentor, the late Congressman Floyd Spence. Congressman Spence incredibly lived an additional 13 years thanks to Dr. Raju and then was able to serve his country as chairman of the House Committee on Armed Services.

I ask my colleagues to join me in thanking AAPI for their visionary leadership in health care, particularly President Dr. Sharad Lakhnarpal, as well as Dr. Rakesh Shreedhar, Dr. Sampat Shivangi, and Dr. Raghavendra Vijayanagar.

In conclusion, may God bless our troops, and we will never forget September 11.

PRESIDENT BUSH SHOULD TAKE HIS OWN ADVICE TO HEART

(Mr. MARKEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Speaker, the Bush administration refuses to jawbone or pressure OPEC to increase oil production while the American consumer at the gas pump is being tipped upside down and money is being shaken out of their pockets every single day. This is wrong. The President should jawbone OPEC to increase oil production, not to lower the production of oil.

Here is what the President said to Bill Clinton 4 years ago. He said, "What I think President Clinton ought to do is to get on the phone with OPEC and to say we expect you to open your spigots. One reason why the price is so high is because the price of crude oil has been driven up. OPEC has gotten its supply act together and is driving up the price like it did in the past. And the President of the United States must jawbone OPEC members to lower the price." That is the advice George Bush as candidate gave to Bill Clinton.

Now that he is President, he says he cannot jawbone OPEC, that it would be wrong; but the price is being paid by the consumer at the gas pump every single day.

HONORING THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE MORTON SALT PLANT

(Mr. REGULA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. REGULA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the achievements of the Morton Salt plant, a company from Wayne County in Rittman, Ohio. I am confident that you will recognize this company by the Morton umbrella girl, a familiar sight on the Morton products, and by the slogan "When It Rains It Pours." What you may not know is the long history of safety that the Rittman plant has experienced.

Today, I rise to recognize the dedicated employees of the Morton plant in Rittman, Ohio, for the recent achievement of 5 million work hours without a lost-time incident. This is a record within the Morton Salt Company as well as the entire North American salt industry.

Since 1848, the Morton Salt Company has been North America's leading producer and marketer of salt for home, water conditioning, industrial, agriculture, and highway use. Morton's Rittman's facility employees process thousands of tons of household salt each day.

As you know, Mr. Speaker, mining and manufacturing can be high-risk professions. This plant employs approximately 285 employees. And since June of 1995, injury accidents have not forced any worker to take time off from work. This milestone shows the dedication to health and safety of these people. I congratulate all of them for their outstanding achievement.

RECOGNIZING JACK DANIEL'S DISTILLERY ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF WINNING THE GOLD MEDAL AT THE 1904 ST. LOUIS WORLD'S FAIR

(Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, as the current Member of Congress representing Jack Daniel's and its employees, it is my honor to pay tribute to this Tennessee treasure.

Since 1863, in the spirit of George Washington, the father of the American distillery industry, the Jack Daniel's distillery, has produced the most popular Tennessee whiskey. Jack Daniel's has produced and responsibly brought a part of Tennessee heritage to millions of adult consumers in 135 countries around the world. Jack Daniel's Tennessee whiskey is the United States' number one exported distilled spirit.

Jack Daniel's, located in Moore County in the 4th Congressional District of Tennessee, has a long tradition of bringing friends and neighbors together. Furthermore, it has been a major source for employment and tourism revenue in Moore County and Lynchburg, Tennessee.

I would like to express the U.S. House of Representatives' heartfelt congratulations on the 100th anniversary of Jack Daniel's 1904 World's Fair Gold Medal.

MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG DISCOUNT CARDS

(Mr. HASTERT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HASTERT. Mr. Speaker, 2 months from today, American senior citizens will begin to realize discounts on their pharmaceutical medications. June 1 is when Medicare-approved prescription drug discount cards hit the streets, and savings between 10 and 25 percent on their life-saving drugs take effect.

This is a much-needed first step for seniors seeking relief on their monthly bills. These Medicare-approved discount cards are part of the new Medicare law that Congress passed and the President signed. It includes coverage of pharmaceutical costs, some new preventative care benefits, like free physical exams and better care for seniors with chronic illnesses.

To learn more, I am urging my constituents in northern Illinois to call 1-800-MEDICARE, that is, 1-800-MEDICARE, or log on to WWW.MEDICARE.gov. These two informative sources run by the Department of Health and Human Services will provide unfiltered, unfettered news seniors can use about their new drug benefits.

MEDICARE PROVIDES EMPLOYERS INCENTIVE TO KEEP PRESCRIPTION DRUG COVERAGE FOR RETIREES

(Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to set the record straight on the Medicare prescription drug plan. Since the mid-1980s, the number of employers offering prescription drug coverage to their retirees has been declining steadily. In 1988, 66 percent of employers provided these benefits to retirees. In the year 2000, it was only 34 percent.

To address this alarming trend, the Medicare prescription drug bill provides employers an incentive to keep their coverage. They are going to get 28 cents for every dollar that they spend on prescription drug benefits for their retirees. This applies to all employer-sponsored prescription drug coverage and those of corporations, unions, and government entities.

Because of these incentives, AARP and the American Medical Association endorse the bill that we passed last year. It is unfortunate that Democrats continue to twist the truth and distort the facts by scaring seniors into believing that this bill would cause them to lose benefits. That is the furthest thing from the truth. What the Democrats do not tell seniors is that for the first time Congress has acted to slow this trend.

THE NEW HIGHWAY BILL

(Mr. PENCE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, since the days of the Roman Empire, nations have understood the connection between roads and prosperity and national security. And today Congress will deliberate on a new highway bill, which I will support only if it can be fiscally responsible and fair to so-called donor States like Indiana.

But I rise at the outset of this debate to congratulate the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) and the membership of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure for resisting the temptation to raise gasoline taxes. With the news this morning that OPEC will be cutting production and raising the cost of crude, that gasoline is at $3 a gallon on the West Coast, I am personally grateful to the chairman of the transportation committee and all of its membership for saying with regard to this highway bill, no new taxes.

LET US SOLVE THE INEQUITIES IN THE TRANSPORTATION EQUITY ACT

(Mr. FLAKE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Speaker, as we debate the transportation reauthorization bill today, I think we need to abide by one simple principle: solutions for transportation safety, congestion, and pollution and transit should not be determined by which Members face difficult campaigns or which Members sit on influential committees. These kinds of determinations are being made in H.R. 3550 unless we make some changes to it.

This approach to funding is inconsistent, especially with the stated objectives of the bill, and it results in inequitable distribution of funding between the States.

As we debate the reauthorization, we need to consider solutions that give States discretion and flexibility in the use of funding, financed by their own citizens and highway users.

I have an amendment before the House today that would neither strike nor prevent Members from securing earmarks for their district. What it would do, however, is prevent those States that benefit disproportionately from earmarks from drawing funding away from States that, in spite of a few earmarks, end up faring much worse.

I urge support for this amendment.

HIGH-RISK NON-PROFIT SECURITY ENHANCEMENT ACT

(Mr. NETHERCUTT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. NETHERCUTT. Mr. Speaker, this morning I will be joining with my colleagues, the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER), the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. SHAYS), and the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. PENCE), to introduce the High-risk Non-profit Security Enhancement Act.

Our legislation has three key components. It directs the Department of Homeland Security to provide $100 million in grants and loan guarantees for security enhancements at non-profit organizations that are at high risk of international terrorism. It assists local law enforcement agencies that provide security for regions with high concentrations of non-profits with $50 million in grants. And the bill establishes an Office of Community Relations and Civic Affairs at the Department of Homeland Security to facilitate this program.

Since September 11, the Federal Government has dedicated significant resources to improving the security of government facilities. We have successfully deterred attacks for more than 2 years, but we must remain vigilant and continue to devote resources to potential targets.

As government facilities have fortified against the threat of terrorism, terrorists may turn their attention to less fortified, but equally symbolic, targets. Leading non-profit organizations may become targets as an unintended consequence of our efforts. They represent the heart and soul of our communities, and the forces that want to destroy America understand their value. They believe they understand the importance of these organizations in our culture and our society.

This legislation will protect non-profit organizations throughout America, and I urge my colleagues to support this very important legislation.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 3550.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. NETHERCUTT). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Alaska?

There was no objection.

TRANSPORTATION EQUITY ACT: A LEGACY FOR USERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of Tuesday, March 30, 2004, and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the consideration of the bill, H.R. 3550.

IN THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the consideration of the bill (H.R. 3550) to authorize funds for Federal-aid highways, highway safety programs, and transit programs, and for other purposes, with Mr. SHAW in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of Tuesday, March 30, 2004, the bill is considered as read the first time.

General debate shall not exceed 2 hours and 40 minutes with 2 hours and 10 minutes equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure including a final period of 10 minutes following consideration of the bill for amendment and 30 minutes equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG).

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I feel somewhat like the sinner appearing before the bishop when Your Honorable is in the Chair; but with all due respect, I do relish this moment. We are here today to support H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users, known as TEA LU.

This bill is a result of a great deal of hard work and cooperation by the Members of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on a bipartisan basis.

I want to first thank the ranking minority member of our committee, my good friend, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR). He has been a real champion of transportation, working with me to craft this legislation.

I also want to thank the chairman of the Subcommittee of Highways, Transit and Pipelines, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI). His leadership and dedication contributed greatly to bringing this bill to the floor today.

He has traveled many, many miles to try to bring the information and gather the information from the citizens of this great Nation.

In addition, I appreciate the support and cooperation of the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), ranking minority member of the subcommittee. This effort demonstrates that, through bipartisanship, working together in cooperation, we can achieve I believe great things and legislate great things in this body.

I particularly want to thank our Speaker, the gentleman from Illinois

(Mr. HASTERT), for his leadership in moving this important legislation along. He has ensured that this body will be able to work its will and proceed as an independent branch of our government under our Constitution, and I do deeply appreciate his support.

In addition, we could not have brought this bill to the floor today without the support and assistance of the gentleman from California (Mr. THOMAS) from the Committee on Ways and Means. Chairman THOMAS is proposing some changes to existing law that will provide additional revenues into the Highway Trust Fund. His proposal makes it possible to achieve a better bill, and I appreciate his advice and counsel.

Lastly, I want to thank the gentleman from Iowa (Chairman NUSSLE) of the Committee on the Budget. He and his staff have been invaluable in ensuring that we continue the principles contained in TEA 21 that guarantee that highway trust funds will be spent on transportation, as promised to the American people. We have worked closely together to reach an agreement that meets both our needs at this point in time.

We have worked with other committee chairmen on provisions contained in the bill; and, without their help, we would not have been able to bring this bill to the floor today. We will continue to work with other committees in a cooperative fashion as we proceed to conference.

Mr. Chairman, traffic congestion, poor roads and hazardous highways are not Republican or Democrat problems. These are problems shared by all Americans, from all walks of life or economic conditions and all political parties.

Today, congestion on our highways is greatly reducing the quality of life for American families. Congestion, congestion, congestion causes over $67 billion in lost productivity and wasted fuels, $67 billion lost that produces nothing. It costs the average driver $1,160 a year and more than a week and a half spent stuck in traffic. I want to stress that again. Average driver, $1,160 a year and more than a week and a half spent stuck in traffic.

H.R. 3550 provides a new emphasis and a new program to relieve congestion, maximize roadway capacity and remove bottlenecks. In addition, more than 42,000 Americans are killed and 3.3 million are seriously injured each year on our highways. Nearly a third of the fatal crashes are caused by poor roads and roadside hazards. These fatalities are totally preventable.

H.R. 3550 creates a new core program for highway safety infrastructure improvements, a new high-risk rural road safety program and supports a number of safety programs aimed at human factors that contribute to accidents.

Mr. Chairman, we live in a global economy. Moving freight quickly and on time is absolutely essential to remain competitive and to retaining our economic well-being. Other countries, such as China, are investing first in their transportation infrastructure because they know that without roads they cannot grow their economies. The United States must be willing to make transportation a top priority if we are to retain our economic leadership.

H.R. 3550 funds five programs designed to improve movement of freight, including funding for border infrastructure, intermodal connectors, projects of regional and national significance and a new corridor infrastructure program.

The bill also provides funding for construction of dedicated truck lanes. This will mean not only faster moving of freight but a vast improvement in safety on increasingly crowded interstates.

Public mass transportation is a key component in our cities. Seniors, the disabled and low-income families rely heavily on public transportation. In addition, without transit our highways would be so congested that we would not be able to move at all.

Therefore, H.R. 3550 continues our commitment to provide for public transportation both to our cities and to many rural areas where the need is great.

America's transportation needs are obvious to anyone who spends time on our roads and highways. We are a Nation stuck in traffic. We based the funding level of H.R. 3550 on the administration's conditions and performance report which set forth the needs of our transportation system.

In addition, we received far more requests from Members for funding of projects than we could possibly accommodate. That proves to me that the needs are real and that they are growing.

Mr. Chairman, this has been never been a want bill. This is a needs bill for this great Nation. So I am disappointed we have had to reduce the funding for many of the very good programs that we proposed in H.R. 3550 as introduced.

Failure to address our transportation needs will leave our country behind in protecting our economy. Mr. Chairman, that is not acceptable to this chairman. It will reduce the quality of life of our citizens if we do not pass this bill.

H.R. 3550 is a bill which embodies our vision for a better transportation legacy for America's future. I urge everyone during this debate and discussion of the bill to be able to listen to the merits of the legislation and support what is right for America.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 6 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, I am very deeply touched by the words of the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), our committee chairman. We have worked closely together on shaping this legislation.

In a time when the image of the U.S. Congress to the rest of America is one of divisiveness and partisanship, this committee may well have set a model for how a legislative body ought to work, an interplay of ideas coming at the same issue, toward the same objective, with different viewpoints, openly debated, intensively discussed, thoroughly explored and a resolution that is in the public interest. It has been inclusive. It has been partnership rather than partisanship on this committee.

That is a great tribute to the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), who have put their best efforts forth, and to our respective professional staff who have carried the burden of the day time and again on what to others might be an arcane aspect of very complex issues but which are vitally important.

So, as the Chairman said, we come to the floor with a bill that serves the best, broadest interests of transportation in America. It is a bipartisan product. It is one that should be $100 billion more, as the Chairman alluded to, without using that number, but we all know where we need to be, and to the gentleman from Alaska's (Chairman YOUNG) great credit, Mr. Chairman, he has advocated openly, vigorously in every venue, in this body, with the executive branch and in the public, as I have, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) have done for a more robust funding which we need, which we all know is necessary to address the transportation needs of America, keep our economy mobile, growing, productive and competitive in the world marketplace.

We do in the political arena what we can do, and what we can do here today under the circumstances is bring a bill at $275 billion that is good policy, sound policy for America, will move America forward.

Congestion is clogging the arteries of transportation in our urban areas, in our close-in suburban areas and is affecting rural America as well. Congestion is slowing the movement of people and goods, extending our daily commute, driving the cost of goods up in the marketplace, driving up the frustration of American drivers, making our roadways less safe, costing America more in the long run.

UPS, for example, estimates that for every 5-minute delay they lose $40 million nationwide. There are numerous other examples of costs of delay. The Texas Transportation Institute annually does a study of congestion in America. Their report in January of this year of 75 major metropolitan areas put the cost of congestion at $69.5 billion in just those 75 major metropolitan areas. That means that people are spending a week longer in their cars than they would if they could drive at posted highway speeds, buying four tanks of gasoline more than they would if they could drive at posted highway speeds, and using the name of the Lord more frequently in traffic on weekdays than they do in church on Sundays, I suspect.

We propose to address that problem by attacking bottlenecks in our transportation system, addressing with a megaprojects program huge conflagrations of people, goods, all modes of transportation, passenger rail, freight rail, trucks, passenger cars, maritime, aviation, and loosen the bonds of congestion in those areas with an initiative we call megaprojects, whose result will be net national benefits, net regional multistate benefits and net benefits to our national economy.

We are not just a continental economy. We are a global economy. China is investing, Japan is investing in its infrastructure, Europe is investing in its infrastructure to move goods and people faster, more efficiently, but America is not moving fast enough.

The study that in TEA 21 we commissioned the Department of Transportation to do, an assessment of pavement conditions, bridge conditions, congestion and safety, produced a report that recommended an investment of $375 billion on the grounds that we ought to be investing at all levels of government $125 billion a year in infrastructure improvement and we were only investing $75 billion. We are $50 billion a year short.

So, to keep our place in the competitiveness in the world marketplace, we need to do this. This is an investment that stays here in America. It stays home. The jobs created are American jobs. They are not created in Taiwan or Korea or Japan. They are created here in America, with American goods, American materials; and we ought to make that investment to make our economy move more efficiently, to put 1.7 million more construction workers back to work, generate an additional $80 billion a year in economic activity and keep America moving.

This bill will get us on the right track toward that objective.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), the chairman of the Subcommittee on Highways, Transit and Pipelines.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I would first like to salute the chairman of our committee for bringing us to this day and to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and my colleague, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), the staff on both the majority and minority of the committee. It has been a lot of work and a long road, and we still have far to go, but this is an important milestone in the passage of our Nation's transportation policy for the next 6 years.

This legislation will have an impact on each of our constituents literally every day as they go about their daily lives, whether it is driving kids to school, hopping on a train as part of a daily commute or picking up a gallon of milk that has been brought over the road on a truck.

We on the committee had hoped to be discussing a somewhat different bill today. TEA LU, as introduced at $375 billion, is the right thing to do. It was fashioned to start to address the needs as identified by our own United States Department of Transportation. Anything less will not maintain and improve our transportation system. Nonetheless, this bill at $275 billion is a step toward meeting the needs we as a Nation have with a reduced amount of resources and is the best that we can achieve at the current time, given the situation that we find ourselves in.

This bill provides increases each year in funding for the core highway formula programs for the States so that every State will see an increase in its funding. It includes important programs for safety, infrastructure safety on the road, work safety, motor carrier safety and behavioral safety programs to address drunk driving, occupational protection programs and other hazards.

There are many provisions that facilitate the movement of freight, an important element to interstate commerce and a primary Federal interest in transportation. It will allow us to meet the needs of emerging trade corridors in this post-interstate construction era and other projects that have regional or national benefits that overwhelm the capabilities of any one State.

We retain funding for transit at the 80/20 split and include programs that will help States meet the mobility needs of both urban and rural communities and improve opportunities for the elderly and for the disabled.

It is forward looking in providing for a robust research program and innovative payments in bridges, recycled materials, freight movements and environmental programs. We prepare for the future in beginning to tackle the problem of identifying new financing mechanisms to replace the gas tax as a source of revenue for the Highway Trust Fund in the future and consider the future of the interstate system.

Are there concerns about funding formulas or other policy issues? Of course. In a bill of this size it is inevitable. We face the same questions literally every time that the House considers a reauthorization bill.

In order to make progress in providing what some are calling for in terms of equity and donor State issues, you need more funds. Unfortunately, we do not have that today. But as we move through conference and in the future, we want to try to address those needs, if given the resources to do so.

It is important to note, too, that the spending in this bill is paid for by the revenues coming into the Highway Trust Fund. We retain the guarantees that we fought so hard for in TEA 21 and maintain the trust with the traveling public that the gas taxes they pay will actually be spent on transportation improvements.

So, Mr. Chairman, I would ask support for the bill so we can provide jobs, protect our citizens' safety and maintain and improve our economic standing in a fast-changing world.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 25 seconds to express my deep gratitude to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), ranking member of the Subcommittee on Highways, Transit and Pipelines. He has been a true partner in this enterprise with the chairman of the full committee, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the chairman of his subcommittee, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), and myself, contributing his time, days and nights and weekends, calling from home, calling from his district office, lending his consummate grasp of transportation issues from the transportation hub of America, Chicago, where all of America's complexities are joined.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 6 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), who is a great friend and a great contributor to this product.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), my partner in this endeavor, very much for those extremely kind words and for yielding me this time. It is always a pleasure working with him on any transportation issue, because no one, not only in this country but no one on this Earth, knows as much about transportation as the gentleman from Minnesota does.

I want to begin today by thanking all of my colleagues on the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure from both sides of the aisle for all of their efforts and dedication. Many of my colleagues in this body have spent many, many hours meeting with countless numbers of individuals and organizations to hear their views.

In particular, I give special mention to three individuals, the chairman of our committee, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), who has been tireless in trying to develop a bill that will aid and assist us in this country in improving our transportation and infrastructure; the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), who I mentioned earlier, and who, as I said, knows more about transportation than anyone that you will ever encounter, for the great help that he has been in formulating this bill; and the gentleman from Wisconsin, (Mr. PETRI), who has gone around the country and seen firsthand so many, many of the needs we have here. He has really been the individual who has brought so much information back to us, telling us where the needs really existed in this country.

These three Members have provided tremendous leadership in getting this bill to where we are today. However, it should not be viewed that this bill was crafted only by members of our committee. Since our committee began to work on this bill, we have asked for and received input and comments from almost every single Member in this body. We have held dozens of hearings, with the active participation of many of my colleagues in this Chamber. And, most importantly, we have listened to what they had to say.

Because of this and the bipartisan history of this committee, I believe we have a very good piece of legislation that reflects many different priorities promoted by Members who represent diverse constituencies and interests. It truly is democracy at work.

As I have said, I believe we have a very solid piece of legislation. While I will be the first one to say that it is not entirely perfect, there is no doubt in my mind that at this particular time this bill is as perfect as we can make it. We have made some significant strides in improving this country's infrastructure, and these accomplishments will benefit Americans now and into the future.

In this bill we have increased funding from $218 billion to $275 billion. While this is not the original funding level proposed by the committee, this still represents a decent increase.

It is important to bear in mind that this legislation is not just about money. It is not just about funding. It is also about innovation and moving transportation policy in new directions. There are many, many things we can point to in this bill. This bill contains new initiatives that will improve our quality of life. We have strengthened current programs to meet our existing conditions, and we have expanded and created new programs to address the needs of today and prepare for the needs of the future.

This bill creates a number of such programs, such as a new and improved National Corridor Infrastructure Improvement program, Highway Safety Improvement program, Small Starts Transit program, and Safe Routes to Schools. This is certainly not the entire list of new programs, but these are examples of new programs that will represent the collected efforts of many individuals and many organizations that have contributed to this bill on the floor today.

Other important programs included are an improved clean fuels formula grant for nonattainment areas like northeastern Illinois, Southern California, New York City, and Washington, D.C. These funds will help transit agencies purchase clean fuel buses and help improve our air quality. Improving air quality is just one of the many important public policy needs that the TEA LU bill addresses.

In this bill, it is recognized that transit is not just for big cities; it is also a growing need in rural communities. To help meet the needs of rural America, we have increased funding to the section 5311 program.

Time after time, survey after survey, Americans point to traffic congestion as a growing and serious problem in this country. In 2001 alone, congestion costs this country $69.5 billion. And, on average, Americans lose 27 hours a year due to delays. As congestion levels continue to rise in the United States, we must focus on modernizing our vital transportation infrastructure and improving the quality of life for all Americans. By targeting Federal resources for specific purposes, this bill would also help improve congestion in major urban areas across this country by creating a safer, more efficient infrastructure for the millions of Americans who use our roads, highways, railways, and bridges each day.

As we continue to move forward with TEA LU, it is easier to think about what may have been. Yes, it would have been nice to have a $375 billion bill; but because of this administration's opposition to raising the highway user fee, this is the hand that we have been dealt. Right here and right now, this is the most practical way to maintain highways, roadways, buses and subways, and protect the safety of the American public.

This bill is a significant step in the right direction. It is a step towards improving our communities, a step towards helping folks spend less time commuting and more time with their families and loved ones; it is a step towards safer travel; and it is a step towards cleaner air. I hope you will take this step with me and lend us your support.

I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentleman from east Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN).

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of this very important legislation, which will improve our transportation infrastructure and create millions of jobs, and I want to thank the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) for yielding me this time.

I especially want to commend the chairman, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG); chairman of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI); and the ranking members, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), all very close friends of mine, who are to be commended for their great leadership on this bill.

Mr. Chairman, this is the biggest jobs bill that we will vote on in this Congress. I am sick and tired of seeing millions of American jobs go to other countries. All over this Nation there is tremendous concern about this. We are spending hundreds of billions in other countries. This bill is one that puts our own people first once again.

But it is more than just a jobs bill, Mr. Chairman. This is a safety bill. I chaired the Subcommittee on Aviation for 6 years. Unfortunately, there are more people killed on our Nation's highways in just a little over 4 months than in all U.S. aviation accidents combined since the Wright Brothers flight of 1903. This bill is one that will make our Nation's highways much safer and will save many thousands of lives.

We need to take terrorism very seriously, Mr. Chairman; but we are spending hundreds of billions on terrorism, when we count up all the military and Federal, State and local spending, and what all the private companies are doing on security. Yet, as the very respected National Journal magazine pointed out a few months ago, people are thousands of times more likely to be killed in a car wreck than by a terrorist. Surely we can spend $45 billion a year on our Nation's highways and our National Transportation System.

This is an efficiency bill. One leading national magazine said recently, "Congestion costs the Nation about $67 billion a year. Americans waste 3.6 billion hours and 5.7 billion gallons of gas sitting in traffic, all at an average cost of $1,160 per commuter per year."

This bill will save huge amounts of tax dollars by speeding up the time in which projects can be completed. Everything in our economy, Mr. Chairman, everything in our personal lives depends on, or is affected by, a good transportation system.

I am especially pleased that in this bill there is language promoting technology to decrease or cut down or eliminate the time that trucks have to idle at truck stops. I also want to work on the language, though, that is in the bill concerning parking areas for trucks along our Nation's interstate highway system so that those parking areas do not compete against companies in the private sector.

No one on our committee, Mr. Chairman, wants to pave over the entire country, but vehicle miles traveled keeps going up at three to five times the rate of our population growth. This means we have to improve and widen our highways.

Paul Craig Roberts, the nationally syndicated conservative columnist wrote recently: "Before we can reconstruct the rest of the world, we need to stop deconstructing our own country." I have nothing against any other Nation, but this is one bill that is pro-American. It is not only pro-American, it is pro-jobs, pro-environment, pro-safety; and I urge its passage because this is one of the best things we will be able to do this year in this Congress.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Holden), a distinguished member of our committee.

Mr. HOLDEN. Mr. Chairman, I want to take this opportunity to commend the chairman of the full committee, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), and the chairman of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), and the ranking members, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), for all their hard work in bringing this legislation to the floor.

This legislation is very important to my home State of Pennsylvania where we have more road miles to maintain than our friends in New Jersey, New York and New England combined. But, Mr. Chairman, this is not only important to Pennsylvania; it is important to every one of our congressional districts where we have congestion problems, safety hazard problems, and economic development needs and concerns.

I want to thank my leader and my friend, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), for personally not once but twice coming to my congressional district and looking at the problems we face, where we are, in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, looking at that unbelievable amount of truck traffic that comes through every day; and in Lebanon, Pennsylvania, where we have the Norfolk Southern coming through 50 times a day, not only disrupting traffic but also the safety concerns of having ambulance crews and fire companies being able to address concerns in the city; and in Schuylkill Haven, Pennsylvania, where there is a bike path that has been on the books for 2 decades.

This legislation will allow us to move forward on projects like that. So I want to commend the big four for all their hard efforts in bringing this legislation to the floor. And as was mentioned by the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and by the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN), not only is this good for our highway and transit systems, this legislation is good for our economy.

This legislation truly is a jobs bill, and I commend the big four for all their hard efforts.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOURETTE).

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Chairman, I want to give a piece of praise this morning to the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for the mighty work and just the first names of some people on the staff: Levon and Liz and Lloyd and Fraser and Graham and some other people that I will forget because they literally had to write this bill three, four, five different times from where it started at $375 billion.

So when the gentleman from Minnesota was talking rightly about the contributions that the gentleman from Illinois has made, the staff of both the majority and minority have done yeomen's work to produce this piece of legislation, a piece of legislation that is desperately needed in the United States.

But I do feel constrained this morning to say despite the need, despite the need that everybody on the committee recognizes, this bill has been bungled, not bungled by the able leadership of the committee but it has been bungled. By not getting a signal to reauthorize this legislation when TEA 21 expired last September, AASHTO tells us that we have cost the economy over $2 billion, and 90,000 jobs that could have been created have not been created.

The failure to make this bill $375 billion, and the gentleman from Minnesota was right on the money. This is not a number that the committee made up. Those numbers came from the Department of Transportation as the need that exists in this country.

When I go home to Ohio, a lot of people say to me, I see that you're spending $18.4 billion this year alone to rebuild the infrastructure of Iraq. That is again something that a lot of people in this House think that we need to do after what we have done in Iraq. We are begging, trying to squeeze out $18 billion over 6 years to build roads in the United States. My constituents do not understand that and they have difficulty and, quite frankly, so do I.

There was a lot of talk yesterday in our Republican Conference and criticism of Chairman YOUNG that this bill does not embrace Republican principles. I have said it on the floor before: Abraham Lincoln in 1865, I just saw the special on the History Channel, got the guy that ran the Ames Shovel Company in Massachusetts to build the transcontinental railroad. That is a Republican principle. Dwight David Eisenhower was the spearhead behind the national highway system that we enjoy and use today for national defense. Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan, George H.W. Bush all recognized, and it is not to say anything about Democratic values, that Republican values in this country are based upon a strong defense and a strong infrastructure in this country.

We are told that 32 percent of our major roads are in poor condition and that 26 percent of our bridge infrastructure is totally deficient. Last year, 1,400 Ohioans died on the roads in Ohio. One-third of those deaths, Mr. Chairman, are directly attributable to poor roads and roadside hazards. So why some bean counters have determined that we can do this bill on the cheap when the infrastructure needs of this country are crying out for repair is beyond me.

But, having said that, again the gentleman from Alaska, the gentleman from Minnesota and the chair and ranking member of the subcommittee have done their level best. This is a good bill, it will help us, but we need about $100 billion more to get the job done.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from California (Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD).

Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD. Mr. Chairman, let me rise to thank the chairman and the ranking member for their leadership and also the subcommittee chair and ranking member.

I am talking about the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI). These are the leaders that put this bill on the floor today. They are the ones who have heard from the mayors and the county supervisors about the congestion that is on our roads. They are the ones who have brought forth this very principled and balanced bill.

This bill speaks to, and the initial bill that we had for $375 billion, Mr. Chairman, did speak to recommendations and needs, assessments, provided by the Department of Transportation. That first bill was based on the administration's own numbers. But this bill speaks to the traffic congestion that costs American motorists some $67.5 billion a year in wasted time and fuel cost. Americans spend an additional 4.5 billion hours a year stuck in traffic.

This bill addresses the immediate needs of our communities. Our communities have spoken loud and clear: They want congestion relief. This bill also speaks to projects of national and regional significance.

I want to thank the leadership again, the chairman and the ranking member, the gentleman from Wisconsin and the gentleman from Illinois, of the subcommittees, for their leadership in bringing this particular language to the bill. This bill and that language, Mr. Chairman, speaks to a new program that will go a long way in relieving our Nation's congestion on the roads and those choke points that will help to reduce that congestion in our cities and in our communities.

This program and funding addresses the increasing importance of moving goods safely, securely and efficiently among our freeways and highways. It also speaks to the mobilization of people. This bill is good for not only communities, mayors and county supervisors but also for businesses. This is why the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the Conference of Mayors and all are supporting this bill as it is. They recognize that when we go to conference, there will be some adjustments made, but they want this bill to go out as it is because it represents all that is necessary for a balanced approach in the national scope of providing relief from congestion.

This bill also speaks to I-710, which is a high-priority corridor in California. Fifteen percent of our Nation's total commerce of inbound and outbound containerized goods are moved along I-710. This is truly a high-priority corridor.

This is also a jobs bill, Mr. Chairman, because we recognize that over 3 million jobs have been lost. This bill creates the type of opportunities for jobs. What else can we say? This is a win-win bill, and this bill should pass off the floor.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. QUINN).

Mr. QUINN. Mr. Chairman, I want to join the others associating myself with the remarks of the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOURETTE) in thanking the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for actually trying to hit a moving target these last months. That is not an easy thing to do here in Washington.

But this bill, as important as it is, and those remarks and numbers that the gentleman from Ohio just offered could not be truer in Buffalo and western New York.

Mr. Chairman, when I came here I followed a great public works Member, Henry Nowak, who understood the importance not only in western New York but all across the country of public works projects. He taught me that a public works project and the things that we do or are trying to do in this bill is a double win. It is almost like chopping your own firewood. You chop the firewood, and you are warmed. You are also, when you use the firewood, warmed.

These public works kinds of projects are a double win. We as country, as a nation, get the projects; and we also get jobs that go with those projects. At a time when our country talks about losing jobs more and more, this is the jobs bill of this session of Congress. It is not the number that we wanted. It is not high enough. A little give and take in compromise here I believe will get us to where we want to be for this part of the Congress, and I am hopeful that we renew ourselves next year to get to this kind of planning that is necessary all across the country.

When we talk to our local and State representatives, they know they need 5 and 6 years to plan some of these important projects. It gets the money out.

I do want to say a word, if I might, Mr. Chairman, about the railroad situation. As the chairman of the Subcommittee on Railroads and my partner, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. CORRINE BROWN), we know that we are not going to have a discussion about the rail issues in this bill today.

We had some plans in the manager's amendment to talk about the R-RIF program, a renewed loan program to get loan money out to railroads to better put themselves in a position for the railroad business of the country. We also talked about the short lines and some infrastructure money for them. No word is going to be mentioned here today in the bill on the floor about Amtrak. These are all important projects for all of us in the House and across the country.

I am hopeful, as the gentlewoman from Florida and I continue our work on the Subcommittee on Railroads this year, to work with both sides of the aisle and our counterparts in the Senate to get a bill where we can talk about rail infrastructure and railroad needs.

Certainly we have spoken at all of our hearings about a backup to our airline industry. We have talked about the need for rail to take congestion off the roads and away from the airports. Whether it is passenger or freight, the railroad system in this country desperately needs some help. We, although silent on it here today and tomorrow in this discussion, fully expect to be engaged in every bit of the process.

Mr. Chairman, I want to thank both sides of the aisle for their help. We look forward to our continued work as probably the most bipartisan committee in the House of Representatives to get the job done.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER), our resident urban planner and thoughtful member of this committee.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the gentleman's courtesy in permitting me to speak in support of what is the most important jobs and environmental bill of this session. Because of the structure that has been maintained under ISTEA, this legislation also is the most important tool for the preservation and revitalization of our communities.

This is an opportunity to give a balanced approach. In some cases, it is a need for repairing crumbling bridges. In some cases, it is new roads. In others, it is bike paths, transit, street cars, historic preservation. This legislation has a wide range of options that is available to America's communities, and it gives them the flexibility to use those tools.

Sadly, what it does not give them is enough resources really to meet the needs that have been identified by this administration and which have so ably been championed by the leadership of our committee.

There has been a lot of talk about the costs that are involved. We have documented time and time again that the American public is paying the price right now with increased pollution, with delays as a result of congestion, with load limits on bridges, with the lost opportunity for the economy, as our friend from Ohio mentioned, of several billion dollars lost just in the delay that we have reached to this point.

We all know that this investment in our communities is going to spur additional private sector and public investment. This bill will pay for itself many times over if we are only able to move it forward.

What we have seen, Mr. Chairman, has been the hard choices. In the last 24 hours there has been a great deal of controversy by some. In some cases, they are saying their States do not get back enough. In others, they are concerned that there are specific things that are not met. That is a product of not having a bill that is right-sized.

Our committee leadership brought forward and worked very hard to balance the safety, the equity, the environment and Members' requests. The gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) worked very hard to weave it together. But the fact is, at $275 billion, it is a very tenuous prospect and it may well crumble if we are not careful.

It was wrong for the President of the United States to draw a line here that he is going to veto his very first bill. I, frankly, do not think he will. It would be a tragedy for our communities, and I know that many of my Republican friends do not think that that is appropriate. I note that the Senate bill at $318 billion passed with over 70 votes. I do not think that this is the place to try to make the claim for fiscal responsibility. I have stood in this well and I have watched this House move forward legislation that frankly were not America's priorities. It is the wrong time to do that now.

I would suggest that this is a vote for America's future. We should keep faith with the broadest coalition of interests we have seen, from the Sierra Club to the Chamber of Commerce, from the bicyclists to the truckers, pass this bill and work to right-size it in the future, not bring it down.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SHUSTER).

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy For Users, or affectionately known as TEA LU.

I want to begin by extending my appreciation to the chairman of the full committee as well as the ranking member for their work in this extremely important bipartisan piece of legislation. They have fought the good fight, and here we are today. We need to pass this important legislation to improve our transportation system.

I would like to remind my Republican colleagues who may have some questions about this bill, whether we should pass it or not, that the Founding Fathers charged the Federal Government, the United States Congress, to oversee interstate commerce, to encourage interstate commerce. That is what this bill is all about, interstate commerce, improving the efficiency of our economy.

In addition, as the gentleman from Ohio reminded us, this is a core principle, a core legacy of the Republican Party in this country, from Abraham Lincoln and the transcontinental railroad, to Teddy Roosevelt and the Panama Canal, Eisenhower and the interstate highway system. This is extremely important for us as Republicans. We can be proud to pass this and improve our country and improve this economy.

The modern highway and transit system maps this Nation's economic strength as it weaves through our cities and small towns. However, heavy traffic and increased congestion have taken a heavy toll on our highways, bridges and transit systems. As stewards of our highways, we cannot wait any longer to fix transportation systems that are listed as substandard or poor or bridges that are considered structurally deficient.

As a Pennsylvanian who represents a broad geographic region, I know the issue of transportation is critical to our constituents. I hear it each day and every day from small business owners, from large employers and from even average family members who sit on the front porch and watch the traffic back up over the horizon. Our roads, highways and transit systems link our cities, businesses and lives to one another. To let them deteriorate is unjust to any one person who uses them.

The need, Mr. Chairman, is clear. While I am disappointed that we were unable to pass a larger bill, I believe that the legislation before us today will go a long way in alleviating the troubles that plague our highway and transit systems. Over the 6-year life of TEA LU, it will provide $232 billion in funding for highways and highway safety, $52 billion for our transit system. These funding levels take critical steps to ensuring our Nation's infrastructure remains strong.

A key component of this bill is the fulfillment of a longstanding need to improve safety, and it takes steps to combat the 42,000 lives that are lost each year on our Nation's highways.

As a Member who represents a rural area of Pennsylvania, I am very pleased that we are including a new program to upgrade and make improvements to roads and rural areas where over 60 percent of auto fatalities take place. This legislation includes important measures to relieve congestion on our Nation's highways. The investment of our transit system not only strengthens transit, but also encourages the use of mass transit to relieve congestion. It also creates a program to help fund smaller transit programs, offering States more options in improving their transit systems.

To further relieve bottle necks on our roads, TEA LU contains innovative real-time and intelligent transportation initiatives that allow States to monitor and improve traffic flow and enhance safety. Building on these innovative programs, I also encourage support of an amendment that will be offered by the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. KENNEDY) to create voluntary toll lanes, or fast lanes, which pay for new lanes and highways to increase capacity. Drivers who choose these fast lanes will be charged electronically, eliminating the toll booths that add to the backups and congestion.

And finally, I was very pleased that TEA LU funds Maglev. Maglev is an exciting new transportation technology that is a vital next step in the future of our Nation's transportation system. Additionally, funding for Maglev is an essential step in addressing some of the most pressing needs facing our domestic steel industry by creating the demand for steel. For instance, a typical Maglev project would require 4,000 tons of plate steel per mile for the tracks.

Mr. Chairman, this is a good bill and a solid step in the right direction, providing State DOTs with the long-term stability they need to plan for projects. I want to again thank the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Chairman PETRI), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for their tireless efforts and leadership on behalf of American motorists, passengers, and transit systems. We need to pass this bill to increase the efficiency of our economy, to create jobs, and improve safety. I urge passage.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Utah (Mr. MATHESON).

Mr. MATHESON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this legislation. I concur with many of the previous comments about the need for greater investment than what this legislation calls for, but this is such an important step. I also rise to praise the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), the leadership of this committee. They have operated in the great tradition of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, working together to pursue a bipartisan outcome. I am proud to be associated with this committee because of that type of leadership. I think everyone in Congress could take a good cue from taking a look at the behavior exhibited by leadership of this committee.

This is a program that represents an investment. People talk about whether this is increased spending or whatnot. The reality is when we spend money on infrastructure, we are investing. We are investing in good jobs, and we are investing in our economy. And in an increasingly globalized world where we feel the pressures of globalization and competition from around the world, the notion of investing in our own transportation infrastructure and making our economy more efficient in the way we move people and the way we move products seems to be all the more compelling in our current circumstances. That is what this legislation helps to do.

There are significant and important needs in this country to invest in this type of infrastructure to allow our economy to realize those efficiencies, to put the United States in a better position to compete with the rest of the world.

We hear so much these days about job loss. We hear so much about outsourcing. We hear so much about globalization. Vote for this bill today because it puts us on a path to take on those issues. I wish we were at the higher number, a majority of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, I suspect, wishes we were at that number as well. But this is an important first step and the legislation will give us opportunities in the future to address adjusting that level of investment in the future. But today is the day, with this bill in front of us. I encourage all of our colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. COBLE).

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. And I too want to extend kudos to the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), and for that matter members and staff on both sides of the aisle who sit on the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure. This has been a team effort personified.

I am an avid supporter, Mr. Chairman, of H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users; and I am pleased it is now being considered on the floor today.

I realize that Members have worked tirelessly at the end of a long day, but at a time when we have much work to do to address our Nation's critical infrastructure, while this country is indeed in dire need of upgrade and repair, this legislation is also a jobs bill; and I think some people casually overlook that fact. And the fact that it is a jobs bill will offer new opportunities to many of our Nation's recently unemployed workers. I want to thank the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), with whom I have talked concerning an ancillary problem which involves the donor States of which North Carolina is one, among several others. First of all, I thank them for recognizing the problem, and I hope that we will be able to resolve this problem which continues to plague donor States such as my home State.

This bill, Mr. Chairman, as I have said before the full Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, has jobs written all over it. It is an important step to address the problems that are a direct result of unsafe bridges and highways that continue to deteriorate. Mr. Chairman, unsafe bridges and unsafe highways abound in this great country from border to border, from ocean to ocean; and improvements must be forthcoming.

This bill, it is my belief, will have the assurance that vehicular traffic will be allowed to flow more freely, resulting in the delivery of people and goods at their respective destinations in a safe and timely manner. I again thank the gentleman from Wisconsin, the chairman of the subcommittee, for yielding me this time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from Nevada (Ms. BERKLEY).

Ms. BERKLEY. Mr. Chairman, before I begin my remarks, I would like to also add my voice to thanks for the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), ranking member. Sometimes I think they represent my community as well as I do, and I appreciate the help; also the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for their leadership in getting this bill to the floor today.

This bill is one of the most important pieces of legislation that we will vote on in this Congress. While the amount is significantly less than what I would like and what I believe the country needs, I rise in strong support. This bill will alleviate congestion, address air quality needs, and improve the quality of life in all of our communities. My district, the Las Vegas Valley, is the fastest growing community in the country, and we are struggling with the needs for new roads and highways and more transit options. Without this investment in our transportation programs, Las Vegas will be unable to complete the projects needed to keep traffic moving and to keep our commuters safe.

Sitting in traffic takes precious time from families spending time together, and it forces businesses to pass along higher costs for goods and services, and it adds to air pollution problems as drivers sit stuck in traffic wasting gas and money. Without this bill we will also increase the risk to drivers as too many cars crowd our roads causing accidents to rise. Increased funding for pedestrian overpasses, new traffic safety devices, and information systems to alert drivers to dangers ahead are all investments in saving lives.

And finally, Mr. Chairman, this is a jobs bill. In the past 3 years we have seen the highest job loss in this Nation since the Depression. Today we have a chance to do something about it. For every billion dollars invested in highway and transit programs, we stand to create 47,000 jobs, real good-paying jobs. This is 12,500 jobs in my home State of Nevada.

I cannot emphasize the importance of this particular highway bill. I urge all of my colleagues to join me, join with the people of the State of Nevada, and let us vote for this legislation with great enthusiasm.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. BOEHLERT).

(Mr. BOEHLERT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BOEHLERT. Mr. Chairman, once again I want to voice the strong opinions of the fair coalition in my home State of New York that we preserve the highway equity established in TEA 21. Transportation is one of the only programs where my State gets back from the Federal Government more than it contributes in taxes. Every year New York sends $20 billion more to Washington than it receives back in various Federal assistance programs. That is a fact. In this bill we have to strive to be fair. What is fair is that we preserve a needs-based highway and transit program and create a stronger integrated national transportation system.

New York's highways and transit infrastructure serve the entire Nation through its roads and its ports and its rail facilities and its airports. However, our infrastructure is aging, and much of it needs to be repaired or replaced. With 33 percent of the Nation's transit riders, New York receives only 14 percent of the total transit funding. We simply cannot afford any changes to a formula that would give us even less. We have Federal support capped at 10 percent for our bridges; yet we have 20 percent of the identified national need.

As a result, the most critical feature of the bill is that we make no immediate changes to the current minimum guarantee of 90.5 percent. If the overall level of funding does not remain at its current level, it would be unfair to New York and many other States.

Next I want to thank the T&I staff for working so hard with my staff to include language in the manager's amendment to support efforts to reduce wildlife vehicle collisions. In America last year, accidents involving wildlife took over 200 lives. It cost more than $2 billion in property damage and killed over a million game animals. In many parts of the country, cars are killing more game than hunters. So I look forward to continuing to work on conservation and wildlife measures with my colleagues.

Finally, I want to voice my support of the House language governing charter service. The language helps clarify charter service rules. Without this, all across America providers of transportation services including school bus contractors will be irrevocably harmed.

Last but not least, while this is a massive infrastructure bill to take care of identified needs across this Nation, it is also a bill that concentrates on my favorite four-letter word, and do not get nervous. People can use it in polite company. This is a jobs bill. This will get more Americans back to work, good pay, good benefits, doing things that all America needs.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON), our committee resident legal scholar.

(Ms. NORTON asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. And I thank the so-called big four, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), who stood tall and strong for this bill. We do have a stripped-down bill fiscally. Although they took the number, the $375 million number, from the Department of Transportation which regarded it as the minimum number for our infrastructure this year. One would think that everybody would rush forward to embrace that number 2 years into a jobless recovery. Nevertheless, I strongly support this bill. It must, in fact, be passed. It is full of good provisions. I particularly commend the minority business section and the training to take advantage of minority businesses. There are many new sections as well.

I want to concentrate on one issue, the issue that drove African Americans and people of color to the polls in 2000, and that was racial profiling on the roads of the United States bought and paid for by the U.S. Congress. It is the last remaining widespread, overt and intentional discrimination in our country.

Racial profiling is a violation already of title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, because it means that the government is subsidizing discrimination. That is why there have been so many successful lawsuits in the States. It is an unconstitutional violation of the 14th amendment, because it is carried out by police officers.

The President understood this. This is why he instructed his own Justice Department to issue guidance on racial profiling for Federal officers. It is excellent, tough guidance. I asked for the same in this bill.

I regret we were not willing to do for the States what the President has done for the Federal service. I wrote a provision that would have been parallel to what we have done with speeding and drunk driving. Nevertheless, we have a grant provision that encourages the States to create racial profiling laws and allows the States that do so to get funded to develop and maintain data and do law enforcement training. This is a tough provision. States must show that they have tough racial profiling laws.

It also is time that we had racial profiling as part and parcel of our civil rights laws. That is why I am a cosponsor of the bill introduced by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) that would do just that. (H.R. 3847)

Meanwhile, this is the first racial profiling provision in Federal law. Every Member of this House should be proud we were willing to put it in this bill. It is an important start.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST).

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of this legislation coming up this afternoon, the highway transportation bill. I implore that my other colleagues in the House also support this measure.

One of the sticking points here is the highway formula about donor States and donee States. I would like to remind my colleagues, Maryland is a donor State through the formula.

I would like to remind my colleagues that everybody that goes through your State, from near or very far away, pays those gasoline taxes, pays those tolls, et cetera, et cetera. So we as Americans contribute in a collective way all across this country to ensure that the interstate highway system provides sufficient opportunity and avenues to continuously stimulate our dynamic economy.

There are some questions about the formula here, but those questions I think should not hold up this important piece of legislation.

Our truckers, the people that ride trains, the cargo that go across this country on trucks and trains, our commuters, our salesmen, our vacationers, our explorers, they travel across the Nation's highways, which is the foundation for the infrastructure of this Nation. I hope my colleagues will vote for this piece of legislation.

There is one provision that is in the Senate version of the highway bill that is not in the House version of the highway bill, and that is a 2 percent set-aside to understand how you can engineer, in other words, do it right the first time, a highway, so you do not contribute to the pollution of the Nation's waterways, which is also important for the infrastructure, the environmental infrastructure, of this Nation.

So I would like to work with the House and the Senate and will work with the chairman of the Committee on Transportation to ensure that that Senate version provision, the 2 percent set-aside to engineer our highways, to reduce or eliminate storm water runoff into the Nation's water system, remains intact.

This is a bill that deals with human infrastructure, and we have an opportunity to take the first big step to ensure that human infrastructure is compatible with nature's infrastructure.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. MCCRERY).

Mr. MCCRERY. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time. It is a pleasure to be on the floor this morning to talk about some of the advantages that are in the 6-year reauthorization of our transportation funding.

One of the innovations that the committee came up with that I think is remarkably farsighted is setting aside some of the Highway Trust Fund money, in particular funds that will be available for grants to States to participate in building highways of national significance. These are highways that could be very important for trade in our hemisphere, they could be very important for easing congestion, they could be very important for moving commerce from one region of the country to other. But in each case they will be highways that truly have national significance.

What is just as important is these highways, in the main interstate highways, probably would not be built were it not for the availability of funds in these particular categories that are set up by this bill. Because if the funding were not available through these categorical grants or these categorical funds, the States individually would not be able to build these highways out of their regular annual allocations.

So I think that is a very innovative, far-sighted approach to solving the problem of continuing to improve our highway infrastructure, particularly in terms of those highways which will add significant economic benefits to not just one particular region of the country but to the whole country.

So as we move forward in this age of increased global trade, of increased need to create jobs and grow our economy, these highways of national significance are going to be extremely important in moving us forward.

So I commend the committee for their far-sightedness in making it possible for these highways of national significance to be built in the next 6 years; and then, of course, I would expect this to be continued until we have quite a more extensive network of highways across our Nation, which will enable us to grow jobs and grow our economy.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. EHLERS).

(Mr. EHLERS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Our transportation system continues to face tremendous challenges. Tens of thousands of lives are lost each year on our highways. More drivers are driving more miles, causing severe congestion. An aging infrastructure is putting a strain on State and local transportation budgets. The public rightly demands safer, less congested roads and more transportation choices.

Fundamental improvements to the entire transportation system depend on solid research. Solid research will translate to saved lives, saved money and saved time by providing the tools and information needed to produce solutions. How many of us have used an EZ Pass to breeze past congestion at a toll booth? Or been gently reminded to stay on the road by a rumble strip?

Examples abound of these sorts of benefits gained by transportation research, such as research on pavements focuses on manipulating substances at the molecular level to create materials that are more durable and last significantly longer. This saves money, because more durable pavements need less maintenance and are replaced less frequently. It also saves time, reducing construction zones that are a major cause of congestion.

Furthermore, research on transit focuses on how to make transit systems more cost-effective and efficient. Better transit systems give people more choices and save time by reducing the number of cars on the road.

Research in the social sciences focuses on understanding how future changes in where people live and work will affect future transportation usage, so that planners can make early, smart investments to ensure that we meet future transportation needs.

As chairman of the Subcommittee on Environment, Technology, and Standards of the Committee on Science, I introduced H.R. 3551, the Surface Transportation Research and Development Act. This legislation, which was approved by the full Committee on Science on February 4, increases stakeholder input, expands competition and peer review of research proposals, and ensures greater accountability so that this research actually supports the goals of our transportation system.

I am pleased that the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and his staff have worked very closely with me and my staff to incorporate much of the Surface Transportation Research and Development Act and its intent into TEA LU. While I wish we could have provided more funding for research, I must especially thank the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) for ensuring that, as funding for TEA LU was reduced from $375 billion to $275 billion, research was treated fairly. That was not the case 6 years ago during consideration of TEA 21.

I especially wanted to thank the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) for his pledge to work with me to continue to improve the research title and its funding as we discuss this issue with the Senate.

Mr. Chairman, when most of us think about the highway bill, we tend to focus on funding levels for our States and projects. Few of us think about transportation research. But transportation research is fundamental to all aspects of our transportation system. How many of us have used an EZ Pass to breeze past congestion at a toll booth? Or have been gently, or not so gently reminded to stay on the road by a rumble strip? How many of us have benefited from pavements that are quieter and last longer than they did 30 years ago? Every driver and passenger is better off today because of past investments in transportation research and technology development.

Our transportation system continues to face tremendous challenges. Tens of thousands of lives are lost each year on our highways. More drivers are driving more miles, causing severe congestion. An aging infrastructure is putting a strain on State and local transportation budgets. Changing patterns of where people live and work demand innovative planning for our future needs. The public rightly demands safer, less congested roads, and more transportation choices realizing that we can't simply build more roads to address all of these challenges, especially in urban areas, we must look for new ways to improve the overall system.

Fundamental improvements to the entire transportation system depend on solid research. Solid research will translate to saved lives, saved money and saved time by providing the tools and information needed to produce solutions. For example:

Research on pavements focuses on manipulating substances at the molecular level to create materials that are more durable and last significantly longer. This saves money, because more durable pavements need less maintenance and are replaced less frequently. It also saves time, reducing construction zones that are a major cause of congestion;

Research on operations focuses on improving the design of dangerous merges and interchanges. This research saves lives by providing planners the information to design safer roads. It also saves time by reducing accidents, which cause congestion;

Research on transit focuses on how to make transit systems more cost-effective and efficient. Better transit systems give people more choices, and save time by reducing the number of cars on the road; and

Research in the social sciences focuses on understanding how future changes in where people live and work will affect future transportation usage, so that planners can make early, smart investments to ensure that we meet future transportation needs at lower costs.

As chairman of the Environment, Technology and Standards Subcommittee of the Committee on Science, I introduced H.R. 3551, the Surface Transportation Research and Development Act. This legislation, which was approved by the full Science Committee on February 4:

Provides necessary but prudent increases to transportation research funding;

Increases stakeholder input to ensure that the people who must implement and use the research agree that it is worthwhile and applicable;

Creates the highest quality research through increased competition and peer review; and Ensures greater accountability so that this research actually supports the goals of our transportation system.

I am pleased that Chairman YOUNG and his staff have worked very closely with me, and my staff, to incorporate much of my legislation and its intent into TEA-LU. While I think we all agree that we wish we could have provided more funding for research, I must especially thank Mr. YOUNG for ensuring that as funding for TEA-LU was reduced from $375 billion to $275 billion, research was treated fairly. That wasn't the case 6 years ago during consideration of TEA-21. And I want to thank Mr. YOUNG for his pledge to work with me to continue to improve the research title and its funding in conference as we discuss these issues with the Senate.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. On behalf of the Committee on Ways and Means, the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. MCCRERY) and the gentleman from North Dakota (Mr. POMEROY) are recognized for 15 minutes each.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. MCCRERY).

Mr. MCCRERY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, today this transportation bill contains a number of tax-related provisions, and I am going to summarize those very quickly. But the thrust of what we are doing here with these tax provisions, and I think the most important thing to point out, is that with these changes we have added $18 billion over 6 years to pay for highway funding here in the United States, and that was a very important part of getting the number high enough so that we could do at least the basic necessities through the transportation bill that is on the floor today.

So I want to commend my chairman, the gentleman from California (Mr. THOMAS), for working with the chairman of the full Committee on Transportation, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), in arriving at these approaches to increasing the revenues going into the Highway Trust Fund. I will just briefly summarize what those are.

The tax provisions of this bill extend the authority to spend money out of the Highway Trust Fund and updates the purposes for which that money can be spent.

It extends the gas tax through 2011 at current rates and maintains the current law deficit protection rule that requires a 2-year cushion of reserves in the Highway Trust Fund.

It increases Highway Trust Fund receipts by $18 billion over 6 years to pay for the highway spending authorized in this bill. Receipts are raised by, number one, reducing the fuel tax evasion that goes on around the country; number two, crediting the Highway Trust Fund with the full gas tax; and, number three, by restructuring the ethanol subsidy so that the trust fund is made whole, so the trust fund does not lose money to the general fund as a result of the ethanol subsidy.

The bill also extends the ethanol subsidy through 2010.

It simplifies and reforms the rules relating to certain highway excise taxes.

It provides alternative minimum tax relief, particularly for small businesses and farmers.

Finally, it extends the enhanced section 179 expensing for small businesses, allowing them for 2 more years to expense up to $100,000 of purchases for use in their small business.

So, Mr. Chairman, those are the essential provisions of the tax portion of this bill.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, included in this bill is a provision drawn from H.R. 3119, the "Renewable Fuels and Transportation Infrastructure Enhancement Act of 2003." This is a proposal which I introduced along with my friend and colleague on the Committee on Ways and Means, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. HULSHOF). I am very pleased that this provision has, through this action, been included in this legislation.

The bill restructures the ethanol tax incentive from an excise tax exemption to an excise tax credit, and it eliminates hundreds of millions of dollars of waste, fraud, and abuse by those blending gasoline with ethanol.

The provisions attributed to the ethanol tax incentive will add up to $14.2 billion in revenues to the Highway Trust Fund over the 6-year life of the transportation bill. As we wrestle with the size of the highway package, let us keep in mind this provision alone relating to ethanol is generating $14.2 billion in revenues.

Mr. Chairman, the provision is important for a number of reasons, but I want to especially mention the jobs that will flow from this highway bill. According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, each billion dollars spent on transportation and highway projects creates 47,500 jobs. Therefore, the ethanol proposal will create an additional 674,500 jobs, much-needed jobs, in this economy.

Separately, the ethanol industry itself is a significant generator of additional jobs for our economy. The industry has built 74 ethanol plants, created nearly 150,000 new jobs, 12,000 jobs in America's beleaguered manufacturing sector. In 2004 alone, the industry will add 22,000 new jobs and more than $1.3 billion to the gross output of the American economy.

The industry is going to continue to grow with this legislation. There are thirteen plants already under construction and dozens more in the final planning stage.

Further, as newly-drafted, this ethanol tax incentive will have no negative impact on the Highway Trust Fund. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, it will save the Federal Government more than $3.2 billion in lower farm program payments this year.

The ethanol tax incentive makes a particular difference with the creation of jobs in rural America. The one new 40 million gallon ethanol plant can expand the economic base of the local economy by $110 million, creating as many as 694 permanent new jobs throughout the entire economy and generating $1.2 million in new tax revenues for State and local governments. Beyond all of that, it increases the local average basis of corn by an estimated 5 cents to 10 cents per bushel.

Mr. Chairman, our Nation is suffering from a growing energy crisis, a stagnant economy where job development is scarce, particularly across rural America. That is why Congress's commitment to the increased production and use of ethanol is so important.

This brings me to my next point, the one issue where the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. HULSHOF) and I will continue to work, because this provision was left out of the bill. Other domestically-produced renewable fuels can and should have a role in our total fuel strategies as a Nation. To this end, I specifically encourage the inclusion of a new tax incentive for biodiesel, consistent with the agreement reached during the energy bill conference last year.

Together, ethanol and biodiesel can enhance the country's energy independence, increase domestic fuel supplies, reduce crude oil imports, reduce the U.S. trade deficit, and improve air quality. Together, the transportation and ethanol sectors are creating jobs across America. This bill establishes that good transportation policy and good energy policy can go hand in hand.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MCCRERY. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SHAW), a distinguished member of the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

There are many good things in this highway bill. One that I would like to highlight at this particular point came out of the Committee on Ways and Means which I had the privilege to offer, and that was the provision that repeals the 4.8 cents-per-gallon of fuel receipts from the use in motor boats and small engine equipment be retained in the general fund. As a result, the full fuel tax will be credited to the Highway Trust Fund and subsequently transferred to the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund where it belongs. It increases the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund receipts by .7 billion dollars over 6 years.

Anyone who is concerned about the waterways, as I know the gentleman in the chair is certainly concerned about the Chesapeake Bay, these are very important dollars that are desperately needed in these areas; and I congratulate my colleagues on the Committee on Ways and Means for including that.

Unfortunately, when this comes up to a final vote sometime tomorrow on the highway bill, unless there is a dramatic correction in the way the funds are distributed, I will be forced to vote against it. In my 24 years in Congress, I have never voted against a roads bill. I have supported it; and, as a matter of fact, I very much enjoyed the time that I spent on the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure.

The committee has been frustrated by the reduction in the funding that they had anticipated and, as a result, they have treated the donor States very, very unfairly. Right now, the donor States are guaranteed approximately 90 percent of the monies that they pay into the Federal fund. This is dramatically reduced. States such as Ohio, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Texas, California, Arizona, and that is not a complete list, are going to find themselves losing up to 25 percent of their gas revenue that will no longer come back into their State.

I would ask my colleagues from New York and Massachusetts to look carefully at what is going on here. Even though the New England States and many of those States will be gaining, it is still wrong. It is wrong. Those of us in these States that are donor States are all fast-growing areas. We have a desperate need for highways and improvements.

I would like to support this bill, and I will, if the gentleman from Georgia's amendment is passed by the House. I would be proud to stand by my colleagues and vote for this bill, even though we would only receive back approximately 90 percent of what we paid in, but at this time we just have to wait and see.

Mr. Chairman, I would ask at the appropriate time that all Members not only just consider their own district but also consider the fairness of their vote. This matter must be corrected, and I would hope that the committee would look very, very hard at the amendment that is offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON) at the time that it is voted on, whether it be this evening or tomorrow morning.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Chairman, I have learned that my cosponsor on the portion of ethanol tax that is included in this bill, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. HULSHOF), is not participating in debate this morning because he is attending, tragically, the funeral of his mother. We will all remember the gentleman from Missouri in our thoughts and prayers as he deals with this issue, even while the work of the Congress continues.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 4½ minutes to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES).

(Mrs. JONES of Ohio asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. JONES of Ohio. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank my colleague, the gentleman from North Dakota (Mr. POMEROY), for yielding me this time.

I want to add my condolences also to our colleague, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. HULSHOF). I had an opportunity to speak with him yesterday, and as well as he can be he is doing okay, and for the RECORD, we did win the basketball game for the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. HULSHOF) last night against the Georgetown faculty. He is a member of my team.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.R. 3550 as it currently stands but ask that we take into account the need to do some work in conference. Transportation is a crucial aspect of our economy. This bill is not only a transportation bill, but it is also a jobs bill. We must work together to put forth a comprehensive highway bill.

I want to give my colleagues some general economic facts. Maybe I will skip over a few.

According to the American Road and Transportation Builders Association, the transportation construction industry employs 2.5 million Americans and generates more than $200 billion in U.S. economic activity. A $100 million investment in highway and bridge improvements yields 4,750 jobs across the economy, with less than 25 percent of those in the actual construction field. This same level of investment also generates $200 million in family income, $54 million in Federal income tax and Social Security and more than $6 million in State and local tax revenues.

Assuming a similar effect in the great State of Ohio, the Ohio Department of Transportation's 2004 major new construction program totals $400 million, and that will support the employment of 19,000 people. The top 12 percent of Ohio's most congested freeway sections experience 45 percent of all freeway accidents in the State. The Ohio Department of Transportation's major new construction program is expected to total $400 million during the next several years, and it will help to improve many of these high-crash and congested locations and reduce accidents by between 30 and 50 percent.

There is one place right in my congressional district that is called Dead Man's Curve, and the reason it is called Dead Man's Curve is because the curve is so distinct that it has caused the death of so many truckers and regular passengers or drivers through my area.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that each critically injured survivor of an auto accident costs an average of $1.1 million in medical costs and lost productivity. Each fatality of a crash represents a loss of $977,000 in lifetime economic costs to society.

Ohio is only 35th in geographic size but has a disproportionately large transportation system. Ohio has the Nation's tenth largest highway network, the fifth highest volume of traffic, both car and truck traffic, the Nation's fourth largest interstate network, and the second largest inventory of bridges. Ohio has such a large transportation system because it is a populous State with a manufacturing economy, and it lies in the middle of America's population and economic centers.

Within a day's drive, Ohio is accessible to 50 percent of North America's population and 70 percent of North America's manufacturing capacity. Ohio's transportation supports the vast Ohio economy. If Ohio were a nation, it would be the world's 20th largest economy.

Ohio faces unprecedented transportation challenges. It must expand its 1960's transportation system to meet the 21st century demands. Ohio's vast interstate system was built from 1950 to 1960 to meet the demands of the 1980s. It is now 2004, and nearly all of our urban interstate routes are over capacity.

Mr. Chairman, I just want to close with this: This bill is so very important to the State of Ohio. We are a donor State. We want to see that this gets done. We need the jobs in Ohio, and I encourage all of my colleagues to work in support of this legislation.

Let us get to conference. Let us take care of the issues and get it done. Jobs are needed in Ohio.

Mr. MCCRERY. Mr. Chairman, I have no further speakers at this time, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2½ minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WATSON).

Ms. WATSON. Mr. Chairman, this bill is long overdue, and I want to thank the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR). They have been working hard for a long time on the bill. The committee has put together the best bill they could, working within the constraints imposed upon them.

The obstacle here comes from an administration that is fundamentally opposed to government investment in the infrastructure. I fear that the President's opposition will further slow our economic recovery and put a brake on economic growth for years to come.

My hometown of Los Angeles has a well-earned reputation as the most congested region of the country, a status that it has held for many years. Each Angeleno wastes an average of 52 extra hours stuck in traffic each year, time that could be spent working or with their families. The overall economic costs of this congestion is estimated at $12.8 billion per year, just in the Los Angeles area.

That is close to $13 billion that could be better invested in business and job growth. Instead, it is being burned up in traffic.

Frustrating as it is for the people who live there, Los Angeles' congestion causes problems for the rest of America too. The seaports of Los Angeles and Long Beach are the first and second busiest container ports in the United States. More than 20 cents of every dollar of goods exported from the United States each year, and that is $42 billion of goods, passes through California ports every year. Getting these goods from American factories to foreign consumers is critical to our economic recovery. And the goods cannot get to the foreign consumers if they cannot get across the highways to those ports.

We need this bill. I am disappointed that the constraints imposed on us have prevented Congress from doing all it must do to improve our transportation infrastructure.

I urge full support of this bill.

Mr. MCCRERY. Mr. Chairman, I have no further speakers. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Chairman, I have no further speakers. I urge passage of this bill and yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I reserve my time.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO), the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Aviation.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for his hard work on this bill. This bill will fund thousands of critical highway bridge and transportation projects across the United States, putting millions to work, maintaining and improving our critical transportation infrastructure. Unfortunately, it is not enough to both catch up with the maintenance backlog and make the needed capacity improvements.

It is not for lack of trying by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) or the ranking member, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), or the chairman or the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), but at the insistence of the White House they insisted that the bill be reduced by $100 billion.

That means thousands more weight-limited bridges across this country and detours; it means more congestion because the White House says we cannot afford to invest in America. That means 800,000 jobs a year that will not be created, 4.8 million over the life of the bill.

The White House also objects to the fact that this bill does not gut the environmental laws, so they have threatened to veto. If I were sitting in the White House and I presided over the lives of 2.8 million jobs, as has President Bush in a so-called jobless recovery, I would be a little bit more anxious to get out and cut ribbons for critical projects to put real Americans to work on real needs and create real jobs. But not this White House. They say they will veto the bill. Is it an April fool or are they just fools at the White House?

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. HONDA).

Mr. HONDA. Mr. Chairman, I would like to begin by commending the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and the gentleman from Minnesota (Ranking Member OBERSTAR), as well as the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), for their hard work, superb leadership, and commitment to bipartisan and sound transportation policy.

There is a great deal in this legislation for which to be proud. The bill protects the core transportation programs while creating new programs to fund projects of regional and national significance and to improve national corridors.

The bill also bolsters its requirements, recognizing that it is not feasible simply to build more highways. However, there is one area in which this bill is grossly deficient and that is funding. Let there be no mistake, the $275 billion bill before us today is not the committee's first choice. Rather, the committee first marked up a $375 billion bill, a level commensurate with the U.S. Department of Transportation's own estimation for the maintenance and improvement of our Nation's highways, bridges, and transit systems.

Unfortunately, that $375 billion bill has been shelved in response to the President's threat to veto any properly funded surface transportation bill.

Remembering how he so artfully pushed through sweeping tax cuts for the wealthy, I am appalled that he now practices a misguided form of fiscal discipline that undermines State and local efforts to enhance transportation infrastructure and that also thwarts job creation.

The Department of Transportation has determined for every $1 billion invested in Federal highway and transit spending, 47,500 jobs are created or sustained. It is daunting, then, to consider the impact that the $100 billion cut in TEA LU will have on job creation in the U.S. For all its promises, this legislation represents a lost opportunity to reignite the slow job growth that plagues our Nation.

I hope that this legislation moves forward, that we can achieve the Senate passed level of $318 billion, a level that would create 1.8 million more jobs and $235 billion more economic activity than the level imposed upon us by the Bush administration today.

I would like to thank the chairman and ranking members of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure for their unwavering dedication to sound transportation policy.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, I yield ¾ minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PASCRELL).

Mr. PASCRELL. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), the gentleman from Minnesota (Ranking Member OBERSTAR), and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI). I think they should be commended for the great job they have done given the absurdly arbitrary constraints they were forced to work under. They have done a terrific job. I mean that sincerely.

After decades of investments to meet an expanding Nation and a growing population, the gentleman from New Jersey, who 12 years ago, 13 years ago started the whole process of TEA 21, Congressman Bob Roe from the eighth district, is very happy with the work, I am sure, that we have done over the last several months.

I supported TEA LU because it was the right thing to do. This administration has threatened a veto. We shall see what we shall see.

In terms of family-wage job creation, in terms of reducing congestion, in terms of remaining competitive with other nations, I believe we are missing a great opportunity to make a difference in our economic future. As the process moves forward, we must band together and fight for a better bill. I believe we will.

I would like to bring to my colleagues' attention, the chairman's attention, one of what I consider the very important provisions that will be included in the manager's amendment: the Department of Transportation should give priority to those public transit projects which add to our system of national defense. Historically, we built our highway system for national defense. We made many needed changes to our aviation system to improve its ability to withstand threats to national security. 9/11 highlighted for those of us living with families in the tri-state area, for instance, how dependent we are on our Nation's transportation system, particularly in a time of crisis.

According to the report of the National Academies on "Making the Nation Safer, the Role of Science and Technology in Countering Terrorism," the ability to quickly recover and reconstitute transportation systems and services is crucial for limiting the cascading effects of terrorist attacks.

We cannot overstate the importance of mass transportation and mass transit to moving people safely at critical times and places.

I want to thank the manager for addressing the essence of the national security amendment I offered in committee. We are authorizing a study in this bill to look at the value of public transportation systems, the value placed on national security in project planning. It will also examine the ability of such systems to accommodate the evacuation from critical locations and in times of emergency. The information we learn should assist metropolitan areas in the development of the regional emergency response plans that coordinate highway and public transportation systems.

I am hopeful the results will ensure that transit agencies and the TSA are looking at response plans in terms of a comprehensive vulnerability assessment.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PITTS) for the purpose of a colloquy with the chairman.

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Chairman, I first want to thank the gentleman from Alaska for his assistance over the past several years regarding an issue that is negatively impacting two transit systems in my congressional district: Red Rose Transit in Lancaster and BARTA, Berks Area Reading Transit Authority.

They join over 50 other transit agencies across the country facing the same problem. And I have a list of these systems that I will submit for the RECORD.

As the chairman knows, under current law transit systems that serve communities in urbanized areas exceeding 200,000 in population according to the most recent census lose their local flexibility in the use of section 5307 Federal transit funds.

The chairman has been very helpful in protecting these systems from losing their flexibility over the past couple of years to provide a bridge to the reauthorization of the transportation spending that we are considering today.

While I appreciate the language that is currently in the bill extending the flexibility protection through fiscal year 2005, it does not go far enough to mitigate the financial crisis facing small transit systems in the fastest growing communities throughout the country. Instead of encouraging the growth of transits in these emerging communities, current law penalizes them.

Red Rose Transit and BARTA stand to lose access of upwards of $1 million in Federal transit funds. They are being treated more like transit systems in big cities than the more suburban and rural communities that they actually serve.

Mr. Chairman, we need a long-term or permanent solution to this problem. The current language in this bill does not go far enough. It is not a matter that these systems need more time to get their books in order; it is that they cannot financially make ends meet under current law.

They are already looking beyond 2005 to see what routes to cut, which workers to lay off, and which buses to park in the garage because they cannot afford to run them. Passengers will lose their transportation to their jobs, the elderly will lose their transportation to the doctor, and low-income families will lose their ride to the grocery store.

I close by asking that, as you go to conference on this transportation bill, you keep in mind the difficult future these transit systems face and that you would work with us to find a solution that would help these transit systems sustain their operations and meet the growing needs of their communities.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I want to thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania very frankly for his hard work on this issue. It is a pleasure to work with him.

I understand the needs these small transit systems face. I certainly support the growth, as I told the gentleman personally, of transit throughout the United States, especially in the thriving smaller communities such as in the gentleman's congressional district.

I want to assure my colleague that, as we go forward with this bill, I welcome his continued assistance on this matter and the gentleman's knowledge. I look forward to working with my colleague on this issue as we go through the conference to finding a reasonable and responsible solution to this problem, and I can assure my colleague that probably will happen.

Mr. PITTS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON).

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Chairman, let me thank the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) and the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for the efforts which they have put forth in working on this bill.

I would like to talk to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for just a moment about the continuing challenges before us in getting our State transportation departments to fully obligate funds under the Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement Program known as CMAQ.

In my State of Texas, more than $230 million in unobligated CMAQ balances have piled up, even though areas like my own district in the Dallas-Fort Worth area are challenged in their efforts to address the harmful health effects of mobile sources and other emissions upon my constituents. Other regions in my State and many other parts of the country are challenged as well.

This bill, like the two before it in 1991 and 1998, provides targeted resources to the States to help fund the mandate of clean air in many metropolitan and local areas across the country, areas that account for about one of every two people in this Nation.

We allocate clean air funds, CMAQ spending authority, to States based on local air quality needs. Yet, there is no requirement that States spend a fair share of the funds we provide air quality improvement projects.

All of us have heard the pleas from our State officials, governors and legislators alike, about unfunded mandates and how they challenge our States. Yet, in this case, States do not want us to include any assurances to local areas that they can count on a steady and predictable flow of CMAQ dollars to help them meet mandates under the Clean Air Act.

Today, this Congress is again providing the resources for this purpose but not requiring States to pass these funds to the local areas.

In this Chamber, our States and many other interests have also told us that the certainty of a 6-year bill is crucial to the States as they plan for transportation investments.

My simple request is that we provide more certainty to local areas over the next 6 years as well. After all, the CMAQ funds we are providing under this legislation are for local areas to assist their compliance efforts in meeting federally-established, health-based standards for clean air.

Finally, there is added urgency to this matter. As early as next month, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will be making its final designations under the new 8-hour ozone standards. A predictable and timely flow of CMAQ dollars will be crucial to their success in achieving compliance with these standards.

It is my hope that my colleague and other House leaders in the conference committee will strive to deliver more certainty to local areas about CMAQ funding over the life of this renewal legislation.

I would like some assurances that we will continue to work to provide local areas with more certainty about their CMAQ funding over the next 6 years in this legislation.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. I yield to the gentleman from Illinois.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, I would also ask that the committee give this issue more review and consideration as we consider future legislation, be it a technical correction amendments or the reopener legislation that the bill before us envisions.

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for his consideration of these issues, and I pledge my strong support to his efforts and any other member of the committee's efforts to make progress in this area.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER).

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, I would rather be standing here today supporting a $375 billion transportation bill. $375 billion is what the U.S. Department of Transportation has said is necessary to meet our most basic infrastructure needs over the next 6 years. Unfortunately, the President insists that we not fund our transportation system adequately and that we not fund the hundreds of thousands of jobs that such a bill would create, but we must do what we can, and despite the funding constraints, there are many things to be proud of in the bill before us.

The committee has done a remarkable job of preserving many of the important new initiatives in TEA LU, such as safe routes to school, freight intermodal connectors and, in particular, projects of national and regional significance. At the same time, we have maintained our core highway and transit programs and increased funding for critical initiatives such as senior transportation services and the ferry boat discretionary program.

This legislation maintains the minimum guarantee funding formula established in TEA 21, but it contains a provision that essentially cuts off highway funding in fiscal year 2006 unless a law is passed in the interim raising the minimum guarantee to 95 percent, while guaranteeing States that they would receive no less than subsequent years, plus the cost of inflation.

I understand the frustration expressed on this floor by the so-called "donor" States. New York, as a whole, is a donor State. We send about $18 to $20 billion more to the Federal Government every year than we receive in total Federal spending. Transportation is one of the few areas in which this is not the case.

New York has invested huge amounts of money in mass transit. Therefore, we are more energy efficient than the country as a whole. We buy less gasoline, and we pay fewer gas taxes into the Highway Trust Fund, and apparently, because we are more efficient, because we are saving the country on sending money to the Middle East, we must be punished by getting less highway funds. That is the idea of the 95 percent guarantee.

Yet, New York has a lot of transportation needs with older, aging infrastructure, and one out of every three transit riders in the country, which is capped at 15 percent. It is just not right to punish States for being energy efficient, and, therefore, I am generally opposed to this provision, but it does not do it right away. It puts off a final decision for 2 years.

Because of the many good features in the bill, I urge its enactment.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. BOOZMAN).

Mr. BOOZMAN. Mr. Chairman, first, I would like to thank the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Chairman PETRI), as well as the gentleman from Minnesota (Ranking Member OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI). Their dedication and leadership on this legislation is commendable. I would also like to commend the committee staff for all their hard work on this bill. It has truly been a pleasure to work with them.

Mr. Chairman, H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy For Users, is legislation our country needs to not only maintain but also to grow our Nation's infrastructure.

When I came to Congress, I followed a visionary member of the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, Mr. John Paul Hammerschmidt. Congressman Hammerschmidt served on the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure for decades, and he was instrumental in advancing our Nation's transportation infrastructure into the 21st century.

Like Mr. Hammerschmidt, I understand the importance of passing a robust transportation bill that provides for infrastructure development across the country.

During the last year, I traveled with the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure to examine our transportation needs. From Fort Smith, Arkansas, to Chicago, Illinois, we heard the same thing: Our Nation must invest in transportation infrastructure. Each city and town, even the rural areas in our States, are in dire need of infrastructure dollars.

Our Nation is growing and prospering. However, our cities and towns are suffering from congestion and poor roads. We must continue growth by passing this legislation, which will allow for continued development. This will not only lessen congestion on our roads, but it will also provide for economic development across the country. This bill provides for growth, it provides for jobs, and it provides for increased safety to our traveling public.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the committee for their dedication to passing this critical legislation, and I encourage my colleagues to support H.R. 3550.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Indiana (Ms. CARSON).

Ms. CARSON of Indiana. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman very much, my prestigious leader of the region, and certainly to the chairman and chairpersons of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure.

I rise today in support of H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy For Users, TEA LU. This 6-year reauthorization is needed to continue our commitment to our Nation's infrastructure.

Transportation is central to our Nation's economy, creating more jobs, and helping Americans get to work every day. Investment in our highways and public transportation systems results in a net gain for our taxpayers.

The bill responds to many of the critical transportation problems facing our country.

$67 billion is lost in worker productivity and wasted fuel every year because of traffic congestion. Americans sitting in traffic lose 5.7 billion gallons of fuel and 3.6 billion hours annually.

Investment in highways is part of the answer, but we must also be sure to invest in our public transit systems as well. Public transit decreases congestion, decreases pollution, and decreases costs for millions of workers.

Unfortunately, many States are discouraged from investing in transit. Thirty-four States, including my home State of Indiana, has statutory or constitutional prohibitions on using money from the Highway Trust Fund for public transit. I offered an amendment to the Committee on Rules establishing a flexibility incentive grant program to address this problem and trust that as we move into the future that we will be able to get this concept put into law to enable the moving around of money for our transportation system.

TEA LU provides $1.4 billion in funding for improving intermodal connections. So in order to fully utilize the potential of these intermodal centers, we must be sure to invest in our railroads, our ports.

In the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, I asked the railroad people if they did not think that was a unique idea to put people to work and that is to rebuild and modernize the railroads.

I thank the chairman and ranking member, my leader, for this opportunity.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. MORAN), my good friend.

Mr. MORAN of Kansas. Mr. Chairman, I am delighted to rise in support of a piece of legislation that I think is very important not only to the folks back home in Kansas but to the folks of this country, and I am here to in part commend the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and his colleagues on the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure but also especially the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HASTERT) for his continued efforts in trying to fashion a piece of legislation that can succeed here in the halls of Congress.

This legislation matters a lot to us as a Nation, matters a lot to Kansans that I represent. In many ways, this is about the creation of jobs at home. I think we often think about jobs being something that we see construction workers on highway projects, but I can tell my colleagues, from a Kansas perspective, our ability to get our manufactured goods to market, our ability to get our agriculture commodities sold in the world, very much depends on our ability to do that in a cost-effective, efficient way.

This country must invest in its infrastructure. We talk today about the outsourcing of jobs. One of the components that can help to address this issue, one of the things that can make a difference, is to make sure that the ability to get goods to market, manufactured goods, agriculture commodities can be taken to market in a way that allows us to continue to be competitive in world markets.

There are concerns here about the deficit. This is a bill that is funded by the Highway Trust Fund. What we are asking to have occur here is dollars that are paid for by users, by taxpayers, set aside for this purpose, be utilized for that purpose.

There are many things we do in this Congress that add to the deficit, but spending money in a trust fund for purposes of infrastructure is not one of those things. I, as a conservative Member of Congress, if I am going to put resources dollars, hard-earned, taxpayer funding into the spending here in our Nation's capital, I will tell my colleagues my constituents are better served by the utilization of those dollars in building infrastructure as compared to additional bureaucracy in our Nation's capital.

Put the money into projects, construction, infrastructure across our Nation.

And, finally, I know that there are concerns about the donor and donee issue, that States may contribute more than they receive. My State of Kansas is kind of neutral on this issue. We get about as many dollars back as we pay. And I would urge my colleagues to give the chairman and others the opportunity to work on this.

It reminds me of my days in State legislature. I was a State legislator for 8 years. School finance is always an issue, and as we tried to change the formula to improve the quality of education and to fund our schools across the State, you could not do it without additional dollars so that at least a majority of the school districts in our State and, therefore, their State legislators felt like they were better off.

So it is important as we work on this donor-donee issue that we take a look at the number of dollars available for spending on the highway bill so that we can address the inequities that may occur if you are a State that is paying more money into the trust fund than you are receiving.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. CORRINE BROWN).

Ms. CORRINE BROWN of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the subcommittee chairman; the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI); and the ranking members, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI); for their hard work in pushing for the highest amount possible for our Nation's transportation systems. It will not be easy, but I believe we can pass a bill that can improve our transportation system, even without the help of this administration.

Why the Bush administration would be opposed to a bill that has the potential to create millions of jobs is beyond me. I can assure the President that reauthorizing TEA LU at an appropriate level will do a heck of a lot more for the economy than outsourcing our jobs to other countries.

Transportation funding is a win-win for everyone involved. States will get an improved transportation infrastructure that creates economic development, puts people back to work, enhances safety, and improves local communities. America's transportation infrastructure is in need of significant additional funding, particularly as we struggle to finance the security upgrades needed to protect our transportation system from terrorist attacks.

Unfortunately, we were unable to add a rail title to this bill, but that does not mean our rail infrastructure is taken care of. We have dangerously underfunded rail security, and we are now scrambling to protect our transit passengers. We have also ignored an underfunded high-speed rail, which is one of the best ways to improve citizens and improve congestion on our highways.

This certainly is not the bill that most of us hoped for; but it is a first step, and we have nowhere to go but up. We have compromised on a $275 billion bill. We need to have many opportunities to make this bill our own and do the right thing for the traveling public.

We need to do the right thing for this Nation's citizens. Let us pass this bill and let us override the President's foolish veto threat.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS).

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Alaska, the chairman of the largest standing committee in the free world, for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, the United States has benefited greatly from having a strong transportation network, but we are in fact approaching a crossroads. I am hopeful that our work on H.R. 3550 brings us one step closer to finding solutions to this growing problem.

I believe H.R. 3550 is bringing us closer to our goals in my State of Texas to achieve our State's goal of an efficient and seamless transportation corridor. I commend the chairman for including the section addressing the streamlining of the design-build process. I was also pleased to see inclusions of sections that focused on interstate system toll pilot programs.

Mr. Chairman, I want to assure you I will continue to work with you and your staff to streamline the Federal design-build process to allow for a rolling environmental review of a multi-modal transportation project. I believe the inclusion of these sections are good steps in the right direction to address these concerns.

I was also pleased to learn the committee leadership included sections for a National Corridor Infrastructure Improvement program and a Coordinated Border Infrastructure program, projects of national and regional significance. I believe that the current programs do not fully address the problems created by the explosion of the NAFTA trade traffic, and funding has often been misdirected to nonborder States and corridors lacking international significance. I believe the provisions included in this bill will greatly improve my State's transportation infrastructure being truly impacted by our country's increased trade traffic.

In Texas, our identified transportation needs outstrip available funding three to one. I support legislative language that will guarantee States at least a 95 percent rate of return on their contributions to the Federal Highway Trust Fund. I look forward to continuing to work with the chairman and the committee to produce a bipartisan transportation reauthorization bill that will truly improve transportation infrastructure nationwide.

We continue to work to produce a bill that adequately provides for our economic security, creates and sustains jobs, enhances safety, and continues to improve mobility for our Nation's citizens, especially my constituents back in Texas. We need to do no less than ensure that our families can spend as much time at the dinner table as they do in traffic now.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. LARSEN), a member of the committee.

Mr. LARSEN of Washington. Mr. Chairman, I want to rise in support of H.R. 3550, but I do want to note that this bill barely scratches the surface of America's transportation needs. At $275 billion, this bill is certainly a lot, but it is only slightly more than an inflationary increase over TEA 21. Furthermore, at this amount, the United States loses out on almost 4.8 million new jobs in Washington State. Specifically, my State could lose out on thousands and thousands of jobs as a result of the funding level in this bill.

In a year when millions of Americans are looking for work, this does not come close to helping the thousands of Americans get back to work. I hope as this bill moves through this House and to conference, we can pursue a funding level that will meet the needs of our transportation systems and help provide job opportunities for more Americans.

Having said all that, I surely want to thank the chairman of the committee, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG); the chairman of the subcommittee, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI); and the ranking members, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), for their work on this bill, which has helped out the Pacific Northwest.

Specifically, TEA LU doubles the funding for the Ferry Boat Discretionary program. The Puget Sound is home to the largest ferry system in the country, and these funds are vital to the Washington State ferries' efforts to service and replace aging vessels. I look forward to working with all of you in conference to increasing these funds in order to keep America's ferry systems afloat for years to come.

In addition, the bill includes funding for projects of national and regional significance. The Alaskan Way Viaduct in Seattle, damaged by an earthquake in February 2001, is threatening to collapse and shut off the transport of goods from ports in Washington State to locations all across the country. So I hope we can further improve this new and exciting program.

In conclusion, I want to say that I hope the final version of this legislation will make very clear that the existing high-priority corridors continue to be eligible for funding. I also hope that the House conferees in this legislation will make every effort to strike the restrictions in the trade corridor provision approved by the other body limiting freight corridor only to multi-State corridors.

Mr. Chairman, again I want to thank the committee leadership and the committee staff for their hard work on this bill, and I look forward to working with all of you on these issues as the bill moves forward.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. HAYES).

(Mr. HAYES asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HAYES. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the chairman for his incredibly hard work. As I look back over the process and the number of things that he has had to balance, the needs and the desires, most of which are somewhat in sync with each other, in that everyone wants to have the best possible transportation system, the gentleman from Alaska has worked very, very hard to do that.

This is a bill that improves infrastructure for America. It is a bill that creates jobs. It is a bill that creates economic development. In my district in North Carolina, we have a distinct shortage of interstate highways. And it is a known fact that 80 percent of all businesses like to be and need to be within 10 miles of an interstate highway. So for that reason alone, I would ask support of all our colleagues on this bill that provides the economic development and attracts capital to areas all over our country and gives us the ability to distribute goods and services, which stimulates that economy, which brings and attracts capital, and which creates jobs.

The issue of highway safety, the issue of congestion is addressed very well in this bill. All of us, especially the chairman, wish that this were a larger bill. However, we are suffering through some very tough economic times, fighting and winning the war on terrorism. The chairman has addressed this issue. He has made it very plain, as the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) has as well, that we will quickly revisit this whole subject of the size of the bill and continue to improve our infrastructure for Americans and job creation.

So, Mr. Chairman, in conclusion, I would again like to thank both our chairman, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), and the ranking member, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), for balancing the many critical needs, the desires, and the wants of all Americans to move this country forward, to create opportunities, to create jobs, to grow this economy, and to keep us free, financially viable, and in a position to support the military that is doing so great a job, along with our coalition partners, in winning the war on terrorism.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. LAMPSON), a member of the committee.

Mr. LAMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I rise in support of H.R. 3550, the bill that provides $275 billion over the next 6 years for highways and public transit throughout the country.

Originally, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure introduced a bill that ensured that at a $375 billion level we would be able to sustain both our Nation's infrastructure and encourage sustained commercial growth over the next decade. Well, this debate is about difficult choices. It is easy to stand in front of this House and demand more tax cuts, but it is a greater challenge to own up to our responsibilities as elected officials and to ensure that our Nation has the capability to expand our avenues of commerce.

Our Nation's highway system is an irreplaceable cog in the movement of goods and services and our Nation's role in international trades. I represent a district with six seaports, and my constituents recognize the need for a seamless intermodal system that incorporates ports, rail, and highways. And I would be lying today if I said that I was not disappointed that the Republican leadership has limited the size and scope of commercial growth in this bill; yet I feel this legislation and its passage today is vital to our Nation because it represents an investment and a commitment to our infrastructure.

One of the critical elements of this legislation is the creation of jobs. Every $1 billion invested in our Federal highway and transit system creates 47,500 jobs. And given the net job loss over the last 3 years in this country, this bill will provide needed relief to workers.

This legislation is also environmentally responsible and will help communities achieve greater environmental benchmarks. This legislation ensures the protection of the CMAQ program, which is crucial to addressing concerns arising from highway congestion and insufficient air quality.

With the Houston, Galveston and Beaumont, Port Arthur areas that I represent classified as nonattainment areas, it is important to the region that I represent to ensure the viability of the CMAQ program. So let us do the right thing for working Americans. Let us pass this bill for the good of our economy and to create more jobs.

And I want to take a few seconds to thank Chairman YOUNG and Ranking Member OBERSTAR, Chairman PETRI, and Ranking Member LIPINSKI for their hard work and leadership on this bill. These Members and the committee staff have worked tirelessly on the legislation, and their efforts should not go unnoticed.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, may I have a compilation of the time remaining?

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). The gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) has 12¼ minutes remaining, and the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) has 10 minutes remaining.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. FILNER).

Mr. FILNER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

We have heard the expression, "It's the economy, stupid." Well, it's the infrastructure, stupid. It's jobs, stupid.

I know that the chairman, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), thinks about jobs all the time, as does our ranking member, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI). It is jobs, jobs, jobs. And that is what the infrastructure of this country provides.

We have a bill here that is $100 billion less than it should be. To my simple math that works out to a loss of 4.5 million jobs. We are losing $600 billion worth of economic activities over the next 5 or 6 years. I do not understand an administration that is a "donor" administration in terms of its jobs that it has not created. By supporting a bigger bill, it could be a "donee" administration and actually create jobs, and that is what we need in this country today.

There is a controversy, I understand, about donor-donee. There does not have to be. The gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), both want a 95 percent guarantee for every State, and they had it in the bill that we should have passed. And I say to the people who want to have that 95 percent guarantee, do not change this bill; vote for a bigger bill. We can afford it. We can be fiscally responsible. It is an investment in this Nation to have the bigger bill.

But we will do part of the job by passing this one today.

I happen to represent the whole California-Mexico border in this country. I have in my district 250,000 people crossing the border every day and thousands and thousands of trucks. I want to thank our committee for providing a "border infrastructure fund" to help address the needs that this international traffic places on our local communities. These local communities do not have the funds and should not be responsible. The border infrastructure fund gives us the ability for the Federal Government to meet its responsibility.

So I say, Let's have the jobs. Let's get rid of the donor-donee controversy. I know the gentleman from Alaska wants to do that and the gentleman from Minnesota wants to do it. Hopefully, down the line we will do it.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mr. BISHOP).

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Chairman, it is incomprehensible that we are considering this legislation today under the threat of a Presidential veto. This is, first and foremost, a jobs bill. If the administration follows through with the threat to veto this bill, they will be denying tens of thousands of workers in New York and nationwide good jobs.

I am confused by those who wrap themselves in a cloak of fiscal responsibility when it comes to government spending and yet blindly support tax cuts which have not produced new jobs. Jobs, not tax cuts that benefit the wealthiest Americans, stimulate the economy and put food on the table of working families.

Most disturbing about the President's veto threat is that even the bill we are considering today provides inadequate funding to meet our Nation's overwhelming transportation needs. The bill we are being asked to consider falls $100 billion short of the $375 billion bipartisan bill initially passed by our committee based on the Department of Transportation's own assessment of our Nation's needs.

Transportation spending is a win-win proposition. It creates jobs and improves safety and efficiency on our roads. This veto threat is just the latest example of continued misplaced priorities from this administration.

We need a real economic stimulus. We know that each $1 billion of Federal funds invested in infrastructure creates approximately 47,000 jobs and generates $6.2 billion in economic activity. That is the kind of boost that our economy needs.

I would like to thank the gentleman from Alaska, the gentleman from Wisconsin, the gentleman from Minnesota and the gentleman from Illinois for bringing this bill to the floor. I will support this bill because we must move this process forward. However, this bill is a far cry from the real investment needed to improve our infrastructure.

Finally, I would like to stress the importance of ensuring that the minimum guarantee formula stays at 90.5 percent. Our transportation policy now directs funding to the areas of the country where it is needed the most. It would be unwise to punish States with aging infrastructure and efficient mass transit systems by cutting off their funding. There is simply no way to reach a 95 percent minimum guarantee in a $275 billion bill.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).

(Mr. DAVIS of Illinois asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. I rise in strong support of this legislation.

First of all, I want to commend the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI).

This bill will obviously provide opportunities for the creation of jobs in all of the districts across the country and especially in mine. However, the bill comes up a bit short because I do not think that we paid enough attention to rail transportation. Amtrak runs 50 trains out of my district in Chicago each and every day. Yet there is no money for Amtrak, and there is no money for rail safety.

I do want to highlight the fact, though, that this bill does in fact increase funding for the Access to Jobs program, a program that will take individuals from the inner cities and rural communities to where 75 percent of the new jobs are being created in what we call suburban outlying districts.

Overall, it is a good bill. I wish there were more money. I wish we could have looked at Amtrak in a different way and rail safety. I strongly support it.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of the reauthorization of the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century. I commend Chairman YOUNG, Chairman PETRI, Ranking Member OBERSTAR, and especially the senior Democrat from Illinois Republican LIPINSKI for all of your hard work on this bill.

Our transportation system is vital to democracy. It is through our transportation network that we are able to move commerce and people with reliability and consistency. Every day millions of people travel our highways, and transit systems. This bill helps to ensure that we modernize our ailing transportation system and protect workers.

The bill contains a number of projects that will directly improve the roads and infrastructure in my Congressional District. This bill comes at a time when our economy is in need of a significant boost. We have lost over 3 million jobs in the last 3 years. My Congressional District has lost over 140,000 jobs in the last 30 years. While this bill is a modest investment in our Nation's highways and transit systems, I am disappointed that we did not report out the original bill, which contained a $375 billion funding level. That kind of funding level would have given us an historic opportunity to put Americans back to work.

Also, I am disappointed that more was not done to stabilize Amtrak. In fact, the House Bill contains no funding for Amtrak. Amtrak is a vital part of the economy in Chicago, and the Nation. Amtrak operates more than 50 trains into and out of the City of Chicago each day. These include an extensive network of long-distance trains that provide service to the East and West coasts, the Gulf of Mexico and Canada. Last year, Amtrak transported more than 2 million passengers. The failure to include funding for Amtrak sends a negative signal. In addition, this bill provides no funding for rail security to adequately address concerns regarding terrorism. We must learn from the tragedy in Spain and other attacks on rail systems throughout the country.

I am pleased with the increase in funding for the Job Access and Reverse Commute Program. This program assists low-income individuals and welfare recipients get to where the jobs are being created. In other words, data suggests that three-fourths of new jobs are being created in the suburbs. Therefore, we must find ways to get people from the inner cities and rural areas to where the jobs are. The Job Access and Reverse Commute program will provide over $1 billion in funding over the next six years.

Therefore, I am pleased that this important bill is finally moving forward. While I wish that the Committee had done more in funding important priorities—failure to act could lead to terrible consequences as it relates to our transportation infrastructure. Thus, I am pleased to support this bill.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. GARY G. MILLER).

(Mr. GARY G. MILLER of California asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GARY G. MILLER of California. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Alaska has dedicated years to this bill. I applaud him for that. I know it is less dollars than he would like to see because he does understand the problems we face in this Nation. The gentleman from Wisconsin has done an excellent job on the subcommittee. The gentleman from Minnesota has done a wonderful job working his side of the aisle trying to bring together a good bill for this country.

I represent California. I have parts of Orange County, L.A. and San Bernardino Counties. We are right on what is called the Alameda Corridor. All the trucks and trains coming from the harbor at Long Beach and Los Angeles come through our districts. Unless you live there, it is almost unbelievable to realize the impact that we face and our commuters face trying to go to and from work not only with the truck traffic from the harbors and the airports on our freeways but with the trains when you are trying to cross railroad tracks and at-grade crossings. Nothing that I can think of is more important than what we are doing this year and we have done in recent years in this bill.

The Founding Fathers had an idea of what the Federal Government should do, and one is to protect and defend our borders which we are trying and I believe we are doing an excellent job through the budget on, and the other is to ensure interstate commerce. In this generation, ensuring interstate commerce is making sure that goods can flow on our freeway systems and our rails to provide the goods and services that we need in this Nation. Our roads are coming close to being in a gridlock level in the Los Angeles area and Orange County. We need to resolve the problems we face there today.

TEA LU does pay special attention to the infrastructure deficiencies facing our Nation's truck traffic and the freight and it is tremendous some of the issues we have to deal with.

In Orange County alone, in my district on the Alameda Corridor through our cities currently we have 50 trains a day. In the near future, those trains will go up to 135 trains per day. The people who have to cross those crossings realize that that is a tremendous burden placed upon them and a tremendous burden placed upon businesses who have to ship their goods and people have to get to and from work. It is just unbelievable.

In one city that I represent, Placentia, in a 5-mile-long stretch, there are 11 at-grade crossings plus the associated communities around them. When a train starts going through that town, the whistle blows from the beginning they reach that city limit till the projects that need to be put in this budget up front to help resolve some of the immediate impact that has been placed upon our State. He has made countless trips to California, I met with him on several different functions, explaining his vision for the future. That is why he calls it a legacy for our future, because of his vision of what should happen in the future of this Nation and how people should benefit, from the minute they get up in the morning and get in their car till their car comes home at night.

We have a wonderful bill before us. There are going to be some amendments, some I am going to oppose, but I honor the gentleman from Alaska for this great bill.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. OLVER).

(Mr. OLVER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. OLVER. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Transportation Equity Act. I thank the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for their hard work on the legislation.

Mr. Chairman, this legislation is critical to meeting our country's transportation needs, but it also addresses a very serious problem that many of my colleagues who represent rural areas face. That problem is the virtually total absence of broadband services in rural areas.

The rural interstate corridor communications study included in this legislation will examine how fiber optic cable and wireless technology can be deployed to establish high-speed broadband service in rural and underserved areas, to improve intelligent transportation systems and homeland security applications, and to spur economic development in those rural areas. This important feasibility study is the first step toward increasing the access to affordable high-speed Internet services in rural areas. The benefits of this study will be of tremendous assistance to attracting technology-based companies and information age jobs to those rural communities.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY).

(Ms. WOOLSEY asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of TEA LU because it is the most effective economic stimulus package this House has considered since our economy began to slump. No, I am not talking about another tax cut. I am talking about a transportation bill. Infrastructure investments are the smartest, most profitable long-term job creation initiatives available to us at the Federal level at this time.

By investing our resources in transportation projects, we accomplish what annual tax cuts have thus far failed to do. We create good jobs, jobs that actually pay a living wage. Workers in these jobs support their families by performing tasks that also improve their communities. Efficient transportation systems will also allow people to spend less time commuting and more time with their families. Traffic adds hours to a parent's workday, making it even more difficult to balance the competing demands of work and family.

Vote for TEA LU.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I thank the distinguished ranking member and the chairman for the hard, collaborative work that was done.

I, too, rise in support of TEA LU and with a particular inquiry and that is to the President of the United States. Mr. President, work with us. Jobs are needed, but, more importantly, security is needed and improved infrastructure is needed.

Let me applaud this committee for acknowledging the needs in the 18th Congressional District that include a number of very vital projects. One, for example, project is Row House, a community development corporation to construct bicycle and pedestrian trails to enhance an already depressed neighborhood that is coming back. Let me be grateful for the project dealing with the Old Spanish Trail and Alameda Corridors that will assist in our technology center.

But, more importantly, I need to cite for this body the importance of language that was agreed to that dealt with racial profiling. We all know the story of I-95, but how many of us know the story of 59 North? I appreciate very much the idea that racial profiling language was put in the bill to inhibit racial profiling in transportation facilities across the motion. I ask my colleagues to support the legislation and to support my amendment regarding flexibility in funding for bicycle paths and other transportation needs.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this bill, H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act, A Legacy for Users. Before this bill went to the full committee markup, I submitted the following project requests:

For the City of Houston, I made the following requests: $1,000,000 to extend Munn Street from Demaree Lane to Gellhorn Drive; $1,000,000 to construct and rehabilitate pedestrian walkways along the Main Street corridor to improve transit-related accessibility; $1,000,000 to converge a hike and bike trail into Gellhorn Drive, providing an improved multi-modal transportation facility; $1,250,000 to pave East of Enwood Forest and west of I-45 and from Little York to West Gulf Bank.

For the Greater Houston Development, Inc. CDC, we requested $4,000,000 for the installation of infrastructure including concrete streets, curbs, and gutters along the three major thoroughfares of E. Tidwell, Ley Road, and East Little York Road.

For the Row House CDC, we requested $750,000 to construct bicycle and pedestrian trails in Houston's historic Third Ward.

For the Old Spanish Trail and Alameda Corridors Redevelopment Authority, we requested $2,000,000 to construct landscaping and other pedestrian amenities in segments of the Old Spanish Trail and Griggs Road rights-of-way.

For the Texas Department of Transportation, we requested $2,000,000 to widen Hempstead Highway from 12th Street to Washington Avenue from four (4) lanes to six (6) lanes and for the improvement of the urban facility.

All of these projects, if funded as they appear in the bill as drafted, would serve to make Houston's transportation network more efficient and comprehensive, and I thank the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure as well as the Subcommittee on Highways, Transit, and Pipelines for all of their hard work in getting these projects included.

AIRPORT POLLUTION

While I applaud the Committees' inclusion of projects that will help transportation systems, I must counter this discussion with a request that, in finalizing this bill, provisions be made to mitigate the problem of airport pollution.

A large number of my constituents in Houston have, for some time, complained about planes flying dangerously low and about the unbearable noise levels at Bush Intercontinental Airport. A gentleman who lives near the airport reported that "[he] cannot enjoy a day in [his] backyard, a barbecue, with all the noise, all the pollution going on." Attempts have been made to mitigate this impact such as temporarily diverting flights, reversing the FAA regulations that called for lowering flight altitudes, and constructing alternate runways. However, these efforts are "band-aids" for a larger problem. I ask that the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee work to achieve a solution to this problem.

RACIAL PROFILING

As we work to craft legislation that will facilitate the modes and roads for transportation, we cannot forget about the issue of racial profiling that runs part and parcel with interstate and intrastate transportation. As a Member of the House Judiciary Committee, I have been able to hear testimony and to read accounts of the horrible and disparate effects of racial profiling—largely in response to this country's growing task of securing the homeland. In addition, I have had the opportunity to contribute to the crafting of legislation to combat this problem.

I support and have co-sponsored the End Racial Profiling Act of 2003 (ERPA). Racial profiling occurs when law enforcement relies on race, ethnicity, national origin, or religion in selecting which individuals to subject to routine or spontaneous investigatory activities, except when relying on a specific suspect description. This practice violates our Nation's basic constitutional commitment to equality before the law. Racial profiling is also contrary to effective law enforcement—whether used as a tool in the war against drugs or the war against terrorism, profiling fuels the perception in minority communities that the criminal justice system is unfair and undermines the trust between the police and the communities they serve.

To comply with the Aviation and Transportation Security Act, the Transportation Security Agency under the Department of Homeland Security developed and implemented a passenger screening system called the "Computer Assisted Passenger Pre-Screening System II" (CAPPS II). The objective of this system is to ensure passenger and aviation security. Under this system, all travelers passing through a U.S. airport will be scored with a number and a color that ranks their perceived threat to the aircraft.

Using easily falsified information such as a name, home address, home phone number and date of birth, this system would screen the airline passenger's name through credit databases and then run his information through secret government databases to make a judgment about his security risk. These secret databases would be compiled using intelligence and law enforcement records that could include personal information gleaned from commercial data such as purchase history and banking records.

Individuals singled out by this program would have no way of knowing why they have been targeted. They would not know if they are the victims of the widespread inaccuracies that riddle government and private databases. Nor would they know if they have been falsely accused of wrongdoing, or have been discriminated against because of their religion, race, ethnic origin, or political beliefs.

Therefore, it is of paramount concern that, in passing legislation that aims to facilitate transportation and travel, we also end racial profiling and maintain respect for individual liberty. Language that begins to address this problem has been included in H.R. 3550.

Similarly, I co-sponsored the Hate Crimes Prevention Act of 2004. The FBI has reported a dramatic increase in hate-motivated violence since the September 11th terrorist attacks. While the overall crime rate has grown by approximately two percent, the number of reported hate crimes has increased dramatically from 8,063 in 2000 to 9,730 in 2001 (a 20.7 percent increase). Racial bias again represented the largest percentage of bias-motivated incidents (44.9 percent), followed by Ethnic/National Origin Bias (21.6 percent), Religious Bias (18.8 percent), Sexual Orientation Bias (14.3 percent), and Disability Bias (0.4 percent).

RAIL SECURITY

As a Member of the House Select Committee on Homeland Security, however, the issue of rail security must be addressed when it comes to transportation funding. Within the context of this legislation funding, I feel that priority should have been given to the improvement of our critical infrastructure, to enhance our emergency preparedness, and to aid our first responders who are responsible for the operation and maintenance of our local, State, and interstate railways. Especially in light of the recent subway explosions that took the lives of over 200, it is urgent that we take measures to increase our rail security whenever there is an opportunity—this bill and the upcoming Transportation Appropriations bill are such an opportunity.

On March 11, 2004, an al Qaeda bombing of commuter trains in Madrid, Spain killed nearly 200 people and wounded more than 1,500 others. A minor fire incident in Washington, D.C.'s subway system recently gave us a glimpse of the potential for disruption to our public transit systems. Failure to invest in the security of passenger rail and public transit could leave these critical systems vulnerable to terrorist attack. Millions of Americans rely on mass transit systems on a daily basis. Making these systems as safe as they can be from terrorist attacks must be a high priority for the Department of Homeland Security.

I have signed onto a letter from my Texas colleague and the Ranking Member JIM TURNER to Secretary Tom Ridge expressing the need to increase our rail security.

Between 1997 and 2000, more than 195 terrorist attacks occurred on surface transportation systems worldwide. There are over 140,000 miles of train routes in the U.S., 500 Amtrak stations, and 500 major urban transit operators. Nearly nine billion passenger trips are taken on U.S. mass transit systems every year. Since the attacks of September 11, the U.S. Department of Transportation and the Federal Bureau of Investigation have warned transit and other railroad systems of possible terrorist strikes.

In sum, Mr. Chairman, I support the inclusion of the projects which I cited that have been included in the bill that will improve Houston's transit system; however, in the course of finalizing its language in House and Senate conferences, I hope that my colleagues will look to make provisions for more rail security, given the urgent need.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mr. ENGEL).

(Mr. ENGEL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of this bill because this bill means jobs for many Americans currently unable to find employment. This bill is about bolstering our Nation's transportation infrastructure which has a direct impact on our economy. I believe that this is a good bill. I wish it was even more money because we can use the transportation infrastructure money.

I am very sorry that the administration is threatening to veto this bill because it goes above the $256 billion limit they set. I do not know why they do not seem to get it. They do not get the fact that America's workforce and floundering economy would benefit tremendously from this legislation. It is unbelievable that at a time of high unemployment this administration is threatening to veto legislation that would actually create real jobs.

I do not want to hear phony cries about budget restraint. The tax cuts for the rich rob us of our ability to have good programs. This is a great program. The administration says that anything above $256 billion is too expensive. This is ludicrous because the transportation bill is self-funding. The former chair, Mr. SHUSTER, did a wonderful job in ensuring that revenues generated for the trust fund would only be used for transportation projects.

I commend the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPIN-SKI). I think this is a marvelous bill, and I wholly support it.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Colorado (Mr. UDALL).

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of TEA LU. However, I am disappointed that it does not include language to close a dangerous loophole in a 30-year-old law that allows school districts to use 15-passenger vans to transport students to and from athletic trips and other school activities.

I have introduced legislation, H.R. 1641, to remedy the problem. It would prohibit the purchase, rental or lease of 15-passenger vans for use to transport students. I understand that the ranking member is amenable to working with me and others in conference to ensure we put an end to this practice that puts schoolchildren's lives on the line every day.

Is this the understanding of the gentleman from Minnesota?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Colorado has identified an issue that has been highlighted by the National Transportation Safety Board. I am in full sympathy with the gentleman, and we will work to accomplish that objective.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Minnesota for his remarks and look forward to working with him.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Mr. GREEN).

Mr. GREEN of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I thank my colleague for yielding me this time.

I rise in support of H.R. 3550, a bill that is bipartisanly crafted by both the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), ranking member; and they have made the best out of what is a bad situation. The fact that the administration is threatening to veto this legislation at the level of $270 billion shows the irrational negotiating posture of the opponents of infrastructure improvement and investment.

I support the $375 billion transportation infrastructure bill. And where does that number come from? It comes from the level that the U.S. Department of Transportation says is necessary to improve the mobility in our country. Mr. Chairman, if we do not improve the mobility of our country, just in Houston we lose $2.1 billion every year in productivity in fuel and congestion, and it is getting worse. And these are not my figures. These are figures from the Texas Transportation Institute's 2003 Urban Mobility study. This highway bill is not pork barrel politics. It makes investment in mobility that the public desperately wants and needs. Our gasoline user fees are for our public highways by tapping revenue from those who benefit from them, motorists and truckers.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.R. 3550, a bill where our bipartisan Transportation Committee leadership, Chairman YOUNG and Ranking Member OBERSTAR have made the best out of a bad situation.

The fact that the administration is threatening to veto this legislation, at the level of $275 billion, shows the irrational negotiating posture of the opponents of infrastructure investment.

I support a $375 billion transportation infrastructure bill. Where does that number come from? That is the level that the U.S. Department of Transportation says is necessary to improve mobility in the country.

Frankly, I support indexing the gasoline user fee to inflation, a method that is far simpler than having to stop every few miles and dig around for change in the car seat to pay a toll. Under this bill, tolls will too often be the only option available to make infrastructure improvements.

The funding level the administration supports barely allows us to tread water, while China, India, Japan, Europe, and other competitors are investing heavily in infrastructure to strengthen their economies.

It is frustrating to be confined by inadequate transportation funding during tough economic times because infrastructure investment brings major employment and development benefits.

Each billion spent on infrastructure creates 47,500 American jobs. At least 3.5 million jobs would be generated and sustained through 2009 under the $375 billion level in the original H.R. 3550, including over 200,000 jobs in Texas.

Under this bill, we will get significantly less employment and economic activity than that.

The administration and self-proclaimed fiscal conservatives in Congress do not seem to understand that residents in my community are idling away an average of 37 hours and 60 gallons of gas this year in congested traffic.

Just in Houston, we lose $2.1 billion, every year, in productivity and fuel, and congestion has been getting worse. These figures are according to the Texas Transportation Institute's 2003 Urban Mobility Report.

This highway bill is not pork barrel politics; it makes investments in mobility that public desperately want and need. Our gasoline user fee funds our public highways by tapping revenue from those who benefit from them—motorists and truckers.

This bill has important projects for our area in Houston and across Texas, particularly U.S. 90, Clinton Drive, and a Harris County Freight Railroad Corridors and Urban Mobility Program.

This railroad project in particular needs more study and involvement by all stakeholders before we get to implementation, but the problem of grade crossings and mobility does need to be addressed urgently.

Some important policy provisions regarding transportation conformity are also included in this legislation, such as making the conformity process a four year cycle, voluntary limiting of conformity planning to 10 years, and allowing a 12-month grace period in the event of a conformity lapse.

I do not believe that these provisions solve all our problems, and I would hope that the cosponsors of our legislation in the conference will include further necessary improvements to the conformity process.

Our area of Houston is struggling to meet Clean Air Act requirements by statutory deadlines, and I think we will have success.

But to have our mobility crippled by losing transportation funding due to a confusing and contradictory process would be the worst public policy disaster in decades for our area.

Looking ahead to a conference with the other body, I want to congratulate the bipartisan Transportation Committee for its best work in a bad situation.

The closer we get our funding to the U.S. Department of Transportation recommended level of $375 billion, the better off our economy will be.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

We have heard a wide range of thoughtful views, some of them expressed in very hurried fashion due to the time limitations. But if we had 24 hours of debate, there would not have been enough time to hear all the views of all Members because transportation really undergirds our entire economy.

I leave one statistic with my colleagues. In 1987 the cost of logistics, moving people and goods, consumed 16 percent of our gross domestic product of this country. Last year logistics consumed just under 10 percent of our gross domestic product. That is a gain of $600 billion in our $10 trillion economy. That investment gain is due to the investments that we have made through this committee in cooperation with States and localities improving our infrastructure. That is the core of why we are on the floor today, to advance the Nation's economy, productivity, and competitiveness at home and abroad.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In closing, I would like to thank all the Members who have spoken in favor of this bill. There is no one who spoke against the bill. There will be approximately 11 more amendments offered. I believe this bill is properly structured.

And I have to say this. I again want to stress one thing. I came to this House 31 years ago. I came to this House to work to achieve legislation, and I believe we can only do that by working together. It is something I believe very strongly in. And I know there are those who do not agree with me, who do not want to achieve, but to bicker; and I do not think this is what this House is all about.

So I again congratulate the other side, the minority, at this time for their willingness to work with me and I to work with them to achieve a goal. And I think we have partially reached it in this legislation.

Because of certain media reports about the 375, I have to remind those that might be listening to this or are watching that the 375 that I chose 2½ years ago with the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) was not an artificial number. It was not a "wanna" number. This is a number that came from this administration just to maintain and improve a little bit. There was only one way we could have gotten there, and that was by, in fact, increasing user fees. And of course that has run into tremendous opposition from different people, everybody knows who. But I hope they understand what we are really trying to do in this legislation; and what we should have been doing with the 375 is the future of this Nation because at this period of time before elections, we hear a lot of people talking about Social Security, Medicare, education, border patrol, homeland security, prescription drugs; and they are all good and they are all needed. But there is only one way we can have the financial revenue to get those achievements done, and that is to have a good infrastructure system in place for the future. Without a good infrastructure system, we do not have the economic capability of doing those things everybody wants us to do.

This is not a new idea. Eisenhower saw it and built the interstate system 50 years ago and made this the greatest Nation not just for security purposes, but to be able to move goods and products and people to and from and establish industries because of that infrastructure system put in place 50 years ago.

Now we have competition internationally. We have nations that recognize this. We did not win the Cold War because of our military might. In fact, we did not even win the Second World War because of our military might. We won it because we could deliver troops, products, food, and people across this Nation to the manufacturing points. China, as said in my opening statement, now recognizes that. And we hear a lot of China, about outsourcing. We hear a lot about China and their economic growth; but they recognize why we were great, and I stress that word "were," because they are going to build in 15 years the same amount of highways that it took us 60 years to build in the United States to tie their provinces together, like we tied our States together, so there would be no more warlords. They will have a united China with 4.5 billion people to be able to produce and compete with anyone in this world and probably beat them on all forms of products, especially when Russia is right next door with all the natural resources that they use to do that production.

And the foresight, I believe, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and I have had to see that challenge and try to rise to that occasion to make sure this Nation has the ability to compete internationally, that is what this bill is about and what it should be as more.

And that is why in this bill I have a reopener, and I have people objecting to that, because I believe our economy is coming back, but our needs to move people is also increasing at a dramatic rate, and I want to have my grandkids and my great grandkids and my great, great grandkids to have the advantages and ability to compete globally because of the infrastructure system that we will put in place.

I have told my adversaries that are against my 375 that I will be back. I will continue this fight because I believe in it so strongly for this Nation. I believe this House has a responsibility to leave a proper legacy behind for the future generations of this great Nation. I hope everybody that listens to the debate as far as the amendments go understands that we are going to listen to them. We will vote some down; we will accept them, but when it is all said and done that we step forth with this bill tomorrow I hope in the near hours to start the process to leave a legacy behind for this great Nation.

Mr. PASCARELL. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the amendment offered by my friend Mr. LOBIONDO.

What Mr. LOBIONDO has put forward is a common sense measure that is long overdue. Our home state of New Jersey has recently enacted John's Law, which allows police agencies to impound the vehicles of drunken drivers.

John's Law is named after Navy Ensign John Elliott. John was driving from Annapolis to his home in Atlantic County, New Jersey for his mother's birthday. En route, his car was struck by a drunken driver. Both Elliott and the other driver were killed.

Three hours earlier, the other driver had been arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. He was released into the custody of a friend, who drove him back to his car and allowed him to get behind the wheel. This tragedy brought attention to a loophole in State law which has since been corrected.

The LoBiondo amendment would not mandate any action by the states. Rather, we hope it will encourage them to impound vehicles of DWI drivers as another important tool in the arsenal of alcohol-impaired countermeasures.

If someone is arrested for drunk driving, it is logical that they not be allowed to get right back behind the wheel of their car, endangering other drivers. Police and public safety groups in New Jersey have praised this policy and I hope that other states will do the right thing by enacting similar laws that will save lives.

On a personal level, I want to recognize the efforts of Bill Elliott, John's father, who has not rested in his work to ensure that such a tragedy would never be repeated.

Passage of the LOBIONDO amendment will help Bill in his quest for better public policy. We can all hope for a day when what happened to the Elliott family will never happen to other families.

I urge a "yes" vote on this amendment and I thank my friend for bringing this laudable policy before the House.

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of H.R. 3550, Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users . . . and I commend Chairman DON YOUNG and Ranking Member OBERSTAR for their leadership on a difficult bill before the House. I also thank Chairman PETRI and Ranking Member LIPINSKI of the Subcommittee on Highways, Transit, and Pipelines for their hard work on this legislation the last couple of years.

Despite the funding level limitations placed on the committee the committee has done an outstanding job in bringing a good bill to the floor that provides $275 billion for highways and transit. I was hopeful we would be moving the bill preferred by the Senate, with a higher investment in national transportation system. By improving our infrastructure in the United States, we grow our economy. This is the best sort of job-creation bill.

With the Southwest international border shouldering a greater and greater load of NAFTA commercial traffic, there is a greater and more urgent need for an interstate highway corridor down to Southern border. The border corridor infrastructure will help our local communities through which so much of the commercial trade passes.

Investing in these inter-modal improvements means investing in the future of efficient movement of people and goods in the 21st Century to remain competitive, reduce congestion, reduce pollution, and provide for the safety of everyone traveling along our roads and highways.

Investments to improve the security of America's critical infrastructures, including passenger rail and public transit, will benefit not only our national security but also our economy and the safety and reliability of systems that Americans rely on every day.

This bill provides important funding to the state of Texas and my district. While there are still issues to be resolved, in particular the donor-donoree issue, I am confident that this will be addressed as we move this bill further along through the process and on to the conference.

Transportation is literally the lifeblood of trade and commerce that winds its way through South Texas, creating and supporting a number of jobs. The funding the Committee included in the bill for our neck of the woods will help with a number of safety issues, as well as generally contributing to creating new commercial opportunities for our area.

The Committee included several public transportation projects for our area. Utilizing public transportation helps move people around more economically, it reduces pollution, and it reduces traffic in the area . . . all of which will go a long way to provide congestion relief for area commuters and a new level of safety for South Texans.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I submit the following two letters for the RECORD.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COMMITTEE ON ENERGY AND COMMERCE,
Washington, DC, March 26, 2004.

Hon. DON YOUNG, Chairman,
Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN YOUNG: I am writing with regard to H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users, which was ordered reported by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on March 24, 2004. As you know, the Energy and Commerce Committee has jurisdiction over matters involving air quality planning and the air quality impact of transportation projects, the Congestion Mitigation Air Quality Program, provisions involving energy production, supply and storage and other matters contained within H.R. 3550 as reported.

I recognize your desire to bring this legislation before the House in an expeditious manner. Accordingly, I will not exercise my Committee's right to a referral. By agreeing to waive its consideration of the bill, however, the Energy and Commerce Committee does not waive its jurisdiction over H.R. 3550. In addition, the Energy and Commerce Committee reserves its right to seek conferees on any provisions of the bill that are within its jurisdiction during any House-Senate conference that may be convened on this legislation. I ask for your commitment to support any request by the Energy and Commerce Committee for conferees on H.R. 3550 or similar legislation.

I request that you include this letter as part of the Committee's Report on H.R. 3550 and in the Record during consideration of the legislation on the House floor. Thank you for your attention to these matters.

Sincerely,

JOE BARTON,
Chairman.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE,

Washington, DC, March 26, 2004.

Hon. JOE BARTON, Chairman,
Committee on Energy and Commerce, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you for your letter of March 26, 2004 regarding H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users. Your assistance in expediting consideration of the bill is very much appreciated.

I agree that there are certain provisions in the bill that are of jurisdictional interest to the Committee on Energy and Commerce and I agree that by foregoing a sequential referral, the Committee on Commerce is not waiving its jurisdiction. Be assured that I will support your request to be represented in the conference on those provisions in the jurisdiction of the Energy and Commerce Committee.

As you have requested, I will include this exchange of letters in the Committee report on the bill and in the Record when the bill is on the Floor. Thank you for your cooperation and your continued leadership and support in surface transportation matters.

Sincerely,

DON YOUNG,
Chairman.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise to express my support for my Drug Impaired Driving legislation, which is included in the H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users.

I know it would probably surprise most of my colleagues to learn that up to 20 percent of drivers involved in motor vehicle accidents were under the influence of illegal drugs, or that in 2002 almost 11 million people drove a car or truck while under the influence of drugs.

Over the past decade, our Nation's aggressive response to the problem of drunk driving has greatly reduced the number of drunk drivers on the road. But the Nation's 16 million current users of illegal drugs have faced no similar effort as they continue to drive under the influence of drugs such as marijuana, cocaine and heroin.

I believe a more effective public policy for detection and prosecution will not only improve traffic safety and create a deterrent, but would get those drivers who violate the law into treatment.

The Drug Impaired Driving Research and Prevention Act, which I introduced with my colleagues SANDER LEVIN, JON PORTER, MARK SOUDER, JERRY COSTELLO, STEVEN

LATOURETTE, JIM RAMSTAD and DAVID HOBSON, will provide assistance and guidance to States as they begin to address drug impaired driving. The language calls on the U.S. Secretary of Transportation to craft a model State drug impaired driving law and helps ensure that drivers in need of drug treatment are identified and provided with the appropriate assistance. The legislation enhances the training of police officers and prosecutors to detect, enforce, and prosecute drug impaired driving laws and also funds research to develop field tests to be able to identify drug impaired drivers.

This legislation will greatly improve traffic safety and reduce traffic fatalities as has been the case with drunk driving laws. It is time to deal with these undetected dangers on our roads and highways before more damage occurs and more lives are lost. I thank Chairman YOUNG for including this important legislation in the Highway bill.

Ms. DEGETTE. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users. The reauthorization of TEA-21 offers the opportunity to celebrate some of that landmark legislation's visionary projects.

The Southeast Corridor—or T-REX as it is affectionately known in my home district of Denver, Colorado—is one of TEA-21's best projects. It is currently on time, on budget and already providing essential transportation services. Upon completion in 2006, T-REX will connect the region's two largest employment centers through an improved interstate highway system and additional light rail transit. These roadway and transit improvements will significantly enhance inter-regional and intra-regional transportation of people and goods.

T-REX is quite literally driving Colorado's economic engine.

I would be remiss, however, if I did not express my disappointment with the funding levels of the bill before us. I concur with the State Departments of Transportation's assessment of our nation's infrastructure needs. That is why I am a proud cosponsor of this legislation as originally introduced by the estimable Chairman DON YOUNG and Ranking Member JIM OBERSTAR.

It is unfortunate and dismaying that the President has chosen to wield the club of a veto threat on what is essentially the only jobs creation legislation before this Congress. I deeply regret the missed opportunity that the $275 billion price tag represents. We will be unable to address the donor state issue, which affects the transportation dollars Colorado receives, among other important changes we should be examining.

Having said that, I applaud the Committee on its excellent work. I appreciate their recognition of the gains embodied in TEA-21 and of the growing infrastructure needs our nation faces.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Chairman, I stand in support of H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users (TEA-LU).

In my congressional district, the rural highways that served our Nation for decades can no longer sustain the increasing numbers of cars, semis, and other vehicles that use them every day. Many of these roads cannot meet the expanding needs of the communities and growing economies that they serve. U.S. Route 30, the prime east-west truck route in my district, continues to exemplify this problem.

As the chief alternative to the Ohio Turnpike and Interstate 70, Route 30 has seen drastic increases in truck traffic over the years—more than 63 percent in the last decade alone. This has led to a tragic number of fatal accidents on the narrow two-lane segments of this road. Obviously, the need for a four-lane upgrade has never been more crucial.

Six years ago, as part of TEA-21, I was able to secure more than $11 million for the purchase of right-of-ways for the Route 30 modernization throughout my congressional district. Since then, I have been honored to join my constituents at a groundbreaking ceremony in Crestline and a ribbon-cutting ceremony near Beavertown to mark further progress on this lifesaving project, for which they have been waiting for more than four decades. Construction work continues between Upper Sandusky and Mansfield, with completion of the various upgraded segments slated for later this year. I'm grateful that TEA-LU will provide an additional $10 million in direct funding for continued Route 30 construction from State Route 235 in Hancock County to the west end of the Upper Sandusky bypass in Wyandot County, bringing much-needed relief to those who drive and live near this major highway.

I'm also pleased that the bill provides $2.3 million to continue U.S. Route 68 bypass construction efforts in Urbana. In 1958, the State of Ohio launched this project to connect Interstate 70 to U.S. Route 33 west of Columbus, purchasing significant parcels of land for the new road. Little progress has been made to date, though, hampering the ability of local officials to promote and develop the area west of the city. This bill will advance the second phase of the overall project by providing needed design and right-of-way funds.

In accord with TEA-LU's expansion of rail/highway crossing safety programs, I am grateful to the Committee for including important rail grade separation projects in the reauthorization. In the city of Lima, the construction of new grade separations will alleviate the potential dangers that arise when stopped trains cut off an entire sector of the populace from emergency services. A similar project in Urbana will allow for the rehabilitation of the rail bridge over U.S. Route 36.

Mr. Chairman, I applaud the stalwart leadership and commitment of Chairmen DON YOUNG and TOM PETRI in setting a course toward meeting our nation's growing transportation needs. I also salute the continuing hard work of STEVE LATOURETTE and BOB NEY in securing the best possible rate of return for Ohio and other donor states to the Highway Trust Fund. As we move to conference, their efforts in support of highway funding equity and fixing the ethanol tax penalty will help our state to complete Route 30, Route 68, and many vital infrastructure projects that have been on the shelf for years due to lack of funding. I look forward to working with them and with our outstanding senators, MIKE DEWINE and GEORGE VOINOVICH, to ensure that our state and nation have the best and most modern transportation systems in the world.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Chairman, I reluctantly oppose this bill. I do so for two reasons. I believe that the bill spends too much money, and it contains too much pork. Many highway projects are good uses of the public's money, but many are not. I think this bill has too many of the latter. We are never going to balance the budget if we do not rein in wasteful spending, and today is a good place to start.

Second, I do not believe that the jurisdictional concerns of the Committee on the Judiciary have been fully addressed. Numerous provisions of the bill fall within our jurisdiction. We requested a sequential referral of the bill, which we received, but it did not provide sufficient time for a markup. I appreciate the many conflicting pressures that leadership faces, and I do not criticize them for that decision.

We have also worked with the Transportation Committee to try to resolve our concerns, but we have not yet been successful in fully doing so. For example, only yesterday I have learned of a provision tucked away in the bill that I understand would extinguish a particular pending federal False Claims Act lawsuit brought by the Department of Justice. I am very concerned about the ramifications of this kind of legislation. I will certainly be seeking conferees as to that provision and seeking its removal from the bill.

Among my other concerns is that the bill as currently drafted would give the Secretary of Transportation some independent litigating authority with respect to certain hazardous materials actions. It is the longstanding position of the both the Department of Justice and the Committee on the Judiciary that litigation authority for the federal government should remain unified in the Department of Justice. We cannot yield on that point. Chairman YOUNG has partially resolved that problem in the manager's amendment, and I look forward to continuing to work with him to fully resolve that issue.

I also appreciate his willingness to include language I requested to clarify that Congress has the right to alter, amend, or repeal certain interstate compacts that are authorized in the bill.

I remain concerned about a new grant program included in the bill that deals with racial profiling. I am hopeful that we will be able to work together in conference to improve that provision.

There is also new material in the manager's amendment that falls within our jurisdiction which we have not yet had time to thoroughly study, so we will be looking at those sections.

Finally, I will request that Members of the Judiciary Committee be appointed as conferees on all sections of the bill that fall within our jurisdiction, and I will continue to work cooperatively as we go forward to work out these concerns.

But, for the reasons I have stated, I must reluctantly oppose the bill at this point.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Chairman, first let me say thank you for a job well done to Chairman YOUNG, Mr. OBERSTAR, Mr. PETRI, and Mr. LIPINSKI for their leadership on bringing this bill to the floor today.

Without their leadership and persistence we would not have a bill to even consider today.

Despite a threat of a veto and suggestions that we should have a scaled down bill that would not even provide enough funding to the states to do general operations and maintenance of their transportation systems and other suggestions that we should have a 2-year bill, we are here today to consider a good, six-year bill.

While I would have preferred the original bipartisan bill that the committee supported at the $375 billion funding level over 6 years, I support the bill before us today in hopes that we can make the bill even better in conference.

The bill before us provides $275 billion over 6 years and maintains roughly an 80/20 split in hwy and transit funding.

Also, I am pleased that we have a section in the bill for mega projects—projects that are very important to our nation's transportation system that otherwise could not be funded out of the normal state funding formula.

Finally, it is important that we pass this bill out of the House and conference quickly. When we invest a billion dollars in our infrastructure we create 47,500 new jobs and $6.2 billion in economic activity. This bill will help our economy at a time when our economy needs it most—we must act now so that we can put people to work during this construction season.

Mr. Chairman, I again salute and thank Chairman YOUNG, Mr. OBERSTAR, Mr. PETRI, and Mr. LIPINSKI for their leadership and hard work.

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Chairman, vicarious liability laws in 3 states (NY, ME, CT and DC) impose unlimited liability on car and truck renting and leasing companies for injury and property damage solely because they own the vehicles. Eight other states have some limited form of vicarious liability. Vicarious liability is "liability without fault" in that these companies have no involvement in or ability to prevent the accident. They cost consumers an average of $100 million annually. Companies nationwide are affected, not just in the few vicarious states, because the laws apply based on where the accident occurs, not where the car or truck is owned or registered. As a result, a car registered and rented in a non-vicarious state that gets into an accident in a vicarious state is subject to that state's vicarious laws. Companies have no way to protect themselves against these laws.

I propose adding to H.R. 3550 (TEA LU) a provision to eliminate vicarious liability nationwide. Under this provision, only a company that is at fault or negligent in an accident could be held liable for damages. T&I Chairman YOUNG, Highways Subcommittee Chairman PETRI, and Highways Subcommittee Ranking Member LIPINSKI all support this provision; Ranking Member OBERSTAR is non-committal at this point.

The amendment eliminates liability under state law for an owner of a motor vehicle who is engaged in the business of renting and leasing motor vehicles provided there is no negligence or criminal wrongdoing on the part of the motor vehicle owner; the owner must maintain the required state limits of financial responsibility for each vehicle in accordance to the state where the vehicle is registered; elimination of vicarious liability commences on the date of enactment; and defines "motor vehicle" and "owner."

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Chairman, this Member rises in strong support of H.R. 3550, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users.

This Member would like to begin by thanking the distinguished gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the Chairman of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, and the distinguished gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) for their extraordinary efforts in bringing this bill to the Floor. This Member would also like to express sincere appreciation to the distinguished gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the distinguished gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI) for their hard work on this important legislation, which is designed to enhance our nation's highways, bridges, and transit, while improving safety and creating jobs.

Clearly, a higher level than the nation currently spends on our highways and bridges is justified. Due to the dramatic deterioration of our nation's transportation infrastructure and the substantial growth of our population with attendant travel, our country must make a significant investment in our roads, bridges, and transit systems.

This Member believes that it is important to recognize that transportation funding must be based on needs. It is clearly necessary to address the very real and pressing transportation requirements of this nation. Substandard roads contribute to increased congestion and greater danger for motorists. Better roads improve safety and efficiency.

It is important for the new surface transportation bill to not only maintain our current infrastructure of highways and bridges, but to improve it. Last year, the Federal Highway Administration released its 2002 version of the Conditions and Performance Report on the Status of the Nation's Highways, Bridges, and Transit. According to this document, the previous Highway Bill—TEA 21—has had a positive effect on improving road conditions generally. The report also noted that states and local governments have also increased their investment in transportation projects. Despite these improvements, the performance report stated, "There is significant room for increases in highway capital investment that would result in positive net benefits to the American people, in terms of reductions in travel time, vehicle operating costs, crashes, emissions, and highway agency costs."

Improving our transportation system is good for the economy and it benefits each American. In fact, accelerating the funding for transportation infrastructure is in itself one of the best economic stimulus actions.

This Member would like to take this opportunity to mention several issues of importance to Nebraska and the First Congressional District.

First, this Member is very pleased that TEA-LU authorizes funding to address the problem of railroad-highway crossings and the elimination of road hazards. This issue—which was the focus of the field hearing in Lincoln, Nebraska, last year—affects many states, but the problem is especially acute in Nebraska, which has 4,000 public and 2,700 private rail grade crossings.

Nebraska has the highest number of rail/highway grade crossings per mile in the U.S. and has the most heavily used rail corridor in the nation. Nebraska is taking action to ensure that the safety issues surrounding the rail crossings are addressed. However, the state clearly lacks the financial resources to finance the hugely expensive program to reduce the safety risk associated with the more important of these crossings.

Nebraska is served by both the Union Pacific and the Burlington Northern Santa Fe railroads. Combined, these railroads account for 70 to 140 trains per day using their two main lines across the whole west-east distance of Nebraska. The railroads continue to play an important economic role in the state, but additional, dramatically increased efforts must be made to improve the rail crossing issue.

According to Nebraska Governor Mike Johanns, a state rail study found that public crossings are blocked by moving trains over 2,300 hours a day and that even in a low population state like Nebraska, its drivers spend an estimated 6,350 hours a day waiting for trains to pass. This problem will not go away on its own. In fact, the average coal train length has also grown from 110 cars to 135 cars, while the number of trains has doubled in the past 20 years.

Governor Johanns has further noted that the State of Nebraska currently receives about $4.7 million of Federal and $3.3 million of state rail safety funds per year. However, the needs are much greater. The state's total rail/highway safety funding needs are more than $420 million which would cover just 85 possible rail/highway grade separations from a much larger total.

This Member would also like to emphasize support for including in the final surface transportation bill the provisions from two bills he has introduced in the 108th Congress.

This Member believes that it is important that the final version of the surface transportation legislation ensures that agricultural transporters would continue to be exempt from hours of service requirements when operating within a 100 mile radius of their point of origin during planting and harvesting season. This is a matter of great importance to the transporters of agricultural commodities and supplies as well as to consumers. Although the 1995 National Highway System Designation Act included my proposal which led to a rule creating the exemption, this relief has been threatened by proposed hours or services rule changes. This provision, based on a bill this Member introduced last year—H.R. 871—is needed to safeguard this necessary exemption and provide a clearer definition of "agriculture commodities." The bill has been endorsed by the Agricultural Retailers Association and the Agricultural Transporters Conference of the American Trucking Associations.

This Member also supports inclusion in the final version of the legislation a provision based on the "Safer Roads Everywhere Act" introduced by this Member last year. This proposal—H.R. 1226—is designed to enhance global traffic safety and would benefit Americans who are traveling or living abroad. The legislation also is designed to provide the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) with the authority it needs to conduct activities to improve worldwide traffic safety. Furthermore, it would provide the Department of Transportation with opportunities to gain knowledge about international traffic safety practices and programs which could be incorporated in the U.S. The bill is supported by the Association for Safe International Road Travel, the Advocates for Highway and Auto Safety, and the Institute of Transportation Engineers. My staff has worked with NHTSA and the World Health Organization in developing the legislation.

This Member is also supportive of a provision which is designed to improve public safety through improved enhanced emergency response and increased security of intermodal containers. This provision would also authorize a pilot project to demonstrate emergency communications systems that provide wideband, two-way information transfer capabilities.

This Member is pleased that H.R. 3550 includes provisions approved by the Ways and Means Committee designed to address the ethanol issue as it affects the Highway Trust Fund. Importantly, the Ways and Means Committee increased the funding available for transportation while protecting ethanol by shifting the cost of the Federal ethanol subsidy from the Highway Trust Fund to the general fund. The Committee did this by creating an equivalent tax credit in place of the ethanol tax exclusion of 5.2 cents per gallon. In addition, the Committee transfers an existing 2.5 cents per gallon ethanol tax from the general fund to the Highway Trust Fund. These actions are important not only for transportation, but also for Nebraska's agricultural community.

This Member is also very pleased that H.R. 3550 includes funding for several projects which would provide significant benefits to the 1st Congressional District, Nebraska, the region, and the nation.

NEBRASKA HIGHWAY 35—$13,000,000

The intent of the Nebraska Highway 35 project is to develop the most efficient route from Norfolk to South Sioux City. Currently, this route is comprised of several short segments of highway winding its way to the northeast. This project has significant regional and national importance. The 68-mile project will provide a more direct regional connection and greatly facilitate travel, for example, between the Twin Cities of Minnesota and Denver as well as regional north-south traffic. It is also a project of great importance to the area's local communities.

The new corridor will provide significant safety, congestion mitigation, and economic development benefits and reduce travel time. The Nebraska Department of Roads classified the Highway 35 project as a "planned expressway" in 2001.

LINCOLN SOUTH BELTWAY—$14,566,300

The South Beltway is a vital component of Lincoln, Nebraska's long-range transportation plans and will be an important solution to the highway traffic congestion in a wide swath of central Lincoln with the substantial truck traffic resulting from the newly completed State Highway 2 Expressway connection to Interstate I-29 in western Iowa.

The South Beltway is a vital component of the City's long-range transportation plans and will be an important solution to the traffic congestion that is beginning to affect this growing community. This Member has been personally interested in advancing this project, which will be beneficial to the entire region. Funding is needed to build upon past congressional support for the South Beltway.

ANTELOPE VALLEY (LINCOLN)—$4,000,000

The Antelope Valley project is a comprehensive plan to protect and enhance highways and flood control in downtown Lincoln that has emerged from a partnership between the City of Lincoln, the State of Nebraska, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UN-L), the Lower Platte South Natural Resources District and the Army Corps of Engineers. The project involves transportation, flood control, and community revitalization, many portions of which must be developed concurrently for maximum efficiency. For Phase I of the transportation component of the Antelope Valley Project, funding is needed for a new north-south roadway and a new east-west roadway within the redevelopment corridor. Between $7-8 million in Federal highway funding has already been devoted to this large-scale project.

FREMONT RAILROAD GRADE SEPARATION—$1,807,300

Funding is needed to create a grade separation structure across a railroad corridor in the western part of the City of Fremont. This location is at the top of the Nebraska Department of Roads' list of grade separation needs across the state. The project will create significant safety and economic benefits.

LOUISVILLE BYPASS—$1,626,400

This project, which has the support of the Louisville mayor and city council as well as the Cass County Commissioners, to implement a Nebraska Department of Roads study, would relieve severe truck/traffic problems on Nebraska Highway 66 in the community and thus provide significant safety and economic development benefits for the area. This state highway is becoming more frequently used as a short-cut between I-29 and I-80 and that trend will accelerate when the two new Missouri River bridges in Sarpy and Cass counties are put in place.

U.S. 34 IOWA/NEBRASKA MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGES—$12,000,000

The distinguished gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY) and the distinguished gentleman from Iowa (Mr. KING), whose districts are also part of the site for the two-bridge, bi-state project across the Missouri River in Cass and Sarpy counties for access to I-29 support its construction as does this Member. The total funding represents the separate but complementary requests of the distinguished gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY), the distinguished gentleman from Iowa (Mr. KING), and this Member. This important project is urgently needed to replace two obsolete and deteriorating bridges crossing the Missouri River. The construction of these replacement bridges will result in increased safety and improved economic development in the area.

The agreement leading to this request for funding was the result of intensive discussions and thus it continues to represent the consensus of city, county and state officials as well as the affected Members of Congress. We believe it is the best approach for Nebraska, Iowa and the entire region.

PFLUG ROAD & I-80 INTERCHANGE—$3,000,000

A future interchange at Pflug Road would provide a major catalyst for the development of southern Sarpy County. The existing Pflug Road bridge over I-80 will be removed as a part of the I-80 widening project between Omaha and Lincoln. In order to accommodate the interchange, the new Pflug Road bridge will be constructed approximately 1/4 mile to the south of the existing location. Currently, the nearest interchange south of Pflug Road is Nebraska Highway 66, which is about five miles southwest, while the closest interchange north of Pflug Road is Nebraska Highway 31, about two miles northeast. This Member is pleased to join the distinguished gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY) in supporting this project. The total funding represents the separate but complementary requests of the distinguished gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY) and this Member.

CORDOVA ROAD—$1,500,000

This project would involve paving 5.5 miles of road north of Cordova to I-80. Paving this road would provide an important long-missing transportation link in Seward County, Nebraska, (and for areas south of the county) which currently lacks the funds to complete the project. It would also provide economic development benefits in the area.

NEBRASKA STATEWIDE RURAL TRANSIT NEEDS ASSESSMENT—$300,000

This project is needed to assess capital and operating financial needs of rural transportation in Nebraska.

This Member would also like to express strong support for designating the University of Nebraska—Lincoln as a participant in the University Transportation Center (UTC) program. The UTC provisions in H.R. 3550 currently provide for a competitive selection process among the universities. However, if this process is revised and universities are designated in the final version of the legislation, this Member strongly urges that the University of Nebraska—Lincoln be included.

UN-L is uniquely qualified to be included in the UTC program. UN-L has already developed a strong area of expertise in the area of transportation safety research; therefore, this Member believes that it would be an excellent addition to the UTC program.

In recent weeks it has come to this Member's attention that an important project—Antelope Valley in Lincoln—may require clarifying language to help ensure that work may continue in a timely manner. This Member urges the final version of the legislation to include the following provision or something similar:

(A) ANTELOPE VALLEY PROJECT.—The Secretary shall enter into an agreement with the Corps of Engineers to allow for the Federal flood control funds to be matched with Federal surface transportation funds as the non-Federal match. The Antelope Valley Project in Lincoln, NE, has successfully demonstrated the cost savings that can be derived from a coordinated effort between federal, state, and local agencies to study, plan, and construct a major infrastructure project that will mitigate flooding and transportation congestion while revitalizing the heart of downtown.

This Member strongly supports H.R. 3550 and urges his colleagues to vote for it.

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this legislation. Few responsibilities of the Federal government touch the lives of American families like funding for our Nation's highways. Whether you are a business owner moving product or a parent getting the kids to school before going to work in the morning, we all recognize the importance of well-designed and maintained roadways.

And with almost 9 million Americans out of work and 47,500 jobs created for every billion dollars put toward federal highway and transit spending, we recognize that investing in our highways is an investment in our Nation's future, in our families and in our quality of life.

While all of our States have transportation needs, by no means are they equal. At the same time I-95 truck traffic is expected to double in 10 to 15 years, the Northeast has one of the oldest highway and transit infrastructure systems, as well as some of the oldest and most heavily used bridges in the United States. Last week's fuel tanker crash on I-95 in Bridgeport only highlighted these shortcomings, pointing to Connecticut's dire need for a viable alternative to our congested highways.

I believe most members of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee would agree we should provide at least as much funding nationally as the other body has.

I remain concerned about ongoing attempts to raise the minimum guarantee rate in this bill to 95 percent. Raising the minimum guarantee not only destroys the concept of needs-based aid, it does so at a time when assistance is most urgently needed.

Mr. Chairman, as this legislation moves to conference, it is critical that we remain committed to providing funding to the States that require improvements the most. That is how this body can serve the Nation best, and that is what this bill should aspire to.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to quote the words of President Dwight Eisenhower, the father of our Highway Trust Fund, who rightly said "A network of modern roads is as necessary to defense as it is to our national economy and personal safety." President Eisenhower's words ring as true now as they did then.

Traditionally, the Transportation bill has been free from partisan differences. We have an old saying on the Transportation Committee, "There are no Republican bridges, no Democratic bridges, just America's bridges."

Unfortunately, Mr. Chairman, this year, the bill has fallen victim to political differences—within the divided Republican Party. Even though we've had enough support to pass the bill since last year, the divided Republican Party has held up passage of this bill for months. The President opposes Congressional Republicans from both the House and the Senate. House Republicans are divided against each other. The President has even gone against his own Department of Transportation.

House Republicans go along with the President on tax cuts, a Medicare bill with an uncertain price tag, and funding infrastructure in Iraq. And, then he publicly belittles their transportation spending efforts by calling the highway bill an "entitlement."

The division within the Republican Party also extends to their traditional allies in the business community. The President opposes the bill because he claims it spends too much. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce says it might oppose the bill because it doesn't spend enough.

I hope that when we get to conference with the Senate, we increase the level of funding—as the majority of Members from both parties want. When we get to conference we also need to maintain several key protections that are in this bill.

To ensure that adequate funding is available across our National network, this bill guarantees each State a minimum rate of return equaling 90.5 percent of each dollar invested in the Highway Trust Fund. Each State is also guaranteed a minimum apportionment in funds.

But now, some States want to turn back the clock to some sort of Articles of Confederation, and keep the gas tax money for themselves. Doing so would rip apart the very fabric that binds our Nation together: our surface transportation system.

Many of those same States also want to alter the proposed scope of the minimum guarantee program, which will penalize States whose needs are regional, or even national, in scope. An error in the Fiscal Year 2004 Appropriations is already costing my State $20 million in badly needed highway funds. Altering the proposed scope of the Minimum Guarantee program, now, would only worsen this situation.

I supported H.R. 3550 months ago, with its equitable minimum guarantee program. I don't support making dramatic changes in the bill, now, after supporting the underlying bill for months.

It is important to bear in mind what President Eisenhower understood: that our transportation system is an integrated, coordinated, national network. It seamlessly crosses State borders regardless of the differences within those States, as the business community clearly understands. To be truly national, it must address measurable needs nationwide—taking into account the greater difficulty some States have at roadbuilding, or the greater needs some States have for transit.

Mr. Chairman, I come from West Virginia—one of the most difficult States for constructing highways. Transportation in—and through—my State is critical not just to West Virginians, but also to trucks, tourists, and commuters from other States.

And, if you cut equitable funding for highways this time, what will prevent cuts next time to the mass transit funding that States such as Illinois, New Jersey and California depend upon?

Just like other national programs where West Virginians' tax dollars go to help other States—such as the location of defense bases, or the Farm program—some contribute more than they get back.

That is appropriate. You can't drive across Mickey Mouse roads when you're traveling crosscountry to see Mickey, himself.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of H.R. 3550, the Transportation Act—A Legacy for Users (TEA-LU). I am pleased that my good friends Chairman DON YOUNG and Ranking Member JIM OBERSTAR of the House Transportation Committee have agreed to increase transportation funding for the Territories.

Congresswoman MADELEINE BORDALLO, Congresswoman DONNA CHRISTENSEN and I have worked on this issue for the past year and Congressman NICK RAHALL, ranking member of the House Resources Committee, has supported our efforts.

As a result of our work, the Territorial Highway Program (which includes American Samoa, Guam, the U.S. Virgin Islands and CNMI) will be increased from $33 million to $40 million for FY04, FY05 and FY06. For FY07, FY08 and FY09, funding will increase to $50 million. Despite the Transportation Act (now known as TEA-LU) being $100 billion less than what was originally proposed, the Territorial set aside will increase by 23.6 percent.

Moreover, I have worked closely with Chairman YOUNG and Ranking Member OBERSTAR to include $14 million for high priority projects in American Samoa. This funding is in addition to American Samoa's annual Federal highway funds and will be used for village road improvements, drainage mitigation, shoreline protection and upgrades and repairs of the Ta'u ferry terminal facility.

In consultation with the Honorable Togiola Tulafono, Governor of American Samoa, I have asked the Committee to set aside $9.4 million for village road improvements in the Eastern, Western, Central and Manu'a districts of American Samoa.

In further consultation with Senator Tuaolo Fruean and High Paramount Chief Mauga and members of the Pago Pago council of chiefs, we have also set aside $1 million for drainage mitigation for Pago Pago village roads.

In consultation with Senator Tago Suilefaiga, Representative Fagasoia Lealaitafea and Representative Mary Taufete'e and members of the Nuuli council of chiefs, we have set aside $1 million for shoreline protection and drainage mitigation for Nuuli village roads.

In consultation with Senator Faamausili Pola and members of the Ta'u village council of chiefs, we have set aside $1.6 million to upgrade and repair the Ta'u harbor facility.

Finally, in consultation with Senator Faivae Galea'i, Senator Lualemaga Faoa and members of the Leone and Malaeloa councils of chiefs, we have set aside $1 million for drainage mitigation for Malaeloa-Leone village roads.

Again, I thank my colleagues, both Democrat and Republican, and I also thank the local leaders of American Samoa, including Governor Togiola, for working closely with me to make sure that American Samoa's needs are addressed in this historic and important initiative.

I urge passage of this bill and I again commend Chairman YOUNG and Ranking Member OBERSTAR for their leadership and support.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Pursuant to the order of the House of Tuesday, March 30, 2004, all time for initial general debate has expired, and under that order, the Committee rises.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. PETRI) having assumed the chair, Mr. LAHOOD, Chairman pro tempore of the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, reported that that Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 3550) to authorize funds for Federal-aid highways, highway safety programs, and transit programs, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

PROVIDING FOR FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 3550, TRANSPORTATION EQUITY ACT: A LEGACY FOR USERS

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 593 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 593

Resolved, That at any time after the adoption of this resolution the Speaker may, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for further consideration of the bill (H.R. 3550) to authorize funds for Federal-aid highways, highway safety programs, and transit programs, and for other purposes. No further general debate (except for the final period contemplated in the order of the House of March 30, 2004) shall be in order. The amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure now printed in the bill, modified by the amendments printed in part A of the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution, shall be considered as adopted in the House and in the Committee of the Whole. The bill, as amended, shall be considered as the original bill for the purpose of further amendment under the five-minute rule and shall be considered as read. All points of order against provisions in the bill, as amended, are waived. No further amendment shall be in order except those printed in part B of the report of the Committee on Rules. Each further amendment may be offered only in the order printed in the report, may be offered only by a Member designated in the report, shall be considered as read, shall be debatable for the time specified in the report equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent, and shall not be subject to amendment or demand for division of the question. All points of order against such further amendments are waived. At the conclusion of consideration of the bill, as amended, the Committee shall rise and report the bill, as amended, to the House with such further amendments as may have been adopted. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill and amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

SEC. 2. The amendment considered as adopted under the first section of this resolution shall be considered an amendment offered under section 411 of House Concurrent Resolution 95.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). The gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER) is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of both the rule we are considering now as well as the underlying legislation. Before I get into the legislation itself, I would like to briefly speak about the rule. Mr. Speaker, this is a very fair and balanced rule. The Committee on Rules received a total of 59 amendments for our consideration, and this rule makes in order 23 of those 59 amendments that were submitted to us. It includes 14 amendments offered by Republicans, eight amendments offered by Democrats, and one bipartisan amendment. The rule also makes in order a very bipartisan manager's amendment, which addresses a significant number of concerns that have been raised by many Members.

The rule also includes an important provision from the Committee on Ways and Means to ensure fiscal solvency of the Highway Trust Fund, as well as a provision relating to the mass transit guarantee.

Mr. Speaker, this provision is necessary to ensure that current flexibilities and authorities of Congress to set appropriate annual spending levels for basic salaries and administrative expenses for the Federal Transit Administration are maintained.

Under current law, the Committee on Appropriations can adjust spending in this account so long as those savings are rolled into other mass transit programs and the full transit guarantees are preserved. The underlying bill, as reported by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, restricted the ability of the Committee on Appropriations to adjust spending on an account-by-account basis. The amendment to the bill included in this rule simply provides guidance in interpreting existing rules of the House to ensure that the status quo is maintained. This is not intended to provide any new authority whatsoever.

Mr. Speaker, I want to note that I will continue to work with the committees to perfect language to ensure that the provisions achieve the intended purpose. Legislating House rules in this manner is not my preferred way to proceed.

Regrettably, however, when TEA 21 was enacted, changes to the House rules were legislated within the authorizing statute and were not implemented through the regular order of the House.

Instead, they were and are continuing to be legislated by a committee that does not have any jurisdiction over this matter.

I want to make it very clear, Mr. Speaker, that the Committee on Rules has and will retain its jurisdiction over the rules of the House. As part of our review of budget enforcement procedures, this and other budgetary enforcement mechanisms will be further scrutinized. It is my hope that the affected committees will continue to work with the Committee on Rules to ensure that all changes to the rules of the House are thoughtful and reasoned. But, Mr. Speaker, despite my reservations over some portions of the legislation, I want to reiterate my strong support for the underlying legislation.

Mr. Speaker, the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy For Users, reauthorizes our Nation's surface transportation programs for the next 6 years. The very core of this bill is safety and congestion relief.

Investing in transportation infrastructure has fundamental impacts on our quality of life, our Nation's economic growth and, as was just said by the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, our competitiveness in the world. Our highways, transit systems, pipelines, airports, harbors and waterways serve as the backbone of our economy by moving people and goods, employing millions of workers, and generating a significant share of total economic output.

Transportation-related goods and services generate 10 percent of our total gross domestic product. In making our infrastructure backbone stronger, TEA LU provides safety improvements that will save lives. Many of the more than 42,000 highway fatalities each year can be prevented by building better roads and improving the safety features of existing roads. Commercial motor vehicles are involved in 12 percent of all crashes resulting in a fatality. Carriers transporting extremely hazardous materials must ensure that sufficient safety and security measures are in place to accomplish that transportation without loss of life, injury or property damage.

Improvements in safety include the movement of freight from ship to shore, which must be conducted in a safe, efficient, secure manner in order to improve air quality and decrease congestion.

Congestion relief is imperative. American families do not need books of statistics to know that traffic congestion has increased. We all know that rush hour starts earlier in the day and ends later at night, creating more travel time than ever before. Congestion also negatively impacts our environment by increasing emissions and wasting fuel. Vehicles in stop-and-go traffic not only emit more pollutants than they do when operating without frequent breaking and acceleration, but obviously they decrease fuel efficiency as well.

In my home State of California, improving safety while reducing congestion has never been more critical. As California is considered the Gateway to the Pacific Rim, 40 percent of the Nation's goods are imported through the ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach. The infrastructure supporting the movement of goods from ship to shore through Los Angeles and Long Beach will distribute an estimated $314 billion worth of trade by the year 2020.

Facilitating growth in trade is directly connected to the overall economic vitality of the entire Nation. Ninety-five percent of U.S. international cargo by volume is transported by ocean. According to the United States Trade Representative's Office, nearly 20 percent of all U.S. jobs are directly associated with international trade.

In the Southern California region alone, improvements to our infrastructure will reduce a projected 300 percent increase by 2020 in auto-truck traffic delays in points where freight moving on railroads impedes vehicle and pedestrian traffic. This is just one example of how TEA LU strengthens our transportation infrastructure into the next decade.

During this debate, you will hear the challenges we must still address in improving our surface transportation programs. Nobody can deny that the need is great and our resources are limited.

In addition, I look forward toward working that States receive their fair share. However, our critical task here is to ensure the safety of American families and to move people and goods throughout this country faster and more efficiently. This bill accomplishes that goal.

I would like to congratulate the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG), the gentleman from Wisconsin (Chairman PETRI), the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. LIPINSKI) on their leadership in crafting this important legislation.

To that end, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this rule and the underlying bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. FROST asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, throughout my 25 years of service in this House, I have always worked hard to ensure a bright economic future and a good quality of life for the people I represent. That is why I have consistently made transportation priorities of North Texas my own priorities here in Congress. I have always supported the Federal highway and transit bills that have come before the House, because I knew they would directly benefit the people of my area.

In 1998, for example, I voted in favor of TEA 21, the last transportation reauthorization bill passed by Congress. That bill widened a major thoroughfare in North Texas, Interstate 30, from six to eight and ten lanes, easing congestion in Dallas-Fort Worth and the surrounding areas.

TEA 21 also included important funding to expand DART, the Dallas Area Rapid Transit System. As one of DART's original supporters, I knew that by reducing motor vehicle traffic on our already-overcrowded roads, the system would significantly reduce air pollution and ease the commute of thousands of Dallas residents. An important byproduct of both these projects were the many, many good jobs created for our community.

So for me it has always been an easy decision to vote for the transportation bills in this House, and that is why today I am proud to rise in strong support of this year's transportation authorization bill, TEA LU.

TEA LU will be one of the most important bills we pass in Congress this year, and the reason is simple: Transportation projects stimulate economic activity in our home communities. Quite simply, this bill is good for our Nation's economy. In fact, the Federal Highway Administration reports that for every $1 billion in Federal funds invested in highway infrastructure, it creates 47,500 new jobs and $6.2 billion in economic activity.

So whenever Congress passes its transportation reauthorization bill, we do not simply reduce congestion and air pollution, we create jobs, good jobs that cannot be shipped overseas, and we create huge opportunities for our constituents by bringing the government, the private sector and the general public together to help grow the economy so that those good jobs stay here at home in our own communities.

There is no doubt that for far too many Americans, the U.S. economy is in bad shape. Over 8 million people are currently unemployed, the average length of unemployment has risen to 20.3 weeks, the longest duration since 1984, and no new private sector jobs were created last month. So, as you can see, Mr. Speaker, it is especially critical that we pass the transportation bill today.

The bill before us today continues to provide benefits for North Texas. It is my understanding that the bill contains $35 million in funding that I requested from the committee to replace Interstate 30 and Interstate 35 Trinity River bridges in Dallas and for the improvements to I-635 in Dallas. The bill also authorizes four new rail lines to expand DART in Dallas, including construction of a Northwest/Southeast extension that will add 60,000 daily riders to the rail system.

So, by passing TEA LU, we will not only be reducing air pollution and easing congestion throughout the metropolitan area, we will be creating new jobs and a brighter economic future for North Texas.

Mr. Speaker, highway and transportation funding must never be subject to partisan politics. There is too much at stake for the American people, and there is too much at stake for the economy. I know that my colleagues all want the same thing for their constituents as I want for mine: clean air, better roads and good jobs. The bill before us today can set us on that path. I hope that today Members will set aside politics as usual and vote to pass TEA LU for the good of our communities and our entire Nation.

Mr. Speaker, I urge a yeay vote on the rule and on the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I am very happy to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Atlanta, Georgia (Mr. LINDER), the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules' Subcommittee on Technology.

Mr. LINDER. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from California, the chairman of the Committee on Rules, for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of House Resolution 593 and urge the House to approve this rule so we can move on to consideration of the underlying legislation, H.R. 3550, the highway funding bill.

As the gentleman from California (Chairman DREIER) described, this is a fair, structured rule that makes in order a total of 23 amendments, 14 Republican and 8 Democrat, and one very important bipartisan amendment. Thus, the Committee on Rules has crafted a rule that will allow the House to have a lively debate and work its will on a number of key issues that these amendments raise. H. Res. 593 should receive bipartisan support for doing so.

With respect to H.R. 3550, this legislation reauthorizes our Nation's highway and transit programs for the next 6 years and covers a variety of important transportation needs. While I am pleased that the House is moving forward with its consideration of the highway bill, there is one outstanding issue that concerns me, the issue of minimum guaranteed funding.

Georgia has, unfortunately, been a highway funding donor State for far too long. The two previous highway bills in 1991 and 1998 made good progress toward improving donor States' rates of return, but more still needs to be done in order to treat Georgia and other donor States more fairly.

In the 1998 Transportation Equity Act For the 21st Century, TEA 21, I worked hard, along with other key members of the Georgia delegation, to achieve the present rate of return of 90.5 percent. With these efforts, Georgia was able to raise its average rate of return from 76 percent to approximately 86 percent of their share of contributions over the 6-year life of the bill.

Unfortunately, H.R. 3550 in its current form is not a step forward toward the current goal of 95 percent. It does not even maintain the current level of minimum guaranteed funding provided under TEA 21. Although H.R. 3550 maintains the TEA 21 rate of return of 90.5 percent, the bill would mandate that only 84 percent is available for minimum guaranteed funding, unlike TEA 21, which sets aside approximately 93 percent of the Highway Trust Fund for minimum guaranteed needs.

As such, the issue of minimum guaranteed funding under H.R. 3550 must be addressed more satisfactorily. In this respect, I am very pleased that the rule we crafted in the Committee on Rules will provide Members the opportunity to consider amendments offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. ISAKSON) and the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BURNS) and others which is designed to address this very concern.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good rule. It provides all Members the opportunity to debate a wide variety of transportation related issues facing our Nation. I urge my colleagues to support the rule, so we may proceed to debate the underlying legislation.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN).

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, while the Committee on Rules this morning reported out of committee an unnecessarily restrictive rule, and, as a result I will not support the rule, I do want to commend the chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), and the ranking member, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), as well as the subcommittee chair, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI), and the ranking member, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. LIPINSKI), for all their hard, bipartisan work on this highway reauthorization bill. They recognized the importance of adequately meeting our Nation's transportation needs and of creating good-paying jobs for the American people at a time when we desperately need new jobs.

I only wish that the leadership of this House and the White House would follow their lead and the lead of the entire membership of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure. There are lots of good things in this bill, but I continue to believe that the overall funding level is not enough to meet our needs.

In States all across this country, including Massachusetts, roads and bridges are crumbling under the burden of age and heavy use. Adequate infrastructure is essential for economic development. We can do better, and I am hopeful that in the very near future we will have the opportunity to return to transportation policy to finish the work that this bill begins. I was glad to hear the distinguished Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure Chair say that he would be back fighting for more money, and I will certainly stand with him in that effort.

Mr. Speaker, I am also concerned about efforts by some Members to decrease highway safety and quality by increasing truck size and truck weight. This rule makes in order two amendments that are particularly troublesome.

The first, offered by my colleague, the gentleman from New Hampshire (Mr. BRADLEY), would create an exemption from existing Federal truck size and weight limits for certain roads in his home State. The exemption for New Hampshire would damage the highway infrastructure, especially bridges, and cost taxpayers a great deal of money.

The U.S. Department of Transportation calculated that if the exemptions the Bradley amendment would create were applied nationwide, it would result in additional bridge costs to taxpayers of $329 billion.

Further, heavier trucks are more dangerous. As truck weights increase, fatal accident rates will go up, according to the University of Michigan Transportation Research Institute. In fact, the Institute says, "Gross combination weight is the only vehicle characteristic showing a clear association with the overall fatal accident rate."

I also urge my colleagues to oppose the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. CHOCOLA). This amendment would allow truck operators who use "idle reduction technology" to operate at 400 pounds above the Federal legal weight limits.

Although this seems to be only a minor increase in weight, it would actually cost Americans hundreds of millions of tax dollars each year because of the increased pavement damage this additional weight would cause.

According to the EPA, there is an inexpensive alternative to the idle reduction technology proposed in this amendment that would still reduce emissions and save fuel without adding additional weight. The alternative is stand-alone truck stop electrification systems, which are permanent structures located at various truck stops that have HVAC systems attached. The driver purchases a one-time $10 adapter and pays an hourly rate to use the system.

The Chocla amendment also runs counter to the recent agreement between the American Trucking Association, and the Association of American Railroads that calls for no national truck weight increases in the transportation reauthorization bill. While a 400-pound weight increase may seem innocuous, it is not as simple as it seems, and it is best left out of this highway reauthorization bill.

Proposals to increase truck sizes and weights have been opposed by a broad range of national organizations because of their negative impact on the highway infrastructure and their danger to other motorists. Organizations opposing bigger trucks include the American Automobile Association, the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians, the National Association of Police Organizations, and the National Troopers Coalition.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to my friend, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN); and when he has completed his statement, if he would yield to me for 1 comment, I would appreciate it.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman's courtesy.

The National Troopers Coalition, the Society of Trauma Nurses, these groups know firsthand the danger caused by bigger and heavier trucks on our roadways.

So I urge my colleagues to oppose both the Bradley and the Chocla amendments.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I commend the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and the gentleman from Minnesota (Ranking Member OBERSTAR) and all of the members of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure for their hard work.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MCGOVERN. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I did not want to interrupt my colleague when he was going through his prepared statement, but I did want to clarify one issue that the gentleman raised.

He said in his opening that this was an unusually restrictive rule, and I would just like to state for the Record that when the ISTEA legislation was considered, there were a total of 12 amendments made in order. That was in the 102nd Congress when the Democrats were in charge. When TEA 21 was considered, there were a total of six amendments made in order, Mr. Speaker; and then in this legislation we have provided for consideration of a total of 23 amendments.

So that is why I asked the gentleman to yield.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN).

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I think what I said was this was an unnecessarily restrictive rule, and what I meant to say is that, as usual, this is a restrictive rule that we have come to expect of the Committee on Rules.

There were a number of good amendments that were not made in order, and I think that, as a result, I will oppose the rule.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MCGOVERN. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, all I was saying is that if you go and look at the pattern of consideration of transportation measures, when the gentleman's party was in control, half the number of amendments were made in order.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I would simply say that there were a lot of good amendments dealing with truck sizes and truck weights but also dealing with issues like outsourcing that the Committee on Rules chose not to make in order, which I think is unfortunate.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to make a few presentations about TEA LU. Living in a rural area, it is obvious to me that as we see infrastructure and dollars that are being spent on roads, it is the fertilizer that drives economic development for many of the areas, especially rural areas throughout this country. I applaud this House in their effort to pass legislation that will provide funding for infrastructure that will eventually provide economic development for this Nation.

There are many who look at this bill and say, look at the jobs that will be created as we start building infrastructure. Well, it is more than just the jobs that will be provided as we build the infrastructure. It will be the jobs 50 years from now that my grandchildren or my unborn great grandchildren will have an opportunity for a job as well. Because, as I have observed, the interstate systems in Tennessee and throughout this Nation, as we build a system that provides transportation from coast to coast and border to border, we have seen economic development unsurpassed by any other country as a result of those dollars spent.

Now, as we look at this particular bill, certainly $275 billion sounds like a lot of money for 6 years. Unfortunately, I believe, and I think most of the folks that I represent believe, that that is too short, that it does not go far enough. As a result of that, I, along with three other Members of the House, introduced an amendment that would enhance the dollars to at least the amount that the Senate approved, being $318 billion.

Some folks say, well, we can spend the money some other place. But there are no sections of our economy that produces the jobs at the same rate for the same dollars spent as infrastructure and development on our road systems and infrastructure of this country. As a result of that, I think that enhancing the dollars, increasing the amount, is a wise thing for those of us in Congress to do.

Because, Mr. Speaker, as we build infrastructure we provide the tools that will drive the economic engines of the future generations for now or decades from now. What we are doing, unfortunately, what we are doing today is not passing on an engine or the fertilizer for economic development; and, unfortunately, what my grandchildren will be receiving is huge debts, a $500 billion deficit in trade and a $500 billion deficit in our budget. At least this way, this Congress can do something for generations down the road, instead of taking away from them.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER).

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman's courtesy in yielding me this time and permitting me to speak on this bill.

There are two things I wanted to say, that we have seen our committee leadership that has been appropriately exalted for the hard work that they have done, and we have some terrific men and women who have been laboring in the field. The majority party has recognized some of theirs, and I would like to acknowledge Ward McCarragher, David Heymsfield, Ken House, Clyde Woodle, Jonathan Upchurch, Art Chan, Sheila Lockwood, who stayed with the committee for another 4 months before retiring, and Jason Tai. On the Majority side we have had extraordinary cooperation from Joyce Rose. These people have worked with the committee leadership, the staff to put together a really artfully crafted piece of legislation.

The problem is that we are today not able to deal with what I think is the most important issue and that is how to rightsize it. The gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER), my good friend, talked about the number of amendments that have been offered up and balanced with what happened with the original TEA 21 or ISTEA. I do not know about the number, but the significance of the amendment is what should be debated, not the number.

We have had a meltdown with some of our friends on the Republican side of the equation because they are not being able to correlate their needs. They are concerned about adequate money dealing with a donor or donee.

Well, our amendment which was not made in order would have just simply rightsized it to the Senate number and would have provided $3 billion more for California, $2.5 billion for Texas, $1.6 billion for New York, $1.5 billion for Florida. It would have given the committee leadership an opportunity to deal with the balance that is so important.

I hope that we will, in a moment, support an effort by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. FROST) to be able to make in order an amendment to deal with at least voting on whether we are going to have the same level of funding as the Senate. I think it is important for the House to establish that marker. It would make it a lot easier for everybody. It is fully funded. It does not require a tax increase, and I sincerely hope that we will, in our wisdom, be able to consider it.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ).

(Mr. MENENDEZ asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. Speaker, I want to also commend the leadership of the committee in producing a bill within the constraints that they had and in keeping so many items that are of great, important policy intact.

But I oppose the rule because the committee does not allow the House to work its will on a higher funding level that the committee, on a bipartisan basis, recognize is needed for the Nation's infrastructure. Also, because of a critical issue on this bill that is also about jobs, the committee did also not accept my amendment which was a sense of the Congress that none of these jobs in transportation should be outsourced.

Now, it is very difficult to see billions of dollars going to Iraq for infrastructure funding and to leave America short of where we need to be. I believe, as does I think a majority, if they were given the opportunity, that the Senate bill of $318 billion is a fiscally responsible bill. I also believe that it is responsible national economic development policy, and I also believe it is responsible national security policy.

That is why I was pleased to have joined my colleagues in offering an amendment in the Committee on Rules that would have increased the funding of this bill to that Senate level of $318 billion and let the House work its will. We did not get that chance in this rule.

Now, transportation is about a lot more than simply moving goods and people from one place to another. It is about economic development in both the short and the long term. It is about good-paying jobs at a time that we desperately need those jobs. Having lost several million jobs during this administration, it would be great if we could have the resources to meet the infrastructure needs and create more good-paying jobs here in America.

It is about improving the environment by creating a transportation system that pollutes less and helps us achieve Clean Air Act requirements. It is about spending less time in traffic and more time with our family or on our work, being productive, and it is about security.

On September 11, my district, right across from mid-town, if it was not for the multiplicity of transportation modes, the people who were trapped in downtown Manhattan would have not gotten out but for a ferry system. When all the tunnels, all the bridges, all the trains were closed, security on that day came in the vehicle of a ferry system.

That is why this bill in this modern age is so important. That is why we should be having a higher funding, and that is why we should have the ability for the House to work its will on economic development, on jobs, on making sure those jobs are not outsourced and on the Nation's security in the context of transportation. That is why I oppose the rule; and, hopefully, we will be given the opportunity to have a vote on these issues and, in doing so, strengthen America financially, economically, jobs and security.

Total funding levels calculated by the Federal Highway Administration and the Federal Transit Administration, U.S. Department of Transportation.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TURNER).

Mr. TURNER of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I am greatly disturbed that we are debating a $275 billion transportation measure without taking strong action in this bill to increase security in our rail and transit systems.

Three weeks ago, a terrorist group related to al Qaeda conducted several coordinated bombings on commuter trains in Madrid. Two hundred civilians were killed and more than 1,500 injured. The tragedy was enough to shock the nations of Europe into immediate action to get serious about transit security, but we have not responded here at home with sufficient urgency to protect the lives of the many Americans who travel every day by rail and transit.

Earlier this week, British police arrested eight and seized half a ton of ammonia nitrate. Philippine authorities arrested four members of a terrorist group linked to al Qaeda and seized 30 pounds of TNT. Each of these cases may have prevented another Madrid-style attack.

Closer to home, Amtrak's trains were stopped this last Tuesday and searched in Florida, North Carolina, and Pennsylvania after bomb threats were reported. We are enormously vulnerable to rail and transit attack and have an estimated need for $2 billion in investments in security for mass transit.

□ 1345

Yet since the attacks of September 11 of 2001, the Department of Homeland Security has made available only $115 million for this purpose.

Today, we have a $275 billion bill that barely addresses security. It does not specifically dedicate one dollar to rail or transit security.

I offered three amendments in the Committee on Rules, two of them designed to make a down payment of $250 million in grants to local transit agencies to improve security through surveillance and communications systems, detectors for weapons of mass destruction, training, education and other uses.

In light of terrorist threats that we face, Mr. Speaker, it is difficult to understand why we are not allowed to take up these amendments on the floor of the House today.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. RAHALL).

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, tomorrow, on Friday, the President of the United States will be in my congressional district talking about jobs and the economy. Unfortunately, although I was invited, and I appreciate that, I will not be with the President because I will be here in the Halls of Congress working on a bill that very vitally affects jobs and the economy, this transportation and infrastructure legislation.

I commend the gentleman from Minnesota (Ranking Member OBERSTAR) and the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman YOUNG) and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LIPINSKI), the ranking subcommittee member, for the hard work that they have put in on this legislation.

Jobs and the economy. That is what this is about. This legislation is the quickest way to put American working men and women back to work. For every $1 billion invested in our Nation's infrastructure, we are talking about 46,500 good paying jobs, not hamburger-flipping jobs; we are talking about good-paying jobs for our economy.

The $318 billion passed in the Senate bill, the $275 billion pending in this legislation is not sufficient to do the job. The President's own Department of Transportation has said that $375 billion is what is necessary just to quote, "maintain current economic growth."

So if I were in my congressional district tomorrow with the President of the United States, I would say, Mr. President, would you please just allow us in the House of Representatives to maintain current economic growth and allow us to go to the $375 billion spending level for this bill. That makes economic sense. It makes just and fair legislation.

And I think that is what the American people want. If this were money that we are talking about, a difference here of several billion, unfortunately if it were money going to rebuild Iraq, perhaps it would sail through this body without any Presidential veto threats. But this is money that we are talking about to go here in America, putting Americans back to work, spending money on infrastructure in America, which is not any pork spending, it is not an entitlement; but it is an investment in America's future.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is clear that the bill before us today will ease congestion, reduce pollution, and create good jobs across America. Most Members of this House, myself included, will vote to pass TEA LU. But I think we are missing out on a unique opportunity to further strengthen our economy.

Last night the Committee on Rules and this morning considered the Davis-Menendez-Blumenauer-Baird amendment to strengthen investment in our Nation's highway and transit infrastructure by increasing funding in the bill to the Senate-passed level of $318 billion. However, in a move that denies the House the opportunity to fully debate the transportation needs of this country, as is usually the case when Democrats offer thoughtful alternatives in the Committee on Rules, the Republican majority defeated the amendment on a straight party-line vote.

So today I hope to offer Members another chance to vote on this important proposal. If the previous question is defeated, I will offer an amendment to the rule that will give the House the opportunity to debate and vote on the Davis substitute.

Mr. Speaker, although I hope to see more legislation to help the economy come before this House, the transportation bill before us today will be our best chance to spur job creation this year. And the Davis substitute will create nearly 1.8 million additional jobs over the bill we have on the floor today, with 120,000 new jobs in my home State of Texas alone, and create $235 billion worth of economic activity.

Mr. Speaker, when you consider the 8.2 million people in this country that are currently unemployed, I do not see how you can vote against a measure that will create 1.8 million new jobs.

So I urge my colleagues today to vote in favor of a job creation and economic development package by voting "no" on the previous question. We only reauthorize the transportation bill once every 6 years. Let us not squander this unique opportunity to create jobs and strengthen the economy by giving in to politics as usual.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert the text of the amendment and extraneous materials at this point in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I urge my Members to vote "no" on the previous question, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this rule. We have looked into the history of rules that allow for consideration of transportation legislation. And going back to the 102nd Congress we found that 12 amendments were made in order. That was consideration of the ISTE legislation. The TEA 21 legislation had six amendments made in order. And this measure will allow for 23 amendments. And I believe it will give an opportunity for full consideration. Actually, it is probably 23 more amendments than the distinguished chairman of the committee, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), would have preferred because he is so proud of his work product; but we are going to allow Members the opportunity to have the chance to work their will on this very important measure.

If I had my way, the Federal Government would not be involved in these kinds of transportation decisions. In fact, I think that the notion of being able to completely turn back to the States the revenues that come into the trust fund and allowing States to make these decisions would be in many ways the wisest thing. But I have to face reality. And reality is that the Federal Government is involved in the issue of transportation. I believe for that reason we need to do it in the most responsible way.

This measure authorizes in excess of a quarter of a trillion dollars. A quarter of a trillion dollars. And I believe that as we look at the very important pressing needs out there, this is a level of funding that can allow us to make sure that we do improve our infrastructure.

We know that our infrastructure includes more than highways; it includes a wide range of other areas which have to do with transportation. And when we think about the ability of the United States of America to compete in this global economy, it is important for goods and services to be able to move around this country. It is important for U.S. manufacturers, for workers in this country to be able to get their goods to our Nation's ports so that they can, in fact, move into these new markets which this administration, and many of the rest of us, is working to pry open through new bilateral as well as multilateral trade agreements so that we can get into those markets.

And that is why I believe this is a very, very important measure for all of us. For our security, which is an important aspect of this measure, it is important that we improve our infrastructure here.

Let me say that when I think about that issue, I do have, as a Californian, a particular concern. My State is, in fact, the gateway to the Pacific Rim, Asia, Latin America. And a tremendous percentage of the goods that come to and from this country come through the ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles, as I said in my opening remarks.

And we have a very important issue that needs to be addressed in Southern California, the extension of the Alameda Corridor East, which is an issue that the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) chose to address when he was testifying before the Committee on Rules as an important one.

With these two ports, Los Angeles and Long Beach, it is important now that we have the Alameda Corridor project that takes goods to downtown Los Angeles and brings goods into that Los Angeles area to get to the ports for export. We have to realize that there are areas to the east of Los Angeles that are impacted tremendously because of this new trade.

We have to realize that this also deals very closely with the issue of safety and making sure that in the area that I represent in the Inland Empire, east of downtown Los Angeles, that our emergency vehicles, ambulances, fire, police, that they are able to move as easily as possible through the area.

The Alameda Corridor East project is something that will be very, very greatly benefited by this legislation. And I think it is important that we proceed with that.

There are a wide range of other very important projects which will, as has been pointed out by many Members, create jobs to see this already strong and growing economy grow even stronger.

So I hope that my colleagues will join in a bipartisan way to agreeing to the previous question, making sure that we move ahead with this legislation and pass this measure with a strong bipartisan vote.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. FROST. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that the quorum is not present and make a point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Evidently a quorum is not present.

The Sergeant at Arms will notify absent Members.

Pursuant to clause 9 of rule XX, the Chair will reduce to 5 minutes the minimum time for electronic voting, if ordered, on the question of adopting the resolution.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 229, nays 194, not voting 10, as follows:

The agreement shall state that the contingent commitment is not an obligation of the Government. Interest and other financing costs of efficiently carrying out a part of the project within a reasonable time are a cost of carrying out the project under a full funding grant agreement, except that eligible costs may not be more than the cost of the most favorable financing terms reasonably available for the project at the time of borrowing. The applicant shall certify, in a way satisfactory to the Secretary, that the applicant has shown reasonable diligence in seeking the most favorable financing terms.

(3) AMOUNTS.—The total estimated amount of future obligations of the Government and contingent commitments to incur obligations covered by all outstanding letters of intent and full funding grant agreements may be not more than the greater of the amount authorized to carry out this section or an amount equivalent to the last 2 fiscal years of funding authorized to carry out this section less an amount the Secretary reasonably estimates is necessary for grants under this section not covered by a letter. SEC. 6002. EFFICIENT ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS FOR PROJECT DECISIONMAKING.

(a) POLICY AND PURPOSE.—

(1) POLICY.—The Enlira principles, as initially developed by the Western Governors Association and adopted by the National Governors Association, represent a sound basis for interaction among the Federal, State, local governments, and Indian tribes on environmental matters and should be followed in the development of highway construction and public transit improvements. These principles are as follows:

(A) Assign responsibilities at the right level.

(B) Use collaborative processes to break down barriers and find solutions.

(C) Move to a performance-based system.

(D) Separate subjective choices from objective data gathering.

(E) Pursue economic incentives whenever appropriate.

(F) Ensure environmental understanding.

(G) Make sure environmental decisions are fully informed.

(H) Use appropriate geographic boundaries for environmental problems.

(2) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this section is to reduce delays in the delivery of highway construction and public transportation capital projects arising from the environmental review process, while continuing to ensure the protection of the human and natural environment.

“(2) PROJECT SPONSOR AS JOINT LEAD AGENCY.—Any project sponsor that is a State or local governmental entity receiving funds under title 23 or chapter 53 for the project shall serve as a joint lead agency with the Department for purposes of preparing any environmental document under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) and may prepare any such environmental document required in support of any action or approval by the Secretary if the Federal lead agency furnishes guidance in such preparation and independently evaluates such document and the document is approved and adopted by the Secretary prior to the Secretary taking any subsequent action or making any approval based on such document, whether or not the Secretary’s action or approval results in Federal funding.

“(3) ENSURING COMPLIANCE.—The Secretary shall ensure that the project sponsor complies with all design and mitigation commitments made jointly by the Secretary and the project sponsor in any environmental document prepared by the project sponsor in accordance with this subsection and that such document is appropriately supplemented if project changes become necessary.

“(4) ADOPTION AND USE OF DOCUMENTS.—Any environmental document prepared in accordance with this subsection may be adopted or used by any Federal agency making any approval to the same extent that such Federal agency could adopt or use a document prepared by another Federal agency.

“(b) PARTICIPATING AGENCIES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The lead agency shall be responsible for inviting and designating participating agencies in accordance with this subsection.

“(2) INVITATION.—The lead agency shall identify, as early as practicable in the environmental review process for a project, any other Federal and non-Federal agencies that may have an interest in the project, and shall invite such agencies to become participating agencies in the environmental review process for the project. The invitation shall set a deadline for responses to be submitted. The deadline may be extended by the lead agency for good cause.

“(3) FEDERAL PARTICIPATING AGENCIES.—Any Federal agency that is invited by the lead agency to participate in the environmental review process for a project shall be designated as a participating agency by the lead agency unless the invited agency informs the lead agency, in writing, by the deadline specified in the invitation that the invited agency—

“(A) has no jurisdiction or authority with respect to the project;

“(B) has no expertise or information relevant to the project; and “(C) does not intend to submit comments on the project.

“(4) EFFECT OF DESIGNATION.—Designation as a participating agency under this subsection shall not imply that the participating agency—

“(A) supports a proposed project; or

“(B) has any jurisdiction over, or special expertise with respect to evaluation of, the project.

“(5) COOPERATING AGENCY.—A participating agency may also be designated by a lead agency as a ‘cooperating agency’ under the regulations contained in part 1500 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations.

“(6) DESIGNATIONS FOR CATEGORIES OF PROJECTS.—The Secretary may exercise the authorities granted under this subsection for a project, class of projects, or program of projects.

“(d) PURPOSE AND NEED.—

“(1) PARTICIPATION.—As early as practicable during the environmental review process, the lead agency shall provide an opportunity for involvement by participating agencies and the public in defining the purpose and need for a project.

“(2) DEFINITION.—Following participation under paragraph (1), the lead agency shall define the project’s purpose and need for purposes of any document which the lead agency is responsible for preparing for the project.

“(3) OBJECTIVES.—The statement of purpose and need shall include a clear statement of the objectives that the proposed action is intended to achieve, which may include—

“(A) achieving a transportation objective identified in an applicable statewide or metropolitan transportation plan;

“(B) supporting land use, economic development, or growth objectives established in applicable Federal, State, local, or tribal plans; and

“(C) serving national defense, national security, or other national objectives, as established in Federal laws, plans, or policies.

“(e) ALTERNATIVES ANALYSIS.—

“(1) PARTICIPATION.—As early as practicable during the environmental review process, the lead agency shall provide an opportunity for involvement by participating agencies and the public in determining the range of alternatives to be considered for a project.

“(2) RANGE OF ALTERNATIVES.—Following participation under paragraph (1), the lead agency shall determine the range of alternatives for consideration in any document which the lead agency is responsible for preparing for the project.

“(3) METHODOLOGIES.—The lead agency also shall determine, in collaboration with participating agencies at appropriate times during the study process, the methodologies to be used and the level of detail required in the analysis of each alternative for a project.

“(4) PREFERRED ALTERNATIVE.—At the discretion of the lead agency, the preferred alternative for a project, after being identified, may be developed to a higher level of detail than other alternatives in order to facilitate the development of mitigation measures or concurrent compliance with other applicable laws if the lead agency determines that the development of such higher level of detail will not prevent the lead agency from making an impartial decision as to whether to accept another alternative which is being considered in the environmental review process.

“(f) COMMENT DEADLINES.—The lead agency shall establish the following deadlines for comment during the environmental review process for a project:

“(1) For comments by agencies and the public on a draft environmental impact statement, a period of no more than 60 days from the date of public availability of such document, unless—

“(A) a different deadline is established by agreement of the lead agency, the project sponsor, and all participating agencies; or

“(B) the deadline is extended by the lead agency for good cause.

“(2) For all other comment periods established by the lead agency for agency or public comments in the environmental review process, a period of no more than 30 days from availability of the materials on which comment is requested, unless—

“(A) a different deadline is established by agreement of the lead agency, the project sponsor, and all participating agencies; or

“(g) ISSUE IDENTIFICATION AND RESOLUTION.—

“(1) COOPERATION.—The lead agency and the participating agencies shall work cooperatively in accordance with this section to identify and resolve issues that could delay completion of the environmental review process or could result in denial of any approvals required for the project under applicable laws.

“(2) LEAD AGENCY RESPONSIBILITIES.—The lead agency shall make information available to the participating agencies as early as practicable in the environmental review process regarding the environmental and socioeconomic resources located within the project area and the general locations of the alternatives under consideration. Such information may be based on existing data sources, including geographic information systems mapping.

“(3) PARTICIPATING AGENCY RESPONSIBILITIES.—Based on information received from the lead agency, participating agencies shall identify, as early as practicable, any issues of concern regarding the project’s potential environmental or socioeconomic impacts. In this paragraph, issues of concern include any issues that could substantially delay or prevent an agency from granting a permit or other approval that is needed for the project.

“(4) ISSUE RESOLUTION.—Whenever issues of concern are identified or at any time upon request of a project sponsor, the lead agency shall promptly convene a meeting with the relevant participating agencies. If a resolution cannot be achieved within 30 days following such a meeting and a determination by the lead agency that all information necessary to resolve the issue has been obtained, the lead agency shall notify the heads of all Federal agencies involved in the meeting and the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives and shall publish such notification in the Federal Register.

“(h) PARTICIPATION OF STATE AGENCIES.—For any project eligible for assistance under title 23 or chapter 53, a State may require, under procedures established by State law, that all State agencies that have jurisdiction by State or Federal law over environmental-related issues that may be affected by the project, or that are required to issue any environmental-related reviews, analyses, opinions, or determinations on issuing any permits, licenses, or approvals for the project, be subject to the coordinated environmental review process established under this section unless the Secretary determines that a State agency’s participation would not be in the public interest. A State participating in the review process must require all State agencies with jurisdiction to be subject to and comply with the review process to the same extent as a Federal agency.

“(i) ASSISTANCE TO AFFECTED STATE AND FEDERAL AGENCIES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—For a project that is subject to the environmental review process established under this section and for which funds are made available to a State under title 23 or chapter 53, the Secretary may approve a request by the State to provide funds so made available to affected Federal agencies (including the Department of Transportation), State agencies, and Indian tribes participating in the environmental review process for the project. Such funds may be provided only to support activities that directly and meaningfully contribute to expediting and improving transportation project planning and delivery. Such activities may include dedicated staffing, training of agency personnel, information gathering and mapping, and development of programmatic agreements. The Secretary may also use funds made available under section 204 of title 23 for a project for the purposes specified in this subsection with respect to the environmental review process for the project.

“(2) AMOUNTS.—Requests under paragraph (1) may be approved only for the additional amounts that the Secretary determines are necessary for the Federal agencies, State agencies, or Indian tribes participating in the environmental review process to meet the time limits for environmental review.

“(3) CONDITION.—A request under paragraph (1) to expedite time limits for environmental review may be approved only if such time limits are less than the customary time necessary for such review.

“(j) JUDICIAL REVIEW AND SAVINGS CLAUSE.—

“(1) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Except as set forth under subsection (k), nothing in this section shall affect the reviewability of any final Federal agency action in a court of the United States.

“(2) SAVINGS CLAUSE.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as superseding, amending, or modifying the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) or any other Federal environmental statute or affect the responsibility of any Federal officer to comply with or enforce any such statute.

“(3) LIMITATIONS.—Nothing in this section shall preempt or interfere with—

“(A) any practice of seeking, considering, or responding to public comment; or

“(B) any power, jurisdiction, responsibility, or authority that a Federal, State, or local government agency, metropolitan planning organization, Indian tribe, or project sponsor has with respect to carrying out a project or any other provisions of law applicable to projects, plans, or programs.

“(k) LIMITATIONS ON CLAIMS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a claim arising under Federal law seeking judicial review of a permit, license, or approval issued by a Federal agency for a highway or public transportation capital project shall be barred unless it is filed within 90 days after the permit, license, or approval is final pursuant to the law under which the agency action is taken, unless a shorter time is specified in the Federal law pursuant to which judicial review is allowed. Nothing in this subsection shall create a right to judicial review or place any limit on filing a claim that a person has violated the terms of a permit, license, or approval.

“(2) NEW INFORMATION.—The Secretary shall consider new information received after the close of a comment period if the information satisfies the requirements for a supplemental environmental impact statement under section 771.130 of title 23, Code of Federal Regulations. The preparation of a supplemental environmental impact statement when required shall be considered a separate final agency action and the deadline for filing a claim for judicial review of such action shall be 90 days after the date of such action.”.

TITLE VII—HAZARDOUS MATERIALS TRANSPORTATION

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds with respect to hazardous materials transportation that—

(1) approximately 4,000,000,000 tons of regulated hazardous materials are transported each year and approximately 1,200,000 movements of hazardous materials occur each day, according to Department of Transportation estimates;

(2) the movement of hazardous materials in commerce is necessary to maintain economic vitality and meet consumer demands and must be conducted in a safe and efficient manner;

(3) accidents involving, or unauthorized access to, hazardous materials in transportation may result in a release of such materials and pose a serious threat to public health and safety;

(4) many States and localities have enacted laws and regulations that vary from Federal laws and regulations pertaining to the transportation of hazardous materials, thereby creating the potential for unreasonable hazards in other jurisdictions and confounding shippers and carriers that attempt to comply with multiple regulatory requirements;

(5) because of the potential risks to life, property, and the environment posed by unintentional releases of hazardous materials, consistency in laws and regulations governing the transportation of hazardous materials is necessary and desirable;

(6) in order to achieve greater uniformity and to promote the public health, welfare, and safety at all levels, Federal standards for regulating the transportation of hazardous materials in intrastate, interstate, and foreign commerce are necessary and desirable; and

(7) in order to provide reasonable, adequate, and cost-effective protection from the risks

posed by the transportation of hazardous materials, a network of well-trained State and local emergency response personnel and hazmat employees is essential.

When a State assumes responsibilities for carrying out a Federal law under this section, the State assents to Federal jurisdiction and shall be solely responsible and solely liable for complying with and carrying out that law instead of the Secretary.

“(B) ASSUMPTION OF RESPONSIBILITIES.—Any responsibility of the Secretary not assumed by the State in a memorandum of understanding shall remain a responsibility of the Secretary.

of no more than 3 years and may be renewed by mutual agreement on a periodic basis for periods of not more than 3 years.

“(4) COMPLIANCE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—After entering into a memorandum of understanding under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall review and determine compliance by the State with the memorandum of understanding.

“(B) RENEWALS.—The Secretary shall take into account the performance of a State under the pilot program when considering renewal of a memorandum of understanding with the State under the program.

“(1) APPLICATION.—To be eligible to participate in the pilot program, a State shall submit to the Secretary an application that contains such information as the Secretary may require. At a minimum, an application shall include—

“(A) a description of the projects or classes of projects for which the State seeks to assume responsibilities under subsection (a)(2); and “(B) a certification that the State has the capability to assume such responsibilities.

“(2) PUBLIC NOTICE.—Before entering into a memorandum of understanding allowing a State to participate in the pilot program, the Secretary shall—

“(A) publish notice in the Federal Register of the Secretary's intent to allow the State to participate in the program, including a copy of the State's application to the Secretary and the terms of the proposed agreement with the State; and

“(e) PRESERVATION OF PUBLIC INTEREST CONSIDERATION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the requirements under any applicable law providing for the consideration and preservation of the public interest, including public participation and community values in transportation decisionmaking.

“(f) STATE SUBJECT TO FEDERAL LAWS.—For purposes of assuming responsibilities of the Secretary under this section, a State agency entering into a memorandum of understanding under subsection (b) is deemed to be a Federal agency to the extent the State is carrying out the Secretary's responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), this title, and any other provision of Federal law.”.

"(E) A control measure that is being replaced by a substitute control measure under this paragraph shall remain in effect until the substitute control measure is adopted.

"(F) Adoption of a substitute control measure shall constitute rescission of the previously applicable control measure.

Transportation control measures may be added to an implementation plan subject to subparagraphs (B), (C), and (D), on the same basis as if such measures were substitute transportation control measures if such measures do not increase emissions for which limitations have been established in an implementation plan, and such measures meet the requirements of clauses (ii), (iii), (iv), and (v) of subparagraph (A)."

SEC. 5103. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) Research and development are critical to developing and maintaining a transportation system that meets the goals of safety, mobility, economic vitality, efficiency, equity, and environmental protection.

(2) Federally sponsored surface transportation research and development has produced many successes. The development of rumble strips has increased safety; research on materials has increased the lifespan of pavements, saving money and reducing the disruption caused by construction; and Geographic Information Systems have improved the management and efficiency of transit fleets.

(3) Despite these important successes, the Federal surface transportation research and development investment represents less than one percent of overall government spending on surface transportation.

(4) While Congress increased funding for overall transportation programs by about 40 percent in the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century, funding for transportation research and development remained relatively flat.

(5) The Federal investment in research and development should be balanced between short-term applied and long-term fundamental research and development. The investment should also cover a wide range of research areas, including research on materials and construction, research on operations, research on transportation trends and human factors, and research addressing the institutional barriers to deployment of new technologies.

(6) Therefore, Congress finds that it is in the United States interest to increase the Federal investment in transportation research and development, and to conduct research in critical research gaps, in order to ensure that the transportation system meets the goals of safety, mobility, economic vitality, efficiency, equity, and environmental protection.

"(7) PERFORMANCE REVIEW AND EVALUATION.—To the maximum extent practicable, all surface transportation research and development projects shall include a component of performance measurement and evaluation. All evaluations shall be made readily available to the public."

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG).

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the amendment under consideration would make improvements to H.R. 3550 as well as to make some technical corrections. More specifically, it would require more oversight of the use of Federal funds for transportation projects.

It allows funds to be used for additional planning activities under a pilot program. It would allow new activities under the Federal lands highway program to improve how projects are developed in conjunction with wildlife along the highways.

It would allow the Secretary to let States assume the responsibility of the Secretary for transportation enhancements, recreational trails and ITS projects.

It would require the Secretary to conduct a rulemaking to ensure that States are repairing or replacing damaged features on the National Highway System with highway features that have been tested, evaluated, and found to be acceptable under certain guidelines.

It makes a technical change to ensure that only new interstate facilities are eligible under the interstate system for construction of toll pilot programs.

It designates new highways for high-priority corridors on the National Highway System. It would require the Secretary to conduct a pavement-marking system evaluation study to improve safety on the highways.

It creates a national clearinghouse for the purpose of assembling and disseminating information relating to improvement of roadway work-zone safety.

It makes procedural improvements to the planning requirements for metropolitan areas in States regarding the Clean Air Act.

It directs the Secretary to create a model statute for the States to use when developing drunk-driving detection, prevention, and enforcement programs.

The budget title sets discretionary spending limits on outlays for the highway and mass transit budget categories and for new budget authority for the mass transit category and continues the budgetary fire walls for highway and transit programs.

It would improve the calculation of revenue-aligned budget authority, or RABA, to provide more accurate information of revenue to the Highway Trust Fund.

Finally, it sets the annual obligation limitations for the highway and transit programs for the fiscal years 2004 to 2009.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Alaska has adequately explained the manager's amendment. It needs no further elaboration, and I support the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there any Member opposed to the amendment?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The question is on the amendment, as modified, offered by the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG).

The amendment, as modified, was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 2 printed in House Report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MS. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON OF TEXAS

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 2 offered by Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas:

In title I, section 1103 of the bill—

(1) redesignate subsections (c) and (b) as subsections (d) and (e), respectively; and

(2) insert after subsection (b) the following:
(c) REPORT.—Section 104(j) of title 23, United States Code, is amended by striking “submit to Congress a report” and inserting “transmit to Congress a report, and also make such report available to the public in a user-friendly format via the Internet.”.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON).

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself as much time as I might consume.

Mr. Chairman, this amendment would dramatically improve an existing law provision, section 104(j), that was enacted as part of TEA 21.

Currently, the U.S. Department of Transportation produces an annual report to Congress on the use of Federal transportation funds by program, by type of investment, and by location within the States. My amendment would simply require that this information be provided to the public as well as via the Internet.

This is a nonpartisan amendment. It is broadly supported by a wide array of program partners, county officials, cities, mayors, metropolitan planning organizations, planners, architects and others.

Consider the current state of practice. Today, if you search the U.S. DOT's Web site for a section 104(j) report, you get “no documents match.”

Now, the first question that will be asked is: Will this impose a burden on my State? No, absolutely not. This amendment would not impose any additional burden on the States.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, we have reviewed the gentlewoman's amendment, we have been discussing it for quite some time in committee. This will make it possible to put that information that is already required to be reported on the Internet, and we have agreed on our side to accept the amendment.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. I yield to the gentleman from Alaska.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. First, Mr. Chairman, let me congratulate the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON) for this amendment, and more than that for being able to communicate with the ranking member and myself on your wishes in your district, and being so kind to me when I was in your district this last year. I do thank you for that.

I have reviewed this amendment with the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR), and we are willing to accept the amendment.

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, I want to thank the chairman and the ranking member for their cooperation.

Mr. Chairman, I might add that this is not a heavy burden on the FHWA or U.S. DOT bureaucracy. This information is already collected, processed, and provided for the use of State Departments of Transportation, in a user-friendly format for those users. This amendment simply requires that the same information already being processed be provided to the taxpayers and their representatives.

Why “user-friendly”? Lack of ease of Congressional oversight on this report led to a $5 billion discrepancy between Table 1 and Table 4(e) in this report in fiscal year 2000.

Because it is not electronically available as a manipulatable table, any summation that is not presented in the table must be done by hand, which is very difficult.

So, Federal Highway and the public would have a better product as a result of this amendment and the improved access to this information would improve the accuracy of the reporting. It is my belief that better reporting will lend much greater confidence to us as lawmakers as we fight to increase future spending through FHWA.

Federal funds for public transportation have long operated under much more stringent reporting measures.

My amendment is a simple change that would provide our constituents with some information about how their transportation taxes are being invested. They deserve to know if their tax dollars are being invested back into their community, or if the State is spending them elsewhere, and better understand how and where these resources are being invested on their behalf.

After all, we are talking about how more than $200 billion in the taxpayers' money will be spent over the next 6 years.

By adopting my amendment, this Congress can provide some very basic transparency and accountability with Americans' tax dollars in the Federal surface transportation program.

The time has come for FHWA to deliver us and the public a report that is more than a small stack of computer runs that can only be understood by a handful of financial experts at Federal Highway and U.S. DOT.

Let me close by simply urging my colleagues to accept this modest improvement to current law. It is one of the small things we can do to provide for more transparency and accountability to this process.

Taxpayers pay for this bill, and they deserve to understand more about how their tax dollars are spent on transportation infrastructure.

Mr. Chairman, I ask for all of my colleagues to join me in supporting this simple amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there any Member in opposition to the amendment?

If not, the question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON).

The amendment was agreed to.

□ 1430

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). It is now in order to consider amendment No. 3 printed in House Report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 OFFERED BY MR. FLAKE

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 3 offered by Mr. FLAKE:

At the end of section 1103, add the following:

(e) SUBTRACTION OF EARMARKS FROM SURFACE TRANSPORTATION PROGRAM FUNDING.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 104(b)(3) of title 23, United States Code, is amended—

(A) in subparagraph (B) by striking “subparagraph (A)” and inserting “subparagraphs (A) and (C)”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

“(C) SUBTRACTION OF EARMARKS.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Amounts to be apportioned to a State under subparagraph (A) for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2009 shall be reduced by the aggregate amount made available to the State (and recipients in the State) out of the Highway Trust Fund for that fiscal year for projects described in sections 1702, 3037, and 3038 of the Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users.

“(ii) EFFECT ON MINIMUM GUARANTEE.—In determining a State's percentage return from the Highway Trust Fund (other than the Mass Transit Account) for purposes of section 105 for a fiscal year, the Secretary shall treat amounts subtracted under clause (i) for that fiscal year as amounts apportioned to the State for the surface transportation program for that fiscal year.

“(iii) REAPPORTIONMENT.—Amounts subtracted from a State for a fiscal year under this subparagraph shall be reapportioned among the States under the formula in subparagraph (A).”.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE).

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, growing up in a family of 11 kids, 10 brothers and sisters, I learned the economic principle of scarcity pretty early. We always had enough food, meat and potatoes, to go around but there was rarely enough dessert. Every Sunday, no matter how large the family got, we had one half gallon of ice cream to split amongst us. One particular Sunday, as the ice cream was being scooped by one brother, we always had at least two monitors to make sure each portion was equal, I noticed that my brother made the scoops, the monitors were distracted for a minute, and he carefully slid the half gallon that was supposed to be empty under the kitchen sink. I rushed over there and found that he had left about a quarter of the carton full and he was going to retrieve it later.

I have discovered that things like that happen all the time around here in Congress, in one area in particular, the highway bill, where, instead of leaving a portion at the bottom not to be distributed equally, it is taken right off the top. The process is called earmarking. It is a process that is getting worse and worse and worse around here.

In 1982, there were a total of 10 earmarks in the highway authorization bill. In 1987, President Reagan vetoed the bill because there were 152 earmarks, something he thought was way out of line. Six years later, there were 500 earmarks in the bill; six years later, 1,800; and now we are up to, I think, just north of 3,000 earmarks in the bill and climbing. What that means is that portions are taken off the top and not distributed to the other States, like Arizona, like Georgia, like Florida, like Texas, like California. For years, we have been shorted from what we ought to receive in the formula.

Let me just give an example. I should say that this is just in the authorization process. We have not even gotten to appropriations this year. There will likely be hundreds, perhaps more than a thousand more transportation earmarks in the appropriation bill. Last year, for example, in the omnibus bill that was passed in December, there were over 600 earmarks relating to transportation, a total of $1.4 billion. That is $1.4 billion that comes off the top, that is not distributed by formula to the States, one of those States being Arizona. Mr. Chairman, we cannot continue to do business like this. We cannot.

My amendment is simple. It simply says that the amount the States received in high-priority programs would be subtracted from their formula totals of the surface transportation program. This prevents the minimum guarantee program from backfilling what comes out. What it does essentially is says that if you want an earmark, that is fine, but that earmark should come out of your own State's formula, not everyone else's.

I am not saying at all that nobody ought to get earmarks. A lot of people complain legitimately that some governors or some State officials do not fund what they ought to fund, that they ignore Republican districts, they ignore Democrat districts and do not spread the money equally around.

This is not saying that Members cannot get earmarks. All it is saying is that you ought to discuss that among your own delegation from your State and decide, do we want to put money here or there or should we give the State more flexibility to spend money on its priorities. That, in essence, is the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Who claims the time in opposition?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The thrust of this amendment is to adversely affect States, and Members in States, who put priority on transit projects, bus-related projects by deducting dollar for dollar from their apportionments the funds that Members have decided their State needs, their district needs, that is in the interest of their constituents and deducting that from the core surface transportation program apportionment to the individual State, and then it would redistribute those dollars elsewhere in the country. That is totally contrary to the basic principle of Member high-priority projects.

As former Chairman Bud Shuster used to say, Members of Congress are not potted plants. We know our districts. We know what the needs are. Chairman YOUNG has reiterated that principle, that Members understand the needs of their State, and when they are bypassed, when the State DOT does not address the needs in their districts, then we give them an opportunity once every 6 years to do that in the transportation bill, to designate projects according to the needs that Members see best.

The pending amendment would undermine that principle, would redistribute dollars, would take money away from some States, give it to others, punish some because they think transit is more important than a highway project in their State, Member projects.

In addition to that, a Member that has designated a project for interstate maintenance, for congestion mitigation and air quality improvement, for a bridge project, for a national highway system, will be adversely affected by this amendment. Members that have highway priorities as well will find their project simply thrown to the wind and redistributed around the country. That is not adhering to the principle that we have established. It may be very well intentioned, but its effect is highly adverse, undermines the principle that Members of Congress know their districts, are responding to the needs of their constituents, are recommending investments and, in many cases, giving States flexibility as we do in Minnesota. If they are not ready to move ahead with a project I have designated, they can use that dollar amount for a project elsewhere in the State. Its effect is severely adverse.

I will be happy to yield to the gentleman from Alaska.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I also rise in opposition.

I understand what the gentleman from Arizona is trying to do, and I want to compliment the gentleman. He is one of the few people in this body who did not ask me for any earmarks. I do thank him for that. I understand what he is trying to say.

But I have to remind everybody about earmarks in this legislation. It is, in fact, a request from Members, and it is the one time they might have an opportunity to represent their district. That is very true. I have some Members in this body that get no money out of DOT in their district because they are sparsely populated and all the money goes to the large urban areas. This is one time there is a fairness doctrine. Every nickel that is earmarked in this bill goes to a form of transportation. No dollars go outside that for any other purpose, regardless of what you might read. It goes to a form of transportation.

I know what the gentleman is trying to do. He is right about what the appropriators have done in the past and will probably continue to do. This is an amendment that has good thought but does not have great merit. Because I do think it, in fact, will impede those States that have had projects of national significance or projects of high priority. They will be penalized from getting those projects accomplished.

I thank the gentleman for his presentation. I understand what the gentleman from Arizona is trying to do, but I do believe that the amendment is inappropriate at this time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. PENCE).

(Mr. PENCE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PENCE. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, with great respect to the chairman and the ranking member of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, I rise in strong support of the Flake fair amendment because it is simply that. It is only fair that we would deduct, as the gentleman from Arizona suggests, the amount that has been earmarked specifically by Members of those States from the formula for distributing assets under the transportation bill rather than excluding them and then allowing the formula to only be placed on those which have not been designated as being of particular national significance. It seems to me the money is spent in those States, it is spent on infrastructure projects that the Members of those States can point to with pride and appreciation because of their significance, but it ought not to work a detriment, as it so distinctly does to States like Indiana, that I have the privilege of serving, States like Arizona and so many States in the Union that have to wait until after the special projects to divide up what is left.

I support the Flake fair amendment strongly.

Mr. Chairman, I want to commend the gentleman from Arizona for his hard work on this fair and sensible amendment.

The Flake amendment would solve inequities in TEA-LU by ensuring that the apportion formula can function as intended. Currently, earmarks secured by each member stand apart from the Minimum Guarantee formula. This drastically changes the actual rate of return, as some states perform far worse in this process, losing hundreds of millions of dollars.

Mr. Chairman, this is unacceptable. If we are truly concerned about, and fighting for, equity, why do we not subtract these earmarks from the formula totals in the Surface Transportation Program, thus ensuring equity? Why create an environment in which states must fight one another for extra projects, when instead the formula could be allowed to function as designed?

Mr. Chairman, we cannot allow some of our states to experience a reduction in core programs. The great highway infrastructure of each state serves more than just the citizens in that state. In fact, my home state of Indiana is affectionately known as the Crossroads of America for that very reason. Hoosier Highways serve the whole country through interstate commerce, personal and business travel, and military mobility. For this reason, I am in strong support of Mr. FLAKE's amendment, subtracting the amount of earmarks from state formula totals, and furthering equity between all states.

I urge my colleagues to support the Flake amendment.

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Chairman, who has the right to close?

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Minnesota has the right to close.

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

I respect the chairman and the ranking member. I would simply say that we are not potted plants here; and as a Member who is not a potted plant, I know when my State is not being dealt with fairly. My State, the State of Florida, the State of Texas, the State of California, many other donor States are not being dealt with fairly.

I am not saying that no Member should be able to earmark, and so this notion that Members cannot designate projects is not what I am saying. I am simply saying, if you do, then take that out of your own State's formula. Do not take it from other States. If you have the right to earmark, you should not have the right to earmark funds for Arizona to be spent elsewhere.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

I just want to point out to the gentleman from Indiana, whom I greatly respect, that the total for Indiana under TEA LU would be $4.96 billion, a substantial increase of funding over TEA 21.

The point again is that we have distributed these dollars according to a percentage of the total funding available under TEA LU to give Members the authority to designate projects to address transportation needs that they see by their best lights from their constituents in their districts and not be bypassed and run over by State DOTs. It has worked in TEA 21, and it is going to work here.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE).

The question was taken; and the Chairman pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE) will be postponed.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 4 printed in House Report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 OFFERED BY MS. JACKSON-LEE OF TEXAS

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Chairman pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 4 offered by Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas:

After section 1105 of the bill, insert the following (and redesignate subsequent sections of the bill, and conform the table of contents of the bill, accordingly):

SEC. 1106. FEDERAL SHARE PAYABLE.

Section 120(j)(1) of title 23, United States Code, is amended by striking the last sentence and inserting the following: "If such public, quasi-public, or private agency has built, improved, or maintained such facilities using Federal funds, the credit under this paragraph shall be reduced by a percentage equal to the percentage of the total cost of such activities that was derived from Federal funds. In the preceding sentence, the term 'Federal funds' does not include loans of Federal funds or other financial assistance that must be repaid to the Government."

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Let me, first of all, again thank the chairman and ranking member for this opportunity to rebuild America's infrastructure and to create jobs. I again ask the President to join us in that effort, as opposed to utilizing a veto on what is a vital and necessary effort. Might I also say that I support the complete funding, the original funding, that was planned for this legislation.

My amendment, Mr. Chairman, will not cost the Federal Government a single dollar. Support for this amendment does not equate to promotion or support for toll roads per se. But what it does is it provides flexibility. I would ask my colleagues to support it.

The amendment would simply change the calculation of toll credits by basing them on the proportion of non-Federal investment in toll projects. In addition, it would provide the flexibility necessary for local communities. Support of this amendment does not equate to promotion or support of toll roads, as I indicated. However, the amendment does recognize that State legislatures that have chosen to pursue tolling should be able to have access to toll credits to invest in transportation options such as transit, bicycles, rail and pedestrian infrastructure.

I am gratified to say that we have the support of many organizations across the Nation, including Florida and States of that size, including Just Transportation Alliances, a project of Texas Citizen Fund.

Mr. Chairman, amendment No. 46 would simply change the calculation of toll credits by basing them on the proportion of non-federal investment in toll projects.

Support of this amendment does not equate to promotion or support of toll roads per se. However, the amendment does recognize that State Legislatures that have chosen to pursue tolling should be able to have access to toll credits to invest in transportation options such as transit, bicycles, rail, and pedestrian infrastructure.

Toll credits create flexibility in the federal aid program. Similar to the Programmatic Match provisions of STP, they will allow the expenditure of non-federal funds on one project to serve as the match on another project through toll credits. The benefit of having toll credits is to enable a project, highways or transit, to exchange a toll credit for non-federal share of a project's cost. This amendment does not provide any additional money—it simply uses up more of the federal funds in the State's apportionment, but it does provide greater financial flexibility in determining the best possible mix of funding sources for projects. Without this flexibility, State DOT's will have a significantly diminished reservoir of toll credits from which to draw and little choice but to focus on meeting the growing demands for road maintenance.

Support of this amendment does not mean that you promote or support toll roads per se. However, support of this amendment does recognize that State Legislatures that have chosen to pursue tolling should be able to have access to toll credits to invest in transportation options, such as transit, bicycles, rail, and pedestrian infrastructure, as well as road maintenance.

To reiterate, this amendment does not provide any additional money. It simply provides greater financial flexibility by allowing the use of federal funds in a State's apportionment. Without this flexibility, State DOT's will have a significantly diminished number of toll credits and will likely only focus on the growing demands for road maintenance.

My colleagues, if your State does tolling, you will benefit from this amendment. In my State, I have broad support from the Texas Department of Transportation, MPOs, local and State officials, and transit organizations.

Mr. Chairman, I would hope that you and Mr. OBERSTAR would work with me to see what can be developed between now and House floor action to give States that have decided to toll more flexibility with toll credits so that they can invest in all transportation options.

I have a constituent who is an independent contractor who hauls U.S. mail from Houston throughout the country. His main route takes him through the east coast, and he complains that the tolls are extremely burdensome. The increased toll prices are a testament of the shift from the States to the drivers—the customers, of the cost to invest in much needed transportation options such as transit enhancement projects, bicycle, rail, and pedestrian infrastructure, as well as road maintenance.

This constituent cited that the Delaware Watergap bridge is about $\frac{2}{10}$ of a mile in length, yet its tolls mount up to \$13.75 each way. The Pennsylvania Turnpike, according to his account, cost him \$150.75 in tolls since it has been increased from \$98. This illustrates how the consumer, the drivers, are shouldering the burden of the States' need to raise funds that could be easily offset through toll credits.

For the reasons stated above, Mr. Chairman, I ask my colleagues to support the Jackson-Lee amendment No. 46 as made in order by the Committee on Rules. Please vote for the consumer. Vote for transit safety. Vote for reasonable toll costs. This is a bipartisan amendment that affects most toll-States.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Who claims time in opposition to the amendment?

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I reluctantly rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Alaska is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR).

Mr. OBERSTAR. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

I respect the gentlewoman's good intention. As we heard on a previous amendment, there was a good intention but an unfortunate result, and there would be a similar unfortunate result here. I have never been supportive of toll roads. Current law allows toll credits only when that toll road has been built without Federal aid. This amendment would extend an already, in my view, unacceptable principle further. It would extend to roads built with Federal assistance the credit that then could be applied to other projects. I just think that that is not a good policy direction.

I do not think we ought to be encouraging more toll road developments. It is not going to expand the universe of roads. Toll roads are just kind of a one-time hit. We are establishing in this legislation a national program of continuing existence with the Highway Trust Fund.

The only problem with it is we are not putting enough money into it for the next 6 years, and we will do that after the next year after we get through this election. So we really ought not to be moving in this direction, and I assume the chairman agrees with me on this.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I will say that to the gentleman I do think the amendment has some merit; but as the gentleman mentioned, now with the shortage of dollars, et cetera, I would suggest that we continue to work with the gentlewoman as we go through this process and see if we cannot reach a solution to it. And I think that can be achieved. But at this time I would oppose the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS).

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentlewoman from Texas for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of the Jackson-Lee amendment that would simply change the calculation of toll credits by basing them on the proportion of non-Federal investment in toll projects made by respective States. The amendment recognizes that if a State legislature has chosen to pursue tolling, then it should be able to have access to toll credits to invest in another transportation options such as transit, rail, pedestrian or cycle paths.

My State's legislature, the Texas State legislature, passed a bill that created a revolution in the way Texas funds transportation projects. I believe that States should be granted more authority to deliver corridors faster, and in exchange we will give them enhanced accountability. Texas is a leader in bringing private enterprise and local control back into the transportation funding equation. I believe this amendment would allow my State to continue that option.

The amendment concerning toll credits helps create the needed flexibility in the Federal-aid program. The amendment will allow the expenditure of non-Federal funds as to one project to serve as the local match on another project in the form of toll credits. The benefit of having toll credits is to enable a highway or transit project to exchange a toll credit for the non-Federal share of the project's cost made by that State. The Jackson-Lee amendment will not cost the Federal Government a single dollar. Currently, any highway or transit project that uses even one dollar of Federal funding is ineligible for toll credits even though the greatest majority of the funding may be non-Federal. The Jackson-Lee amendment will apply toll credits only to the non-Federal funding portion of any transit or highway project.

Costs of heavy congestion, pollution, and, in fact, safety and the loss of lives are too great in all States. We must do more to respond to our exploding transportation needs. Budgets are getting increasingly tighter. We need to find different ways to get resources necessary to respond to those transportation needs.

Mr. Chairman, I believe it is our responsibility to get in the hands of the President a bill that he can sign, and I believe this helps facilitate that process.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON), a senior member of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure.

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I know that this is an amendment that the State of Texas would like to have. I am happy to support my friend from Texas. In fact, I offered the same amendment in committee.

The amendment would change the calculation of toll credits by basing them on the proportion of non-Federal investment in toll projects. Support of this amendment does not mean that we promote or support toll roads per se, but supporting this amendment does recognize that State legislators that have chosen to pursue tolling should be able to have access to toll credits to invest in transportation options such as transit, bicycle, rail, and pedestrian infrastructure as well as road maintenance.

Toll credits create flexibility in the Federal-aid programs. Similar to the Programmatic Match provisions of the Surface Transportation Program, toll credits allow the expenditure of non-Federal funds on one project to serve as the match on another project. The benefit of having toll credits is to enable either a highway or a transit project to exchange a toll credit for non-Federal share of a project's cost.

Mr. Chairman, I include my statement for the RECORD.

Mr. Chairman, I'm happy to support my friend from Texas' amendment. In fact I offered this same amendment in Committee. The amendment would change the calculation of toll credits by basing them on the proportion of non-federal investment in toll projects.

Support of this amendment does not mean that you promote or support toll roads per se. But supporting this amendment does recognize that State Legislatures that have chosen to pursue tolling should be able to have access to toll credits to invest in transportation options, such as transit, bicycles, rail, and pedestrian infrastructure, as well as road maintenance.

Toll credits create flexibility in the federal aid program. Similar to the Programmatic Match provisions of the Surface Transportation Program, toll credits allow the expenditure of non-federal funds on one project to serve as the match on another project. The benefit of having toll credits is to enable either a highway or transit project to exchange a toll credit for non-federal share of a project's cost.

This amendment does not provide any additional money. It simply provides greater financial flexibility by allowing the use of federal funds in a state's apportionment. Without this flexibility, State DOT's will have a significantly diminished number of toll credits and will likely only focus on the growing demands for road maintenance.

My fellow members, if your state does tolling, you will benefit from this amendment. In my state, I have broad support from the Texas Department of Transportation, MPOs, local and state officials, and transit organizations.

Mr. Chairman, I urge you to support this amendment so that we can give States that have decided to toll more flexibility with toll credits so that they can invest in all transportation options.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Let me thank the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON) for her leadership on the issue. She offered this in committee. Let me again say to the ranking member and the chairman, this is not a promotion of toll roads. Toll credits are not additional money. They are what is commonly referred to as "soft match." We simply want the flexibility to allow States to be able to use these dollars for bicycle trails, pedestrian walks, rail, other transit projects. We believe this is a real commitment to transportation needs in America. We support this legislation. We ask our colleagues to support us to give wider flexibility to the many States who will benefit from having the option of using toll credits, no more Federal money, more flexibility, and more opportunity to serve the people of the United States of America.

Argument: If the toll revenues were actually used for the other projects, states wouldn't have an issue.

Response: States may earn toll credits under section 120(j) only when they spend "toll revenue" on capital expenditures on toll projects serving interstate traffic, and only in years the state meets a Maintenance of Effort test. The requirement that the "toll revenues" be spent on capital expenditures would also seem to address your concerns regarding section 129(a) of title 23.

The restrictive provisions of section 129(a) of title 23 are really nothing that wouldn't already be in the Indenture of Trust for the bonds issued to build the toll facility from FHWA's Innovative Finance: "The credit the state can earn for any Federal fiscal year is determined by the amount of toll revenue used by toll authorities for capital expenditures to build or improve public highway facilities that serve interstate travel. To qualify for the credit, the state's total non-Federal highway and transit transportation capital expenditures must equal or exceed the average of prior years. This is called the maintenance of effort (MOE) calculation. The MOE test is required at the time the credit amount is established. Expenditures for routine maintenance—e.g., snow removal, mowing—debt service, or costs of collecting tolls cannot be included."

Toll credits create flexibility in the federal aid program. Similar to the Programmatic Match provisions of Surface Transportation Program, it allows the expenditure of non-federal funds on one project to serve as the match on another project through toll credits.

The idea is to give states as much flexibility as possible to allow them to address as many transportation needs as possible with the limited financial resources available to them. The traveling public in not overly concerned if the funds spent on a project are federal or state, only that the transportation infrastructure is being improved so they can get where they're going faster and safer. Keep in mind that the federal funds, are in fact paid by citizens of every state and sent to DC and then returned to their states—and in Texas' case, we receive less than what we originally sent.

In today's environment there are not many toll road projects that can be financed 100 percent without some form of federal assistance, especially in states without mature toll systems where excess revenue from the established toll roads could be used to expand the system.

By not discouraging the use of federal assistance on toll roads, the amendment might actually allow for more projects to be built sooner—states can finance roads through a mix of toll road bonds and federal assistance, when they would not be financially viable as a 100 percent bond financed project. Then once the toll revenues are expended they can be used as match for federal funds on other projects. We believe the policy of federal/state transportation programs should be to build as many transportation projects as soon as possible to address the mobility issues.

The whole idea of required match seems to again ignore the fact that it is the citizens of the states who originally pay the tax and as in the case of Texas only receive a portion back. Average Rate of Return for Texas is 87 cents for each dollar sent in federal gas tax by Texans to the Federal Highway Trust Funds. Texas is one of the largest donor states.

WHAT IS A TOLL CREDIT?

USDOT allows the States to accumulate credits to be applied to the non-Federal share of certain highway and transit projects. The credits are based on toll revenues used to build, improve, or maintain certain highways, bridges, or tunnels.

If a toll road is built and no federal money is involved, then the State D.O.T. can be given credit for the amount of the road to use as a federal match. Toll credits are not additional money. They are what is commonly referred to as a "soft match." The state can utilize toll credits to match federal funds in place of their state match. By using toll credits to substitute for the required non-federal match on a Federal-aid project, federal funding can be effectively increased to 100 percent. State and local funds normally used for matching may then be directed to other transportation projects.

EXAMPLES

North Texas Turnpike Authority builds a $100 million toll road in Dallas with no federal money whatsoever in it.

USDOT would give TxDOT $100 million in toll credits. TxDOT can use $100 million as matching funds for other projects.

TxDOT wants to build a road at a cost of $100 million. A federal road is usually an 80–20 match. 80 percent of the money is federal; 20 percent is state.

Instead of Texas gas tax money being used for the 20 percent match ($20 million), all $100 million comes from the federal government for the road.

You now have $80 million left in toll credits ($100 million—$20 million for the new road = $80 million) that you can apply to another project, including transit projects.

The toll credits can be used to draw down federal dollars for transit. That is new money in a more real sense of the term because it can help a county (for instance) with its local match. It can actually be leveraged to bring in new non-roadway projects.

THE PROBLEM

The project can have no federal money in it. For example, SH 130 will not qualify because federal funds have been used.

Texas is embarking on a program to build more toll roads. We believe that a better calculation would be prorated. If the state funded 20 percent of the toll roads' cost, then the state should receive that 20 percent in toll credits.

THE SOLUTION

Texas would like to see the current statutory provisions for accumulating and calculating toll credits liberalized to ensure that we are getting the most credit that we can as the state begins developing more toll projects in the next reauthorization bill. The current statutory provisions only give us toll credits for 100% non-federally funded toll projects.

The reality is that we will have a mixture of funding sources for our projects, including federal funds in nearly every project we build. We believe that we should be allowed to receive toll credits for the portion of non-federal funds spent on toll projects. For example, if 80% of the toll project cost is non-federal, then we should receive toll credits for 80% of the project cost. Currently, in this example, we would get no toll credits for this investment.

LEGISLATIVE LANGUAGE

The drafted amendment would modify the method by which toll credits are calculated. The amendment would change the calculation to make the credits based on the proportion of non-federal investment in toll projects.

TX DOT thinks that this language will provide additional flexibility in our project financing program. The benefit of having toll credits is to enable a project (highways or transit) to exchange a toll credit for non-federal share of a project's cost.

For example, a project usually requiring a 20% non-federal match could instead use toll credits and increase the federal share to 100% of the project cost. While this does not provide additional money (it simply uses up more of the federal funds in the state's apportionment), it does provide greater financial flexibility in determining the best possible mix of funding sources for our projects. The benefits of having toll credits available may be even greater for transit projects, which typically end up with a 50%/50% federal/state match.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

The question was taken; and the Chairman pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) will be postponed.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 5 printed in House Report 108–456.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 OFFERED BY MR. SHADEGG

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 5 offered by Mr. SHADEGG: At the end of subtitle A of title I, add the following (and conform the table of contents of the bill accordingly):

SEC. 1125. ADDITION OF PARTICULATE MATTER AREAS TO CMAQ.

Section 104(b)(2) of title 23, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (B)—

(A) in the matter preceding clause (i) by striking "ozone or carbon monoxide" and inserting "ozone, carbon monoxide, or particulate matter (in this paragraph referred to as 'PM-2.5 or PM-10')";

(B) by striking clause (i) and inserting the following:

"(i) 1.0, if at the time of apportionment, the area is a maintenance area;"

(C) in clause (vi) by striking "or" after the semicolon;

"(ix) 1.2 if, at the time of apportionment, the area is not a nonattainment or maintenance area as described in section 149(b) for ozone or carbon monoxide, but is an area designated as nonattainment under the PM-2.5 or PM-10 standard.";

(2) by striking subparagraph (C) and inserting the following:

"(C) ADDITIONAL ADJUSTMENT FOR CARBON MONOXIDE AREAS.—If, in addition to being designated as a nonattainment or maintenance area for ozone as described in section 149(b), any county within the area was also classified under subpart 3 of part D of title I of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7512 et seq.) as a nonattainment or maintenance area described in section 149(b) for carbon monoxide, the weighted nonattainment or maintenance area population of the county, as determined under clauses (i) through (vi) or (viii) of subparagraph (B), shall be further multiplied by a factor of 1.2.";

(3) by redesignating subparagraphs (D) and (E) as subparagraphs (E) and (F), respectively; and

(4) by inserting after subparagraph (C) the following:

"(D) ADDITIONAL ADJUSTMENT FOR PM-2.5 OR PM-10 AREAS.—If, in addition to being designated as a nonattainment or maintenance area for ozone or carbon monoxide, or both, as described in section 149(b), any county within the area was also designated under the PM-2.5 or PM-10 standard as a nonattainment or maintenance area, the weighted nonattainment or maintenance area population of those counties shall be further multiplied by a factor of 1.2.".

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. SHADEGG) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. SHADEGG).

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of this amendment. It is largely a technical amendment.

In our Nation we face a serious air quality problem with tiny particles of dust and chemicals. This particulate matter is a health hazard because people breathe it in, and it irritates their lungs and can cause severe respiratory problems, and we have tried to deal with it.

There are two types of particulate matter considered by the EPA. One is PM-10, which is a fairly fine particulate matter, and the second is PM-2.5, an extremely fine particulate matter. Both are produced by vehicles driving on both paved and unpaved roads. Current law allows States to obligate funds under the Congestion Management and Air Quality Improvement Act, referred to as CMAQ, to areas which are not in attainment for either, but it does not distinguish between PM-10 and PM-2.5. The other body has passed legislation which would allow funds to be allocated to achieve attainment on PM-2.5. My amendment ensures that States will be able to use these funds to achieve attainment on both, particularly PM-10, and also on PM-2.5, which is the language which the Senate has adopted.

This language is absolutely essential because areas which are not in attainment for PM-10 incur significant costs in order to clean up their air and meet the standards for them and to curb emissions, particularly emissions of these pollutants from roads. Measures which States and counties and cities have to take include purchasing specially designed streetsweepers, curbing, paving, and stabilizing the shoulders of paved roads; paving, vegetating, and chemically stabilizing access points on unpaved roads; timing traffic lights; and using reformulated gasoline.

Vehicles on both paved and unpaved roads are significant sources of PM-10. And for example, in my State of Arizona in my hometown of Phoenix, PM-10 is estimated to be produced from traffic on both paved and unpaved roads.

In addition, my amendment would strengthen the position of the House in going into conference, as the House version of the bill currently does not have any language similar to that in the provision.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Who claims time in opposition to the amendment?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I compliment the gentleman on raising a very important issue. I also want to point out to the House that this is a complex aspect of transportation law involving Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality Improvement issues. It involves a very technical aspect of the particulate standards, the air quality standards, for coarse particulate matter or fine particulate matter, those that are 10 or 2.5.

In principle, I think I would be in favor of what the gentleman is trying to accomplish, but the language of the wording gives us some trouble yet. And if the gentleman would bear with us through the bill and into conference, I think we can get this matter worked out in a manner that is acceptable to achieve the objective he is seeking.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. OBERSTAR. I yield to the gentleman from Arizona.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, as I understand from discussions with the gentleman's staff, the concern he has is, I guess, two points. One is not with PM-10, which I think the gentleman would agree with me that funds be used under CMAQ to mitigate PM-10 pollution at this point; but as I understand it, the gentleman has some concern with whether or not PM-2.5 can be mitigated with these funds as the Senate is trying to do. Is that correct?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, that is essentially, broadly stated, the issue.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman continue to yield?

Mr. OBERSTAR. I yield to the gentleman from Arizona, with further comment in how that issue would be interpreted and how it would be applied.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, I understand that there is a second concern with an impact on the formula were the language of the current amendment, in fact, adopted. Is that also correct?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, exactly. The question is, How will the funds be allocated? And I think we need to just understand that better and have it spelled out more clearly so that we understand what is happening and we do not run into something we did not anticipate.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman continue to yield?

Mr. OBERSTAR. I yield further to the gentleman from Arizona.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, as I understand the offer that is being made by the ranking member, the gentleman agrees to work in conference to address the importance of being able to fund the cleanup of PM-10 particulate matter and ensure that the law continues to allow CMAQ funds to be used to clean up PM-10 materials.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, exactly. I think what we would like to do is exchange some language and refine that language and refer to the original CMAQ and look at the distribution tables, allocation of funds; and I think we will be able to find a way to accommodate the gentleman's objective.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman continue to yield?

Mr. OBERSTAR. I yield to the gentleman from Arizona.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, with that understanding, and I have always had a good working relationship with the gentleman, if the majority will also commit to work on the PM-10 issue and to work with me to ensure that funds can be used to clean up PM-10, I would be amenable to withdrawing that amendment with the understanding that it will be worked on in conference so that we can ensure CMAQ funds can be used to clean up PM-10 materials, because that is an important issue to my constituents and, quite frankly, to all the States of the West.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. OBERSTAR. I yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I can state for the majority that we will work with the gentleman and with the minority leader on this matter.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

With the understanding I have just reached with the ranking member and the spokesman on behalf of the majority, it is my understanding that we will all work together to assure that CMAQ funds can be used to address PM-10 pollutants as they currently can, as they would be then in the future under the legislation. That is extremely important to me and to the States I represent and to the States of the West.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the balance of my time.

I thank the gentleman for a very dignified discussion and outcome. I think it is in the best interest of good policy, and we will work with the gentleman in the coming weeks as we go forward.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SHADEGG. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The amendment is withdrawn.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 6 printed in House report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 6 OFFERED BY MR. SCHIFF

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 6 offered by Mr. SCHIFF:

In the matter proposed to be inserted by section 1208 of the bill as section 167(b)(4) of title 23, United States Code, strike "if the operators of such vehicles pay" in subparagraph (B) and all that follows through the period at the end of subparagraph (C) and insert the following:

if the agency—

"(i) establishes a program that addresses how those qualifying low emission and energy-efficient vehicles are selected and certified;

"(ii) establishes requirements for labeling qualifying low emission and energy-efficient vehicles (including procedures for enforcing those requirements);

"(iii) continuously monitors, evaluates, and reports to the Secretary on performance; and

"(iv) imposes such restrictions on the use on high occupancy vehicle lanes by vehicles that do not satisfy established occupancy requirements as are necessary to ensure that the performance of individual high occupancy vehicle lanes, and the entire high occupancy vehicle lane system, will not become seriously degraded.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF).

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The car pool lane has been a tremendous success at reducing air pollution and alleviating traffic jams since it was introduced 3 decades ago. The idea works because it is a simple trade-off, more choice for more responsibility. We can use this powerful trade-off to encourage more than just car pooling. Hybrid gas electric cars have doubled the gas mileage of standard cars, which means they fight air pollution as surely as car pooling does; and unlike other clean car technologies, they are also now available in meaningful numbers.

This fledgling technology has great potential, but we need to help it get off the ground further. There is a small tax deduction for purchasing a hybrid car, but expanding this deduction would cost money at a time when we are tightening our fiscal belts.

Instead, we can use the incentive of the car pool lanes to encourage drivers to purchase hybrid cars without affecting the U.S. Treasury's bottom line. Both the administration and the Senate have recognized the potential of this approach. Their versions of the transportation bill permits State and local jurisdictions to allow hybrids in the car pool lane, even if the driver is alone. For cities with heavy air pollution, this could be an effective tool to coax drivers into cleaner cars. It also takes decisions about this issue out of Washington and puts them in the hands of local communities.

My amendment would accomplish the same goal by removing a mandate for a toll requirement. This lets States and local governments decide for themselves whether to allow hybrids in the car pool lane, whether to charge a toll or not.

Some say this risks overcrowding the car pool lane, but my amendment requires local governments to monitor the effect of letting in hybrids and impose restrictions, if necessary. Thus, if a toll became necessary, one could be charged.

More to the point, hybrid cars are less than 1/2 of 1 percent of the cars on the road today, and a car pool lane crowded with hybrids is a problem many governments would love to have.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to my colleague, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISSA), and thank him for his work on this issue.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Chairman, as you perhaps know, H.R. 243, the Hybrid Vehicle Incentive Act, which I authored in the previous Congress and again in this Congress, serves to do a similar incentive program for HOV use by hybrid vehicles. Since it is tied up in the energy bill and since the transportation language was at best vague as to whether or not charges must occur, I thank my colleague for his leadership in seeing that there was an easy remedy to ensure that municipalities and States could charge zero, thus eliminating the requirement to put a toll on these efficient vehicles that are leading the way toward ending or at least reducing our dependence on foreign oil.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). Who claims time in opposition to the amendment?

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I claim the time in opposition.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, we have reviewed this amendment, and I believe, with consultation, we have agreed to the amendment.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, I want to frame this issue here carefully. The purpose of the HOV lanes is to encourage more people to ride in a car than to continue encouraging single-occupancy vehicle travel. Now, the idea of an exemption for hybrid vehicles was to encourage their development, their production, and that is happening in California, to the great credit of that State. So now we are seeing sort of the hybrid vehicle production take off. But in that process, the principle of HOV lanes seems to be falling behind, with more single-passenger vehicles traveling.

So the language of the gentleman's amendment is not perfectly clear. We would be willing to accept language that makes it clear that the State can choose to exempt a hybrid vehicle, not that they are required to exempt. Is that the intent of the gentleman's amendment, that the State will have the choice, not that they are required to exempt from paying a toll on an HOV toll lane?

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the intent is to give States the option, not the mandate, to charge a toll. If the States choose, they may allow hybrids; if they chose to allow hybrids under the condition of a toll, they would have that capability as well. We do not want to mandate that. Hopefully, I hope it would not be necessary.

If at some point down the road there were so many hybrids on the road that it was creating a clogging of the HOV lanes, States would be able to uninvite them to the HOV lanes or charge a toll.

So, yes, that is the intention of the amendment.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. SCHIFF. I yield to the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I agree with the chairman, we could accept the amendment, with the understanding as we get into conference, this language needs to be tightened up.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I will agree with that. I think it should be tightened up. It is something that both the author and, of course, the gentleman from California have spoken on; and we will continue working with you to see if we cannot make it adaptable to everybody.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, as I understand it, the amendment is acceptable, and in conference there will be additional language added to further clarify that the States may charge a toll if they so choose, but are not required.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF).

The amendment was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 7 printed in House Report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 7 OFFERED BY MR. VITTER

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 7 offered by Mr. VITTER:

At the end of section 1301(b)(1), add the following:

The Interstate Route 49 Corridor shall receive priority consideration under this paragraph.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER).

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, this is an amendment to officially represent a vitally important corridor, I-49, and specifically recognize it as qualifying under the new National Corridor Infrastructure Improvement program. I think everyone will agree that this is exactly the sort of crucial corridor for economic purposes, military uses, the movement of agricultural products, all sorts of key uses, that this program is about. So the purpose of the amendment would be to formally recognize in the bill, to make sure that it qualifies. There is no specific amount of money associated with

I-49 through this amendment, just to ensure that it fully qualifies under that improvement program.

Again, I-49 is such a corridor of national significance because of the movement of ag products from the heartland of the country to our ports in the south and across the globe; because of defense and security issues, I-49 links so many of our military bases; because of trade, again, agriculture is perhaps the biggest example of that, but it is an enormous trade corridor into the heartland of the country; because of energy, moving energy from Louisiana and the Gulf of Mexico into the country; and because of safety concerns.

That is the reason, that is the purpose behind that amendment. I intend to withdraw the amendment in a few moments after engaging in a short colloquy with the chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Who claims the time in opposition?

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR).

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Chairman, very simply stated, this amendment would bypass the determination of the Secretary to make decisions on corridors and substitute judgment in this body for that of the Secretary looking at a national picture, and that is the wrong way to proceed. We should not do that.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. JOHN).

Mr. JOHN. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Chairman, of course I fully support funding of I-49, which runs right through the Seventh District of Louisiana, right through the heartland of Louisiana. Completion of this very important interstate system from Canada to New Orleans is an incredibly important corridor, from the Midwest of America down to the coast and for the economics of trade, and it is an incredibly important program.

I have worked very hard over the last few years to make sure that I-49 South was given a high priority designation in TEA 21, and also I-49 North, as a high priority corridor. This amendment today I think reinstates the importance of I-49 as a priority for Congress, and I fully support it.

However, there is a larger issue at hand. I think we need more funding for this bill to accelerate funding for I-49 and other projects across the Nation. Each Member in this body believes that highways running through their district are a priority, and they are correct. Improved transportation infrastructure means economic development; it means good American jobs. But the only way that we can see these priorities met is to increase the funding for this bill in Congress.

The I-49 Congressional Caucus is working with the chairman and the ranking member on a way to complete the funding for this project, and many other projects; and I pledge to create new jobs and expand economic development for the full funding of I-49 and other high-significant and regional priorities.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. PETRI).

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I think the gentleman from Louisiana knows that this Member, at least, has met on a number of occasions both here in Washington and down in New Orleans and other places in Louisiana with groups who are supporting this high-priority project. It is an important project. But there are a lot of important projects in our country. Our committee is trying to come up with the resources to meet a variety of needs.

I would urge the gentleman to work with the committee and the process, rather than attempting to single out his particular project in this way, because it is not going to work politically here in the House, given all the other regions and their concerns.

But what the gentleman is saying is important. He does have an important project, and we are eager to work with the gentleman to try to come up with the resources necessary to help move it forward.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), to have a conversation in the form of a colloquy.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I would like to offer the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER) my support for this route. I have had the privilege of speaking to the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. MCCRERY), the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER), the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. JOHN), everybody involved in this area; and my attention as time goes by as we go to the conference, this will be one of the routes that is considered as a high priority, because it is badly needed, not only for the State of Louisiana, but for the other States in proximity too.

I would like to say that we had enough money to do everything, but I am not going to say we do. But this is one of the areas that I am very strongly in support of, and I will do everything I can to see that we achieve those goals.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman very much for that pledge of support, and I look forward to working with the gentleman proactively as the process moves along.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Louisiana?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. It is now in order to consider amendment No. 8 printed in House Report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 8 OFFERED BY MR. GRAVES

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 8 offered by Mr. GRAVES:

At the end of subtitle D of title I, add the following (and conform the table of contents accordingly):

SEC. 1408. RENTED OR LEASED MOTOR VEHICLES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 301 of title 49, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§ 30106. Rented or leased motor vehicle safety and responsibility

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Provided that there is no negligence or criminal wrongdoing on the part of the owner of a motor vehicle, no such owner engaged in the trade or business of renting or leasing motor vehicles may be held liable under State law for harm caused by a person to himself or herself, another person, or to property, which results or arises from that person's use, operation, or possession of a rented or leased motor vehicle, by reason of being the owner of such motor vehicle.

“(b) CONSTRUCTION.—Subsection (a) shall not apply if such owner does not maintain the required limits of financial responsibility for such vehicle, as required by State law in the State in which the vehicle is registered.

“(c) APPLICABILITY AND EFFECTIVE DATE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, this section shall apply with respect to any action commenced on or after the date of enactment of this section without regard to whether the harm that is the subject of the action or the conduct that caused the harm occurred before such date of enactment.

“(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following definitions apply:

“(1) MOTOR VEHICLE.—The term ‘motor vehicle’ shall have the meaning given the term under section 13102(14) of this title.

“(2) OWNER.—The term ‘owner’ means a person who is—

“(A) a record or beneficial owner, lessor, or lessee of a motor vehicle;

“(B) entitled to the use and possession of a motor vehicle subject to a security interest in another person; or

“(C) a lessor, lessee, or bailee of a motor vehicle, in the trade or business of renting or leasing motor vehicles, having the use or possession of such motor vehicle, under a lease, bailment, or otherwise.

“(3) PERSON.—The term ‘person’ means any individual, corporation, company, limited liability company, trust, association, firm, partnership, society, joint stock company, or any other entity.

“(4) STATE.—The term ‘State’ means each of the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Northern Mariana Islands, any other territory or possession of the United States, or any political subdivision of any such State, commonwealth, territory, or possession.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The analysis for such chapter is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 30105 the following:

“30106. Rented or leased motor vehicle safety and responsibility.”.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES) and a Member opposed each will be recognized for 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES).

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I am here today to correct an inequity as I see it in the car and truck renting and leasing industry. By reforming vicarious liability to establish a national standard that all but a small handful of States already follow, we will restore fair competition to the car and truck renting and leasing industry and lower costs and increase choices for all consumers.

Currently, a small number of States impose vicarious liability, or liability without fault, on companies simply because they own a vehicle involved in an accident. Whether or not the vehicle is at fault is irrelevant. These vicarious liability lawsuits cost consumers nationwide over $100 million annually.

These laws apply to where the accident occurs. It does not matter where the car or truck was rented or leased. Since companies cannot prevent their vehicles from being driven to a vicarious liability State, they cannot prevent their exposure from these laws and then raise their rates accordingly. These higher costs have driven many small companies out of business, reducing the consumer choice and competition that keeps costs down.

While this amendment seeks to level the playing field, I want to emphasize that the provisioning will not allow car and truck renting and leasing companies to escape liability if they are at fault. Accident victims will continue to be compensated according to individual State law.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Who claims time in opposition to the amendment?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I claim the time in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Missouri has been quite persistent and thoughtful in his pursuit of this amendment and very genuine, and I think one of the adversely affected companies is located in the State of Missouri and has expressed their concerns about the effects of current law.

□ 1515

The gentleman has sought a way to provide some relief. I rise in very strong opposition to the language, with great respect for the gentleman, a member of our committee.

It would supersede State law in 15 States that have already adopted laws to apply vicarious liability to car rental companies. The reason they have done so is that if a car rental company rents to a person who has no insurance, the rental company is the one that is best suited to assume the responsibility. They have done this action in their judgment in the best interest of the consumer.

Now, we have not had hearings in depth that would explore all aspects of this issue. It is a very complex issue of State law, and it varies from one part of the country to another. But States, as far as we can ascertain, that have adopted such a policy have concluded that, without it, harm to innocent children, to bystanders would go totally uncompensated, even if the rental car company had leased, say, to an obvious drug abuser or someone with a very bad driving record.

States, including mine of Minnesota, have reached an independent policy determination on this matter. I do not think Congress should weigh in to supersede the State judgment on this matter.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. BOUCHER), the amendment cosponsor.

Mr. BOUCHER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and today I rise to join with him in support of a common sense reform that will eliminate antiquated vicarious liability statutes, benefit consumers, and protect the victims of accidents.

Vicarious liability laws for rental cars in a handful of States drive up costs for consumers nationwide by an average of $100 million annually. These laws prevent unlimited damages against companies that rent or lease vehicles solely because they own a vehicle that is involved in an accident, not because they have done anything wrong. These companies are not negligent, not at fault, and could do nothing to have prevented the accident.

Consumers pay $100 million annually resulting from these unfair laws because companies must build the costs of arbitrary damage awards into their rental and lease rates. Regardless of where a car or truck rental company is headquartered or where the vehicle is rented or leased, the company is subject to vicarious liability, even if its vehicle is driven to a vicarious liability State and is involved in an accident. Therefore, the laws of a mere handful of States drive up rental rates nationwide for all rental consumers.

I urge approval of this common sense reform.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER).

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, my own State of New York is one of the most active car rental markets in the country. We also have a huge number of uninsured drivers who rent cars because, in New York City, a lot of people do not own cars. New York has forbidden car rental companies to ask their customers if they own automobile insurance in order to allow the largest number of people access to rent the cars.

Since New York has made the policy decision to mandate car rental companies to rent to uninsured drivers, New York needs vicarious liability to protect innocent bystanders who are injured by these uninsured drivers. Why should not New York and other States have the ability to make that policy determination? Why should we arrogate to ourselves to tell the 15 States that have chosen to have vicarious liability but not to limit car rentals to only people who can prove that they have their own personal insurance, that is the trade-off; why should we tell them that is the wrong policy decision? That should be left to the States.

There is nothing wrong with a State deciding that it is in the interests of the people of that State for uninsured drivers, who may be uninsured because they do not own their own cars, to be able to rent cars, but to be able to say to the car rental companies, you must take vicarious liability so that you do not shift the burden of paying for an accident to the pedestrian or the hospital or the taxpayers. This is a perfectly reasonable thing to do. Fifteen States have chosen to do it.

To pass this amendment is to say that we are going to obviate the policy choices that those States have made and shift the burden on to innocent victims of accidents in those States. We should not do it. Let the States decide this question, as they have.

Mr. Chairman, I urge opposition to this amendment.

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume. The amendment requires that vehicles be covered, still be covered by the State-established minimum insurance levels for vicarious liability.

The bottom line is, if we limit vicarious liabilities, they are still going to be covered by the minimum standard. There is never going to be an instance where the vehicle goes out there and is not insured.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. How much time is remaining on both sides, Mr. Chairman?

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). The gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR) has 1 minute remaining; the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES) has 2 minutes remaining.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I had several and, unfortunately, due to the speed in which amendments were moving this morning, we are not going to get to all of them. We have the House majority whip, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. BLUNT) who wanted to speak on this, and also the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BURNS).

Mr. Chairman, this amendment I think makes sense. It is a consumer amendment. It is going to save consumers $100 million annually.

The fact that a company can be liable simply because they own the vehicle even though they were not involved I think is ridiculous.

The bottom line is that this is still going to require that vehicles be covered by the State-established minimum levels for insurance. There is never going to be a situation where a vehicle goes out there or someone goes out there that there is not a lease to State minimum standard. That is still going to be in place.

What this simply says, there is unlimited liability in this situation where we have a vicarious liability law in a State. We are trying to put together some sort of a national standard. I think it makes sense. I think it is good for the consumer, and it is going to make a big difference.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT).

Mr. SCOTT of Virginia. Mr. Chairman, I just think this is an unfortunate situation to have 5 minutes to debate this important issue.

The question is, who will take the risk? If the rental car agency is not going to provide the insurance for the drivers, who will? Are they responsible or required to have insurance? Will the victims of negligence have to pay their own bills?

This is just unfortunate. We have 50 different States, 50 different laws. They have all dealt with this situation individually. It is unconscionable to try to decide this in a 5-minute debate. I hope we defeat the amendment.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

If I allow another person to use my car and that person has an accident, I am liable. Why should rental car companies be different? If States choose to make them liable under these circumstances, as our State of Minnesota does, then why should the Congress substitute a different judgment for that of the States?

Without extensive hearings, without a deep inquiry into this subject matter, this is an inappropriate time, inappropriate amendment, inappropriate place to do it, and the amendment preferably should be withdrawn and we could work on it, perhaps through conference, otherwise defeated.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Chairman, I submit the following letter for the RECORD.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF STATE LEGISLATURES,
Washington, DC, April 1, 2004.

Hon. DENNIS HASTERT,
Speaker, House of Representatives, Washington,
DC.

Hon. NANCY PELOSI,
Minority Leader, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

Subject: Amendment 8 to H.R. 3550.

DEAR SPEAKER HASTERT AND REPRESENTATIVE PELOSI: On behalf of the National Conference of State Legislatures, I am writing to express strong, bipartisan opposition to the passage of Amendment Number 8 to H.R. 3550, "The Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy For Users." This amendment is a blatant attempt by the U.S. Congress to preempt existing state laws regarding vicarious liability for rental car owners. This amendment has been introduced without the benefit of a hearing or debate on how this amendment would impact existing state laws.

Tort reform and liability are areas of law that have been traditionally regulated by the states. NCSL supports state efforts to reform or not to reform their own vicarious liability statutes. Perhaps even more egregious is the fact that this federal effort to preempt state laws has been orchestrated without the benefit of input from the states. At the very least, Congress should have held a hearing and discussion of this very important issue.

If you need any additional information, please contact NCSL Senior Committee Director for the Law and Criminal Justice Committee Susan Parnas Frederick at (202) 624-3566 (susan.frederick@ncsl.org).

Respectfully,

DENTON DARRINGTON,
Idaho State Senate, Chair NCSL Standing Committee on Law & Criminal Justice.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. All time has expired.

The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. GRAVES).

The amendment was rejected.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. It is now in order to consider Amendment No. 9 printed in House report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 9 OFFERED BY MR. CHOCOLA

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Chairman pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 9 offered by Mr. CHOCOLA:

At the end of title I, insert the following (and conform the table of contents accordingly):

SEC. 1819. ENGINE IDLING IN HEAVY-DUTY VEHICLES.

(a) VERIFICATION.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall verify those idling reduction technologies with the potential for fuel savings and emissions reductions and publish a list of such technologies in the Federal Register.

(b) VEHICLE WEIGHT EXEMPTION.—Section 127 of title 23, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(i) VEHICLE WEIGHT EXEMPTION RELATING TO ENGINE IDLING IN HEAVY-DUTY VEHICLES.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—In order to promote reduction of fuel use and emissions due to engine idling, the maximum gross vehicle weight limit and the axle weight limit under subsection (a) for any motor vehicle equipped with an idling reduction technology verified by the Environmental Protection Agency shall be increased by the Secretary of Transportation by an amount necessary to compensate for the additional weight of the idling reduction system, except that the weight increase shall be no greater than 400 pounds.

“(2) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection, the following definitions apply:

“(A) IDLING REDUCTION TECHNOLOGY.—The term ‘idling reduction technology’ means a device or system of devices utilized to reduce long-duration idling of a vehicle.

“(B) HEAVY-DUTY VEHICLE.—The term ‘heavy-duty vehicle’ means a vehicle that has a gross vehicle weight rating greater than 8,500 pounds and is powered by a diesel engine.

“(C) LONG-DURATION IDLING.—The term ‘long-duration idling’ means the operation of a main drive engine, for a period greater than 15 consecutive minutes, where the main drive engine is not engaged in gear. Such term does not apply to routine stoppages associated with traffic movement or congestion.”.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. CHOCOLA) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. CHOCOLA).

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, my amendment is simple, straightforward, and based on common sense. I think we have all driven down the highway and have seen trucks parked at night at rest areas and truck stops and we have seen that they are idling or running. The reason that they are doing that is because the drivers inside require electric power to run their heat or cooling or microwave or whatever other electronics they may have in their cab.

The problem with the trucks idling or running all night is that they use fuel and they emit pollutions into the environment. So my amendment simply would allow a 400-pound exemption to encourage trucks to utilize on-board independent power systems.

According to studies by the EPA and others, long-haul trucks, they idle up to 8 hours per day over 300 days per year. They consume about .8 gallons of diesel fuel each hour that they idle, and that adds up to over 1,900 gallons per year, and they emit 19 metric tons of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere while they are idling. So by reducing the unnecessary truck idling, we can save fuel, we can reduce greenhouse gases, we can cut air pollution, and we can save money.

For the past 6 years, the companies in the country that have worked on these independent, on-board power systems, they have worked with the EPA and they have worked with the Department of Transportation to come up with systems that provide the power necessary to run the heating, air-conditioning, and other electronic needs. The tests that they have run on these systems have yielded a 65.5 percent reduction in the idle time of trucks that use them and a 59.6 percent reduction in fuel consumption.

According to the EPA, we would reduce greenhouse gases, we would reduce nitrogen oxides, we would reduce particulate matter emissions, and save nearly $3,000 a year in fuel costs and lower engine maintenance costs as well.

I think my home State of Indiana is a great example. Indiana alone has 17,000 truck parking spaces; and if you drive down the highway at night, every one of them is filled.

So, Mr. Chairman, I believe that by offering this exemption we can encourage the use of this technology, resulting in reduced truck emissions, reduced fuel consumption. It would be very beneficial to the United States, and I think that everyone can agree that this is a very beneficial amendment.

The amendment is supported by the American Lung Association, the American Trucking Association, the National Association of Truck Stop Operators, and the EPA, and Schneider International, the Nation's largest trucking fleet.

Mr. Chairman, the bottom line is we are asking for a one-half of 1 percent weight exemption to implement a very common-sense solution that helps our environment, helps our energy needs, and certainly I think we should pass this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I claim the time in opposition, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, again, this is like, as so often we will see on these amendments on the floor, an amendment that is well intentioned but has adverse consequences. I support the environmental benefits that can be achieved with clean air technologies. In the manager's amendment, the chairman and I have worked on it and our staff have worked on congestion mitigation, air quality improvement, and surface transportation program funds, the largest of the core programs, to assure that these funds may be used to support stand-alone truck electrification technologies, because we saw in testimony in hearings that there are such technologies that are very, very low-weight, with high benefits.

This issue came up in the House-Senate Energy Conference, and I addressed this issue in the Conference and raised objections. Mr. Chairman, 400 pounds may seem insignificant, but it will have serious consequences on safety of our driving public and on the roads. Bigger trucks, more road damage. If all trucks had that extra 400 pounds, $600 million a year in extra road damage. Over the life of this bill, that will add up to over $3.5 billion in road damage.

The point is, why are we picking, or why pick 400 pounds? There is a wide range of technologies that have far less weight that have very significant improvements that show idling reduction technologies do, in fact, pay for themselves and reduce costs in less than 2 years. There are other technologies that will provide the same clean air benefits as the one addressed in this amendment.

So I think rather than just pick out one particular technology, one that weighs 400 pounds or less, whatever, this is not the right way to approach the issue.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

This is a very commonsense approach to a real problem that we have in our Nation's highways and Nation's environment; 400 pounds is one-half of 1 percent weight exemption on an 80,000 pound rig. So adding 400 pounds is a relatively lightweight solution. So I think it is very much based on common sense.

It is a simple approach to a real need we have. It is a specific solution that I think that we can implement today by passing this amendment that will not only help our environment; it will help our Nation's reliance on foreign energy.

Over $3,000 a year, as the price of fuel goes up and savings goes up, that will be beneficial to every single American. I do not think when you take the risk-reward analysis that the risk is too great when we add ½ of 1 percent to an 80,000 pound rig, as compared to the reward that really every American is going to benefit.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), the chairman of the committee.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I deeply respect my good friend that has offered this amendment, but I have a couple questions.

One, I have had the privilege of visiting a private company; it has developed a truck stop process whereby the trucks do have the same thing my colleague wants. What I understand his amendment does is he wants to raise the weight of the truck 400 pounds of added equipment to the truck so they do not have to stop at a truck stop. Is that correct?

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. I yield to the gentleman from Indiana.

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, that is correct.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, well, I am just concerned about that because this company called Idle Air, it has done an outstanding job, and they are trying to do the job right without any government money or support. And they are doing exactly what my colleague wants to do, but the truck does have to go and they have their waiting time that they have to rest, refuel their trucks, et cetera.

And it seems to me if we add this extra 400 pounds for additional equipment, it would be detrimental to that individual company. That concerns me somewhat. I am sort of taking sides on that issue is what I am saying. With your proposal, would that hurt the company?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. CHOCOLA).

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, this solution gives all options available. Certainly the Idle Air technology is still very valid. It is very beneficial. And trucks that travel routes where Idle Air technology is available, they certainly can avail themselves of that. But the technology that I am promoting is portable. It can be installed on any truck in the Nation. So it makes the benefits of the Idle Air technology available nationwide.

And so by adding this exemption, every truck has the opportunity to enjoy the reduced idling benefits even if the Idle Air technology is not available in their region.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG).

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, we do have some problems with weight limitation on these trucks. Four hundred pounds does not sound like much; but if you add all the trucks up, we do not know the ramifications of the weight factor on the roads. And I really think the gentleman is on the right track, but I think we have to consider what that would do if, in fact, we raise that limitation to 400 pounds, do we raise the limitation on other aspects of the trucks such as a new engine which adds 3,000 pounds to the truck. We have not done that yet.

So I think we need to look at the total wear and tear on the road.

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I do think it is a commonsense approach to a problem that we have. There are different ways to approach this problem that have benefits. But the one I am suggesting makes available to every truck on the Nation's highways the opportunity to incorporate reduced idling technology anywhere in the country in that they can have the opportunity to shut their engine off at night, quit polluting our air, quit using fuel unnecessarily. And I think everyone will benefit from that.

We can continue to look for new solutions, but this is something we can do today to help our trucking industry, help our economy, create jobs, and help our environment all at the same time.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, very simply, trucks come to a truck stop. They want to use this 400-pound technology to run their Air King unit. There is better technology, does not have the weight, they can plug it in and not put that added weight on the roadway. We should not accept this amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. CHOCOLA).

The question was taken; and the Chairman pro tempore announced that the yeas appeared to have it.

Mr. CHOCOLA. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN (pro tempore). Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. CHOCOLA) will be postponed.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 10 printed in House Report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 10 OFFERED BY MR. BAIRD

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Chairman pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 10 offered by Mr. BAIRD:

Title I, at the end of subtitle H add the following:

SEC. 1819. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the Buy America test required by Public Law 97-424 needs to be applied to an entire bridge project and not only to component parts of such project;

(2) the law clearly states that domestic materials must be used in Federal highway projects unless there is a finding that the inclusion of domestic materials will increase the cost of the overall project by more than 25 percent;

(3) uncertainty regarding how to apply Buy America laws for major bridge projects threatens the domestic bridge industry;

(4) the Nation's unemployment rate continues to hover around 5.6 percent, steps are needed to protect American workers and the domestic bridge building industry; and

(5) the Buy America Act was designed to ensure that, when taxpayer money is spent on direct Federal Government procurement and infrastructure projects, these expenditures stimulate United States production and job creation.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD).

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I support the underlying transportation bill that will put America back to work, relieve congestion on our roadways, and streamline the permitting process.

I appreciate the opportunity to speak on behalf of my amendment that will strengthen the Buy America Act. The Nation's unemployment rate continues to hover around 5.6 percent. In a district such as mine, that number is considerably higher.

As we all know, the intent of the Buy America law was to ensure that when taxpayer money is spent on direct Federal Government procurement and infrastructure projects, those expenditures will stimulate U.S. production and U.S. job creation.

My sense of the Congress resolution is intended to reinforce that commitment. This resolution does not cost the Federal Government any money, but it will help the working men and women in my district and others around this Nation keep their steel jobs and earn a decent living.

My resolution will also strengthen our domestic steel industry, which is critical to our national security and ultimately to the future economic success of our country. Simply put, highway project managers have identified a way to circumvent the Buy America law as it applies to bridge projects that use Federal funds. My resolution is needed to clarify that law and close the loophole before it completely subverts the intent of Congress when the original Buy America provisions were enacted as part of the highway bill more than 20 years ago.

The original Buy America provision provided that domestic iron and steel would be used in Federal transportation projects unless its use increased the overall project contract by more than 25 percent. The problem that is emerging in the highway bridge industry is that project managers have begun to attempt to circumvent the Buy America Act by breaking bridge projects into component parts and applying the 25 percent test individually rather than to the entire project as required under law.

As it turns out, by breaking the project into smaller components, foreign steel providers are advantaged because it is possible to create situations where the 25 percent test is exceeded on smaller components, even though the test, if it were applied to the overall project, would be required.

The steel bridge fabricating industry increasingly is being forced to fight this misinterpretation of the law which, left unchallenged, could devastate the steel bridge industry. Most recently, on the Wilson Bridge project between Maryland and Virginia, the bridge industry argued successfully that the original bid process developed by the Maryland Department of Transportation, which initially called for dividing the project into smaller component projects, violated the Buy America Act. Maryland revised its procedures and now domestic mills and fabricators are building that bridge.

Congress needs to deliver a clear message to the Federal Highway Administration and to bridge managers across the country that Buy America provisions apply to the overall bridge project and we must, end any confusion or misinterpretation of the law.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The gentleman from Alaska is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBERSTAR).

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman for yielding me this time.

I appreciate the intent of the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD). It is a sense of Congress amendment to clarify that the Buy America Act applies to overall projects and not just to component parts. It is in keeping with the purpose, the thrust of our intent to keep more jobs in America, not let them go overseas, keep products that go into our highway and bridge program built in America, not built overseas.

And I can speak from personal experience. In the harbor between Duluth and Lake Superior, when a new bridge was being built 22 years ago and the bridge had been bid and the State of Wisconsin was the one responsible for building that bridge, they allowed $1 million of Japanese steel to go into the center arch span.

That is when I sprang to the defense of American steel and got the amendment that has now been in law for all these years that we have American steel in U.S. Federal-aid highway programs. So I am in accord with the purpose of the gentleman.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am going to ask for a voice vote, and I really am not in opposition to it; but I do not have anybody else speaking on this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back my time.

Mr. BAIRD. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I thank my distinguished chairman and ranking member for their prior leadership on this and their continuing and steadfast support of Buy America provisions.

This is not only a jobs issue, this is not only a safety issue, it is a homeland security issue. We must maintain a vibrant and strong domestic steel fabrication industry. We must not allow entities to circumvent the intent of the Buy America provision.

This resolution helps the sense of the Congress clarify that intent, and I urge its passage.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD).

The amendment was agreed to.

It is now in order to consider amendment No. 11 printed in House Report 108-456.

AMENDMENT NO. 11 OFFERED BY MR. HOLT

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Chairman pro tempore. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 11 offered by Mr. HOLT:

At the end of title I, insert the following (and conform the table of contents accordingly):

SEC. 1819. NEW JERSEY REGULATIONS.

Nothing in Federal law or regulation shall be construed as preventing the State of New Jersey from prohibiting large single trucks or twin-trailer combinations from using highways on the Interstate System, the New Jersey Turnpike, and the Atlantic City Expressway in the State of New Jersey, unless such trucks or combinations are traveling to a terminal or making pickups or deliveries on other roads in the State of New Jersey.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 593, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT).

MODIFICATION TO AMENDMENT NO. 11 OFFERED BY MR. HOLT

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to modify my amendment at the desk with an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The Clerk will report the modification.

The Clerk read as follows:

Modification offered by Mr. HOLT to amendment No. 11:

(1) On line 4 of the amendment, strike "large single trucks or twin-trailer combinations" and insert "trucks that are specifically allowed by Federal law to travel on the national network".

(2) On line 5 of the amendment, strike "Interstate System" and insert "national network".

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there objection to the modification of the amendment?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, reserving the right to object, under my reservation may I inquire of our Chair whether the majority has seen the language.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. OBERSTAR. I yield to the gentleman from Alaska.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, we have not seen the language yet as far as the amendment. It is my indication I do not think we are going to object, but I would like to be able to read the language first. I do not think we have any objections to it.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. OBERSTAR. Further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, it is my understanding that the gentleman did misdraft the original amendment. We are still going to oppose the amendment as redrafted on the merits, but extend him the courtesy of correcting his drafting error.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Chairman, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. Is there objection to the modification offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT)?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN pro tempore. The amendment is modified.

The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I appreciate the courtesy so we can at least consider the perfected form of this amendment.

The need for my amendment is precipitated by a recent court decision that would lift a ban that has been in effect in the State of New Jersey since 1999 that restricts the roads on which the very wide 102-inch or wider trucks travel.

And this amendment would uphold current restrictions and current policy, maintain current policy and, thus, by extension, affirm the right of States to regulate the super-sized trucks on roads that are not part of the national network.

In 1999 the then Secretary of Transportation and his associate at the Federal Highway Administration, the administrator, in writing and in person with Members of Congress and concerned State and local officials, categorically affirmed that, quote, "nothing in Federal law or regulation would prevent New Jersey from banning large single or twin-trailer combinations from the subject routes unless they were traveling to a terminal or making pickups or deliveries on these routes."

And with that clarification, the State of New Jersey, the former Governor, Governor Whitman, subsequently adopted new limitations on what roads large trucks may and may not use.

“(II) the amendment is required by a collective bargaining agreement which is in effect on the date of enactment of this subparagraph.

If a plan is amended during any such plan year in violation of the preceding sentence, any election under this paragraph shall not apply to any such plan year ending on or after the date on which such amendment is adopted.

“(iv) ELIGIBLE MULTIEMPLOYER PLAN.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the term ‘eligible multiemployer plan’ means a multiemployer plan—

“(I) which had a net investment loss for the first plan year beginning after December 31, 2001, of at least 10 percent of the average fair market value of the plan assets during the plan year, and

“(II) with respect to which the plan's enrolled actuary certifies (not taking into account the application of this subparagraph), on the basis of the actuarial assumptions used for the last plan year ending before the date of the enactment of this subparagraph, that the plan is projected to have an accumulated funding deficiency (within the meaning of subsection (a)(2)) for any plan year beginning after June 30, 2003, and before July 1, 2006.

For purposes of subclause (I), a plan's net investment loss shall be determined on the basis of the actual loss and not under any actuarial method used under subsection (c)(2).

“(v) EXCEPTION TO TREATMENT OF ELIGIBLE MULTIEMPLOYER PLAN.—In no event shall a plan be treated as an eligible multiemployer plan under clause (iv) if—

“(I) for any taxable year beginning during the 10-year period preceding the first plan year for which an election is made under clause (i), any employer required to contribute to the plan failed to timely pay any excise tax imposed under section 4971 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 with respect to the plan,

“(II) for any plan year beginning after June 30, 1993, and before the first plan year for which an election is made under clause (i), the average contribution required to be made by all employers to the plan does not exceed 10 cents per hour or no employer is required to make contributions to the plan, or

“(III) with respect to any of the plan years beginning after June 30, 1993, and before the first plan year for which an election is made under clause (i), a waiver was granted under section 303 of this Act or section 412(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 with respect to the plan or an extension of an amortization period was granted under section 304 of this Act or section 412(e) of such Code with respect to the plan.

“(vi) NOTICE.—If a plan sponsor makes an election under this subparagraph or section 412(b)(7)(F) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 for any plan year, the plan administrator shall provide, within 30 days of filing the election for such year, written notice of the election to participants and beneficiaries, to each labor organization representing such participants or beneficiaries, to each employer that has an obligation to contribute under the plan, and to the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation. Such notice shall include with respect to any election the amount of any charge to be deferred and the period of the deferral. Such notice shall also include the maximum guaranteed monthly benefits which the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation would pay if the plan terminated while underfunded.

“(vii) ELECTION.—An election under this subparagraph shall be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe.”

(2) PENALTY.—Section 502(c)(4) of such Act (29 U.S.C. 1132(c)(4)) is amended to read as follows:

“(4) The Secretary may assess a civil penalty of not more than $1,000 a day for each violation by any person of section 302(b)(7)(F)(vi).”

(b) INTERNAL REVENUE CODE OF 1986.—Section 412(b)(7) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to special rules for multiemployer plans) is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

“(F) ELECTION FOR DEFERRAL OF CHARGE FOR PORTION OF NET EXPERIENCE LOSS.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—With respect to the net experience loss of an eligible multiemployer plan for the first plan year beginning after December 31, 2001, the plan sponsor may elect to defer up to 80 percent of the amount otherwise required to be charged under paragraph (2)(B)(iv) for any plan year beginning after June 30, 2003, and before July 1, 2005, to any plan year selected by the plan from either of the 2 immediately succeeding plan years.

“(ii) INTEREST.—For the plan year to which a charge is deferred pursuant to an election under clause (i), the funding standard account shall be charged with interest on the deferred charge for the period of deferral at the rate determined under subsection (d) for multiemployer plans.

“(iii) RESTRICTIONS ON BENEFIT INCREASES.—No amendment which increases the liabilities of the plan by reason of any increase in benefits, any change in the accrual of benefits, or any change in the rate at which benefits become nonforfeitable under the plan shall be adopted during any period for which a charge is deferred pursuant to an election under clause (i), unless—

“(I) the plan's enrolled actuary certifies (in such form and manner prescribed by the Secretary) that the amendment provides for an increase in annual contributions which will exceed the increase in annual charges to the funding standard account attributable to such amendment, or

“(II) the amendment is required by a collective bargaining agreement which is in effect on the date of enactment of this subparagraph.

If a plan is amended during any such plan year in violation of the preceding sentence, any election under this paragraph shall not apply to any such plan year ending on or after the date on which such amendment is adopted.

“(iv) ELIGIBLE MULTIEMPLOYER PLAN.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the term ‘eligible multiemployer plan’ means a multiemployer plan—

“(I) which had a net investment loss for the first plan year beginning after December 31, 2001, of at least 10 percent of the average fair market value of the plan assets during the plan year, and

“(II) with respect to which the plan's enrolled actuary certifies (not taking into account the application of this subparagraph), on the basis of the actuarial assumptions used for the last plan year ending before the date of the enactment of this subparagraph, that the plan is projected to have an accumulated funding deficiency (within the meaning of subsection (a)) for any plan year beginning after June 30, 2003, and before July 1, 2006.

For purposes of subclause (I), a plan's net investment loss shall be determined on the basis of the actual loss and not under any actuarial method used under subsection (c)(2).

“(v) EXCEPTION TO TREATMENT OF ELIGIBLE MULTIEMPLOYER PLAN.—In no event shall a plan be treated as an eligible multiemployer plan under clause (iv) if—

“(I) for any taxable year beginning during the 10-year period preceding the first plan year for which an election is made under clause (i), any employer required to contribute to the plan failed to timely pay any excise tax imposed under section 4971 with respect to the plan,

“(II) for any plan year beginning after June 30, 1993, and before the first plan year for which an election is made under clause (i), the average contribution required to be made by all employers to the plan does not exceed 10 cents per hour or no employer is required to make contributions to the plan, or

“(III) with respect to any of the plan years beginning after June 30, 1993, and before the first plan year for which an election is made under clause (i), a waiver was granted under section 412(d) or section 303 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 with respect to the plan or an extension of an amortization period was granted under subsection (e) or section 304 of such Act with respect to the plan.

“(vi) ELECTION.—An election under this subparagraph shall be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary may prescribe.”

SEC. 207. CONFIRMATION OF ANTITRUST STATUS OF GRADUATE MEDICAL RESIDENT MATCHING PROGRAMS.

(a) FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.—

(1) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(A) For over 50 years, most United States medical school seniors and the large majority of graduate medical education programs (popularly known as “residency programs”) have chosen to use a matching program to match medical students with residency programs to which they have applied. These matching programs have been an integral part of an educational system that has produced the finest physicians and medical researchers in the world.

(B) Before such matching programs were instituted, medical students often felt pressure, at an unreasonably early stage of their medical education, to seek admission to, and accept offers from, residency programs. As a result, medical students often made binding commitments before they were in a position to make an informed decision about a medical specialty or a residency program and before residency programs could make an informed assessment of students’ qualifications. This situation was inefficient, chaotic, and unfair and it often led to placements that did not serve the interests of either medical students or residency programs.

(C) The original matching program, now operated by the independent non-profit National Resident Matching Program and popularly known as “the Match,” was developed and implemented more than 50 years ago in response to widespread student complaints about the prior process. This Program includes on its board of directors individuals nominated by medical student organizations as well as by major medical education and hospital associations.

(D) The Match uses a computerized mathematical algorithm, as students had recommended, to analyze the preferences of students and residency programs and match students with their highest preferences from among the available positions in residency programs that listed them. Students thus obtain a residency position in the most highly ranked program on their list that has ranked them sufficiently high among its preferences. Each year, about 85 percent of participating United States medical students secure a place in one of their top 3 residency program choices.

(E) Antitrust lawsuits challenging the matching process, regardless of their merit or lack thereof, have the potential to undermine this highly efficient, pro-competitive, and long-standing process. The costs of defending such litigation would divert the scarce resources of our country’s teaching hospitals and medical schools from their crucial missions of patient care, physician training, and medical research. In addition, such costs may lead to abandonment of the matching process, which has effectively served the interests of medical students, teaching hospitals, and patients for over half a century.

(2) PURPOSES.—It is the purpose of this section to—

(A) confirm that the antitrust laws do not prohibit sponsoring, conducting, or participating in a graduate medical education residency matching program, or agreeing to do so; and

(B) ensure that those who sponsor, conduct or participate in such matching programs are not subjected to the burden and expense of defending against litigation that challenges such matching programs under the antitrust laws.

(b) APPLICATION OF ANTITRUST LAWS TO GRADUATE MEDICAL EDUCATION RESIDENCY MATCHING PROGRAMS.—

(1) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection:

(A) ANTITRUST LAWS.—The term “antitrust laws”—

(i) has the meaning given such term in subsection (a) of the first section of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. 12(a)), except that such term includes section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 45) to the extent such section 5 applies to unfair methods of competition; and

(ii) includes any State law similar to the laws referred to in clause (i).

(B) GRADUATE MEDICAL EDUCATION PROGRAM.—The term “graduate medical education program” means—

(i) a residency program for the medical education and training of individuals following graduation from medical school;

(ii) a program, known as a specialty or subspecialty fellowship program, that provides more advanced training; and

(iii) an institution or organization that operates, sponsors or participates in such a program.

(C) GRADUATE MEDICAL EDUCATION RESIDENCY MATCHING PROGRAM.—The term “graduate medical education residency matching program” means a program (such as those conducted by the National Resident Matching Program) that, in connection with the admission of students to graduate medical education programs, uses an algorithm and matching rules to match students in accordance with the preferences of students and the preferences of graduate medical education programs.

(D) STUDENT.—The term “student” means any individual who seeks to be admitted to a graduate medical education program.

(2) CONFIRMATION OF ANTITRUST STATUS.—It shall not be unlawful under the antitrust laws to sponsor, conduct, or participate in a graduate medical education residency matching program, or to agree to sponsor, conduct, or participate in such a program. Evidence of any of the conduct described in the preceding sentence shall not be admissible in Federal court to support any claim or action alleging a violation of the antitrust laws.

(3) APPLICABILITY.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to exempt from the antitrust laws any agreement on the part of 2 or more graduate medical education programs to fix the amount of the stipend or other benefits received by students participating in such programs.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act, shall apply to conduct whether it occurs prior to, on, or after such date of enactment, and shall apply to all judicial and administrative actions or other proceedings pending on such date of enactment.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 3108), to amend the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to temporarily replace the 30-year Treasury rate with a rate based on long-term corporate bonds for certain pension plan funding requirements, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment struck all of the House bill after “SECTION” (page 2, line 3) and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment that is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

A. TEMPORARY REPLACEMENT OF INTEREST RATE USED FOR CERTAIN PENSION PLAN PURPOSES AND ALTERNATIVE DEFICIT REDUCTION CONTRIBUTION FOR CERTAIN PLANS

(Sec. 3 of the House bill, secs. 2-3 of the Senate Amendment, secs. 302 and 4006 of ERISA, and secs. 404, 412 and 415 of the Code)

PRESENT LAW

In general

Under present law, the interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities is used for several purposes related to defined benefit pension plans. Specifically, the interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities is used: (1) in determining current liability for purposes of the funding and deduction rules; (2) in determining unfunded vested benefits for purposes of Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (“PBGC”) variable rate premiums; and (3) in determining the minimum required value of lump-sum distributions from a defined benefit pension plan and maximum lump-sum values for purposes of the limits on benefits payable under a defined benefit pension plan.

The IRS publishes the interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities on a monthly basis. The Department of the Treasury does not currently issue 30-year Treasury securities. As of March 2002, the IRS publishes the average yield on the 30-year Treasury bond maturing in February 2031 as a substitute.

Funding rules

In general

The Internal Revenue Code (the “Code”) and the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (“ERISA”) impose minimum funding requirements with respect to defined benefit pension plans.¹ Under the funding rules, the amount of contributions required for a plan year is generally the plan’s normal cost for the year (i.e., the cost of benefits allocated to the year under the plan’s funding method) plus that year’s portion of other liabilities that are amortized over a period of years, such as benefits resulting from a grant of past service credit.

Additional contributions for underfunded plans

Under special funding rules (referred to as the “deficit reduction contribution” rules),² an additional contribution to a plan is generally required if the plan’s funded current liability percentage is less than 90 percent.³

³ Under an alternative test, a plan is not subject to the deficit reduction contribution rules for a plan

A plan's "funded current liability percentage" is the actuarial value of plan assets⁴ as a percentage of the plan's current liability. In general, a plan's current liability means all liabilities to employees and their beneficiaries under the plan.

The amount of the additional contribution required under the deficit reduction contribution rules is the sum of two amounts: (1) the excess, if any, of (a) the deficit reduction contribution (as described below), over (b) the contribution required under the normal funding rules; and (2) the amount (if any) required with respect to unpredictable contingent event benefits.⁵ The amount of the additional contribution cannot exceed the amount needed to increase the plan's funded current liability percentage to 100 percent.

The deficit reduction contribution is the sum of (1) the "unfunded old liability amount," (2) the "unfunded new liability amount," and (3) the expected increase in current liability due to benefits accruing during the plan year.⁶ The "unfunded old liability amount" is the amount needed to amortize certain unfunded liabilities under 1987 and 1994 transition rules. The "unfunded new liability amount" is the applicable percentage of the plan's unfunded new liability. Unfunded new liability generally means the unfunded current liability of the plan (i.e., the amount by which the plan's current liability exceeds the actuarial value of plan assets), but determined without regard to certain liabilities (such as the plan's unfunded old liability and unpredictable contingent event benefits). The applicable percentage is generally 30 percent, but is reduced if the plan's funded current liability percentage is greater than 60 percent.

Required interest rate and mortality table

Specific interest rate and mortality assumptions must be used in determining a plan's current liability for purposes of the special funding rule. The interest rate used to determine a plan's current liability must be within a permissible range of the weighted average⁷ of the interest rates on 30-year Treasury securities for the four-year period ending on the last day before the plan year begins. The permissible range is generally from 90 percent to 105 percent.⁸ The interest rate used under the plan must be consistent with the assumptions which reflect the purchase rates which would be used by insurance companies to satisfy the liabilities under the plan.⁹

The Job Creation and Worker Assistance Act of 2002¹⁰ amended the permissible range of the statutory interest rate used in calculating a plan's current liability for purposes of applying the additional contribution requirements. Under this provision, the permissible range is from 90 percent to 120 percent for plan years beginning after December 31, 2001, and before January 1, 2004.

The Secretary of the Treasury is required to prescribe mortality tables and to periodically review (at least every five years) and update such tables to reflect the actuarial experience of pension plans and projected trends in such experience.¹¹ The Secretary of the Treasury has required the use of the 1983 Group Annuity Mortality Table.¹²

Full funding limitation

No contributions are required under the minimum funding rules in excess of the full funding limitation. In 2004 and thereafter, the full funding limitation is the excess, if any, of (1) the accrued liability under the plan (including normal cost), over (2) the lesser of (a) the market value of plan assets or (b) the actuarial value of plan assets.¹³ However, the full funding limitation may not be less than the excess, if any, of 90 percent of the plan's current liability (including the current liability normal cost) over the actuarial value of plan assets. In general, current liability is all liabilities to plan participants and beneficiaries accrued to date, whereas the accrued liability under the full funding limitation may be based on projected future benefits, including future salary increases.

Timing of plan contributions

In general, plan contributions required to satisfy the funding rules must be made within 8½ months after the end of the plan year. If the contribution is made by such due date, the contribution is treated as if it were made on the last day of the plan year.

In the case of a plan with a funded current liability percentage of less than 100 percent for the preceding plan year, estimated contributions for the current plan year must be made in quarterly installments during the current plan year.¹⁴ The amount of each required installment is 25 percent of the lesser of (1) 90 percent of the amount required to be contributed for the current plan year or (2)

100 percent of the amount required to be contributed for the preceding plan year.¹⁵

Funding waivers

Within limits, the IRS is permitted to waive all or a portion of the contributions required under the minimum funding standard for a plan year.¹⁶ A waiver may be granted if the employer (or employers) responsible for the contribution could not make the required contribution without temporary substantial business hardship and if requiring the contribution would be adverse to the interests of plan participants in the aggregate. Generally, no more than three waivers may be granted within any period of 15 consecutive plan years.

If a funding waiver is in effect for a plan, subject to certain exceptions, no plan amendment may be adopted that increases the liabilities of the plan by reason of any increase in benefits, any change in the accrual of benefits, or any change in the rate at which benefits vest under the plan. In addition, the IRS is authorized to require security to be granted as a condition of granting a funding waiver if the sum of the plan's accumulated funding deficiency and the balance of any outstanding waived funding deficiencies exceeds $1 million.

Excise tax

An employer is generally subject to an excise tax if it fails to make minimum required contributions and fails to obtain a waiver from the IRS.¹⁷ The excise tax is generally 10 percent of the amount of the funding deficiency. In addition, a tax of 100 percent may be imposed if the funding deficiency is not corrected within a certain period.

Deductions for contributions

Employer contributions to qualified retirement plans are deductible, subject to certain limits. In the case of a defined benefit pension plan, the employer generally may deduct the greater of: (1) the amount necessary to satisfy the minimum funding requirement of the plan for the year; or (2) the amount of the plan's normal cost for the year plus the amount necessary to amortize certain unfunded liabilities over ten years, but limited to the full funding limitation for the year.¹⁸ However, the maximum amount of deductible contributions is generally not less than the plan's unfunded current liability.¹⁹

PBGC premiums

Because benefits under a defined benefit pension plan may be funded over a period of years, plan assets may not be sufficient to provide the benefits owed under the plan to employees and their beneficiaries if the plan terminates before all benefits are paid. The PBGC generally insures the benefits owed year if (1) the plan's funded current liability percentage for the plan year is at least 80 percent, and (2) the plan's funded current liability percentage was at least 90 percent for each of the two immediately preceding plan years or each of the second and third immediately preceding plan years.

⁴ The actuarial value of plan assets is the value determined under an actuarial valuation method that takes into account fair market value and meets certain other requirements. The use of an actuarial valuation method allows appreciation or depreciation in the market value of plan assets to be recognized gradually over several plan years. Sec. 412(c)(2); Treas. reg. sec. 1.412(c)(2)-1.

⁵ A plan may provide for unpredictable contingent event benefits, which are benefits that depend on contingencies that are not reliably and reasonably predictable, such as facility shutdowns or reductions in workforce. An additional contribution is generally not required with respect to unpredictable contingent event benefits unless the event giving rise to the benefits has occurred.

Under Notice 90-11, 1990-1 C.B. 319, the interest rates in the permissible range are deemed to be consistent with the assumptions reflecting the purchase rates that would be used by insurance companies to satisfy the liabilities under the plan.

¹³ For plan years beginning before 2004, the full funding limitation was generally defined as the excess, if any, of (1) the lesser of (a) the accrued liability under the plan (including normal cost) or (b) a percentage (170 percent for 2003) of the plan's current liability (including the current liability normal cost), over (2) the lesser of (a) the market value of plan assets or (b) the actuarial value of plan assets, but in no case less than the excess, if any, of 90 percent of the plan's current liability over the actuarial value of plan assets. Under the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 ("EGTRRA"), the full funding limitation based on 170 percent of current liability is repealed for plan years beginning in 2004 and thereafter. The provisions of EGTRRA generally do not apply for years beginning after December 31, 2010.

¹⁵ In connection with the expanded interest rate range available for 2002 and 2003, special rules apply in determining current liability for the preceding plan year for purposes of applying the quarterly contributions requirements to plan years beginning in 2002 (when the expanded range first applies) and 2004 (when the expanded range no longer applies). In each of those years ("present year"), current liability for the preceding year is redetermined, using the permissible range applicable to the present year. This redetermined current liability will be used for purposes of the plan's funded current liability percentage for the preceding year, which may affect the need to make quarterly contributions, and for purposes of determining the amount of any quarterly contributions in the present year, which is based in part on the preceding year.

under defined benefit pension plans (up to certain limits) in the event a plan is terminated with insufficient assets. Employers pay premiums to the PBGC for this insurance coverage.

PBGC premiums include a flat-rate premium and, in the case of an underfunded plan, a variable rate premium based on the amount of unfunded vested benefits.²⁰ In determining the amount of unfunded vested benefits, the interest rate used is 85 percent of the annual yield on 30-year Treasury securities for the month preceding the month in which the plan year begins.

Under the Job Creation and Worker Assistance Act of 2002, for plan years beginning after December 31, 2001, and before January 1, 2004, the interest rate used in determining the amount of unfunded vested benefits for PBGC variable rate premium purposes is increased to 100 percent of the annual yield on 30-year Treasury securities for the month preceding the month in which the plan year begins.

Lump-sum distributions

Accrued benefits under a defined benefit pension plan generally must be paid in the form of an annuity for the life of the participant unless the participant consents to a distribution in another form. Defined benefit pension plans generally provide that a participant may choose among other forms of benefit offered under the plan, such as a lump-sum distribution. These optional forms of benefit generally must be actuarially equivalent to the life annuity benefit payable to the participant.

A defined benefit pension plan must specify the actuarial assumptions that will be used in determining optional forms of benefit under the plan in a manner that precludes employer discretion in the assumptions to be used. For example, a plan may specify that a variable interest rate will be used in determining actuarial equivalent forms of benefit, but may not give the employer discretion to choose the interest rate.

Statutory assumptions must be used in determining the minimum value of certain optional forms of benefit, such as a lump sum.²¹ That is, the lump sum payable under the plan may not be less than the amount of the lump sum that is actuarially equivalent to the life annuity payable to the participant, determined using the statutory assumptions. The statutory assumptions consist of an applicable mortality table (as published by the IRS) and an applicable interest rate.

The applicable interest rate is the annual interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities, determined as of the time that is permitted under regulations. The regulations provide various options for determining the interest rate to be used under the plan, such as the period for which the interest rate will remain constant ("stability period") and the use of averaging.

Limits on benefits

Annual benefits payable under a defined benefit pension plan generally may not exceed the lesser of (1) 100 percent of average compensation, or (2) $165,000 (for 2004).²² The dollar limit generally applies to a benefit payable in the form of a straight life annuity beginning no earlier than age 62. The limit is reduced if benefits are paid before age 62. In addition, if the benefit is not in the form of a straight life annuity, the benefit generally is adjusted to an equivalent straight life annuity. In making these reductions and adjustments, the interest rate used generally must be not less than the greater of (1) five percent; or (2) the interest rate specified in the plan. However, for purposes of adjusting a benefit in a form that is subject to the minimum value rules (including the use of the interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities), such as a lump-sum benefit, the interest rate used must be not less than the greater of: (1) the interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities; or (2) the interest rate specified in the plan.

HOUSE BILL

Interest rate for determining current liability and PBGC premiums

The House bill changes the interest rate used for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2006, in determining current liability for funding and deduction purposes and in determining PBGC variable rate premiums. For these purposes, the House bill replaces the interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities with the rate of interest on amounts conservatively invested in long-term corporate bonds.

For purposes of determining a plan's current liability for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2006, the interest rate used must be within a permissible range of the weighted average of the rates of interest on amounts conservatively invested in long-term corporate bonds during the four-year period ending on the last day before the plan year begins, as determined by the Secretary of the Treasury on the basis of one or more indices selected periodically by the Secretary. The permissible range for these years is from 90 percent to 100 percent. The Secretary of the Treasury is directed to publish the interest rate within the permissible range.

In determining the amount of unfunded vested benefits for PBGC variable rate premium purposes for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2006, the interest rate used is 85 percent of the annual yield on amounts conservatively invested in long-term corporate bonds for the month preceding the month in which the plan year begins, as determined by the Secretary of the Treasury on the basis of one or more indices selected periodically by the Secretary. The Secretary of the Treasury is directed to publish such annual yield.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The House bill is generally effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003. For purposes of applying certain rules ("lookback rules") to plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, the amendments made by the provision may be applied as if they had been in effect for all years beginning before the effective date. For purposes of the provision, "lookback rules" means: (1) the rule under which a plan is not subject to the additional funding requirements for a plan year if the plan's funded current liability percentage was at least 90 percent for each of the two immediately preceding plan years or each of the second and third immediately preceding plan years; and (2) the rule under which quarterly contributions are required for a plan year if the plan's funded current liability percentage was less than 100 percent for the preceding plan year.

SENATE AMENDMENT

Interest rate for determining current liability and PBGC premiums

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill, with the following modifications.

The Senate amendment replaces the interest rate on 30-year Treasury securities with a conservative long-term bond rate reflecting the rates of interest on amounts invested conservatively in long term corporate bonds and based on the use of two or more indices that are in the top two quality levels available reflecting average maturities of 20 years or more. The Secretary of the Treasury is directed to prescribe by regulation a method for periodically determining conservative long-term corporate bond rates.²⁴

Under the Senate amendment, an employer may elect to disregard the temporary interest rate change for purposes of determining the maximum amount of deductible contributions to a defined benefit pension plan (regardless of whether the plan is subject to the deficit reduction contribution requirements). In such a case, the present-law interest rate rules apply, i.e., the interest rate used in determining current liability for that purpose must be within the permissible range (90 to 105 percent) of the weighted average of the interest rates on 30-year Treasury securities for the preceding four-year period.

Interest rate used to apply benefit limits to lump sums

Under the Senate amendment, in the case of plan years beginning in 2004 or 2005, in adjusting a form of benefit that is subject to the minimum value rules, such as a lump-sum benefit, for purposes of applying the limits on benefits payable under a defined benefit pension plan, the interest rate used must be not less than the greater of: (1) 5.5 percent; or (2) the interest rate specified in the plan.

Alternative deficit reduction contribution for certain plans

In general

The Senate amendment allows certain employers ("applicable employers") to elect a reduced amount of additional required contribution under the deficit reduction contribution rules (an "alternative deficit reduction contribution") with respect to certain plans for applicable plan years. An applicable plan year is a plan year beginning after December 27, 2003, and before December 28, 2005, for which the employer elects a reduced contribution. If an employer so elects, the amount of the additional deficit reduction contribution for an applicable plan year is the greater of: (1) 20 percent (40 percent in the case of a plan year beginning after December 27, 2004) of the amount of the additional contribution that would otherwise be required; or (2) the additional contribution that would be required if the deficit reduction contribution for the plan year were determined as the expected increase in current liability due to benefits accruing during the plan year.

An election of an alternative deficit reduction contribution may be made only with respect to a plan that was not subject to the deficit reduction contribution rules for the plan year beginning in 2000. An election may not be made with respect to more than two plan years. An election is to be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury prescribes. An election does not invalidate any obligation pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement in effect on the date of the election to provide benefits, to change the accrual of benefits, or to change the rate at which benefits vest under the plan.

An applicable employer is an employer that is: (1) a commercial passenger airline; (2) primarily engaged in the production or manufacture of a steel mill product, or in the mining or processing of iron ore or beneficiated iron ore products; or (3) an organization described in section 501(c)(5) that established the plan for which an alternative deficit reduction contribution is elected on June 30, 1955. In addition, an employer not described in the preceding sentence is treated as an applicable employer if the employer files an application (at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury prescribes) to be treated as an applicable employer. However, an employer making such an application is not treated as an applicable employer if, within 90 days of the application, the Secretary determines (taking into account the application of the provision) that there is a reasonable likelihood that the employer will be unable to make required future contributions to the plan in a timely manner.

Restrictions on amendments

Certain plan amendments may not be adopted during an applicable plan year (i.e., a plan year for which an alternative deficit reduction contribution is elected). This restriction applies to an amendment that increases the liabilities of the plan by reason of any increase in benefits, any change in the accrual of benefits, or any change in the rate at which benefits vest under the plan. The restriction applies unless: (1) the plan's funded current liability percentage as of the end of the applicable plan year is projected to be at least 75 percent (taking into account the effect of the amendment); (2) the amendment provides for an increase in benefits under a formula that is not based on a participant's compensation, but only if the rate of the increase does not exceed the contemporaneous rate of increase in average wages of participants covered by the amendment; (3) the amendment is required by a collective bargaining agreement that is in effect on the date of enactment of the provision; (4) the amendment is determined by the Secretary of Labor to be reasonable and provides for only de minimis increases in plan liabilities; or (5) the amendment is required as a condition of qualified retirement plan status.

If a plan is amended during an applicable plan year in violation of the provision, an election of an alternative deficit reduction contribution does not apply to any applicable plan year ending on or after the date on which the amendment is adopted.

Notice requirement

The Senate amendment amends ERISA to provide that, if an employer elects an alternative deficit reduction contribution for any applicable plan year, the employer must provide written notice of the election to participants and beneficiaries within 30 days of filing the election (120 days in the case of an employer that files an application to be treated as an applicable employer). The notice to participants must include: (1) the due date of the alternative deficit reduction contribution; (2) the amount by which the required contribution to the plan was reduced as a result of the election; (3) a description of the benefits under the plan that are eligible for guarantee by the PBGC; and (4) an explanation of the limitations on the PBGC guarantee and the circumstances in which the limitations apply, including the maximum guaranteed monthly benefits that the PBGC would pay if the plan terminated while underfunded. An employer that fails to provide the required notice to a participant or beneficiary may (in the discretion of a court) be liable to the participant or beneficiary in the amount of up to $100 a day from the date of the failure, and the court may in its discretion order such other relief as it deems proper.

The Senate amendment also amends ERISA to require that an employer electing an alternative deficit reduction contribution for any year must provide written notice of the election to the PBGC within 30 days of the election (120 days in the case of an employer that files an application to be treated as an applicable employer). The notice to the PBGC must include: (1) the due date of the alternative deficit reduction contribution; (2) the amount by which the required contribution to the plan was reduced as a result of the election; (3) the number of years it will take to restore the plan to full funding if the employer makes only the required contributions; and (4) information as to how the amount by which the plan is underfunded compares with the capitalization of the employer.

Interest rate for determining current liability and PBGC premiums

The Senate amendment is generally effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003. For purposes of applying certain rules ("lookback rules") to plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, the amendments made by the provision may be applied as if they had been in effect for all years beginning before the effective date. For purposes of the provision, "lookback rules" means: (1) the rule under which a plan is not subject to the additional funding requirements for a plan year if the plan's funded current liability percentage was at least 90 percent for each of the two immediately preceding plan years or each of the second and third immediately preceding plan years; and (2) the rule under which quarterly contributions are required for a plan year if the plan's funded current liability percentage was less than 100 percent for the preceding plan year.

Interest rate used to apply benefit limits to lump sums

The Senate amendment is generally effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003. Under a special rule, in the case of a distribution made to a participant or beneficiary after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2005, in a form of benefit that is subject to the minimum value rules, such as a lump-sum benefit, and that is subject to adjustment in applying the limit on benefits payable under a defined benefit pension plan, the amount payable may not, solely by reason of the Senate amendment, be less than the amount that would have been payable if the amount payable had been determined using the applicable interest rate in effect as of the last day of the last plan year beginning before January 31, 2004.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

Interest rate for determining current liability and PBGC premiums

The conference agreement follows the House bill with modifications.

Under the conference agreement, the interest rate used for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2006, in determining current liability for funding and deduction purposes and in determining

PBGC variable rate premiums is generally the rate of interest on amounts invested conservatively in long-term investment-grade corporate bonds.²⁵

For purposes of determining a plan's current liability for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2006, the interest rate used must be within a permissible range of the weighted average of the rates of interest on amounts invested conservatively in long-term investment-grade corporate bonds during the four-year period ending on the last day before the plan year begins. The permissible range for these years is from 90 percent to 100 percent. The interest rate is to be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury on the basis of two or more indices that are selected periodically by the Secretary and are in the top three quality levels available.

The interest rate on long-term corporate bonds shall be calculated pursuant to a method, prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, which relies on publicly available indices of high-quality bonds (i.e., the top three quality levels). The Secretary may use bonds with average maturities of 20 years or more in determining the rate. The Secretary of Treasury may prescribe that two thirds of the rate may be based on two or more indices that are in the top three quality levels, and one third of such rate may be based on two or more indices that are in the third quality level. The Secretary shall have discretion to determine which publicly available indices to use.

The Secretary is directed to make the permissible range of the interest rate, as well as the indices and methodology used to determine the average rate, publicly available. The methodology used by the Secretary to arrive at a single rate shall be publicly available (including for a subscription fee or other charge). The Secretary shall publish the rate on a monthly basis, along with an updated four-year weighted average of the rate and an updated permissible range. The Secretary shall consider and monitor the current marketplace indices to produce the specified rate to ensure that the indices continue to be appropriate for this purpose. Through regulations, the Secretary shall, as appropriate, make prospective changes in the indices used to determine the rate.

For purposes of determining the four-year weighted average of interest rates under the temporary provision, the weighting applicable under present law applies (i.e., 40 percent, 30 percent, 20 percent and 10 percent, starting with the most recent year in the four-year period). In addition, consistent with current IRS guidance, the interest rates in the permissible range under the temporary provision are deemed to be consistent with the assumptions reflecting the purchase rates that would be used by insurance companies to satisfy the liabilities under the plan. Thus, any interest rate in the permissible range may be used in determining current liability while the temporary provision is in effect.

The temporary interest rate generally applies in determining current liability for purposes of determining the maximum amount of deductible contributions to a defined benefit pension plan (regardless of whether the plan is subject to the deficit reduction contribution requirements). However, under the conference agreement, an employer may elect to disregard the temporary interest rate change for purposes of determining the maximum amount of deductible contributions (regardless of whether the plan is subject to the deficit reduction contribution requirements). In such a case, the present-law interest rate rules apply, i.e., the interest rate used in determining current liability for that purpose must be within the permissible range (90 to 105 percent) of the weighted average of the interest rates on 30-year Treasury securities for the preceding four-year period. This is intended solely as a temporary provision to ensure that, pending long-term reform of the funding and deduction rules, the deduction limit is neither increased nor decreased so that employers are not penalized for fully funding their plans. Because the 30-year Treasury rate is an obsolete rate, its use must be revisited promptly in the context of long-term funding and deduction reform. However, the use of the 30 Year Treasury rate for the purposes of determining maximum deduction limits should not be considered precedent for the determination of other pension plan calculations. Furthermore, the use of different interest rates for certain pension plan calculations in the context of this temporary bill should not be considered precedent for the use of different discount rates to measure pension plan liabilities.

²⁵The conference agreement also repeals the present-law rule under which, for purposes of applying the quarterly contributions requirements to plan years beginning in 2004, current liability for the preceding year is redetermined.

Under the conference agreement, in determining the amount of unfunded vested benefits for PBGC variable rate premium purposes for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2006, the interest rate used is 85 percent of the annual rate of interest determined by the Secretary of the Treasury on amounts invested conservatively in long-term investment-grade corporate bonds for the month preceding the month in which the plan year begins (subject to the same requirements applicable to the determination of the interest rate used in determining current liability).

Interest rate used to apply benefit limits to lump sums

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment.

Under the conference agreement, in the case of plan years beginning in 2004 or 2005, in adjusting a form of benefit that is subject to the minimum value rules, such as a lump-sum benefit, for purposes of applying the limits on benefits payable under a defined benefit pension plan, the interest rate used must be not less than the greater of: (1) 5.5 percent; or (2) the interest rate specified in the plan.

Plan amendments

The conference agreement permits certain plan amendments made pursuant to the interest rate provision of the bill to be retroactively effective. If certain requirements are met, the plan will be treated as being operated in accordance with its terms, and the amendment will not violate the anticutback rules (except as provided by the Secretary of the Treasury).²⁶ In order for this treatment to apply, the plan amendment must be made on or before the last day of the first plan year beginning on or after January 1, 2006. In addition, the amendment must apply retroactively as of the date on which the interest rate provision became effective with respect to the plan and the plan must be operated in compliance with the interest rate provision until the amendment is made.

A plan amendment will not be considered to be pursuant to the interest rate provision of the bill if it has an effective date before the effective date of the interest rate provision. Similarly, relief from the anticutback rules does not apply for periods prior to the effective date of the interest rate provision or the plan amendment.

Alternative deficit reduction contribution for certain plans

In general

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment with modifications.

The conference agreement allows certain employers ("applicable employers") to elect a reduced amount of additional required contribution under the deficit reduction contribution rules (an "alternative deficit reduction contribution") with respect to certain plans for applicable plan years. An applicable plan year is a plan year beginning after December 27, 2003, and before December 28, 2005, for which the employer elects a reduced contribution. If an employer so elects, the amount of the additional deficit reduction contribution for an applicable plan year is the greater of (1) 20 percent of the amount of the additional contribution that would otherwise be required; or (2) the additional contribution that would be required if the deficit reduction contribution for the plan year were determined as the expected increase in current liability due to benefits accruing during the plan year.

An election of an alternative deficit reduction contribution may be made only with respect to a plan that was not subject to the deficit reduction contribution rules for the plan year beginning in 2000.²⁷ An election may not be made with respect to more than two plan years. An election is to be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury prescribes. Guidance relating to the time and manner in which an election is made is to be issued expeditiously. An election does not invalidate any obligation pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement in effect on the date of the election to provide benefits, to change the accrual of benefits, or to change the rate at which benefits vest under the plan.

An applicable employer is an employer that is: (1) a commercial passenger airline; (2) primarily engaged in the production or manufacture of a steel mill product, or the processing of iron ore pellets; or (3) an organization described in section 501(c)(5) that established the plan for which an alternative deficit reduction contribution is elected on June 30, 1955.

Restrictions on amendments

Certain plan amendments may not be adopted during an applicable plan year (i.e., a plan year for which an alternative deficit reduction contribution is elected). This restriction applies to an amendment that increases the liabilities of the plan by reason of any increase in benefits, any change in the accrual of benefits, or any change in the rate at which benefits vest under the plan. The restriction applies unless: (1) the plan's enrolled actuary certifies (in such form and manner as prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury) that the amendment provides for an increase in annual contributions that will exceed the increase in annual charges to the funding standard account attributable to such amendment; or (2) the amendment is required by a collective bargaining agreement that is in effect on the date of enactment of the provision.

If a plan is amended during an applicable plan year in violation of the provision, an election of an alternative deficit reduction contribution does not apply to any applicable plan year ending on after the date on which the amendment is adopted.

²⁷ Whether a plan was subject to the deficit reduction contribution rules for the plan year beginning in 2000 is determined without regard to the rule that allows the temporary interest rate based on amounts invested conservatively in long-term investment-grade corporate bonds to be used for lookback rule purposes, as discussed below.

Notice requirement

The conference agreement amends ERISA to provide that, if an employer elects an alternative deficit reduction contribution for any applicable plan year, the employer must provide written notice of the election to participants and beneficiaries and to the PBGC within 30 days of filing the election. The notice to participants and beneficiaries must include: (1) the due date of the alternative deficit reduction contribution; (2) the amount by which the required contribution to the plan was reduced as a result of the election; (3) a description of the benefits under the plan that are eligible for guarantee by the PBGC; and (4) an explanation of the limitations on the PBGC guarantee and the circumstances in which the limitations apply, including the maximum guaranteed monthly benefits that the PBGC would pay if the plan terminated while underfunded. The notice to the PBGC must include: (1) the due date of the alternative deficit reduction contribution; (2) the amount by which the required contribution to the plan was reduced as a result of the election; (3) the number of years it will take to restore the plan to full funding if the employer makes only the required contributions; and (4) information as to how the amount by which the plan is underfunded compares with the capitalization of the employer.

An employer that fails to provide the required notice to a participant, beneficiary, or the PBGC may (in the discretion of a court) be liable to the participant, beneficiary, or PBGC in the amount of up to $100 a day from the date of the failure, and the court may in its discretion order such other relief as it deems proper.

Interest rate for determining current liability and PBGC premiums

The conference agreement is generally effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003. For purposes of applying certain rules ("lookback rules") to plan years beginning after December 31, 2003, the amendments made by the provision may be applied as if they had been in effect for all years beginning before the effective date. For purposes of the provision, "lookback rules" means: (1) the rule under which a plan is not subject to the additional funding requirements for a plan year if the plan's funded current liability percentage was at least 90 percent for each of the two immediately preceding plan years or each of the second and third immediately preceding plan years; and (2) the rule under which quarterly contributions are required for a plan year if the plan's funded current liability percentage was less than 100 percent for the preceding plan year. The amendments made by the provision may be applied for purposes of the lookback rules, regardless of the funded current liability percentage reported for the plan on the plan's annual reports (i.e., Form 5500) for preceding years.

Interest rate used to apply benefit limits to lump sums

The conference agreement is generally effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003. Under a special rule, in the case of a distribution made to a participant or beneficiary after December 31, 2003, and before January 1, 2005, in a form of benefit that is subject to the minimum value rules, such as a lump-sum benefit, and that is subject to adjustment in applying the limit on benefits payable under a defined benefit pension plan, the amount payable may not, solely by reason of the conference agreement, be less than the amount that would have been payable if the amount payable had been determined using the applicable interest rate in effect as of the last day of the last plan year beginning before January 31, 2004.

B. MULTIEMPLOYER PLAN FUNDING NOTICES
(Sec. 4 of the Senate amendment and secs. 101 and 502 of ERISA)

PRESENT LAW

Under present law, defined benefit plans are generally required to meet certain minimum funding rules. These rules are designed to help ensure that such plans are adequately funded. Both single-employer plans and multiemployer plans are subject to minimum funding requirements; however, the requirements are different for each type of plan.

Similarly, the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation ("PBGC") insures certain benefits under both single-employer and multi-employer defined benefit plans, but the rules relating to the guarantee vary for each type of plan. In the case of multiemployer plans, the PBGC guarantees against plan insolvency. Under its multiemployer program, PBGC provides financial assistance through loans to plans that are insolvent (that is, plans that are unable to pay basic PBGC-guaranteed benefits when due).

Employers maintaining single-employer defined benefit plans are required to provide certain notices to plan participants relating to the funding status of the plan. For example, ERISA requires an employer of a single-employer defined benefit plan to notify plan participants if the employer fails to make required contributions (unless a request for a funding waiver is pending).²⁸ In addition, in the case of an underfunded plan for which variable rate PBGC premiums are required, the plan administrator generally must notify plan participants of the plan's funding status and the limits on the PBGC benefit guarantee if the plan terminates while underfunded.²⁹

No provision

SENATE AMENDMENT

In general

The Senate amendment requires the administrator of a defined benefit plan which is a multiemployer plan to provide an annual funding notice to: (1) each participant and beneficiary; (2) each labor organization representing such participants or beneficiaries; and (3) each employer that has an obligation to contribute under the plan.

Such a notice must include: (1) identifying information, including the name of the plan, the address and phone number of the plan administrator and the plan's principal administrative officer, each plan sponsor's employer identification number, and the plan identification number; (2) a statement as to whether the plan's funded current liability percentage for the plan year to which the notice relates is at least 100 percent (and if not, a statement of the percentage); (3) a statement of the value of the plan's assets, the amount of benefit payments, and the ratio of the assets to the payments for the plan year to which the report relates; (4) a summary of the rules governing insolvent multiemployer plans, including the limitations on benefit payments and any potential benefit reductions and suspensions (and the potential effects of such limitations, reductions, and suspensions on the plan); (5) a general description of the benefits under the plan which are eligible to be guaranteed by the PBGC and the limitations of the guarantee and circumstances in which such limitations apply; and (6) any additional information which the plan administrator elects to include to the extent it is not inconsistent with regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor.

The annual funding notice must be provided no later than two months after the deadline (including extensions) for filing the plan's annual report for the plan year to which the notice relates. The funding notice must be provided in a form and manner prescribed in regulations by the Secretary of Labor. Additionally, it must be written so as to be understood by the average plan participant and may be provided in written, electronic, or some other appropriate form to the extent that it is reasonably accessible to persons to whom the notice is required to be provided.

The Secretary of Labor is directed to issue regulations (including a model notice) necessary to implement the provision no later than one year after the date of enactment.

Sanction for failure to provide notice

In the case of a failure to provide the annual multiemployer plan funding notice, the Secretary of Labor may assess a civil penalty against a plan administrator of up to $100 per day for each failure to provide a notice. For this purpose, each violation with respect to a single participant or beneficiary is treated as a separate violation.

Effective date

The Senate amendment is effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 2004.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

In general

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment, with the following modification. The administrator of a defined benefit plan which is a multiemployer plan is also required to provide an annual funding notice to the PBGC.

The conference agreement requires the administrator of a defined benefit plan which is a multiemployer plan to provide an annual funding notice to: (1) each participant and beneficiary; (2) each labor organization representing such participants or beneficiaries; (3) each employer that has an obligation to contribute under the plan; and (4) the PBGC.

The Secretary of Labor is directed to issue regulations (including a model notice) necessary to implement the provision no later than one year after the date of enactment.

Sanction for failure to provide notice

In the case of a failure to provide the annual multiemployer plan funding notice, the Secretary of Labor may assess a civil penalty against a plan administrator of up to $100 per day for each failure to provide a notice. C. ELECTION FOR DEFERRAL OF CHARGE FOR PORTION OF NET EXPERIENCE LOSS OF MULTIEMPLOYER PLANS

(Sec. 5 of the Senate amendment, sec. 302(b)(7) of ERISA, and sec. 412(b)(7) of the Code)

PRESENT LAW

General funding requirements

The Code and ERISA impose minimum funding requirements with respect to defined benefit plans.³⁰ Under the minimum funding rules, the amount of contributions required for a plan year is generally the plan's normal cost for the year (i.e., the cost of benefits allocated to the year under the plan's funding method) plus that year's portion of other liabilities that are amortized over a period of years, such as benefits resulting from a grant of past service credit.³⁰ A plan's normal cost and other liabilities must be determined under an actuarial cost method permissible under the Code and ERISA.

Funding standard account

As an administrative aid in the application of the funding requirements, a defined benefit plan is required to maintain a special account called a "funding standard account" to which specified charges and credits (including credits for contributions to the plan), plus interest, are made for each plan year. If, as of the close of a plan year, the account reflects credits equal to or in excess of charges, the plan is generally treated as meeting the minimum funding standard for the year. Thus, as a general rule, the minimum contribution for a plan year is determined as the amount by which the charges to the account would exceed credits to the account if no contribution were made to the plan. If, as of the close of the plan year, charges to the funding standard account exceed credits to the account, then the excess is referred to as an "accumulated funding deficiency."³²

³⁰ Code sec. 412; ERISA sec. 302.

³² In addition to the funding standard account, a reconciliation account is sometimes used to balance certain items for purposes of reporting actuarial information about the plan on the plan's annual report (Schedule B of Form 5500).

²⁹ ERISA sec. 4011. Multiemployer plans are not required to pay variable rate premiums.

Experience gains and losses

In determining plan funding under an actuarial cost method, a plan's actuary generally makes certain assumptions regarding the future experience of a plan. These assumptions typically involve rates of interest, mortality, disability, salary increases, and other factors affecting the value of assets and liabilities, such as increases or decreases in asset values. The actuarial assumptions are required to be reasonable and may be subject to other restrictions. If, on the basis of these assumptions, the contributions made to the plan result in actual unfunded liabilities that are less than those anticipated by the actuary, then the excess is an experience gain. If the actual unfunded liabilities are greater than those anticipated, then the difference is an experience loss.

If a plan has a net experience gain, the funding standard account is credited with the amount needed to amortize the net experience gain over a certain period. If a plan has a net experience loss, the funding standard account is charged with the amount needed to amortize the net experience loss over a certain period. In the case of a multiemployer plan, the amortization period for net experience gains and losses is 15 years.

Funding waivers

Within limits, the IRS is permitted to waive all or a portion of the contributions required under the minimum funding standard for a plan year.³³ A waiver may be granted if the employer (or employers) responsible for the contribution could not make the required contribution without temporary substantial business hardship and if requiring the contribution would be adverse to the interests of plan participants in the aggregate. In the case of a multiemployer plan, no more than five waivers may be granted within any period of 15 consecutive plan years.

If a funding waiver is in effect for a plan, subject to certain exceptions, no plan amendment may be adopted that increases the liabilities of the plan by reason of any increase in benefits, any change in the accrual of benefits, or any change in the rate at which benefits vest under the plan.

Excise tax

An employer is generally subject to an excise tax if it fails to make minimum required contributions and fails to obtain a waiver from the IRS.³⁴ The excise tax is 10 percent of the amount of the funding deficiency (five percent in the case of a multiemployer plan). In addition, a tax of 100 percent may be imposed if the funding deficiency is not corrected within a certain period.

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

The Senate amendment allows certain multiemployer plans to elect to defer the beginning of the amortization of certain net experience losses for up to three plan years. The period during which the amortization of a net experience loss is deferred by reason of such an election is referred to as a "hiatus period." The Senate amendment applies to a multiemployer plan that has a net experience loss for any plan year beginning after June 30, 2002, and before July 1, 2006. Such a plan may elect to begin the 15-year amortization period with respect to such a loss in any of the three immediately succeeding plan years as selected by the plan. A plan may elect to delay the beginning of the amortization of net experience losses with respect to net experience losses occurring for only two plan years beginning after June 30, 2002, and before July 1, 2006 (regardless of the number of plan years in that period for which the plan has net experience losses). An election under the Senate amendment is to be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of Labor prescribes, after consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury.

If an election is made, the net experience loss is treated, for purposes of determining any charge to the funding standard account (or interest) with respect to the loss, in the same manner as if the net experience loss occurred in the year selected by the plan for the amortization period to begin (without regard to any net experience loss or gain otherwise determined for such year). Interest accrued on any net experience loss during a hiatus period is charged to a reconciliation account and not to the funding standard account.

Certain plan amendments may not take effect for any plan year in the hiatus period. This restriction applies to an amendment that increases the liabilities of the plan by reason of any increase in benefits, any change in the accrual of benefits, or any change in the rate at which benefits vest under the plan. The restriction applies unless: (1) the plan's funded current liability percentage as of the end of the plan year is projected to be at least 75 percent (taking into account the effect of the amendment); (2) the plan's actuary certifies that, due to an increase in the rates of contributions to the plan, the normal cost attributable to the benefit increase or other change is expected to be fully funded in the year following the year in which the increase or other change takes effect, and any increase in the plan's accrued liabilities attributable to the benefit increase or other change is expected to be fully funded by the end of the third plan year following the end of the plan hiatus period of the plan; (3) the amendment is determined by the Secretary of Labor to be reasonable and provides for only de minimis increases in plan liabilities; or (4) the amendment is required as a condition of qualified retirement plan status. The restriction on amendments does not apply to an increase in benefits for a group of participants resulting solely from a collectively bargained increase in the contributions on their behalf. Failure to comply with this restriction is a violation of ERISA and of the qualification requirements of the Code.

If a plan elects to defer the beginning of an amortization period, the plan administrator must provide written notice of the election within 30 days to participants and beneficiaries, to each labor organization representing participants and beneficiaries, and to each employer that has an obligation to contribute under the plan. The notice must include: (1) the amount of the net experience loss to be deferred under the election and the period of the deferral; and (2) the maximum guaranteed monthly benefits that the PBGC would pay if the plan terminated while underfunded. If a plan administrator fails to comply with the notice requirement, the Secretary of Labor may assess a civil penalty of not more than $1,000 a day for each violation.

Effective date.—The Senate amendment is effective on the date of enactment.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement allows the plan sponsor of an eligible multiemployer plan to elect to defer certain charges to the funding standard account that would otherwise be made to the plan's funding standard account for a plan year beginning after June 30, 2003, and before July 1, 2005. The charges may be deferred to any plan year selected by the plan sponsor from either of the two plan years immediately succeeding the plan year for which the charge would otherwise be made. An election may be made with respect to up to 80 percent of the charge to the funding standard account attributable to the amortization of a net experience loss for the first plan year beginning after December 31, 2001. An election is to be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury prescribes. For the plan year to which a charge is deferred under the plan sponsor's election, the funding standard account is required to be charged with interest at the short-term Federal rate on the deferred charge for the period of the deferral.

An eligible multiemployer plan is a multiemployer plan: (1) that, for the first plan year beginning after December 31, 2001, had an actual net investment loss of at least 10 percent of the average fair market value of plan assets during the plan year; and (2) with respect to which the plan's enrolled actuary certifies that (not taking into account the deferral of charges under the provision and based on the actuarial assumptions used for the last plan year before date of enactment of the provision), the plan is projected to have an accumulated funding deficiency for any plan year beginning after June 30, 2003, and before July 1, 2006. In addition, a plan is not treated as an eligible multiemployer plan if: (1) for any taxable year beginning during the ten year period preceding the first plan year for which an election is made under the provision, any employer required to contribute to the plan failed to timely pay an excise tax imposed on the plan for failure to make required contributions; (2) for any plan year beginning after June 30, 1993, and before the first plan year for which an election is made under the provision, the average contribution required to be made to the plan by all employers does not exceed 10 cents per hour, or no employer is required to make contributions to the plan; or (3) with respect to any plan year beginning after June 30, 1993, and before the first plan year for which an election is made under the provision, a funding waiver or extension of an amortization period was granted to the plan.

Certain plan amendments may not be adopted during the period for which a charge is deferred. This restriction applies to an amendment that increases the liabilities of the plan by reason of any increase in benefits, any change in the accrual of benefits, or any change in the rate at which benefits vest under the plan. The restriction applies unless: (1) the plan's enrolled actuary certifies (in such form and manner as prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury) that the amendment provides for an increase in annual contributions that will exceed the increase in annual charges to the funding standard account attributable to such amendment; or (2) the amendment is required by a collective bargaining agreement that is in effect on the date of enactment of the provision. If a plan is amended in violation of the provision, an election under the provision does not apply to any plan year ending on after the date on which the amendment is adopted.

If a plan sponsor elects to defer charges attributable to a net experience loss, the plan administrator must provide written notice of the election within 30 days to participants and beneficiaries, to each labor organization representing participants and beneficiaries, to each employer that has an obligation to contribute under the plan, and to the PBGC. The notice must include: (1) the amount of the charges to be deferred under the election and the period of the deferral; and (2) the maximum guaranteed monthly benefits that the PBGC would pay if the plan terminated while underfunded. If a plan administrator fails to comply with the notice requirement, the Secretary of Labor may assess a civil penalty of not more than $1,000 a day for each violation.

Effective date.—The conference agreement is effective on the date of enactment.

D. TWO-YEAR EXTENSION OF TRANSITION RULE TO PENSION FUNDING REQUIREMENTS FOR INTERSTATE BUS COMPANY

(Sec. 6 of the Senate amendment, and sec. 769(c) of the Retirement Protection Act of 1994 (as added by sec. 1508 of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997))

PRESENT LAW

Under present law, defined benefit plans are required to meet certain minimum funding rules. In some cases, additional contributions are required if a defined benefit plan is underfunded. Additional contributions generally are not required in the case of a plan with a funded current liability percentage of at least 90 percent. A plan's funded current liability percentage is the value of plan assets as a percentage of current liability. In general, a plan's current liability means all liabilities to employees and their beneficiaries under the plan. In the case of a plan with a funded current liability percentage of less than 100 percent for the preceding plan year, estimated contributions for the current plan year must be made in quarterly installments during the current plan year.

The PBGC insures benefits under most single-employer defined benefit plans in the event the plan is terminated with insufficient assets to pay for plan benefits. The PBGC is funded in part by a flat-rate premium per plan participant, and a variable rate premium based on the amount of unfunded vested benefits under the plan. A specified interest rate and a specified mortality table apply in determining unfunded vested benefits for this purpose.

Under present law, a special rule modifies the minimum funding requirements in the case of certain plans. The special rule applies in the case of plans that (1) were not required to pay a variable rate PBGC premium for the plan year beginning in 1996, (2) do not, in plan years beginning after 1995 and before 2009, merge with another plan (other than a plan sponsored by an employer that was a member of the controlled group of the employer in 1996), and (3) are sponsored by a company that is engaged primarily in interurban or interstate passenger bus service.

The special rule treats a plan to which it applies as having a funded current liability percentage of at least 90 percent for plan years beginning after 1996 and before 2005 if for such plan year the funded current liability percentage is at least 85 percent. If the funded current liability of the plan is less than 85 percent for any plan year beginning after 1996 and before 2005, the relief from the minimum funding requirements applies only if certain specified contributions are made.

For plan years beginning after 2004 and before 2010, the funded current liability percentage will be deemed to be at least 90 percent if the actual funded current liability percentage is at least at certain specified levels. The relief from the minimum funding requirements applies for a plan year beginning in 2005, 2006, 2007, or 2008 only if contributions to the plan for the plan year equal at least the expected increase in current liability due to benefits accruing during the plan year.

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

The Senate amendment modifies the special funding rules for plans sponsored by a company engaged primarily in interurban or interstate passenger bus service by providing that, for plan years beginning in 2004 and 2005, the funded current liability percentage of the plan will be treated as at least 90 percent for purposes of determining the amount of required contributions (100 percent for purposes of determining whether quarterly contributions are required). As a result, for these years, additional contributions and quarterly contributions are not required with respect to the plan. In addition, for these years, the mortality table used under the plan is used in determining the amount of unfunded vested benefits under the plan for purposes of calculating PBGC variable rate premiums.

Effective date.—The Senate amendment is effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 2003.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment.

E. PROCEDURES APPLICABLE TO DISPUTES INVOLVING PENSION PLAN WITHDRAWAL LIABILITY

(Sec. 7 of the Senate amendment and sec. 4221 of ERISA)

PRESENT LAW

Under ERISA, when an employer withdraws from a multiemployer plan, the employer is generally liable for its share of unfunded vested benefits, determined as of the date of withdrawal (generally referred to as the "withdrawal liability"). Whether and when a withdrawal has occurred and the amount of the withdrawal liability is determined by the plan sponsor. The plan sponsor's assessment of withdrawal liability is presumed correct unless the employer shows by a preponderance of the evidence that the plan sponsor's determination of withdrawal liability was unreasonable or clearly erroneous. A similar standard applies in the event the amount of the plan's unfunded vested benefits is challenged.

The first payment of withdrawal liability determined by the plan sponsor is due no later than 60 days after demand, even if the employer contests the determination of liability. Disputes between an employer and plan sponsor concerning withdrawal liability are resolved through arbitration, which can be initiated by either party. Even if the employer contests the determination, payments of withdrawal liability must be made by the employer until the arbitrator issues a final decision with respect to the determination submitted for arbitration.

For purposes of withdrawal liability, all trades or businesses under common control are treated as a single employer. In addition, the plan sponsor may disregard a transaction in order to assess withdrawal liability if the sponsor determines that the principal purpose of the transaction was to avoid or evade withdrawal liability. For example, if a subsidary of a parent company is sold and the subsidiary then withdraws from a multiemployer plan, the plan sponsor may assess withdrawal liability as if the subsidiary were still part of the parent company's controlled group if the sponsor determines that a principal purpose of the sale of the subsidiary was to evade or avoid withdrawal liability.

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

Under the Senate amendment, a special rule may apply if a transaction is disregarded by a plan sponsor in determining that a withdrawal has occurred or that an employer is liable for withdrawal liability. If the transaction that is disregarded by the plan sponsor occurred before January 1, 1999, and at least five years before the date of the withdrawal, then (1) the determination by the plan sponsor that a principal purpose of the transaction was to evade or avoid withdrawal liability is not be presumed to be correct, (2) the plan sponsor, rather than the employer, has the burden to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, the elements of the claim that a principal purpose of the transaction was to evade or avoid withdrawal liability, and (3) if an employer contests the plan sponsor's determination through an arbitration proceeding, or through a claim brought in a court of competent jurisdiction, the employer is not obligated to make any withdrawal liability payments until a final decision in the arbitration proceeding, or in 30 court, upholds the plan sponsor's determination. The provision does not modify the burden of establishing other elements of a claim for withdrawal liability other than whether the purpose of the transaction was to evade or avoid withdrawal liability.

Effective date.—The provision applies to an employer that receives a notification of withdrawal liability and demand for payment under ERISA section 4219(b)(1) after October 31, 2003.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment.

Under the conference agreement, a special rule may apply if a transaction is disregarded by a plan sponsor in determining that a withdrawal has occurred or that an employer is liable for withdrawal liability. The provision does not modify the burden of establishing other elements of a claim for withdrawal liability other than whether the purpose of the transaction was to evade or avoid withdrawal liability.

F. MODIFY QUALIFICATION RULES FOR TAX-EXEMPT PROPERTY AND CASUALTY INSURANCE COMPANIES

(Sec. 10 of the Senate amendment and secs. 501 and 831 of the Code)

PRESENT LAW

A property and casualty insurance company generally is subject to tax on its taxable income (sec. 831(a)). The taxable income of a property and casualty insurance company is determined as the sum of its underwriting income and investment income (as well as gains and other income items), reduced by allowable deductions (sec. 832).

A property and casualty insurance company is eligible to be exempt from Federal income tax if its net written premiums or direct written premiums (whichever is greater) for the taxable year do not exceed $350,000 (sec. 501(c)(15)).

A property and casualty insurance company may elect to be taxed only on taxable investment income if its net written premiums or direct written premiums (whichever is greater) for the taxable year exceed $350,000, but do not exceed $1.2 million (sec. 831(b)).

For purposes of determining the amount of a company's net written premiums or direct written premiums under these rules, premiums received by all members of a controlled group of corporations of which the company is a part are taken into account. For this purpose, a more-than-50-percent threshold applies under the vote and value requirements with respect to stock ownership for determining a controlled group, and rules treating a life insurance company as part of a separate controlled group or as an excluded member of a group do not apply (secs. 501(c)(15), 831(b)(2)(B) and 1563).

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

The Senate amendment modifies the requirements for a property and casualty insurance company to be eligible for tax-exempt status, and to elect to be taxed only on taxable investment income.

Under the Senate amendment, a property and casualty insurance company is eligible to be exempt from Federal income tax if (a) its gross receipts for the taxable year do not exceed $600,000, and (b) the premiums received for the taxable year are greater than 50 percent of its gross receipts. For purposes of determining gross receipts, the gross receipts of all members of a controlled group of corporations of which the company is a part are taken into account. The Senate amendment expands the present-law controlled group rule so that it also takes into account gross receipts of foreign and tax-exempt corporations.

A company that does not meet the definition of an insurance company is not eligible to be exempt from Federal income tax under the Senate amendment. For this purpose, the term "insurance company" means any company, more than half of the business of which during the taxable year is the issuing of insurance or annuity contracts or the reinsuring of risks underwritten by insurance companies (sec. 816(a) and new sec. 831(c)). A company whose investment activities outweigh its insurance activities is not considered to be an insurance company for this purpose.³⁵ It is intended that IRS enforcement activities address the misuse of present-law section 501(c)(15).

The Senate amendment also provides that a property and casualty insurance company may elect to be taxed only on taxable investment income if its net written premiums or direct written premiums (whichever is greater) do not exceed $1.2 million (without regard to whether such premiums exceed $350,000) (sec. 831(b)). As under present law, for purposes of determining the amount of a company's net written premiums or direct written premiums under this rule, premiums received by all members of a controlled group of corporations (as defined in section 831(b)) of which the company is a part are taken into account.

It is intended that regulations or other Treasury guidance provide for anti-abuse rules so as to prevent improper use of the provision, including, for example, by attempts to characterize as premiums any income that is other than premium income.

Effective date.—The Senate amendment provisions are effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2003.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment, with modifications.

Under the conference agreement, an additional special rule provides that a mutual property and casualty insurance company is eligible to be exempt from Federal income tax under the provision if (a) its gross receipts for the taxable year do not exceed $150,000, and (b) the premiums received for the taxable year are greater than 35 percent of its gross receipts, provided certain requirements are met. The requirements are that no employee of the company or member of the employee's family is an employee of another company that is exempt from tax under section 501(c)(15). The limitation to mutual companies and the limitation on employees are intended to address the conferees' concern about the inappropriate use of tax-exempt insurance companies to shelter investment income, including in the case of companies with gross receipts under $150,000. For example, it is intended that the provision not permit the use of small companies with common owners or employees to shelter investment income for the benefit of such owners or employees.

Effective date.—The provision generally is effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2003.

Under the conference agreement, a special transition rule applies with respect to certain companies. This transition rule applies in the case of a company that, (1) for its taxable year that includes April 1, 2004, meets the requirements of present law section 501(c)(15)(A) (as in effect for the taxable year beginning before January 1, 2004), and (2) on April 1, 2004, is in a receivership, liquidation or similar proceeding under the supervision of a State court. Under the transition rule, in the case of such a company, the general rule of the provision in the conference agreement applies to taxable years beginning after the earlier of (1) the date the proceeding ends, or (2) December 31, 2007.

For such a company, present-law limitations on the carryover of net operating losses to or from years in which the company was not subject to tax (including section 831(b)(3)) continue to apply. A company that is not otherwise eligible for tax-exempt status under present-law section 501(c)(15) (e.g., a company that is or becomes a life insurance company, or a company with net (or, if greater, direct) written premiums exceeding $350,000 for the taxable year) is not eligible for the transition rule.

G. DEFINITION OF INSURANCE COMPANY FOR PROPERTY AND CASUALTY INSURANCE COMPANY TAX RULES

(Sec. 11 of the Senate amendment and sec. 831 of the Code)

PRESENT LAW

Present law provides specific rules for taxation of the life insurance company taxable income of a life insurance company (sec. 801), and for taxation of the taxable income of an insurance company other than a life insurance company (sec. 831) (generally referred to as a property and casualty insurance company). For Federal income tax purposes, a life insurance company means an insurance company that is engaged in the business of issuing life insurance and annuity contracts, or noncancellable health and accident insurance contracts, and that meets a 50-percent test with respect to its reserves (sec. 816(a)). This statutory provision applicable to life insurance companies explicitly defines the term "insurance company" to mean any company, more than half of the business of which during the taxable year is the issuing of insurance or annuity contracts or the reinsuring of risks underwritten by insurance companies (sec. 816(a)).

The life insurance company statutory definition of an insurance company does not explicitly apply to property and casualty insurance companies, although a long-standing Treasury regulation³⁶ that is applied to property and casualty companies provides a somewhat similar definition of an "insurance company" based on the company's "primary and predominant business activity."³⁷

³⁷ Court cases involving a determination of whether a company is an insurance company for Federal tax purposes have examined all of the business and other activities of the company. In considering whether a company is an insurance company for such purposes, courts have considered, among other factors, the amount and source of income received by the company from its different activities. See Bowers v. Lawyers Mortgage Co., 285 U.S. 182 (1932); United States v. Home Title Insurance Co., 285 U.S. 191 (1932). See also Inter-American Life Insurance Co. v. Comm'r, 56 T.C. 497, aff'd per curiam, 469 F.2d 697 (9th Cir. 1972), in which the court concluded that the company was not an insurance company: "The . . . financial data clearly indicates that petitioner's primary and predominant source of income was from its investments and not from issuing insurance contracts or reinsuring risks underwritten by insurance companies. During each of the years in issue, petitioner's investment income far exceeded its premiums and the amounts of earned premiums were de minimis during those years. It is equally as clear that petitioner's primary and predominant efforts were not expended in issuing insurance contracts or in reinsurance. Of the relatively few policies directly written by petitioner, nearly all were issued to [family members]. Also, Investment Life, in which [family members] each owned a substantial stock interest, was the source of nearly all of the policies reinsured by petitioner. These facts, coupled with the fact that petitioner did not maintain an active sales staff soliciting or selling insurance policies . . . indicate a lack of concentrated effort on petitioner's behalf toward its chartered purpose of engaging in the insurance business. . . . For the above reasons, we hold that during the years in issue, petitioner was not 'an insurance company. . . engaged in the business of issuing life insurance' and hence, that petitioner was not a life insurance company within the meaning of section 801." 56 T.C. 497, 507-508.

³⁵ 35 See, e.g., Inter-American Life Insurance Co. v. Comm'r, 56 T.C. 497, aff'd per curiam, 469 F.2d 697 (9th Cir. 1972).

When enacting the statutory definition of an insurance company in 1984, Congress stated, "[b]y requiring [that] more than half rather than the 'primary and predominant business activity' be insurance activity, the bill adopts a stricter and more precise standard for a company to be taxed as a life insurance company than does the general regulatory definition of an insurance company applicable for both life and nonlife insurance companies. . . . Whether more than half of the business activity is related to the issuing of insurance or annuity contracts will depend on the facts and circumstances and factors to be considered will include the relative distribution of the number of employees assigned to, the amount of space allocated to, and the net income derived from, the various business activities."³⁸

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

The Senate amendment provides that, for purposes of determining whether a company is a property and casualty insurance company, the term "insurance company" is defined to mean any company, more than half of the business of which during the taxable year is the issuing of insurance or annuity contracts or the reinsuring of risks underwritten by insurance companies. Thus, the Senate amendment conforms the definition of an insurance company for purposes of the rules taxing property and casualty insurance companies to the rules taxing life insurance companies, so that the definition is uniform. The Senate amendment adopts a stricter and more precise standard than the "primary and predominant business activity" test contained in Treasury Regulations. A company whose investment activities outweigh its insurance activities is not considered to be an insurance company under the Senate amendment.³⁹ It is not intended that a company whose sole activity is the run-off of risks under the company's insurance contracts be treated as a company other than an insurance company, even if the company has little or no premium income.

Effective date.—The Senate amendment provision applies to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2003.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment.

Effective date.—The Senate amendment provision applies to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2003.

H. REPEAL OF REDUCTION OF DEDUCTIONS FOR MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES (Sec. 809 of the Code)

PRIOR AND PRESENT LAW

In general, a corporation may not deduct amounts distributed to shareholders with respect to the corporation's stock. The Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 added a provision to the rules governing insurance companies that was intended to remedy the failure of prior law to distinguish between amounts returned by mutual life insurance companies to policyholders as customers, and amounts distributed to them as owners of the mutual company.

Under the provision, section 809, a mutual life insurance company is required to reduce its deduction for policyholder dividends by the company's differential earnings amount. If the company's differential earnings amount exceeds the amount of its deductible policyholder dividends, the company is required to reduce its deduction for changes in its reserves by the excess of its differential earnings amount over the amount of its deductible policyholder dividends. The differential earnings amount is the product of the differential earnings rate and the average equity base of a mutual life insurance company.

The differential earnings rate is based on the difference between the average earnings rate of the 50 largest stock life insurance companies and the earnings rate of all mutual life insurance companies. The mutual earnings rate applied under the provision is the rate for the second calendar year preceding the calendar year in which the taxable year begins. Under present law, the differential earnings rate cannot be a negative number.

A company's equity base equals the sum of: (1) Its surplus and capital increased by 50 percent of the amount of any provision for policyholder dividends payable in the following taxable year; (2) the amount of its nonadmitted financial assets; (3) the excess of its statutory reserves over its tax reserves; and (4) the amount of any mandatory security valuation reserves, deficiency reserves, and voluntary reserves. A company's average equity base is the average of the company's equity base at the end of the taxable year and its equity base at the end of the preceding taxable year.

A recomputation or "true-up" in the succeeding year is required if the differential earnings amount for the taxable year either exceeds, or is less than, the recomputed differential earnings amount. The recomputed differential earnings amount is calculated taking into account the average mutual earnings rate for the calendar year (rather than the second preceding calendar year, as above). The amount of the true-up for any taxable year is added to, or deducted from, the mutual company's income for the succeeding taxable year.

For taxable years beginning in 2001, 2002, or 2003, the differential earnings amount is treated as zero for purposes of computing both the differential earnings amount and the recomputed differential earnings amount (true-up).

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

No provision.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement repeals the rule requiring reduction in certain deductions of a mutual life insurance company (section 809).

Effective date.—The provision is effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2004. Thus, for taxable years beginning in 2003, the differential earnings amount is treated as zero under present law; for taxable years beginning in 2004, this rule does not apply and section 809 is in effect (including the true-up applicable with respect to taxable years beginning in 2004).

I. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING DEFINED BENEFIT PENSION SYSTEM REFORM (Sec. 2 of the House bill and sec. 8 of the Senate amendment)

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

HOUSE BILL

The House bill makes various findings and expresses the sense of the Congress with respect to the interest rate used to value pension plan liabilities.

Specifically, the House bill provides that the Congress finds the following:

The defined benefit pension system has recently experienced severe difficulties due to an unprecedented economic climate of low interest rates, market losses and an increased number of retirees;

The discontinuance of the issuance of 30-year Treasury securities has made the interest rate on such securities an inappropriate and inaccurate benchmark for measuring pension liabilities;

Using the current 30-year Treasury bond interest rate has artificially inflated pension liabilities and adversely affected employers offering defined benefit pension plans and working families who rely on the safe and secure benefits these plans provide;

There is consensus among pension experts that an interest rate based on long-term, conservative corporate bonds would provide a more accurate benchmark for measuring pension plan liabilities; and

A temporary replacement for the 30-year Treasury bond interest rate should be enacted while the Congress evaluates permanent and comprehensive funding reforms.

In addition, the House bill provides that it is the sense of the Congress that the Congress must ensure the financial health of the defined benefit pension system by working to promptly implement: (1) a permanent replacement for the discount rate used for defined benefit pension plan calculations; and (2) comprehensive funding reforms aimed at achieving accurate and sound pension plan funding to enhance retirement security for workers who rely on defined benefit pension plan benefits, to reduce the volatility of contributions, to provide plan sponsors with predictability for plan contributions, and to ensure adequate disclosures for plan participants in the case of underfunded plans.

Effective date.—The provision is effective on the date of enactment.

SENATE AMENDMENT

The Senate amendment makes various findings of the Congress relating to the private pension system and the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation ("PBGC") and expresses the sense of the Senate with respect to future legislative action.

Specifically, the Senate amendment provides that the Congress makes the following findings:

The private pension system is integral to the retirement security of Americans, along with individual savings and Social Security.

The PBGC is responsible for insuring the nation's private pension system, and currently insures the pensions of 34,500,000 participants in 29,500 single-employer plans, and 9,700,000 participants in more than 1,600 multiemployer plans;

The PBGC announced on January 15, 2004, that it suffered a net loss in fiscal year 2003 of $7,600,000,000 for single-employer pension plans, bringing the PBGC's deficit to $11,200,000,000. This deficit is the PBGC's worst on record, three times larger than the $3,600,000,000 deficit experienced in fiscal year 2002.

The PBGC also announced that the separate insurance program for multiemployer pension plans sustained a net loss of $419,000,000 in fiscal year 2003, resulting in a fiscal year-end deficit of $261,000,000. The 2003 multiemployer plan deficit is the first deficit in more than 20 years and is the largest deficit on record.

The PBGC estimates that the total underfunding in multiemployer pension plans is roughly $100,000,000,000 and in single-employer plans is approximately $400,000,000,000. This underfunding is due in part to the recent decline in the stock market and low interest rates, but is also due to demographic changes. For example, in 1980, there were four active workers for every one retiree in a multiemployer plan, but in 2002, there was only one active worker for every one retiree.

³⁸H.R. Rep. 98-432, part 2, at 1402-1403 (1984); S. Pt. No. 98-169, vol. I, at 525-526 (1984); see also H.R. Rep. No. 98-861 at 1043-1044 (1985) (Conference Report).

³⁹See Inter-American Life Insurance Co. v. Comm'r, supra.

This pension plan underfunding is concentrated in mature and often-declining industries, where plan liabilities will come due sooner.

Neither the Senate Committee on Finance nor the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions ("HELP"), the committees of jurisdiction over pension matters, has held hearings this Congress nor reported legislation addressing the funding of multiemployer pension plans.

The Senate is concerned about the current funding status of the private pension system, both single and multiemployer plans.

The Senate is concerned about the potential liabilities facing the PBGC and, as a result, the potential burdens facing healthy pension plans and taxpayers.

In addition, the Senate amendment provides that it is the sense of the Senate that the Committee on Finance and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions should conduct hearings on the status of multiemployer pension plans and should work in consultation with the Departments of Labor and Treasury on permanent measures to strengthen the integrity of the private pension system in order to protect the benefits of current and future pension plan beneficiaries.

Effective date.—The Senate amendment is effective on the date of enactment.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement follows the House bill, with modifications. Under the conference agreement, it is the sense of the Congress that the Congress must ensure the financial health of the defined benefit pension system by working to promptly implement: (1) a permanent replacement for the discount rate used for defined benefit pension plan calculations; and (2) comprehensive funding reforms for all defined benefit pension plans aimed at achieving accurate and sound pension plan funding to enhance retirement security for workers who rely on defined benefit pension plan benefits, to reduce the volatility of contributions, to provide plan sponsors with predictability for plan contributions, and to ensure adequate disclosures for plan participants in the case of underfunded plans.

Effective date.—The conference agreement is effective on the date of enactment.

J. EXTENSION OF PROVISION PERMITTING QUALIFIED TRANSFERS OF EXCESS PENSION ASSETS TO RETIREE HEALTH ACCOUNTS

(Sec. 9 of the Senate amendment, sec. 420 of the Code, and secs. 101, 403, and 408 of ERISA)

PRESENT LAW

Defined benefit plan assets generally may not revert to an employer prior to termination of the plan and satisfaction of all plan liabilities. In addition, a reversion may occur only if the plan so provides. A reversion prior to plan termination may constitute a prohibited transaction and may result in plan disqualification. Any assets that revert to the employer upon plan termination are includible in the gross income of the employer and subject to an excise tax. The excise tax rate is 20 percent if the employer maintains a replacement plan or makes certain benefit increases in connection with the termination; if not, the excise tax rate is 50 percent. Upon plan termination, the accrued benefits of all plan participants are required to be 100-percent vested.

participants are required to be 100-percent vested.

A pension plan may provide medical benefits to retired employees through a separate account that is part of such plan. A qualified transfer of excess assets of a defined benefit plan to such a separate account within the plan may be made in order to fund retiree health benefits.⁴⁰ A qualified transfer does not result in plan disqualification, is not a prohibited transaction, and is not treated as a reversion. Thus, transferred assets are not includible in the gross income of the employer and are not subject to the excise tax on reversions. No more than one qualified transfer may be made in any taxable year. A qualified transfer can be made only from a single-employer plan.

Excess assets generally means the excess, if any, of the value of the plan's assets⁴¹ over the greater of (1) the accrued liability under the plan (including normal cost) or (2) 125 percent of the plan's current liability.⁴² In addition, excess assets transferred in a qualified transfer may not exceed the amount reasonably estimated to be the amount that the employer will pay out of such account during the taxable year of the transfer for qualified current retiree health liabilities. No deduction is allowed to the employer for (1) a qualified transfer or (2) the payment of qualified current retiree health liabilities out of transferred funds (and any income thereon).

Transferred assets (and any income thereon) must be used to pay qualified current retiree health liabilities for the taxable year of the transfer. Transferred amounts generally must benefit pension plan participants, other than key employees, who are entitled upon retirement to receive retiree medical benefits through the separate account. Retiree health benefits of key employees may not be paid out of transferred assets.

Amounts not used to pay qualified current retiree health liabilities for the taxable year of the transfer are to be returned to the general assets of the plan. These amounts are not includible in the gross income of the employer, but are treated as an employer reversion and are subject to a 20-percent excise tax.

In order for the transfer to be qualified, accrued retirement benefits under the pension plan generally must be 100-percent vested as if the plan terminated immediately before the transfer (or in the case of a participant who separated in the one-year period ending on the date of the transfer, immediately before the separation).

In order for a transfer to be qualified, the employer generally must maintain retiree health benefits at the same level for the taxable year of the transfer and the following four years.

In addition, the ERISA provides that, at least 60 days before the date of a qualified

⁴¹ The value of plan assets for this purpose is the lesser of fair market value or actuarial value.

⁴² In the case of plan years beginning before January 1, 2004, excess assets generally means the excess, if any, of the value of the plan's assets over the greater of (1) the lesser of (a) the accrued liability under the plan (including normal cost) or (b) 170 percent of the plan's current liability (for 2003), or (2) 125 percent of the plan's current liability. The current liability full funding limit was repealed for years beginning after 2003. Under the general sunset provision of EGTRRA, the limit is reinstated for years after 2010.

transfer, the employer must notify the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of the Treasury, employee representatives, and the plan administrator of the transfer, and the plan administrator must notify each plan participant and beneficiary of the transfer.⁴³

No qualified transfer may be made after December 31, 2005.

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

The Senate amendment allows qualified transfers of excess defined benefit plan assets through December 31, 2013.

Effective date.—The provision is effective on the date of enactment.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement follows the Senate amendment. The conference agreement allows qualified transfers of excess defined benefit plan assets through December 31, 2013.

Effective date.—The provision is effective on the date of enactment.

K. CONFIRMATION OF ANTITRUST STATUS OF GRADUATE MEDICAL RESIDENT MATCHING PROGRAMS

HOUSE BILL

No provision.

SENATE AMENDMENT

No provision.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

The conference agreement confirms that the antitrust laws do not prohibit the sponsorship, conduct, or participation in a graduate medical education residency matching program and that evidence of that conduct shall not be admissible to support any claim or action alleging a violation of the antitrust laws.

Effective date.—The provision is effective on the date of enactment. It applies to conduct whether it occurs prior to, on, or after such date and applies to all judicial and administrative actions or other proceedings pending on such date.

L. TAX COMPLEXITY ANALYSIS

Section 4022(b) of the Internal Revenue Service Reform and Restructuring Act of 1998 (the "IRS Reform Act") requires the Joint Committee on Taxation (in consultation with the Internal Revenue Service and the Department of the Treasury) to provide a tax complexity analysis. The complexity analysis is required for all legislation reported by the Senate Committee on Finance, the House Committee on Ways and Means, or any committee of conference if the legislation includes a provision that directly or indirectly amends the Internal Revenue Code (the "Code") and has widespread applicability to individuals or small businesses.

The staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation has determined that a complexity analysis is not required under section 4022(b) of the IRS Reform Act because the bill contains no provisions that amend the Internal Revenue Code and that have "widespread applicability" to individuals or small businesses.

⁴³ ERISA sec. 101(e). ERISA also provides that a qualified transfer is not a prohibited transaction under ERISA or a prohibited reversion.

Senate

The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable JOHN E. SUNUNU, a Senator from the State of New Hampshire.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Today's prayer will be offered by guest Chaplain, Rev. Roy C. Smith of Shrewsbury North Temple, in Shrewsbury, PA.

PRAYER

The guest Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Our most precious Heavenly Father, we come to You this day with hearts full of thanksgiving for Your almighty grace and sweet mercy. We daily walk in Your loving kindness and see Your majesty displayed before us. Thank You for this great country we live in. All of us proudly declare our gratitude for being able to live in a land of freedom.

We lift this prayer to You for a special blessing upon our Senate this day. May they find comfort and joy in You. It is a privilege to be in service to our country and to our God. I am honored to stand in a room where history has been made, to give courage and fortitude for the days ahead. You promised if we would have the faith as the grain of a mustard seed we could accomplish all things. May Your might now abundantly flow to our Senators and all the staff that make each day a success.

May we never grow weary in well doing. Let us choose to see those around us and ourselves with hearts of love. In You, there is joy for the journey. In You, there is peace for the mind. APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS.)

The assistant journal clerk read as follows:

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, April 1, 2004.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable JOHN E. SUNUNU, a Senator from the State of New Hampshire, to perform the duties of the Chair.

TED STEVENS,
President pro tempore.

Mr. SUNUNU thereupon assumed the Chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE FOR APRIL FOOLS' DAY

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, this morning there will be a period of morning business for up to 60 minutes.

I want to have the attention, just very briefly, of the assistant Democratic leader.

We are going to have a period for morning business for 60 minutes. Under the previous unanimous consent agreement, we will finish the welfare reauthorization bill and allow that bill to go to conference in order to reach an accord with the House. That bill will be followed by the final passage of the FSC/ETI legislation. Upon completion of the FSC/ETI bill, we will proceed to the nominations and agreement to the 22 judicial nominations that are available on the calendar. Votes will occur on the confirmation of those judges.

I thank all Members, especially the assistant Democrat leader, and other Members on their side of the aisle, for their cooperation in meeting these consent agreements.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, is this the unanimous consent agreement you are going to offer?

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, this is my opening statement for April 1, and I will withdraw any request for those consent agreements.

It is an April 1 wish. It is what we should be doing. But we will proceed in the normal order.

Mr. REID. If the Senator will yield for a brief comment, every Thursday morning Senator ENSIGN and I hold a breakfast for Nevada constituents. Today we had a very large crowd. Probably there were 60 people there, plus our staffs. I opened it by calling on a doctor who just returned from the USS Boxer, from sea, introduced our Cherry Blossom Princess, and then I asked this gentleman to come up. I said: JOHN, you remember this thing we talked about—and gave him this certificate.

The man's name was a mixture between a Hungarian and a Hawaiian name—real long. And JOHN stumbled through that reading, but what a hero he was. You can tell JOHN was so flustered. When he stopped for a second I said, "April Fools'."

I have to say, it was probably the greatest April Fools' joke I have ever been involved in.

Senator DASCHLE just came on the floor. He, Senator FRIST, just offered what we would accomplish today. It was just an April Fools' joke, even though he meant it sincerely.

Mr. FRIST. I did mean it sincerely, and it included all, I say to the Democratic leader. It included welfare, FSC/

S3519

ETI, the 22 judicial nominations. We would really be rolling if that were the case. Unfortunately, it is April 1.

SCHEDULE

Mr. FRIST. With that, Mr. President, this morning there will be a period of morning business for up to 60 minutes, and that morning business will be followed by an additional 60 minutes of debate with regard to the cloture motion with respect to the welfare reauthorization bill. At the conclusion of that 60 minutes of debate time, we will proceed to a rollcall vote on invoking cloture on the committee substitute to H.R. 4. That is the welfare legislation.

As I stated in closing last night, if we invoke cloture on this bill, I hope we will be able to finish it this week. Over the last few days I had hoped we could reach an agreement to finish the bill in reasonable fashion, but because we were unable to reach a formal consent agreement, we will go forward with the procedural vote in hopes of bringing this bill to a conclusion. If we do invoke cloture, Senators will still be able to bring forward their amendments, and I believe we could finish the bill this week.

If cloture is not invoked, it will be clear that this legislation will be gridlocked by these unrelated matters and therefore will be difficult to finish.

We also continue to seek ways to finish and complete the JOBS bill, the FSC/ETI bill from last week. That bill has been held up as Members insist on offering amendments that have little to do with the underlying legislation.

Additional procedural votes will occur in relation to that bill as we try to find a way to get the FSC bill done.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. President, in order to facilitate the use of our time this morning, I ask unanimous consent that during the period for morning business the Republican-controlled time be divided in the following manner: Senator CORNYN, 5 minutes; Senator ENSIGN, 5 minutes; Senator THOMAS, 5 minutes; Senator SMITH, 10 minutes; Senator COCHRAN, 5 minutes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I have a few comments to make in terms of an opening statement. I will be happy to turn to the Democratic leader.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The minority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I also have a statement I will make, but as I understand it, the first hour will be divided equally between the Republicans and Democrats. Is it my understanding the second one will also be divided equally in time?

Mr. FRIST. Debate for reauthorization.

Mr. DASCHLE. That is debate on the cloture vote itself?

Mr. FRIST. On cloture.

Mr. DASCHLE. I say I will make further comments after the distinguished majority leader has made his.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader.

JOBS

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I will be making my comments on leader time. We will have the hour of morning business as laid out in the unanimous consent for our side so people can plan their morning. My remarks will only be about 10 minutes or so.

Mr. President, I want to take a moment to comment on the Democrats' decision last week to filibuster the JOBS Act, the FSC/ETI and the Jumpstart JOBS bill. It is a bill that goes right at the heart of manufacturing job creation in this country. It is critical to our manufacturing jobs base. As has been pointed out again and again, it was developed in a strong, bipartisan fashion under the leadership of the chairman and ranking member of the Finance Committee. It is critically important. It has broad support, yet every Senate Democrat except Senator MILLER from Georgia voted to sustain the Democrat-led filibuster.

Since that time we tried to work out some sort of agreement so we could consider this bill and have debate on germane amendments, but every time we attempt to do so we are met with an increasing list of irrelevant, mainly political message amendments that the other side insists be a part of this bill. Last week a filibuster was open on the floor. This week, in a less obvious way, it continued by foot dragging.

What does a filibuster mean? What are the practical implications of this filibuster? It means leaving in place a Euro tax the European Union began imposing on March 1 last month against the U.S. manufacturers. The Europeans have been authorized by the WTO to impose $4 billion in sanctions that began March 1—30 days ago. The tariff started at 5 percent of the $4 billion authorized and will increase 1 percent on the first of every month thereafter.

Thus, in supporting this filibuster, whether it is the active filibuster last week or the more passive filibuster of this week, the Democrats are supporting the sanctions. Again, today being April 1st, it will kick up another 1 percent, another $40 million increase, in those sanctions because of the delay.

If the other side of the aisle is not in favor of this JOBS bill, then what do they support? Let me look at some of the legislation that has been introduced and statements made in the Senate. As of late, a lot has been made about outsourcing—a lot of conversation, a lot of proposed amendments—regarding the whole issue of offshoring. Time and again, the Senate Democrats have introduced amendments, bills, and statements expressing grave concern over this issue.

The conversation has, unfortunately, been quite one-sided. When we look at the numbers—and increasingly people are looking at the numbers—we learn foreigners outsource far more work to the United States than American companies actually send abroad.

Indeed, the value of insourcing, what is coming into the United States—including legal work, computer programming, banking, telecommunications, engineering, management consulting, other private services—was $133 billion in 2003. Outsourcing of such private services was valued at $77 billion and $133 billion for insourcing.

When measuring outsourcing to insourcing, the United States posted a $54 billion surplus last year in trade and private services with the rest of the world. Again, look at both sides of the equation.

Far from being bad for the economy as a whole, this balance of offshoring and insourcing creates a net additional value for the United States economy, lowering prices to consumers who are making purchases and, in effect, increasing their standard of living. Each dollar of cost that is outsourced creates $1.46 of value globally. Of that $1.46, the United States captures $1.13 and the receiving country captures the 33 cents.

These numbers suggest, by the way I have described it, that efforts to restrict outsourcing will backfire by provoking a retaliation which is detrimental to our economy and our trading partners.

Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan captured the gist in these words on this issue: These alleged cures would make matters worse, rather than better. They would do little to create jobs. And if foreigners were to retaliate, we would surely lose jobs.

Where would the jobs be lost? Everywhere. The Census Bureau says in the year 2000, 6.4 million Americans were employed in jobs that were insourced by foreign companies operating in the United States. Mr. President, 223,000 of the jobs were in Massachusetts; 246,000 were in Michigan. Washington State had 104,000. Pennsylvania had 281,000. My home State of Tennessee had almost 149,000 insourced jobs, but that is less than half of the 307,000 jobs in Florida and well behind the 259,000 in Ohio.

When we talk about outsourcing, we need to remember there is another side of the equation, a side representing 6.4 million jobs. We cannot lose sight of that.

While we all agree the loss of any job to outsourcing is regrettable, we need to focus on the training, retraining, and education. If we look at the solutions offered by our colleagues on the other side of the aisle, we find them to be surprising and startling.

Senator KERRY has introduced S. 1873, requiring operators at call centers to disclose their physical location. Senator KERRY described this bill as being necessary to "address the growing problem of United States corporations moving hundreds of thousands of service sector jobs abroad."

I have to admit Senator KERRY's premise strikes me as a bit unusual. It seems there should be some sort of assumption that if Americans discovered a foreigner was on the other end of that telephone, they would either hang up the telephone or otherwise lodge some sort of protest upon hearing that foreigner was in another country. The only way this bill would save jobs is if we assume Americans are so violently xenophobic we do not and would not tolerate even this modest level of international agreement.

Senator KERRY's legislation is indicative of the choice we face as a country. We can choose the path of freedom, where every individual and every company can do as he or she sees fit and trust that people are going to work hard on their own behalf, and in doing so promote the common good or we can choose a path of more Government, more Government mandates with less freedom, with less prosperity, and fewer jobs, one in which every time you call a company to see if they have an item in stock, the Federal Government will force you and the company to identify the exact longitude and latitude of the operator who is on the other end of that telephone call.

The reality is we compete today in a global economy. We cannot close our borders to the world. Some think we can retreat into economic isolationism, but we simply cannot. Times are different. We shouldn't. That, in many ways, given our world economy, would be a declaration of defeat.

We are the most innovative society in the world today. Our workers lead all others in the world in productivity. If we are allowed to compete on a fair playing field, United States manufacturers can and indeed will lead the world.

We had a chance last week to help U.S. manufacturers by repealing the Euro tax on our U.S. manufacturers. Unfortunately, we were met by obstruction on the other side. While I was disappointed at this outcome, recent history indicates that should not have been much of a surprise. If there has been one thing consistent over the last several months, it has been the Democrats' steadfast refusal toward legislation that would help reduce the cost of manufacturing in the United States. Every time we attempt to move legislation forward that addresses the concerns of manufacturing, we have been met by obstruction. With class action, with energy, with medical liability, to Workforce Investment Act, we have been blocked. It is either by filibuster or by objections going to conference.

Next month we are going to be addressing issues that I hope will bring some fairness and justice to certain challenges that we have today.

I have pointed out that we would like to address the issue of asbestos litigation reform. I look forward to hopefully being able to address that in a bipartisan way.

The loss of a few hundred thousand jobs per year to offshoring is a small part of the constant pace of job creation and destruction that goes on in the U.S. labor market. We need to address dislocation. We can do that with aggressive education and training.

But it is precisely because each job loss is painful that we need to focus on ways to stimulate employment generally rather than focusing on legislation to address a tiny percent of the population.

In closing, we need to keep our focus on proposals that look to the future to help companies create and keep new jobs. We cannot be focused on the past but really the present. We need to be looking ahead all the time.

As Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan stated earlier this month:

Time and again through our history, we have discovered that attempting merely to preserve the comfortable features of the present, rather than reaching for new levels of prosperity, is a sure path to stagnation.

We only need to look across the Atlantic to see the results of those policies of stagnation. Instead, Republicans will keep working for policies of growth and for innovation to help America compete and win in the 21st century.

I yield the floor.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The minority leader is recognized.

SENATE SCHEDULE

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I appreciate very much the desire of the majority leader and our friends on the other side of the aisle in addressing many of these issues. He mentioned the JOBS bill, welfare reform reauthorization, and the importance of reaching some agreement on energy. I have indicated on several occasions that we are more than prepared to work through each one of these bills. We simply want to be heard on amendments about which we care a great deal.

I will not ask consent to do it this morning, but I would entertain a unanimous consent agreement to go to the energy bill today and work through the amendments. I think there would be a good debate. Ultimately, there could be a conclusive debate about the energy bill.

We will see what happens in our work with the House, which we have had to do now on several occasions. The same is true with the FSC/ETI bill. We would be prepared to go to the floor with a number of amendments.

People on the other side of the aisle, for whatever reason, have refused to allow us an opportunity to have an up-or-down vote on protecting worker's overtime, on minimum wage, and on unemployment compensation.

There are other outsourcing amendments that we think ought to be debated. What better place to debate them than on a bill that relates to international commerce.

It isn't our unwillingness to have a good debate; it is our unwillingness to be locked out of the process. Whether it is in conference or whether it is on the floor, we have been prevented closure on each of these bills. I am hopeful that over the course of the next 2 days we can reach some accommodation.

I have indicated that I thought we could finish the welfare bill by the end of next week. We will work to see that happens. But unfortunately, we are not at a point where any kind of procedural agreement has been reached to allow that to happen, either. I will continue to talk with the distinguished majority leader about ways in which to accommodate our concerns and his very understandable concerns about completing the work.

TRANSPORTATION

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, the House was scheduled to take up its version of the transportation bill yesterday.

At the eleventh hour—or rather at 7 a.m. this morning—the Rules Committee met and appears to have finally found a way to bring the bill to the House floor and allow for debate, although they will not allow a clear vote on a key amendment that would raise the level of investment in the bill.

Let me just say, this is astounding.

We have already gone 184 days with one temporary extension after another. These unnecessary delays have cost our Nation roughly 100,000 jobs.

State and local governments could not begin the contracting process, and employers couldn't plan ahead. As a result, there are 100,000 fewer Americans working today than there should be.

Unless we agree on a transportation bill before the end of April, when the current extension expires, tens of thousands more jobs will be lost.

Let us put this delay in perspective.

First, let us all remember who controls not only the House and Senate but the executive branch of our government—one party controls all three.

The President has claimed he was going to change the way government works. Well, he has everything he needs—control of the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate.

And how has he done on changing the way government works? In the instance of our Nation's transportation infrastructure, he has steered us toward a real-life work stoppage.

It was 184 days ago that the law that governs our Nation's transportation infrastructure and all of the programs that deal with transportation expired.

We have been operating on temporary extensions to the law for 184 days.

Is the delay because Democrats have blocked a bill or used parliamentary tactics? No.

In fact, it wasn't until November that a bill was even reported by a Senate committee and not until February when we passed the bill in the Senate.

That was a good bill and Chairman INHOFE and Ranking Member JEFFORDS and others—including Senators FRIST, BOND and REID—deserve high praise for finally getting the bill finished.

That bill garnered 76 bipartisan votes.

The delay that occurred in the House was certainly not due to Democrats.

A bill that was introduced and appeared to have a majority of support was scrapped by the Republican leadership at the behest of President Bush and slashed by $100 billion.

And the new reduced bill wasn't passed by the House committee until last week.

One-hundred and eighty-four days behind schedule as we continue to inch toward actually shutting down the Department of Transportation.

I have hopes that we will get a bill approved by the House this week so we can begin to pre-conference the two bills and get a bill to the President before the most recent short-term extension expires at the end of April.

But as recently as this morning, it is still unclear if the House will complete their work before they leave town for 2 weeks.

One-hundred and eighty-four days without passing a transportation bill. Simply amazing on a bill that is critical to our Nation.

Why the delay? One reason. The opposition of President Bush himself.

A veto has threatened the Senate bill—a bill that, as I said, was approved with Republicans and Democrats alike.

The President opposed the original House bill, and now, to the dismay of almost the entire transportation community—including many groups such as the Chamber of Commerce who have long supported the President—the administration is even threatening a veto by President Bush of the scaled back $275 billion bill that the House is set to consider.

It appears the President would rather not have a transportation bill that would create 1.7 million jobs—this in light of the 3 million private sector jobs already lost under this administration's watch.

Let us be clear. It has been 184 days since those who control the House and Senate and the Presidency have not been able to move a transportation bill onto the President's desk—and it has not been as a result of Democrats in any way.

There are some serious politics being played here with peoples lives, and I, for one, don't want to be a part of it.

This inaction has made it nearly impossible for us to even think about approving another short-term extension—because that may be the only thing that places pressure on Congress to approve the longer-term bill.

It has been 184 days and there is still a month to go before the Republicans let the law lapse and shut down the Department.

There is still time before the extension runs out to move a good bill. But,

I will not be a part of another extension that encourages further inaction and shortchanges our transportation infrastructure and denies Americans the jobs that they so desperately need and deserve.

One-hundred and eighty-four days so far. We will keep counting.

But let us all know what is going on here. The delays are due to the President's opposition to approving a thoughtful transportation bill.

This, despite the majority in Congress who want to address this fundamental issue.

Why is the majority so strong for a transportation bill and the administration so out of step?

There are many reasons, but to make it simple, the Bush administration is focused like a laser beam on tax cuts for the most affluent—the privileged few—and they do not have time or want to bother with investments in our Nation's infrastructure.

The transportation investment proposal that the Bush administration put forward was dead on arrival in the Congress because it wouldn't even keep up with inflation.

At a time when 9 million Americans are out of work and job creation is virtually nonexistent, any more delays are unconscionable. And if it were not for the President, we could avoid that.

In many States, such as my home State of South Dakota, the construction season is short—sometimes only 6 months.

If contracts are not entered into in April, it will be nearly impossible to plan and get the work completed before the construction season comes to an end early next fall.

Another year could be lost.

It is time for Congress and the administration to get together and approve a bill that brings new investments to our decaying transportation infrastructure and new jobs to the American economy.

The Senate's transportation bill would create 1.7 million jobs this coming year. It would bring welcome relief from the longest jobs slump our Nation has endured since the Depression. So in addition to repairing America's transportation infrastructure, this legislation will reinvigorate the economy.

In States such as Texas, California, and Florida, the Senate bill increases transportation investment by roughly 40 percent—four times the increase proposed by the House, the House level the President opposes.

We are not just talking about numbers on a budget spreadsheet; the additional investment in the Senate bill translates into hundreds of thousands of jobs for Americans.

In Florida, for example, the Senate bill would create 44,000 jobs, while the House bill would create 13,000. In Texas, the Senate bill would create 80,000 jobs; the House bill 13,000. In Missouri, 22,000 versus 6,000; Illinois, 45,000, versus 10,000; California, 90,000 versus 25,000; Tennessee, 20,000 versus 6,000; and in my State of South Dakota, 6,500 versus 1,500.

In all, the House bill falls 500,000 jobs short of the Senate bill. We have all heard from the administration, and all we have heard they oppose both the Senate and House versions of the bill. For the Bush administration, it appears it is their way or—if you might pardon the pun—the highway, or, in this case, no highway funding.

We cannot afford to let our transportation investments fall victim to this kind of rigid partisanship. Every day we fail to make investments in our transportation infrastructure, every hour Americans lose in traffic, every delay in the shipment of goods, carries a cost to the American economy and slows job growth.

There is a broad coalition of groups and industries—including the Chamber of Commerce, the Association of General Contractors, the American Public Transportation Association, and the International Union of Operating Engineers—who are united in their support of the Senate level of $318 billion.

They recently delivered a letter that was unequivocal. They wrote:

As business and labor organizations, we cannot support any legislation below the Senate investment level for a six-year bill.

Time is running short, but, as I said, we can still deliver real relief to the American economy. If the House passes a bill this week, and staff and Members would start working immediately, there is absolutely no reason we should not be able to complete this bill in April. We can avoid letting the President and the Republican House leadership singlehandedly shut down the Department of Transportation.

It has been 184 days since the Republican Congress and President Bush began failing our Nation's transportation system and all who rely upon it. I know we can do better than this, put aside partisan politics, and begin to focus on the important work that is before us all. I hope that can be done in the next day.

Mr. REID. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. DASCHLE. I am happy to yield.

Mr. REID. Is the distinguished Democratic leader aware that the work done in the Senate bill—$318 billion for transit and highways—was done on a bipartisan basis? I have been chairman of that full committee on two occasions. I understand it. I understand the committee very well. But there was cooperation such as I have never seen. With Senator INHOFE, Senator BOND, Senator JEFFORDS, and me being ranking member on the subcommittee now, there was no partisanship.

Is the Senator—I am sure—also aware this bill does not increase taxes at all, it is paid for with existing dollars, plus trust fund moneys? So anyone who thinks this is breaking the bank simply is mistaken. This is no new taxes, totally funded, no deficit spending. Is the Senator aware of that?

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I answer the distinguished assistant Democratic leader by saying that is exactly the case. We had an extraordinarily effective demonstration of bipartisanship in taking up the highway bill. I worked closely with Senator FRIST. I say to the Senator, you worked closely with Senator INHOFE. We got the job done on time and, as you say, on budget.

This does not represent 1 dollar of additional deficit spending. It is a commitment to jobs. It is a commitment to infrastructure. It is a commitment to our fiscal soundness that I think is one of the best moments we have experienced in this Congress to date. It demonstrated again Democrats and Republicans can truly work together.

I only hope we could do the same in the House, and we will certainly do the same as we try to resolve whatever differences there will be with the House, including the amount committed to infrastructure in the coming days.

I thank the Senator for his excellent question.

I yield the floor.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leader time is served.

MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will be a period for the transaction of morning business for up to 60 minutes, with the first 30 minutes under the control of the Democratic leader or his designee, and the final 30 minutes under the control of the majority leader or his designee.

The Senator from Nevada.

DEBATE IN THE SENATE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I will yield very quickly. I want to say this. I understand the procedures here in the Senate. I certainly understand the majority has the right of first recognition. If the majority decides they do not want us to participate in debate, it is difficult for us to be part of the debate.

But I want the RECORD to be spread with the fact today we have heard—and I hope it is wrong—when we complete action today on the underlying bill, that is, the welfare bill, the majority is going to go to the floor and prevent us from being part of the debate; they are going to talk about what Democrats are doing is wrong and what they are doing is right, and not allow us to have recognition. Now I say, as the Chair is aware, that we heard once before, not long ago, the majority was going to do this, and you will recall at that time I got the floor and kept the floor for a long time. That did not set a good tone, that the majority was, in effect, trying to force us out of the debate. The Senate is a debating body, and we should be part of that.

I say for the second time this morning, we know the majority can keep us from being recognized. It would set a very bad tone. I do not think it would be appropriate or fair, and we would do whatever we could to protect our right, and everyone should understand that.

Mr. President, I yield, on the time we have remaining, 20 minutes to the Senator from New York.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. TALENT). The Senator from New York is recognized for 20 minutes.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I thank my leader from Nevada.

APRIL FOOLS' ON US

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, many years ago when I was a schoolgirl, on this day someone might come up to me in the hallway and say: Hillary, your skirt is ripped. I would turn around in panic, and they would say: April Fools'. Or maybe somebody would stop me after class and say: Hillary, I heard Janie is really mad at you, and I don't know what you did to her, but you'd better talk to her. I would feel terrible. Before I could do anything about it, someone would say: April Fools'.

Well, today is April 1, and there is a long tradition of people playing jokes on each other, pulling stunts, and then causing someone to be upset or worried or anxious or maybe even happy that they have been told something is going to happen, only to have the rug pulled out from under them when someone says, either jokingly or sometimes a little cruelly: April Fools'.

Thankfully, that day only came once a year, so you only had to endure your friends or maybe your not-so-friendly classmates' jokes and stunts for 24 hours. But I sometimes feel that it is April Fools' Day every single day here on Capitol Hill, on the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue in the White House, because on issue after issue of profound importance to the American people, our Government is basically saying: April Fools'.

Do you remember when they introduced their budget in 2001 and said: "If you drastically cut taxes on the wealthiest of Americans, why, my goodness, revenues will increase in the budget. You don't have to worry about all the expenses that we have keeping this great country going because this will work"? Well, 3 years later, we are facing a $500 billion deficit. Guess what. April Fools' on us.

Do you remember when they said: "Our policies are going to generate jobs"? Well, we saw during the 1990s 22 million new jobs created in America. What a difference that made in so many people's lives. What have been the results of this administration's economic policies? The loss of nearly 3 million jobs.

So for all those Americans who believed this administration's policies would work to create jobs and economic opportunity, guess what. April Fools' on you.

When it comes to the Medicare prescription drug benefit, the administration knew there was an estimate by the man responsible for calculating how much Medicare will cost that was much higher than what had been discussed in the debate over the bill. Here in this Chamber we were told the bill would cost $400 billion. That is a lot of money. It was a lot of money for what, frankly, our seniors are going to get, which is going to be a lot of confusion because so much of the money is going to drug companies and insurance companies. But, lo and behold, we wake up and find out that it was not a $400 billion bill; it was a $534 billion bill. And the actuary, the civil servant at Medicare—he is not political; he works year in and year out for whoever is in office—was ordered not to tell the truth to the American Congress or the people about the cost of the Medicare prescription drug benefit or he would be fired.

So we passed the bill. I didn't vote for it but a majority did. We passed it. The President signed it. Guess what. April Fools': It is not going to cost $400 billion, it is going to cost $534 billion.

Then, of course, we have No Child Left Behind, which many of us so hoped would make a difference in the education of our children. But we conditioned our support for this education reform on the promise by the President that it would be fully funded, that the money our teachers and principals and superintendents and school boards, but particularly our children, would need would be there.

Well, no longer is that promise even credible. The President signed the bill and then presented a budget which didn't provide the money required to fully implement No Child Left Behind. Once again, April Fools' on us.

Americans have been fooled time and time again by this administration, fooled by promises and fooled by predictions. Indeed, for 3½ years, this administration has said one thing and done something else. The list is far longer than what I have even mentioned. This was an administration that said: We are going to do something about global climate change and carbon dioxide in the atmosphere that is warming our climate. We just received a report from the Pentagon talking about what that means to our national security. So the President gave speeches when he was running for office saying we are going to deal with that. Lo and behold, he gets into office, and forget it. April Fools': climate change, no such thing is going forward under this President.

We have just seen some recent examples with respect to rising gas prices. That is a big concern. It is a concern in my State and around the country. We are seeing OPEC cutting production which will cause even higher prices for gasoline. When the President was running for office, he said: Why doesn't anyone do anything to get these gas prices down? When I am elected, I will make sure OPEC doesn't raise gas prices on us.

Well, OPEC did it. They cut production. All the President said was how disappointed he was. That doesn't sound like much of a strong case being made on behalf of the American people. Again, what should we expect? It is the same story from this administration. Say one thing, do something differently; fool the people, not just one day a year but every single day.

It is as if words don't matter anymore with the administration—and, regrettably, with the Republican leadership in Congress. There are a lot of serious issues facing the people I represent. We are losing jobs. A lot of people are losing their health care benefits. The cost of education to send a child to college is going up. We have a lot of challenges we should be working together to meet.

On this side of the aisle we have tried to raise the minimum wage. Why have we done that? Because it has not been raised for about 8 years. There are a lot of decent, hard-working people who are falling further and further behind because their costs are going up, but their incomes sure are not.

We also want to do something about overtime because what this administration has done is to say: We want to change the rules which would take away overtime compensation from about 8 million Americans. Can you imagine what a horrible experience that would be for somebody working a shift as a police officer or a firefighter or a nurse to be told: Well, your Government, your President doesn't want you to be paid for the hours you have to work extra. April Fools' on you. You are going to work but not get paid for it.

We don't like that. Is that obstructionist, that we Democrats think it is not fair that people should have to work and not be paid for it? I don't think so. I think that is in the tradition of American fair play. But we can't get a vote on it here because the Republicans know that if they had to have a vote on it, it would actually pass. That would really embarrass the President and his administration. So they don't want us to vote on it.

Unemployment benefits, it is the same thing. A lot of people are not only out of work, but they can't find work because there are so few jobs being created in this economy. The administration doesn't want to help these people. They don't want to give them that extra unemployment benefit that can tide them over until maybe we can start seeing some jobs created that will put people back to work. So our friends on the other side of the aisle don't want to vote on that because the administration would be embarrassed, because they know if Republicans had to vote on it, they would actually vote for it. So they don't want that to happen.

Time and time again, we have seen the President and the majority say one thing and do something else. It is April Fools' Day today, but that is no way to run a government. It is no way to run a great country.

Mr. DURBIN. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mrs. CLINTON. Certainly.

Mr. DURBIN. I would like to ask the Senator from New York, through the Chair, is there not also an important issue that affects families and businesses across the United States with the increase in gasoline prices? If I recall correctly, Governor Bush, when he was a candidate for President, said, in Manchester, NH, he thought in that circumstance, the President should use the power of his office to force the OPEC nations to try to expand their exports of oil so gasoline prices did not go up in America. Isn't it true at this point that this administration not only has failed to do what the President promised as a candidate he would do, but, in fact, OPEC has announced it is going to reduce their exports to the United States and force greater increases in gasoline prices which will hurt the American economy and American families?

Mrs. CLINTON. The Senator from Illinois is absolutely right. Not only did the President, when he was running for office, say that he would jawbone and fight back hard against OPEC if they tried to limit supply or raise prices, he even said he would use his connections in the oil industry to make sure that got done. We all know about his connections and the Vice President's connections. There has never been an administration in our history that is so closely connected to big oil and big gas and big coal and everything else.

So what happens? OPEC meets. Whatever they tried to do behind the scenes sure didn't work because they voted to cut production 4 percent. When that was announced, what did the President do? He said he was disappointed.

There has also never been a President or anyone in any administration who is closer or whose family is closer to many of the big oil-producing countries such as Saudi Arabia. They have connections and relationships and friendships going back decades. One would think that if any President could force OPEC not to take this damaging action against the American consumer, it would be this President.

But I see no signs of that. I see no real effort in that. Once again, it is say one thing, do something else. April Fools' on the American people.

Mr. DURBIN. If the Senator will further yield. I also believe, in Illinois, as I travel around and speak to families and businesses, there is one consuming issue, and that is the cost of health care, the cost of health insurance. Small businesses see these dramatic increases in health insurance premiums, and with these increases they are faced with the terrible prospect of either reducing or eliminating coverage for their employees; that has, unfortunately, led to more and more uninsured Americans.

Is it not true that, given the chance on the floor, with the prescription drug bill, where the Bush administration could have stepped forward and spoken for these families and businesses and said to pharmaceutical companies that you have to, as Canada has done, restrain drug price increases, is it not true that on this issue relating directly to the competitiveness of American products, the welfare of American families, and the future of businesses and jobs, that this administration has once again caved in to the special interest groups—the drug companies and HMOs in this case—at the expense of the American economy?

Mrs. CLINTON. Once again, the Senator from Illinois is absolutely correct. As he well remembers, the debate on the floor concerning prescription drugs benefited many opportunities to try to rein in the cost of prescription drugs, to try to give permission to Medicare to negotiate, as any big institutional buyer would have the right to do, and also to import the drugs that are American-made, American-approved, back from Canada so we could get the lower prices.

Again, this administration and the Republican majority steadfastly stood against the American public, against our seniors, and stood for the pharmaceutical industry. As a result, the cost is going to be much greater, and much of that increased cost is not going to help our seniors and lower drug costs so we can perhaps have even more prescription drugs available for our people. Instead, it will go right into the pockets of the pharmaceutical companies and insurance companies.

Mr. DURBIN. Is it not also the case that this administration took taxpayer dollars to buy advertising on television for their prescription drug program and, frankly, misrepresented what the program meant in terms of savings for seniors? It is bad enough that the bill itself didn't keep the cost of prescription drugs under control. The administration took taxpayer dollars and used them to basically put a message out that at least wasn't complete, and perhaps was distorted, misleading many seniors into believing that this prescription drug bill is going to be of some benefit?

Mrs. CLINTON. Well, the Senator from Illinois has raised another important issue because the administration is using taxpayer dollars to convey a misleading impression of the Medicare prescription drug benefit, and to do so as a way of boosting the President's reelection opportunity. So taxpayer dollars, instead of his campaign dollars, are being used to try to persuade the American people against the evidence that this massive bill, with so many benefits for the pharmaceutical industry and insurance companies, is good for them. It is regrettable. As the Senator knows, many of us tried to prevent that from happening and say let's do this right, in a bipartisan, unified manner, where we really provide a prescription drug benefit for our seniors.

As the Senator also is aware, in the last several weeks, the President's campaign has been accusing one of our colleagues, the Democratic nominee for President, of flip-flopping, saying one thing one day and saying something else at a later date. It is the pot calling the kettle black at the very least because it is this administration which, on every important issue to the American people, has either changed position or has persisted in providing a misleading and inaccurate argument on behalf of a position they have taken.

The long and distinguished career in public and military service of the Senator from Massachusetts, Senator KERRY, is one that needs no defense from me or anyone else. It stands on its own merits. It is regrettable that an administration, increasingly known for its two-sided approach and its talking out of both sides of its mouth at the same time, saying one thing and doing something else, would be accusing anyone of engaging in that kind of behavior.

Mr. President, it is April Fools' Day once a year. Thankfully, that is only once a year in most of our lives. Here in Washington, it is every single day, 365 days a year. The administration has engaged in April Fools' tricks on the people of this country repeatedly. But I think people are waking up and starting to say:

Wait a minute, where is that big surplus you promised if we did everything you said?

How come my taxes are going up as a middle income American while taxes on the richest are going down?

How come this is the first President in our Nation's history that has led us to war and cut taxes at the same time?

How come the White House didn't tell us the truth about the cost of the Medicare prescription drug?

How come the administration didn't fund No Child Left Behind the way it had been promised?

How come we are having a transportation bill that the President threatened to veto when it is the only jobs bill on the horizon that can put people to work and repair the infrastructure and modernize our transportation system in a way that will make us richer and stronger in the future?

Well, the April Fools' Day jokes are coming to an end. Fool me once, shame on you; fool me twice, shame on me. The American people are starting to ask the hard questions. They are not just questions coming from Democrats, but from independents and Republicans, and coming from longtime Government employees who don't have any partisan affiliation, like Richard Clarke, asking hard questions that deserve honest answers.

At the end of the day, what really matters is that the American people have trust in their Government and believe their President when he talks to them about matters of life and death. That is what we are talking about—life and death. So let's hope that when this day ends, maybe we can have some good news from this administration in the form of admissions and some corrections that will put us back on the path of unity, that will create the tone the President promised that would be a positive tone in Washington, where we could deal with the real problems facing Americans.

I am not optimistic, but I am hopeful that we could see that happen because these are matters of profound importance. It is imperative that we as a Nation have faith in our leaders in these dangerous and difficult times.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada has approximately 8 minutes left. Who seeks recognition?

The Senator from Mississippi is recognized.

JUMPSTART OUR BUSINESS STRENGTH BILL

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, one of the serious problems facing the Senate is the passage of the Jumpstart Our Business Strength, or JOBS, bill. The Senate needs to pass this bill now.

Since the World Trade Organization has ruled against the United States over our foreign sales corporation and extraterritorial income tax rules, we have had ample time to address this issue. The Senate Finance Committee reported legislation which would bring the United States into compliance with our trade obligations on October 1, 2003.

Today, the European Union's 5-percent tariff will increase to 6 percent, and every month it will increase another percent. This will make American agricultural and manufactured products increasingly less competitive in international markets.

Exports of U.S. agricultural products will approach $60 billion this year. If we allow the EU to continue with these tariffs, we will continue to lose market share and export opportunities. When our farm exports are pressured, the truckers, rail lines, and shippers feel the ill effects.

The EU retaliation list includes about 400 agricultural, food, and forest product tariff lines of imports from the United States.

These are very serious threats to our American agricultural economy, and this is why. The values of our annual exports to the EU are live animals, $23.7 million; meat and meat products, $44.4 million; vegetables, $35.6 million; oil seeds, $64.6 million; rawhides and skins, $41.3 million; wood products, $140 million; sugar and confectionery products, $21.2 million. The annual total of all these and other agricultural products amounts to more than $691 million a year.

Let me also remind everyone that much of the food industry operates on very small profit margins. So the initial tariff increase of 5 percent, plus the additional 1 percent per month, can have a serious effect.

Also, the EU currency has been very strong against the U.S. dollar. This means it has been comparatively easier for our trading partners in Europe to buy our products, but the import tariff erodes that advantage and makes it easier for competitors—other countries—to take away our markets in the European area.

It is my hope that the Senate will complete action on the JOBS bill without any further delay so we can send that bill to the President, which he is prepared to sign immediately, so we can avert the lost sales, regain lost jobs in the agricultural sector, and restore hope in America's farms and factories.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we appreciate Senator COCHRAN speaking when he did. We have 8 minutes remaining. I ask unanimous consent that the time be reserved. We had someone who was going to speak but has not shown up.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Who seeks recognition? The Senator from Texas is recognized for 5 minutes under the previous order.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERSHIP'S OBSTRUCTION

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, today is day 7 of the Democratic leadership's unprecedented obstruction of President Bush's nominees for various executive positions and judicial nominations. In fact, I have in my hand the Executive Calendar which reflects 46 of the President's nominees who stand ready to be confirmed by the Senate so they can get to work on behalf of the American people. But unfortunately, as appears to be a growing trend and one where our Democratic colleagues continue to dig in their heels, the answer to every entreaty we might offer, every suggestion we have in terms of creating jobs, in terms of putting people on the bench to decide cases that go unheard because judges are not being confirmed to these posts, we continue to get a consistent response on behalf of our Democratic colleagues of "no."

The answer they give to jobs and manufacturing, medical liability reform, a national energy policy, workforce investment, judges, small business, class action reform, and faith-based and charities legislation is "no."

Particularly on the judicial nominees, I point out, once again, that this obstructionism is unprecedented in the history of the Senate. Where we have a bipartisan majority in the Senate who stand ready to confirm highly qualified nominees, such as Justice Priscilla Owen of the Texas Supreme Court of my home State, people such as Janice Rogers Brown who serves on the California Supreme Court, or people such as Miguel Estrada who, after waiting for so long to have his confirmation heard on the Senate floor, finally had to give up and go about his daily life because of this unprecedented obstruction.

The worst part of this is that it has not only been about blocking President Bush's highly qualified judicial nominees and other people who he has proposed for various boards and commissions serving the American people, this, unfortunately, has also involved a character assassination as well. Judicial nominees have been called names by Senators on the other side of the aisle that are really unbecoming of the dignity of this body, names such as "kooks," "Neanderthals," "turkeys," and other names that are just entirely inappropriate to the civil discourse and debate that people have come to expect and deserve a right to hear from Members of the Senate.

We can disagree about policy matters. We can have a different proposal for the American people about which direction this country should go on a number of these issues. But surely—surely—the Senate should continue to conduct its discussions in a civil way and one that allows majorities to govern, not that allows obstinate minorities led by the Democratic leadership to block vote after vote on matters that are important to the people of the United States.

The problem we now hear is they are objecting to proceeding on any nominees because President Bush has used the authority given to him under the Constitution to make recess appointments. They act as if this has never been heard of, that it is unprecedented in U.S. history. The fact is, there have been more than 300 recess appointments made during the course of this Nation's history, including by President Clinton, before President George W. Bush, and others. Indeed, this is a constitutional response to unconstitutional filibusters.

Unfortunately, we know the nature of this process is such that if the Democrat obstructionists get away with blocking President Bush's nominees, not from voting against them but by preventing a vote on them at all, this is a tactic once determined to be successful that will likely be employed by others when the shoe is on the other foot.

When the next Democrat is President of the United States and Republicans are in the minority in the Senate, how is it we are going to explain to our Republican colleagues that, no, you should not use this tactic which, up until now, has been out of bounds but which has now been employed successfully against the Democratic minority against this President?

We ask for an up-or-down vote today on President Bush's judicial nominees, and we would ask that rather than answering "stop" to all of the Republican agenda on behalf of the American people, we could at least get an up-or-down vote.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator from Texas has expired. Who seeks recognition?

The Senator from Nevada is recognized for 5 minutes under the previous order.

MEDICAL LIABILITY REFORM

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, the theme we are talking about this morning is obstructionism. We have heard about judges. Later on we are going to hear about the Democrats obstructing legislation that would create jobs in the United States. It is called the FSC/ETI bill. It really is a jobs bill. This is legislation that will actually bring hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of jobs back home to the United States. Democrats have been blocking, as far as jobs are concerned, asbestos reform, bankruptcy reform, class action litigation reform—all of those items make American companies less competitive and make it tougher to have new job growth in the United States.

Outsourcing is a big issue. As we hear more and more about this issue, we have to understand some of the reasons surrounding it. Right now the other side of the aisle is blocking a lot of the legislation that would allow companies to bring new jobs to this country to make our country more competitive.

What I want to talk about this morning very briefly is the answer to what has caused a severe access to care crisis in many States, and that is the issue of the medical liability reform. My home State, the State of Nevada, is one of those 19 States that are truly in crisis. In fact, only five States across the United States are showing no signs of a crisis. Unfortunately, the rest of the states are all headed in Nevada's direction, and it is only going to continue to get worse unless we fix the problem right here in Washington, DC. This is a national problem and it requires an immediate national solution.

One of the main reasons we need a national solution is because the Federal Government now pays 60 percent—60, 6-0 percent—of all the medical bills in the United States with regard to Medicare, Medicaid, and the Veterans Administration. There is a huge amount of money the Federal Government pays in taxpayer dollars that goes toward paying medical bills in this country.

For this and many other reasons this is a national problem that requires a national solution. We are losing doctors and other medical professionals at an alarming rate all over America. They are not going into the specialty and high-risk fields, especially in the numbers that we need in this country. There used to be a huge demand for many of these residencies. Now, some of our schools cannot even fill their residency programs. Unbelievably, often times they are not even getting any applications for these residencies.

A few weeks ago I heard about the problems in Utah. There are tremendous medical facilities there. They are having problems getting doctors to go into some of the fields we want our best and our brightest to go into—those fields that require the most technically brilliant people—because of the fear that when they get out of medical school they will not be able to afford to practice because the medical liability premiums are too high.

Why are the medical liability premiums too high? Well, it is pretty simple. It is because we have an overly-litigious society where unscrupulous trial lawyers basically say bring your Rolodex and we will find out who we can sue. More and more, this practice has spread into the medical profession where hard-working and honest professionals are being subjected to frivolous lawsuits.

I am a veterinarian, and I know medicine is not an exact science. Mistakes are made. If there is medical malpractice, the patient deserves to get compensated, no questions asked, and our civil justice system has the ability to do that. But because the courts are so filled up with frivolous lawsuits these days, and some of the jury awards are so incredibly high, it motivates people to basically say let's go hit the lawsuit lottery because the system is broken. It is a situation where because of the backlog, the people who are really injured die before they ever get compensation. It can take 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 years in the courts before their case actually has a final resolution, and that is unacceptable for those patients who are injured. That is one of the major reasons we need to have medical liability reform. Unfortunately, the other side continues to obstruct our efforts in this area.

If opponents want to debate differences, if they want to amend the bill, fine, but they will not even let us go to a vote on a bill. In fact, they keep obstructing us even moving to debate a bill. They are filibustering, just as they are doing on judges and many other things. It is a shame because it is a crisis. It is a crisis with OB/GYNs—arguably the most dire of circumstances with regard to access to care—but it is also a crisis with trauma doctors, neurosurgeons, and even with general surgeons.

Some of the best people who practice medicine in my State are either leaving practice or now, unfortunately, not going into those high-risk specialties. We need to enact reform to protect every American's access to quality care, and to keep the best and the brightest practicing and entering into the medical profession. In order to so, this obstructionism by our opponents must stop, and it must stop right now.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada has yielded the floor. Who seeks recognition?

The Senator from Nevada.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. REID. I ask that when we move to the welfare bill, TANF, that on our side for 30 minutes 7 minutes be given to our manager, Senator BAUCUS; 7 minutes to Senator KENNEDY, the ranking member of the full committee; 5 minutes to Senator REED from Rhode Island; and 5 minutes to Senator BOXER from California.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Wyoming.

ENERGY POLICY

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I rise to speak about where we are, where we are going, and some of the difficulties we are finding in getting there. I was listening earlier as the Senator from New York and the Senator from Illinois were discussing some of the issues they consider to be problems with this administration.

They talked about the cost of energy. One of the reasons we are having some problems with the cost of energy is we have not been able to get an Energy bill passed that gives us any direction because it has been obstructed by the other side of the aisle, and it continues to be. So that is not a surprise.

They talked a lot about the health care problems. One of the reasons we have health care problems is the obstruction on the other side that will not allow us to move forward with malpractice insurance.

The same thing, of course, is true with Medicare. They were critical of doing something with Medicare. I remind my colleagues this is the first time in 30 years we have done something to help change Medicare, and it is going to be implemented over a period of time because there will need to be some changes in it. For the first time, people will be given an opportunity to get pharmaceuticals at less cost, and we will begin to have an opportunity to change Medicare from the way it was originally structured. It is very difficult to do that with the obstruction on the other side.

It is frustrating to be in the Senate where we are supposed to be making decisions, supposed to be moving forward. We do not all agree, that is certainly true, but we do have a system that allows us to go forward. That is what votes are for, but we cannot take votes. We continue to sit here and only talk about things.

I am particularly interested in the energy issue, of course. I think it is certainly one that we have talked about for a very long time. It now becomes more important because of the cost increases, because of the difficulties we are having with energy. It begins to be more apparent that we need to have an energy policy that has some plans for where we go over the next 5 or 10 years. We need to do that as soon as we can.

One of the things the Bush administration, Vice President CHENEY and the President, did was to seek to have an energy policy. All we have heard are complaints and criticisms and still there is obstruction to having an energy policy, when it is so clear that that is precisely what we need to have.

We have higher gas prices at the pumps, partly because OPEC has backed off somewhat, but also because we have made it necessary for refiners to put into place about 18 different combinations of fuel. There have been unexpected disruptions from Venezuela and elsewhere. We are having higher home heating bills because of the stress on natural gas where the consumption is going up much faster than the production, and it is predicted to do that in the future for some time.

So we are still talking about these issues. People are more aware of them because of the blackout, because of the cost, and because of the difficulties. So we need to make some changes, but we need a policy. We are not talking about all that we can do instantly. We are saying we need a general policy, and that is what this policy is. It has to do with alternative sources. It has to do with efficiency. It has to do with conservation. It has to do with more research so that, for instance, there can be more clean coal burned.

Today, the Wall Street Journal said finally people are saying we are having trouble with natural gas because of the demand, but coal is the fuel that we have with the most fossil reserves in this country, and we can do it in a clean way. Particularly, western coal is low in Btu and low in CO₂.

We need to be moving in that direction. We need a balanced bill, and there are things we can do to accomplish that. We are going to have to change the fuels over a period of time.

Some, particularly on the other side of the aisle, say: Oh, well, we have to start using alternatives up to 40 percent in the next 5 years.

Right now, of all of our energy production, 3 percent is produced by alternatives such as wind. We can do much more in the future, and we hope that we do, but we cannot turn that corner right away. It is a very difficult thing to do.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator from Wyoming has expired.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I certainly urge that we stop obstructing and move forward with an energy policy.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wyoming yields the floor.

The Senator from Oregon is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask the Senator if he will yield for a unanimous consent.

Mr. SMITH. Yes, I yield to the Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, our remaining time will be yielded to the Senator from Wisconsin, Mr. FEINGOLD.

THE DREAD OF ELECTION YEAR POLITICS

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, as the new year arrived, I looked to coming back to Congress with, frankly, a sense of dread because I knew we were entering a political year, a year where the stakes are high, and the President stands for reelection. I knew there would be an awful lot of my work and the work of all of us tied up in partisan gamesmanship.

I will confess to my colleagues, I do not much enjoy it. I look at my friend from Nevada, Senator REID, and I see a great human being. When I look at Senator FEINGOLD, I see another great human being. I love the message of compassion of the Democratic Party. I know where their hearts are. This is not about good people or bad people. This is about competing ideas.

But because I had that view—my father was a Republican, and my mother, a Udall from Arizona—I understand good people can differ on these issues. Because of that sort of bipartisan approach to life I have always had, in my former life as a businessman, as candidates for public office would come to our company and ask to meet with us and our employees, I welcomed Democrats and Republicans alike equally.

Unfortunately, what I often came away with was the feeling those on the Democratic side loved my employees but they hated employers. That is because they would demand we create jobs and then they would say the way you do that is you raise the minimum wage, increase your regulations, and raise your taxes. I came to understand by doing the books, by doing accounting, one of my most significant costs was Government overhead.

All of them are well meaning. But all of them make it more difficult for capital to come together so labor can be given work to do.

As my colleagues have come to the floor and complained about various aspects of this current obstructionist period—you know, we talk about medical liability, the Senator from Wyoming talked about energy, others have talked about judges—I have to talk today about the whole issue of FSC/ETI and how critical it is we find a way through this morass of partisanship to getting this bill done. What we do by failing the American people is to impose on manufacturers a European tax and a penalty to American potential for creating jobs. I don't think that is what Senators intend, but that is what is happening if we don't get FSC/ETI through this process.

As I mentioned earlier, I love the compassion I hear from my Democratic friends. Yet when I look at some of the policies that are advanced, what I see are policies designed to make the United States more like Western Europe, more like socialist democratic welfare states.

I recently had an experience on a trip with Senator SHELBY and Senator CANTWELL when we had traveled to Berlin to meet with Gerhard Schroeder. The German Chancellor was explaining to us his policies to reduce taxes, to reduce regulation, to reform medicine and Social Security. I said in humor, Mr. Chancellor, your policies would make Ronald Reagan smile.

His response was: It isn't because I want to do this, but I must do this because Germany no longer grows. We no longer have opportunity for our people. Our economy is dead in the water and yours is growing at a spectacular rate.

He even commented to the effect: You worry about losing jobs? We wonder why Mercedes and BMW are building plants in South Carolina.

It is because you can get a return on investment here.

I think we have to get beyond this lamentable side of the Democratic message, we love employees but we hate their employers, because the truth is both have to win and there is room for both. These policies that are punitive are well-intended. They want a vote on the minimum wage. I am ready to vote on that. They want to vote again on the overtime provision. We have voted on all these things before. These are not reasons to hold up progress on FSC/ETI. But that is what is happening.

We have to vote two, three, four times on policies already decided by this bicameral Capitol Hill. It is so very frustrating. I don't want America to become a democratic socialist welfare state. I don't care how well meaning all that was when they constructed the French and German economies, but I know, as Vice President CHENEY pointed out last week, while our economy was growing at nearly 8 percent in the last half of last year, their economies were growing at 1.4 percent.

So as we look to where these policies that are being proposed lead, let's understand we don't want to become like that. We want to be Americans. We want the American economy to produce jobs and to ensure freedom. All the well-intentioned taxes, regulations, and burdens of costs that are put upon employers ultimately translate into harm to employees. I think we have to start pointing that out.

In the FSC/ETI bill we passed through the Finance Committee, there was included in that a very important provision I was proud to sponsor. It was the repatriation provision. One of the good things the Europeans do and many of the other countries with whom we compete do, when their companies invest over here they let them take the money back to their home country without a tax. They let it be taxed once here. They don't retax it.

As to American companies who compete overseas, we allow them to be taxed over there and then we tax them again when they come back. So this repatriation provision, which for 1 year would have treated our companies like our competitors treat their companies, would have dropped the tax from 35 percent to 5.25 for 1 year. That would have created over 650,000 jobs. All the economists said that. It would have brought $300 billion into the economy, and it would have increased Federal tax receipts by nearly $12 billion a year. It is a win-win. Yet we are stuck trying to re-vote on votes we have already voted, holding up this critical legislation, which I promise you is a vote against jobs. To obstruct this bill is a vote against American jobs. It is a vote for a European tax increase on American workers.

Repatriation is a component of ending the FSC regimen that promoted exports by helping to bring into balance with our competitors American taxation on our companies which export abroad.

I listened with some humor last week when my colleague Senator KERRY, the Democratic nominee for President, introduced his tax plan. It contained my repatriation provision. But when we put it through the Finance Committee, Senator KERRY voted against it. But now it is included. I don't know. I am glad he changed his mind, but I don't know why the flip-flop. It is a great idea. It is important to do. I am glad he is now with us. I wish he were here today to vote on it. We could use his vote to get this off the Senate floor, to a conference, and into the American economy. It truly does produce jobs.

While I think it is easy to hate employers, it is easy to bash corporations, at the end of the day that is how American free enterprise does its work.

I know not all corporations are perfect. There is always a rotten apple or two to spoil the barrel. But most employees don't hate their employers, and most employers care about their employees. Most American companies are anxious to see America succeed. These are patriotic people. We have to understand there needs to be a win-win here. Right now the obstruction on FSC/ETI is a lose-lose for the American people.

If we want to see jobs created, we need to pass this bill. We need not to accede to a European tax through the WTO on the issue of FSC/ETI. We need to fix it now. We needed to fix it yesterday. We need to get it to the House so we can get it to the President and then get it to the union shop, the corporate board room, so labor can be re-employed, because American capital comes home.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ENSIGN). The Senator from Wisconsin is recognized.

CORPS OF ENGINEERS MODERNIZATION AND IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 2004

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I rise today to discuss the Corps of Engineers Modernization and Improvement Act of 2004, S. 2188, which I introduced right before the March recess. I am pleased that the senior Senator from Arizona, Senator MCCAIN, and senior Senator from South Dakota, Senator DASCHLE, joined me in cosponsoring this legislation.

This legislation is particularly timely because it comes at a time when Congress is debating the Nation's budget, and when we cannot ignore the record-breaking deficits that the Nation faces. Time and time again we have heard that fiscal responsibility and environmental protection are mutually exclusive. Through this legislation, however, we can save taxpayers billions of dollars and protect the environment. As evidence of this fact, this bill is supported by Taxpayers for Commonsense, the National Taxpayers Union, the National Wildlife Federation, American Rivers, the Corps Reform Network, and Earthjustice.

Reforming the Army Corps of Engineers will be a difficult task for Congress. It involves restoring credibility and accountability to a Federal agency rocked by scandals and constrained by endlessly growing authorizations and a gloomy Federal fiscal picture, and yet an agency that Wisconsin, and many other states across the country, have come to rely upon. From the Great Lakes to the mighty Mississippi, the Corps provides aid to navigation, environmental remediation, water control and a variety of other services in my State alone.

My office has strong working relationships with the Detroit, Rock Island, and St. Paul district offices that service Wisconsin, and I want the fiscal and management cloud over the Corps to dissipate so the Corps can continue to contribute to our environment and our economy.

This legislation evolved from my experience in seeking to offer an amendment to the Water Resources Development Act of 2000 to create independent review of Army Corps of Engineers' projects. In response to my initiative, the bill's managers, which included the former Senator from New Hampshire, Senator Bob Smith, and the senior Senator from Montana, Senator BAUCUS, adopted an amendment as part of their managers' package to require a National Academy of Sciences study on the issue of peer review of Corps projects.

S. 2188 includes many provisions that were included in two bills, one of which I authored and the other I cosponsored, in the 107th Congress. It codifies the idea of independent review of the Corps, and it provides a mechanism to speed up completion of construction for good Corps projects with large public benefits by deauthorizing low priority and economically wasteful projects.

The bill puts forth bold, comprehensive reform measures. It modernizes the Corps project planning guidelines, which have not been updated since 1983. It requires the corps to use sound science in estimating the costs and evaluating the needs for water resources projects. Under this bill, a project's benefits must be 1.5 times greater than the costs to the taxpayer, which alone would save the taxpayers over $4 billion. And, to receive Federal project funding, local communities must take on a greater share in the costs of the project.

The bill requires independent review of Corps projects. The National Academy of Sciences, the General Accounting Office, and even the Inspector General of the Army agree that independent review is essential to assure that each Corps project is economically justified.

The bill also requires strong environmental protection measures. S. 2188 requires the Corps to mitigate the environmental impacts of its projects in a variety of ways, including by avoiding damaging wetlands in the first place and either holding other lands or constructing wetlands elsewhere when it cannot avoid destroying them. The Corps requires private developers to meet this standard when they construct projects as a condition of receiving a federal permit, and the federal government should live up to the same standard.

Too often, the Corps does not complete required mitigation and actually enhances environmental risks. I feel strongly that the Corps must complete its mitigation and the public should be able to track the progress of mitigation projects. In addition, the concurrent mitigation requirements of this bill would actually reduce the total mitigation costs by ensuring the purchase of mitigation lands as soon as possible.

This bill streamlines the existing automatic deauthorization process for the $58 billion project backlog, and it will keep the Corps focused on its primary missions of flood control, navigation, and environmental protection. Under the bill a project authorized for construction but never started is deauthorized if it is denied appropriations funds towards construction for 5 straight years. In addition, a project that has begun construction but been denied appropriations funds toward construction for 3 straight years is deauthorized. The bill also preserves congressional prerogatives over setting the Corps' construction priorities by allowing Congress a chance to reauthorize any of these projects before they are automatically deauthorized. This process will be transparent to all interests, because the bill requires the Corps to make an annual list of projects in the construction backlog available to Congress and the public at large.

This measure will bring about a comprehensive revision of the project review and authorization procedures at the Army Corps of Engineers. My goals for the Corps are to increase transparency and accountability, to ensure fiscal responsibility, and to allow greater stakeholder involvement in their projects. I remain committed to these goals, and to seeing Corps reform enacted as part of this Congress' water resources bill.

I feel that this bill is an important step down the road to a reformed Corps of Engineers. This bill establishes a framework to catch mistakes by Corps planners, deter any potential bad behavior by Corps officials to justify questionable projects, end old unjustified projects, and provide planners desperately needed support against the never-ending pressure of project boosters. Those boosters, include congressional interests, which is why I believe that this body needs to champion reform—to end the perception that Corps projects are all pork and no substance. All too often Members of Congress have seen Corps projects as a way to bring home the bacon, rather than ensuring that the taxpayers get the most bang for their Federal buck.

I wish it were the case that the changes we are proposing today were not needed, but unfortunately, I see that there is need for this bill. I want to make sure that future Corps projects no longer fail to produce predicted benefits, stop costing the taxpayers more than the Corps estimated, do not have unanticipated environmental impacts, and are built in an environmentally compatible way. This bill will help the Corps do a better job, which is what the taxpayers and the environment deserve.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY AND INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT FOR EVERYONE ACT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 4, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 4) to reauthorize and improve the program of block grants to the States for temporary assistance for needy families, improve access to quality child care, and for other purposes.

Pending:

Boxer/Kennedy amendment No. 2945, to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 to provide for an increase in the Federal minimum wage.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there will be 60 minutes equally divided between the chairman and ranking member of the Finance Committee.

The Senator from Rhode Island is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise in support of the amendment offered by Senators BOXER and KENNEDY to raise the minimum wage.

The last time we increased the minimum wage was in 1997, and workers have already lost all of those gains of that increase. To have the purchasing power the minimum wage had in 1968, the minimum wage would have to be more than $8 an hour, not the $5.15 today.

In 1968, we could afford it. In 1968, we could provide the wages that would enable Americans to save for homes, to purchase homes, to save for college education, and to educate young people. Today, working Americans do not have that opportunity because the minimum wage is not sufficient to support a family and support the aspirations that all Americans have to better themselves and their children.

Indeed, what is very startling is if we had increased the minimum wage at the same rate CEO compensation had increased, the minimum wage today would be $22 an hour. In fact, it raises the fundamental question we will address over many months and years ahead, which is whether the rest of the world is going to become like the United States with a strong middle class with opportunities to move forward or will we become more like the rest of the world with a huge divergence between the very wealthy and those who are working for very little.

I believe we have to have a society that continues to produce a strong middle class, that continues to make work something that allows an individual to provide for their families and to aspire to all of the dreams of American home ownership, education for their children, and a comfortable and secure retirement.

Indeed, the fact that the minimum wage has relatively decreased has contributed to a doubling of poverty. A minimum wage earner for a family of three who works 40 hours a week 52 weeks a year earns $10,700. That is $4,500 below the poverty line. Today, if you are working 40 hours a week for minimum wage, you are in poverty.

The proposed increase would bring the minimum wage to $7 an hour, and even this modest increase would only raise the annual salary of families to about $14,000.

It is not sufficient to replace what people had in 1968. It is not sufficient to ensure all families are above poverty. But increasing the minimum wage will at least give more opportunity, more hope, and more sustenance to the families in America.

Today, one in five children lives below the poverty line in our Nation. This is the richest Nation in the world. That poverty has an effect on them; indeed, in the long run, it has an effect on everyone. There is an adage: You can pay now or you can pay later. We are not paying now and we will pay later. We pay later in terms of children who do not have the educational skills or the health to become the most constructive workers in our society they could become. In fact, some of them, unfortunately, wander into crime and other areas which cost us immensely. We have to be able to ensure people can afford to live in this country.

One of the other aspects of the minimum wage is a family earning a minimum wage in this country cannot effectively afford a two-bedroom apartment in any of the major metropolitan areas and in many rural areas. That is unfortunate. Without proper housing, how can one ensure family stability and the opportunity to move up in society?

We all understand and we all praise the hard-working Americans who, day in and day out, go to their jobs and labor for their families and communities. But too many of them are working at wages that do not reward this great effort. We can do something and should do something about that by increasing the minimum wage.

We should recognize and understand by increasing the minimum wage, we are not likely to have any negative impact on our economy. In fact, we will probably stimulate our economic activity. In the 7 years after the last minimum wage increase was enacted, there were nearly 11 million new jobs added at the pace of 218,000 jobs per month. There was no break in employment because the minimum wage went up. There were more Americans with more disposable income, buying more goods and services in our economy.

Most people, through my experience, who are working in jobs that pay the minimum wage or slightly above the minimum wage, tend to spend a good deal of their income on taking care of children, on taking care of their rent, on taking care of things that put money into our economy today.

We have to do this. Indeed, it would benefit our economy, not just those recipients of increased wages.

There are about 7 million workers and a third of working women who will benefit. I hope we can move forward and ensure this minimum wage is increased.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, we are facing a filibuster on an amendment I offered with Senator KENNEDY, with great support across the board. I thank Senator REED for his support of this very simple amendment.

We are facing a filibuster on whether we can vote on raising the minimum wage. I cannot think of a more cruel filibuster in my life. Why on Earth would anyone, Republican or Democrat, try to block a vote on this very important matter? I hear all about compassionate conservatism. Fine. Show it to me. Where is it?

People at the minimum wage have been stuck there for 7 years. That is how long it has been since we raised it. Give us a chance to have an up-or-down vote on raising the minimum wage. I ask my colleagues to try and live on $10,800 a year. Think about your rent or your mortgage payment. If it is $800 a month, that is it. You use up all of your money.

Some Members say we are trying to raise it way out of proportion. We are not. It is a rather modest increase, from $5.15 to $7 an hour.

I will show a few charts that tell the story better. People who work at the minimum wage are working well below the poverty line. This red line on this chart is the poverty line for a family of three. A family of three is way below the poverty line. They are headed straight down, as shown on this chart. I do not understand why we want to keep people below the poverty line.

Nearly three-quarters of minimum wage workers are adults. We are not talking about kids. When I was a kid, I used to work at the minimum wage. Fine. It was great. I made 50 cents an hour. That gives away my age. Imagine if those Members of the Senator were still in the Senate. We would still have a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour. My goodness, we need to raise the minimum wage.

Seventy-two percent are adults. How can we look at these people and tell them they do not deserve an increase? By the way, they will still be below poverty even after we raise them to $7.

Every day we delay, minimum wage workers fall further behind. All the gains of the 1996 minimum wage increase have been lost already. The time is long overdue that we raise the minimum wage.

People are working hard but losing ground. The real value of the minimum wage: Today it is worth $4.98. That is what hard-working people are getting, $10,800 a year for a family of three. With our minimum wage increase, there would be a $3,800 yearly increase in wages. That would pay far more than 2 years of childcare.

We talk about how important this welfare bill is. As a matter of fact, my friend from Pennsylvania had a chart showing how wonderful it has been that children have been lifted out of poverty. Of course, we are seeing now an increase in poverty. During the Clinton years, that was true. There were so many jobs, 22 million jobs created, compared to 3 million jobs lost under Bush. Kids were lifted out of poverty.

This minimum wage increase would give children more childcare. That is important. It provides 2 years of health care; provides full tuition for a community college degree; provides a year and a half of heat and electricity; provides more than a year of groceries; provides more than 9 months of rent.

When we give to people at the lower echelon an increase in the minimum wage, they will spend it, and that will fuel our economic recovery. I ask our friends on the other side, Why are you opposing us?

We will look at which Presidents have signed minimum wage increases into law: FDR, Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, Republican; John Kennedy, Democrat; Lyndon Johnson, Democrat; Gerald Ford, Republican; James Carter, Democrat; George H.W. Bush, Republican; William Clinton, Democrat.

The people who are trying to stop an increase in the minimum wage are going against a whole array of Democratic and Republican Presidents. Our increase is quite modest as shown by my chart.

American families are suffering since the Bush administration took hold.

Look what has happened: 13 million children hungry; 8 million Americans unemployed; 8 million workers losing overtime. That is what they want to do. There are 7 million low-wage workers, some waiting 7 years for a minimum wage increase. All we want is an up-or-down vote. They are filibustering it. There are 3 million more Americans in poverty since President Bush took office and 90,000 workers a week losing unemployment benefits.

I hope compassionate Senators on both sides of the aisle, I hope savvy Senators on both sides of the aisle, will definitely allow a vote on this very simple proposition. Seven years ago we raised the minimum wage. It is time to do it again.

Take it to the people in your States. Ask them how they feel. The polls are overwhelming. More than 70 percent of the people want to see an increase in the minimum wage. Yet in this Chamber, one would think we are asking for something that makes no sense. We want to get people off of welfare. That is the point of the underlying bill. Let's get them into work that pays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I retain the remainder of our time on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would ask the Senator from California—she suggested we are not going to allow a vote. I would be very happy to allow a vote. We suggested we would be happy to give a vote on the issue of minimum wage. But I think it is important, if we are going to give a vote on a “message amendment”—that is the term that has been used by Members on your side of the aisle, a message amendment—we would be happy to give you a vote on your message amendment in exchange for you giving us a vote on something that is actually going to help people in poverty; that is, passage of this bill and going to conference. In fact, we have offered to the Democratic leader that in exchange for a vote on your message amendment, you allow us to pass and go to conference on a bill that is actually going to help low-income people get out of poverty.

So I would be happy to offer, as I did yesterday, a unanimous consent request to give you a vote on your amendment, in exchange for you allowing us to have a vote on passage, at a time certain, and a commitment to go to conference on this legislation.

I ask the Senator: Would you agree to such a proposal?

Mrs. BOXER. Thank you very much for asking. We are ready to vote on the minimum wage right now. We do not need any more debate time.

Mr. SANTORUM. I would be happy to—

Mrs. BOXER. The message we are sending is to the people in America who need to have an increase. That is the message. We want to have that vote.

Mr. SANTORUM. Reclaiming my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania has the floor.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we have a vote on the minimum wage Boxer amendment, followed by a vote on the McConnell amendment on minimum wage, and then a vote on passage of the welfare reform bill, with the appointment of conferees, three Republicans and two Democrats. And then, on top of that, let's get everything done. Let's move, then, to the FSC/ETI bill, have a commitment to pass that bill by Thursday of next week, and a final vote, let's say, at 5 o'clock on Thursday.

So if you are committed to getting things done and helping manufacturing jobs, and you are committed to helping get welfare reform done, I offer that as a unanimous consent request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mrs. BOXER. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. I say to my friend, there are a series of amendments that are important to the working people of this country. Overtime—the Bush administration is trying to take away overtime—we want a vote on that. The unemployment insurance, which has run out for millions of Americans, we want a vote on that. There are a series of amendments that deal with making lives better for the people.

Mr. SANTORUM addressed the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator object?

Mrs. BOXER. This Senate is not the House. We are Senators. We are free to offer amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator object?

Mrs. BOXER. I absolutely would agree if he would modify his request. We can agree on time agreements for these and keep it open for the rest of the amendments, and then we will agree.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator object?

Mrs. BOXER. I object, as he has done it. But I will agree to modify it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. SANTORUM. Senator FRIST has offered to the Democratic leader a vote on all three of the amendments that the Senator from California asked for; that is, minimum wage, the issue of overtime, as well as the issue of unemployment insurance. We have agreed to votes on all three of those amendments, in exchange for votes on two things we would like to do; that is, pass a welfare reform bill that is actually going to help reduce poverty in America, help stabilize and build families, reconnect fathers with their children, and to pass a JOBS Act otherwise known as the FSC bill, which will help manufacturers compete in the international marketplace, save jobs, and create new jobs, and avoid harmful tariffs which are now in the process of being assessed against American workers by the European Union.

We have agreed to pay a ransom, to get two victims returned. The victims of the filibuster are the victim of welfare and the JOBS Act to help create manufacturing jobs. But we are not going to pay a ransom and not get a victim back. We are not going to pay a ransom to have votes on theme or message amendments and not get back for the American public two things that are absolutely necessary to help alleviate poverty and create jobs. This is not just going to be a political exercise.

The leader and the Republicans want to get things done. We are not here to message for Presidential politics. We are here because we want to do a job for the American people. We have a welfare bill that has worked—the 1996 welfare bill.

I will quote—by the way, not a Republican—June O'Neill, who was at the Congressional Budget Office, who said:

Politicians and experts from the left and the right acknowledge that welfare reform has succeeded beyond the most optimistic expectations.

The 1996 Welfare Act, which Members on the other side of the aisle say: "We are not trying to block. Oh, yes, we'll eventually get to it"—they say they are not trying to block it, so what do they do? Right out of the box, they offer an amendment and say: You either give us a vote on this amendment or we can't move forward on the bill.

They did not wait until we worked our will, until we had several amendments we were trying to work through. There are supposedly 30 germane amendments on the other side of the aisle. They did not wait to offer their 30 germane amendments. They did not work through the process.

Right out of the box comes an amendment that has nothing to do with welfare, that we said, from the very beginning, if you offer this amendment, then we will be happy to vote on it in exchange for a commitment to finish this bill. But no. No. We have to get our message amendments out. Why? Because I believe there are many on the other side of the aisle who do not want a welfare bill, who want message amendments instead of improving a bill that we know works for the American public.

Now, why would I say that? Well, let's listen to the Senator from Massachusetts, 8 years ago, on the floor of the Senate, dealing with this first welfare bill that we are trying to reauthorize and modestly improve. I underscore modest. This is not a major revamp of welfare in this bill. There are some modest improvements, tinkering, because we know what is out there is working. We want to make sure what has been put in place stays in place and make some minor tinkering to try to improve it. That is why this bill came out of the committee in a bipartisan basis, because these are not major changes. These are minor changes which amplify what we know has already been working out among the States.

But what did the Senator from Massachusetts say about this bill in 1996, which he voted against?

These provisions are a direct assault on children and have nothing at all to do with meaningful reform.

Let's see if they had anything to do with a direct assault on children. Children in America who were at the highest poverty rates, when this bill passed, were African-American children. Let's see if Senator KENNEDY's assault, as he termed it, came to be. No. Wrong. The assault was on poverty, not on children. The assault that Senator KENNEDY foretold never happened. Over 40 percent of poverty was among African-American children in 1996. Now the rate of poverty among African-American children is the lowest ever recorded—the lowest ever recorded. Why? Because this bill works. Why? Because requiring work works. That is what this bill did. And that is what Senator KENNEDY was vehemently against—vehemently against.

He goes on to say:

Here we are talking about American children living in poverty, the innocent victims of fate.

"[T]he innocent victims of fate."

If this bill passes, they will be the innocent victims of their own Government.

Let me change that around. For 30 years, African-American children in poverty were the innocent victims of their Government, in programs created by the Senator from Massachusetts, which locked them in poverty. And we have the courage on this floor to say: Stop this "compassion" that is killing America's children. We stood up and said, just because you are poor, you are not disabled, that we do not have a prejudice against you because you are poor, but we believe you can achieve just like the rest of Americans, if given the chance.

So we passed a bill that fundamentally changed the structure that the Senator from California and the Senator from Massachusetts, and far too many others, believed was the best for children—well-meaning but very wrong.

Instead of admitting this is the proper course, they now offer an extraneous amendment, having nothing to do with welfare, to block this hugely successful program in helping millions of families—millions of families—get off of welfare. How many millions? Two point eight million families. So 2.8 million families who used to get a welfare check now bring home a paycheck.

You ask, How big a difference is that in our world? I will give you a story of a young lady who told her story. She works for CVS. She had been on welfare for many years. She said after she had her first week of work and got her first paycheck, all of the children piled into her car and wanted to go to the store. Why? They wanted to go to the store because they wanted to go through the checkout line and have their mom pay with cash instead of food stamps. They wanted not to feel looked at as someone who was using the person behind them and their money to help pay for their food, but they had earned it themselves.

You don't think that has an impact on a little child's life? You don't think that being dependent upon the Government has an impact on the psychology of little children who grow up in that environment? Do you think we are doing people a favor by saying, We will take care of you?

If we don't pass this welfare reform bill today, the majority of Americans on welfare will no longer have a work requirement. If we don't pass a welfare reform bill, a majority of Americans on welfare will be in the old welfare system prior to the reform in 1996.

You say, well, this bill doesn't really make any difference? It makes a huge difference because the incentives will not be there anymore. I can't tell you the number of welfare mothers I have talked to. As I mentioned before, we have employed nine in my State office. I have worked personally, hand in hand, in trying to deal with the difficulties of taking people from welfare to work. It makes an enormous difference in their lives. They have said to me, one after another: I probably would not be where I am today had welfare reform not passed and the Government changed their expectation of me. I had to look at myself differently. It forced me to do something I never had the courage to do because to get that first job is scary.

It is a frightening thing, if you have very little skills, to go out and hold yourself up to failure. Let's be honest. Remember your first job. You knew nothing about what it meant to work. You knew nothing. How did you sign up? Where did you get your paycheck? What timecard did you fill out? There are so many things in the world of work that you have no concept of if you have no experience in it. That first job can be frightening, particularly if you are unskilled. Taking that first step or staying at home and letting the Government send you a check, that is an option that far too many people took.

Well, we didn't allow that in this bill. And it was not cruel. It was a step in the right direction for 2.8 million families, 2.3 million children out of poverty, 700,000 African-American children out of poverty. And we are blocking a bill that would make this a reality for future generations of people who may have to go through the welfare system?

I yield the floor to the Senator from Iowa. I thank the chairman for his tremendous effort in bringing this bill to the floor and fighting to get it through cloture and on to passage and to reality. He has been a warrior for children on this issue. I thank him for his work.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

MR. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank the Senator from Pennsylvania for managing the bill while I had to be in a conference to work out compromises on the pension bill. But more importantly, going back to his days in the House of Representatives, he has been a trailblazer in the cause of moving people from welfare to work so that those people have an opportunity to move themselves up the ladder.

Families on welfare and low-income families need childcare, and they need it now. This bill will help do that. If Democrats obstruct passage of this welfare bill, we risk losing a significant opportunity to substantially increase childcare funding for welfare families as well as for poor working families. If we simply continue the level of childcare funding under current law, hundreds of thousands of children and working families will lose their childcare. Estimates have been made that nearly 225,000 children could lose childcare assistance by the year 2006, and more than 360,000 children could lose it by the year 2008.

Is that what the Democrats want? Is that what they stand for in their vote against cloture on this legislation? That is playing politics on the welfare bill, and playing politics will not get this bill passed.

This bill is good policy. Democrats know that. And good policy is good politics.

Let me be clear: If Democrats succeed in their efforts to derail consideration of the welfare bill, hundreds of thousands of children will lose childcare. In other words, in order to score political points, Democrats are leaving poor children and their working single moms out in the cold. Without additional childcare resources, many States will be forced to make painful childcare cuts or institute waiting lists or increase copays.

If childcare funds are not available, low-income families, working families trying to do the right thing will be unable to help pay for childcare. Children work; children suffer. Or else children don't suffer and parents don't work.

Under this situation, they would be forced to resort to inadequate, unstable, probably unsafe childcare arrangements, or even be forced to give up their jobs and return to welfare, all so that political points can be made. That doesn't make sense to me, especially for a party that brags about putting the care of the people in need uppermost in their platform.

I think that is shameful. Democrats ought to be ashamed of themselves for making political hay on the backs of these low-income people.

In addition to the loss of childcare funding increases, if we are not able to enact this legislation—and you have to have cloture to get to finality, or else you have to have an agreement on the number of amendments and their germaneness to move ahead. So without one or the other, we are not able to enact welfare reform. In addition, we would also fail to make needed improvements to child support enforcement programs. We would fail to provide transitional medical assistance for 5 years as well as give States access to the contingency funds they have not been able to use because we liberalized States' access to those contingency funds. We leave States in the dark about what a reauthorization bill next year would look like. Why leave 50 State legislatures in a lurch when if we acted, they can put their State programs in place and move on with certainty?

When this is all added together—and there are a lot of other things we could say—it is an extraordinarily irresponsible policy that ends up with the lack of finality on the part of this Senate on welfare reform.

But then maybe welfare reform has never been a priority for Democrats. In the 107th Congress, even though my friend, Senator BAUCUS, reported a bill out of committee with $5.5 billion for childcare, welfare never made it to the floor of the Senate. This year, the Senate Finance Committee reported out a bill with significant Democratic priorities in it, but no Democrat voted for it.

Our Republican leader, Senator FRIST, gave us a week out of a very crowded legislative schedule because welfare reform—taking care of the needs of the poor, the needs of children—is high on the agenda of Senator FRIST. But it also has to be worked in with a very crowded legislative schedule. But he gave us time. He has many Members and many committee chairmen besides this Senator pressuring him for floor time to take up their bills, to consider legislation; yet, this had the high priority of our Republican leader.

We passed the bipartisan and Republican-sponsored Snowe amendment, increasing childcare by $6 billion, and still it looks like Democrats are prepared to block action on this bill, this bill that helps poor people, because they have an agenda that somehow outranks welfare. Obviously, their agenda is to make political points. I am sad to say that ultimately children and their working moms are the ones who will pay the price for this political grandstanding.

I hope we can do better by them, Mr. President. I have worked hard so that we could in fact do better for these people. It would be a shame if we are prevented from passing a bill that would genuinely help those in need just so the other side can score political points, or at least what they perceive to be political points.

The question is whether the Democrats will be held accountable if they succeed in killing welfare reform and killing an additional $7 billion for childcare. This issue is not about a vote on minimum wage. Republicans are willing to take a vote on minimum wage. As my colleague from Missouri, Senator TALENT, said yesterday, "We are willing to pay the ransom. We just need some assurances that we get the victim back." We need to know we can pass this bill and get it to conference. That is the issue over which Democrats are obstructing.

It is very unprecedented that Democrats are objecting to appointing conferees. Let me say that more broadly. It is almost unprecedented for the legislative process not to work the way the Constitution writers intended, and that is you get to a point where you work out compromises between the other body and this one, and that takes a conference committee to do it. If you want a product instead of politics, you go to conference. That begs the point, are we ever, then, going to be able to pass anything around here? In order to get a bill enacted, it has to pass both bodies.

We have $7 billion in childcare on the table right here. In order to score political points, Democrats are going to leave this banquet that is out there for people in need.

Again, the issue is not about getting a vote on minimum wage. Republicans are willing to take a vote on minimum wage. The issue is about getting a bill done, reaching finality. Democrats are preventing us from getting a welfare bill through the legislative process. I hope they have a surprise for this Senator and that we get cloture, and that they deliver to the people what they promised. This is very unfortunate for our country and for families who could have benefited from the bill that it looks like Democrats are going to kill today.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who seeks recognition?

The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Almost 18 minutes under Senator BAUCUS's time.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the Chair. I ask the Chair to remind me when I have a minute and a half left.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will do so.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, we are voting at noontime today on a cloture motion, and those, obviously, in the Senate understand what this is all about. Before the Senate at the present time is a proposal offered by the Senator from California and myself to increase the minimum wage up to $7 in just over a 2-year period. The minimum wage has not been increased for the last 7 years. Now we find the minimum wage purchasing power is at an all-time low.

Now, those on the other side—we just heard from my friend Senator GRASS-

LEY—are saying we are somehow stalling this legislation. We are not. When this amendment was offered, the Senator from California and myself agreed to a 20-minute time limitation so we could move ahead with the rest of the debate on the TANF reauthorization. That was objected to. And then the majority leader put down a cloture motion.

I welcome the opportunity to speak on the minimum wage because there is so much to say about it, about the people who are experiencing it and the impact of our failure to increase the minimum wage, particularly the impact on children. We have not had an opportunity to have a vote in the Senate for the last 7 years on this. It is time that we do. We are being precluded from doing so because of the parliamentary maneuvers of the majority to deny the Senate of the United States a vote up or down on whether we think some of the hardest working Americans ought to have an increase in the minimum wage.

The Republicans are so frightened about voting on this, so they do the parliamentary tricks in order to try to deny the Senate an opportunity to vote on the minimum wage. Well, it is beyond me why they don't want to take the hard vote. Why not go back to your constituents and say, I am for this or against it. If you are against it, explain why. But we are being denied. It is not just denying the sponsors; they are denying over 7 million hard-working Americans the opportunity to get an increase in their pay.

As I pointed out in the beginning, the purchasing power of the minimum wage now, at the end of this year, will be near an all-time low since it passed in 1938. We have a chance to do something about it and do something now.

A quick response to my colleagues on the other side regarding the whole question of how increasing the minimum wage isn't really related to getting people off welfare into jobs. Well, it is difficult for people who have listened to the debate to accept that, particularly when the Secretary of HHS himself said this in comment to the underlying program, TANF:

This administration recognizes that the only way to escape poverty is through work, and that is why we have made work and jobs that will pay at least the minimum wage

... Do you hear that? Secretary Thompson said this:

... the centerpiece of the reauthorization proposal for the TANF program.

Still our Republican friends say our amendment is not related to this. Of course it is. The President's spokesman indicated that. Still we are unable to get this.

Mr. President, I have stated who these people are who are earning the minimum wage. They are men and women of pride and dignity. They deal with tough jobs—cleaning out buildings of our country, all over our Nation. They work in schools as assistant teachers. They work in nursing homes providing help and assistance for our senior citizens.

Let me read one short story which is typical about a minimum wage worker. The name of this person is Fannie:

She weighs bunches of purple grapes or rings up fat chicken legs at the supermarket where she works. Fannie Payne cannot keep from daydreaming.

"It's difficult to work at a grocery store all day, looking at all the food I can't buy," Mrs. Payne said. "So I imagine filling up my cart with one of those big orders and bringing home enough for all my kids."

Instead, she said that she and her husband, Michael, a factory worker, routinely go without dinner to make sure their four children have enough to eat. They visit a private hunger center monthly for three days' worth of free groceries, to help stretch the $60 a week they spend on food.

"We're behind on all our bills," Mrs. Payne said. "We don't pay electricity until they threaten a cut-off. To be honest, I'm behind two months on the mortgage—that's $600 a month."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 1½ minutes remaining.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield myself 5 more minutes from Senator BAUCUS's time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. She continues:

"We owe $800 on the water bill and $500 for heat."

These are the real workers who are going to benefit from an increase in the minimum wage.

What has happened over the last 3 years? We have seen the number of Americans who are living in poverty grow from 31 million up to more than 34 million. These are 3 million Americans who are living in poverty, including hundreds of thousands of children, in the richest country in the world, who are living in poverty and, in so many instances, in hunger in the United States of America.

This is what the 2003 survey by the U.S. Conference of Mayors that looked at hunger found. These are mayors, Republicans and Democrats: 39 percent of the adults requesting food assistance were employed. Why? Because the minimum wage cannot provide sufficient income. These are hard-working individuals trying to look out after their families and feed them, and they cannot make enough to provide food for their families.

No. 2, a leading cause of hunger was low-paying jobs. We have a chance to do something about that by increasing the minimum wage. This is what the mayors from all over the country, Republican and Democrat, say, that a leading cause of hunger is low-paying jobs.

Emergency food assistance increased by 14 percent just this last year.

Fifty-nine percent of those requesting food assistance were members of families, with children and elderly parents. This is what is going on in this country. We can make a difference.

Finally, one of the major recommendations they make is raising the Federal minimum wage as a way the Federal Government could help alleviate hunger. Do we hear that? That is the recommendation of the mayors of this country.

Look at what happened in a study the National Urban League did on the issue of minimum wage. They say:

Minimum wage workers are too often presented as teenagers or wives in the middle class. Yet the clear implication of this study is that the proposed increase in the minimum wage from $5.15 to $6.65 an hour, or to $7 an hour in the case today, would move 1.4 million American households to the level of being food secure, having enough money to buy nutritious, safe food for their families.

It continues:

The increase in the minimum wage lessens hunger in all households, but particularly in low-income households and in those households in which the householder was less educated, in African, Hispanic, or single parents.

This is what is happening. There is an increased number of those who are living in poverty and an increase in the number of children living in poverty.

Look at the impact of hunger, the consequences of hunger and food insecurity on children. This is the Heller study, June of 2002:

Elementary-school children from food-insufficient families were more likely to have repeated a grade in school in both a national sample of elementary-school children and a study of low-income families from the Pittsburgh area.

Hungry and at-risk for hunger children from 4 inner-city schools in Philadelphia and Baltimore were absent from school more days than other children and also had higher rates of tardiness. A similar finding with respect to missing school was found in a multi-state survey of low income households.

These are the studies. Children are going hungry in America. This proposal is not going to answer all the problems, but it will help 7 million Americans. That is something worthy of this body this day. But we are going to be denied by our Republicans the opportunity of even voting on this amendment.

As I have said often, this is a woman's issue because the great majority of individuals who receive the minimum wage are women. This is a children's issue because a great majority of those women have children. It is a women and children's issue. This is a family issue affecting women and children. This is a civil rights issue because so many of these men and women are of color. And finally, this is a fairness issue because people in the United States of America understand fairness, and they believe if you work 40 hours a week, 52 weeks a year, you should not have to live in poverty.

Let's vote up or down, at least have the courage of convictions on the other side and give us a chance and give these 7 million Americans who deserve an increase in the minimum wage an opportunity to have some hope at the end of the day because the Senate did the right thing.

I yield the floor.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, yesterday I asked unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a letter to myself and Senator BAUCUS signed by 41 Democrat Senators. However, at the time of printing it was missing its second page. I again ask unanimous consent that the letter be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. SENATE,
Washington, DC.

Hon. CHUCK GRASSLEY, Chairman,
Hon. MAX BAUCUS, Ranking Member,
*Senate Committee on Finance, Dirksen Senate
Office Building, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN AND SENATOR BAUCUS: We believe reauthorizing the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program is an important item on the congressional agenda for this year. The Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (PRWORA) made dramatic changes in our Nation's welfare laws that have had a profound impact on disadvantaged families. We agree with the President that the main goal of welfare programs should be to strengthen families and support self-sufficiency. We would like to work with you to build on the strengths of the new system, as well as address areas where the new law falls short.

We are encouraged by the number of families who have moved successfully from welfare to work. However, 33 million Americans still live in poverty. The current economic downturn has led to increases in both unemployment and, more recently in many States, the welfare caseload. Today, almost every State in the Nation faces a fiscal crisis. Under these circumstances, a concerted, bipartisan effort is necessary to preserve the progress we have seen so far, as well as encourage States to help more families become independent.

We strongly support several of the concepts the President has outlined, if designed and implemented appropriately. "Universal engagement" of welfare recipients would help make sure each family's specific circumstances are considered and addressed. Ending the current "caseload reduction credit," which gives States credit for people who are not working, and replacing it with an "employment credit," would provide stronger incentives for States to move families not only off of welfare but into jobs. Similarly, bipartisan proposals to strengthen child support would encourage better relations between non-custodial parents and their children, and help families stay off welfare. We would like to work with you to make sure all States can participate and that families receive the child support they are owed. We also agree that transitional Medicaid benefits should be extended so parents who leave welfare will know their children will have health care as their families make the transition to work.

We are concerned, however, that the administration's proposals lack several key reforms that will help more families achieve self-sufficiency. We believe reauthorization should include four important components to achieve this goal.

First, to be successful, a work-oriented welfare program must demonstrate that work will be fairly rewarded, and that families will be better off if they play by the rules. We must make sure states can provide critical work supports, especially quality child care. Child care assistance is essential if parents are to get a job and stay employed.

A significant increase in funding for child care is needed not only to support the current level of child care provided to low-income working families, but also to improve the quality of care provided and cover the millions of eligible children currently without assistance. We know there are significant additional costs associated with increases in work requirements. Any welfare reform bill must include sufficient funding to ensure that we are not cutting child care services currently provided to low-income working families in order to pay for child care for families receiving TANF cash assistance. In addition, funding must be provided to improve the quality of child care to ensure that low-income children enter kindergarten ready to learn, as well as to increase access for the millions of families who are eligible but currently receive no child care assistance.

This investment is even more important because of the states' fiscal crises. At least 13 states cut their investments in child care in 2002 because of budget pressures, and more are likely to be forced to do so this year or even next year. In this climate, it is not realistic to rely on states to restore these needed funds, or fill in gaps left by federal policies. Failure to strengthen the federal investment in child care will have dire consequences for many low-income families that are trying to succeed in the workplace. We are pleased that the Senate Budget Resolution rejects the President's proposal to freeze child care funding, but we are still concerned that the proposed funding will not sustain current levels of support, let alone improve the quality of care or allow for increased work requirements.

Second, we must recognize the role legal immigrant families play in our economy. Most legal immigrants came to this country to find work; they contribute economically to their communities and play important roles in the labor force. Because of language and other barriers, many must take lower paying jobs and thus can be buffeted by economic dislocation. At their annual winter meeting, the nation's governors reiterated that immigration, which is controlled by the federal government, creates demands at the state level for education, job training, social and health services, and other assistance that is necessary to help immigrants integrate into our communities and become self-sufficient members of society. Currently, 31 states use their own funds, without federal support, to provide TANF benefits and services or health assistance to legal immigrants, and other states often absorb emergency health care costs for these families. Giving states the options to use federal funds for benefits and services to legal immigrants is an issue of fundamental fairness, and it would provide needed fiscal relief for states.

Third, states need more flexibility to make sure workers have the skills to succeed in the workplace. At a minimum, we support the provisions included in the bill reported by the Finance Committee last year. Full-time, work-related vocational training and education, post-secondary education, basic adult education, work-study, and other similar activities can lead to better jobs, more opportunities for advancement, increased family incomes, and a more competitive workforce. We should not arbitrarily limit states' ability to support these activities, since they provide a true "ticket to independence."

Fourth, we support state and local innovation, but will not support a "superwaiver" that merely shifts resources from one pot to another and eliminates basic protections for families, while bypassing Congressional oversight. A broad, vague superwaiver is no substitute for providing states with the flexibility within TANF to craft welfare-to-work programs that meet the particular needs of their state economies and the families they serve.

Finally, we would like to express concern over Administration and House proposals to significantly increase work participation standards and work hours, without flexibility and adequate increases in work supports. We agree that TANF recipients should be engaged in work activities that will help them to ultimately become self-sufficient. However, we feel strongly that we should not impose rigid requirements that would undermine successful state programs, or reduce states' flexibility, which allows them to consider and address the individual needs of participating families, including disabilities and other barriers to employment.

We would also like to point out that states have been successful in reducing their cash assistance caseloads because they have taken advantage of the flexibility in TANF to support low-income working families, including not only those receiving cash assistance, but also those who have left welfare or those who are at risk of needing welfare. These innovative efforts are already in danger because of the states' fiscal crises; increasing work participation requirements threatens the success of these programs by significantly reducing the help available to support low-income working families for child care, and other key services. We believe this would be a major step in the wrong direction.

We would also like to correct the perception that states can support higher work participation standards without additional resources. An argument has been made that states have more resources per TANF family than they had in 1996. This claim is misleading for several reasons. This line of reasoning assumes that non-TANF Child Care and Development Block grants (CCDBG), which support many low-income working families, are used only to support families receiving TANF cash assistance. In fact, the statute specifically states that CCDBG funds are to be used not only for families receiving assistance, but also for, "families who are attempting through work activities to transition off of such assistance program, and families who are at risk of becoming dependent on such assistance program." (PRWORA, Section 603).

The Administration's figures also assume that all TANF resources are used to support only families receiving assistance. But states have been successful in reducing their cash assistance caseloads because they have taken advantage of the flexibility in TANF to support low-income working families, including those who have left welfare or those who are at risk of needing welfare. The General Accounting Office reported in April 2002 that "at least 46 percent more families than are counted in the reported TANF caseload are receiving services funded, at least in part, with TANF/MOE funds."

The President has said, "It is not yet a post-poverty America." If we are to reach this goal, we must maintain strong federal and state support for welfare reform, so that families can escape the ravages of poverty and become self-sufficient. We look forward to working with you on a bipartisan basis to achieve these important goals.

Sincerely,

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Seven minutes forty seconds.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, if you could tell me when I have used 3 minutes, I would appreciate it. I want to leave some time for the distinguished manager of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, this issue is very important. If we really want to help people move from welfare to work, we ought to increase the minimum wage.

First, I wish to identify myself with the distinguished Senator from Massachusetts and what he just said about the importance of the minimum wage issue, but I want to talk more to the procedural question.

In 1995, when we debated welfare reform the first time, the Senate had 40 rollcall votes—40 rollcall votes. The next year when we dealt with it a second time, because the bill had been vetoed, the Senate had 30 rollcall votes, even under reconciliation. So we have had 70 rollcall votes in the consideration of this bill on two occasions in fewer than 10 years.

We have had one vote—one vote—on this bill so far. It was a good vote. I am very appreciative of the commitment made on a bipartisan basis to childcare. But the real question is, Can you have the kind of debate that has been experienced in the past, that should be anticipated now with the benefit of one vote?

I have offered the distinguished majority leader that we could work through the remaining amendments and finish this bill before we leave next week. I have offered that consistently through the last several days in the hope we could reach some agreement. I am very disappointed that we have not been able to find some way with which to resolve just the procedural differences. A vote on minimum wage, a vote on the unemployment compensation, a vote on relevant amendments to the welfare bill is not too much to ask and, indeed, that has been the practice of the Senate.

We are willing to work. This is not a question about whether we support welfare reform. We will get an overwhelmingly bipartisan vote on welfare reform, as we should. This is not a question of whether we should have anything less than an opportunity to debate issues that are directly relevant to people's lives as they try to cope with the extraordinary financial pressures they feel trying to get off welfare. We are hopeful we can do that.

We are hopeful we can work with our Republican colleagues and figure out ways to deal with these relevant amendments and these amendments about which our Democratic caucus feel very strongly.

We will oppose cloture today but in no way, shape, or form is it an indication of our lack of willingness to work to finish the legislation itself. Give us a chance to do what we have done twice before on this bill. Give us a chance to vote on amendments that are critical to a good and full debate about the direction we ought to take with regard to this bill, and you will have closure on it at a time in the not too distant future.

I hope my colleagues will work with us to make that happen.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, what the Democratic leader has just suggested is allowing us to vote on welfare reform, but what the Democratic leader has insistently refused to do is to allow that bill to go to conference. Of course, a bill passage means nothing unless there can be a final resolution on that legislation. So what we are being told is they will give us an apparent victory of passing legislation with no end in sight. The idea that somehow or another we are going to have a final resolution—I think the words of the Senator from South Dakota were "final resolution"—is simply not accurate. Passing a bill that has already been passed by the House gets basically put in limbo until we go to conference.

The Democratic leader has been very clear about not moving this bill to conference. So let's be perfectly clear, we are absolutely ready—in fact, I will offer a unanimous consent. We are absolutely ready to give votes on issues of importance to the Democrats and, as I said before, we are willing to pay a ransom. But we want to make sure we get our victims back, and the victims in this case are the welfare reform bill and FSC/ETI.

We want to make sure they have a chance of becoming law, not put in the bin of bills that have yet to go to conference because of some concern about fairness in conferences.

I ask unanimous consent that at a time determined by the majority leader, after consultation with the Democratic leader, the Senate proceed to back-to-back votes, first, in relation to a public minimum wage amendment, to be followed by a vote on or in relation to the Boxer amendment with no second-degrees in order to either amendment; provided further that the bill be limited to germane amendments, and at 9:30 on Friday, April 2, the substitute amendment be agreed to, the bill be read a third time, and the Senate proceed to a vote on passage of the bill with no intervening action. Finally, I ask unanimous consent that following the passage of the bill, the Senate insist on its amendments, request a conference with the House, and the Chair be authorized to appoint conferees on the part of the Senate.

I will explain what I have requested, and that is that we give a vote up or down, which has not been allowed on a whole host of judges on this side, on the issue the Democrats say is the important issue of the day, in exchange for all the germane amendments the Democrats would like to offer between now and tomorrow morning. And if they would like a little bit more time tomorrow, we would be happy to do that, but passage and conference, that is what this request asks.

Historically in the Senate, when we passed a bill we automatically went to conference. That has changed. So now we have to specifically include to do so in the unanimous consent or we do not get to conference.

I ask unanimous consent according to what I just read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GRAHAM of South Carolina). Is there objection?

Mr. DASCHLE. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. I simply say that on 21 occasions now when we have completed our work on a bill, we have done what is actually the normal process. We have—

Mr. SANTORUM addressed the Chair.

Mr. DASCHLE. I am reserving the right to object, and I assume I have the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania has the floor. There is no right to reserve the right to object.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I am happy to let the Senator from South Dakota talk on his time since my time is limited. If he would not mind taking his time, he could reserve the right to object.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I simply reserve the right to object and ask consent that the bill be sent to the House once it has been completed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I object to that modification because what the Senator from South Dakota has just said is, no, I will not let the bill go to conference. That is what sending the bill back to the House means, which means, no; no conference.

As we all understand, without conference we do not get closure. Without closure, we do not get a bill and we do not help millions of Americans get out of poverty. What we are playing is politics.

I commend to my colleagues a Brookings Institution Policy Brief of September 2003 "Welfare Reform & Beyond #28."

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have several articles printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

WELFARE REFORM WORKS, YET POLS SEEK ROLLBACK IN N.Y.C. AND U.S.

(By June O'Neill)

has succeeded beyond the most optimistic expectations. Yet the reforms are nonetheless under political siege: Reauthorization of the major welfare-reform law is now nearly a year overdue and seems mired in Capitol Hill politics. And last week the City Council gutted the welfare-to-work policies that made New York City one of the brightest examples of reform's success.

One can only hope that Congress will listen to the message of a large body of research that the council totally disregarded—and pass a bill that retains the emphasis on work that has served us so well.

In 1995 and '96, many in the policy community predicted disaster—children crushed by poverty and neglect—if work-oriented reform were approved. Instead, as documented in the recent Manhattan Institute report I wrote with Anne Hill, the poverty rate for single mothers, the major group affected by welfare reform, has fallen by a record amount, from 40 percent to 32 percent between reform's passage in 1996 and 2001.

Underlying this drop in poverty was a dramatic rise in the employment of single mothers and an earnings gain large enough to more than offset the decline in welfare benefits: Single mothers saw their incomes rise by more than 20 percent over the same period.

As to the children, a recent study by Northwestern University's Lindsay Chase-Lansdale and others found that mothers' transitions off welfare and into employment were not associated with negative outcomes for their preschool or young adolescent children.

New York City was perhaps the ultimate testing ground for reform. In 1996, prior to passage of the reform law, 10 percent of the city's population was receiving welfare benefits, compared to only 3 percent in the rest of the state and 5 percent nationwide. Moreover, that number had fluctuated little in decades. But by December 2002, the city welfare rolls had dropped 55 percent, even including those getting state and city rather than federal aid. And the number of recipients continued to fall despite the painful 2001–2002 recession.

What happened to the people who left welfare? A 1997 Columbia University study predicted that 500,000 single mothers would be forced into poverty within five years. That prediction proved totally wrong: The poverty rate among the city's single mothers fell by more than a fifth, from 52 percent to 40 percent. Far from ending up helpless and in deprivation, single mothers moved into the workplace in record numbers.

Some have tried to explain away these positive developments by claiming that they were caused by the 1990s economic boom. That explanation fails under scrutiny. In our Manhattan Institute report, we find that welfare reform can account for more than 40 percent of the rise in single-mother employment between 1996 and 2001; the boom was responsible for less than 10 percent.

Of course, it is always difficult to separate out statistically the net effects of different variables when both are changing. However, our formal statistical analysis is bolstered by historical observations which clearly show that both the welfare and work participation of single mothers in the pre-reform period was only weakly responsive to the ups and downs of the business cycle. This explains why welfare rolls have not risen much during the recent recession and in many places have continued to decline.

In other words, single mothers didn't leave welfare for work because a good economy pulled them in. They left because welfare reform changed the incentives single mothers face, making work a much better option for them in the short and long-terms.

Before reform, welfare was a long-term entitlement to a guaranteed income—cash, food stamps and medical benefits, and often subsidized housing, too. This income was a limited one, but it was given without any work requirement. So a woman on welfare, particularly one with school-age children, also gained something everyone values—lots of time to spend on activities of her choosing.

Welfare reform changed all that. Strict work requirements sharply curtailed discretionary time. The five-year time limit meant that long-term welfare support was no longer an option. Faced with a dramatic shift in incentives, some women who would have gone on welfare did not do so, while many on welfare chose to leave welfare much sooner than they would have.

The commitment to join the workforce has given single mothers the impetus to gain the skills and experience essential to improving their lives. Indeed, my recent research shows that women did better economically the longer they stayed off welfare and in the workforce. Poverty rates dropped 50 percent for women who did these things for four years.

Why? Each year in the workforce brings additional money—their hourly pay rose about 2 percent (after inflation) per year worked, 3 percent if they stayed with one employer for that time—enabling many to raise themselves out of poverty.

Welfare reform succeeded because it made going to work more attractive than going on welfare. Reauthorization of reform is being held up and threatened by the failure of many in Congress to recognize this point.

Some would tie reauthorization to an increase in the ability of single mothers to substitute education and training programs for work experience. Such proposals sound good—and typically were the centerpiece of the failed welfare initiatives of the past—but they fly in the face of what we know about why welfare reform worked, in New York City and throughout the country.

THERE'S MORE WELFARE TO REFORM

(By Douglas J. Basharov)

When the landmark 1996 welfare reform law came up for reauthorization in 2002, easy approval was expected. After all, the legislation was popular, it had originally passed with significant bipartisan support and, well, it was working, with the number of people on welfare down an astonishing 60 percent since states started putting reforms in place.

But instead of sailing through Congress, the reauthorization effort became trapped in a political tug of war between Republicans (who wanted tougher work requirements added to the law) and Democrats (who wanted increased federal money for child care). Instead of reauthorizing the law, Congress has simply extended it several times, and now it looks as if there will be yet another extension. That's a shame—because the legislation needs to be updated now.

Despite the law's success in getting people to join the work force, roughly two million families remain on welfare, many headed by single mothers who are unable to get—or keep—a job because of limited education and skills.

The Bush administration's reauthorization proposal focused on these mothers. Because few states had made a concerted effort to move them into programs that build specific job skills, the administration called for states to adopt tougher work and training requirements. Under the proposal, states would have to put 70 percent of their adult recipients in these designated activities for 40 hours a week.

The administration's proposal was not quite as tough as it seemed. It had a number of participation exemptions. What's more, as the bill moved through the legislative process, it was watered down in order to win support from moderates on both sides of the aisle.

But the administration was reluctant to broadcast the legislation's softer side—doing so might undermine its pro-work rhetoric. That silence played into the hands of Democrats. If the Republicans wanted welfare mothers to work more, they argued, there should be a parallel increase in child care financing.

The Democrats had a point. But their demand for as much as $10 billion in additional child care aid went far beyond the needs of welfare families. It would have covered families that had never been on welfare—and were in no danger of needing it. Over time, the Democrats lowered their demands; at this point, they would probably settle for about $6 billion over five years, which is still more than what is needed to carry out the administration's plan.

For the past two years, the administration has rejected such large spending increases and, given the criticism President Bush is receiving for the growing federal deficit, it seems unlikely that he will give the Democrats what they want. The Democrats' position likewise seems to be hardening. They are now talking about waiting for a President John Kerry to reauthorize welfare reform.

The stalemate is doubly painful because there are clear grounds for compromise. Republican modifications have resulted in work requirements that, if clarified, would enjoy wide support. Democrats know that reauthorizing the legislation now will ensure that states get modest but still substantial increases in child care money. Another year's wait would keep the states at 2002 financing levels, something that has so far cost them $400 million.

Further delay would also forestall desperately needed changes to the legislation. States have to be encouraged to address the needs of the hardest-to-employ welfare recipients by toughening participation requirements. Judging by the experience of the states that have had the most success moving these mothers into employment, we should require 50 percent of a state's welfare recipients to spend 24 hours a week in required activities—perhaps 32 hours a week for mothers with no children under the age of 6. States should be given greater flexibility in how they reach this level, so long as at least 10 percent of their welfare recipients are in mandatory community service or on-the-job training programs. (A separate exemption of up to 15 percent would be needed for the disabled.)

To cover additional child care and administrative costs, a formula should be established that ties payments to the states to increases in participation. The question of whether there should be more federal aid for child care should be reviewed on its own merits, not under the guise of welfare reform.

This kind of bipartisan compromise is never easy in an election season. But two million American families are still trapped on welfare. Can we really afford to wait another year?

WORK: THE KEY TO WELFARE

(By Brian Riedl and Robert Rector)

Should Congress make work requirements for welfare recipients stricter? That's what would happen under a bill the House of Representatives has passed. It would require more recipients to work 40 hours a week instead of the current 30 and stop vocational training from counting as "work."

Bad idea, the critics say. They claim that education and training programs lead to successful high-paying careers, while putting welfare recipients to work immediately traps them in low-paying, dead-end jobs.

Wrong.

Welfare recipients assigned to immediate work see their earnings increase more than twice as fast over the following five years as those first placed in education-based programs, according to calculations we made using data from the Manpower Demonstration Research Corp., a New York-based non-profit group. In fact, most government-run job training programs barely raise hourly wage rates at all, a report commissioned by the U.S. Labor Department reveals.

If the goal of welfare reform is to raise earnings while reducing dependency, then quickly moving welfare recipients into real jobs is the answer. Prolonged classroom training tends to be the dead end.

Before the 1996 welfare reforms, the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) safety net was just that—a net not only catching but also trapping nearly all who fell into it. Welfare reform replaced AFDC with a program called Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF). This program was designed not as a net but as a trampoline, springing families back up to self-sufficiency by placing adults in permanent jobs.

The undeniable success of this approach is demonstrated by the more than 5 million people (including 3 million children) who have risen out of poverty since the law was enacted. After remaining static for nearly a quarter-century, the poverty rate of black children has dropped by a third and is now at the lowest point in U.S. history. The poverty rate for single mothers has plummeted in a similar manner since 1996; it, too, is at the lowest point in national history.

But welfare reform wasn't perfect. Today less than half of TANF adult recipients are employed or preparing for employment in any way. Most remain idle and continue to collect welfare checks.

President Bush and his congressional allies want to strengthen welfare reform by increasing the TANF work-participation rate to 70 percent; opponents seem content excluding millions of families from working or even preparing to work. Yet those who would enact legislation that leaves hundreds of thousands of welfare recipients in idle dependence are clearly harming those they wish to help.

And those who believe welfare recipients are better served by education and training programs are ignoring the skills that would help these poor adults the most. A study conducted by the Washington-based Urban Institute shows that employers consider a positive attitude, reliability, work ethic and punctuality the most important traits they look for when hiring for entry-level positions. These traits can't be taught in a classroom, or as part of a training program—they are acquired through firsthand work experience. Not surprisingly, the same employers consider job training the least important qualification.

Unlike those stuck in a classroom or government-run job-training office, individuals placed in immediate work gain real-world experience mastering job duties. As they build work records, more job options and higher earnings become available. In the meantime, even minimum-wage parents can use the earned income tax credit, food stamps, Medicaid, the Child Care Development Fund and the school lunch program to raise their total income to two-thirds above the federal poverty line.

Some critics insist that all employable adults have already left welfare, leaving only individuals with insurmountable personal barriers to work. Not true. Urban Institute data reveal the current welfare recipients are no less work-ready than those who have left welfare. In fact, a substantial number of them aren't classified as having any barriers to work. And most of those with such barriers as a lack of transportation, a slight disability or an inability to speak English can, in fact, land jobs. But their chances of doing so are much better if we insist on immediate work.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the unanimous request of the Senator from Pennsylvania?

Mr. DASCHLE. I object.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The objection is heard.

The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the pending motion to invoke cloture. We are here today because the majority chooses not to allow a vote on a minimum wage. It is that simple.

That is wrong. It is wrong because the millions of hard-working Americans making the minimum wage deserve a raise. It is wrong because the Senators from California and Massachusetts also deserve to get a vote on their amendment. It is not right that a person who has a full-time job at minimum wage still has to live in poverty, but that is where we are today in America.

For a family of three, let's say a mom and two kids, the gap between the poverty line and the minimum wage is $3,681. That is right, a family would need $3,681 more just to get up to the poverty level, and that is before taking into account the cost of child care, which is a big factor, or the cost of gasoline for the car—we know how much gasoline prices are rising—or the cost of clothes for a job. Often a person has to buy separate clothes for a job.

If we want people to be able to move off welfare and into work—and that is what we want, people off welfare into work—we have to make sure the work they get pays enough so they can get off welfare and lift them out of poverty. That is what we have to do, and that is why increasing the minimum wage is so important.

Most people who are on welfare will say they want to get off welfare; they do not like it; they hate it. That is what they tell me. I have talked to a lot of people on welfare. One of the main reasons they will say it is so difficult to get off welfare is because the job that pays at minimum wage does not pay enough for them to get by. I have heard that countless times. They are working full time but they cannot make ends meet. We need to raise the minimum wage to help people get off welfare.

The vote today is also about another point. The Senators from California and Massachusetts deserve at least to have a vote on their amendment. They are willing to enter into a short time agreement. They are not delaying. They say, sure, let's have a vote on their amendment, with a short time agreement. They are not delaying. It is the other side which is preventing them from having a vote.

We on this side of the aisle do not wish to delay this bill. We are willing to work to get a finite list of amendments. We are willing to enter into a time agreement on amendments. We are not asking for anything out of the ordinary.

I remind my colleagues that during the 13-day period for which the Senate considered the basic bill, the 1995 welfare bill, September 7 to September 19 of 1995, the Senate conducted 43 rollcall votes on amendments. So far this year we have conducted one, and yet there is a cloture motion to try to stop debate. That is not the way to legislate. We are not asking for anything out of the ordinary. We merely ask that Senators be able to offer amendments and get votes on their amendments.

We have time agreements, we have lists, and so forth. That is what this debate is about. I urge my colleagues to uphold the rights of Senators. I urge Senators to vote to increase the minimum wage. I urge Senators to oppose cloture.

How much time does each side have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Ten seconds.

Mr. BAUCUS. I yield back the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I reiterate that we are perfectly willing to give up-or-down votes for a chance to pass this bill. I have asked unanimous consent and the other side has said no.

I have heard so much about everyone having a right to get up-or-down votes. We have had a debate on the floor of the Senate for a year and a half about up-or-down votes on Federal judges. So maybe we can exchange up-or-down votes.

I ask unanimous consent that we have an up-or-down vote on the Boxer-Kennedy amendment, followed by a vote on a McConnell relevant amendment dealing with minimum wage, in exchange for a vote on Calendar No. 169, Carolyn Kuhl, of California, to be a judge on the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, and Calendar No. 455, Janice Rogers Brown to be United States Circuit Judge for the District of Columbia.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BAUCUS. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The objection is heard.

Mr. SANTORUM. So we understand up-or-down votes only apply to their amendments and the things they want to do, not what Republicans want to do.

We need closure and we are not getting it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, the clerk will call the roll.

The assistant journal clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

SENATOR BYRD'S 17,000TH VOTE

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I would inform my colleagues that with this vote we will witness history. Senator BYRD will have cast his 17,000th vote. No Senator in all of history will have done that. I will have more to say about that after the vote.

I yield the floor.

CLOTURE MOTION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, pursuant to rule XXII, the clerk will report the motion to invoke cloture.

The assistant journal clerk read as follows:

CLOTURE MOTION

We the undersigned Senators, in accordance with the provisions of rule XXII of the Standing Rules of the Senate, do hereby move to bring to a close debate on the substitute amendment to Calendar No. 305, H.R. 4, an act to reauthorize and improve the program of block grants to States for temporary assistance for needy families, improve access to quality child care, and for other purposes.

Bill Frist, Charles E. Grassley, John E. Sununu, Conrad Burns, Lamar Alexander, Peter G. Fitzgerald, Larry E. Craig, John Cornyn, Robert F. Bennett, John Ensign, Orrin G. Hatch, Mike Enzi, Mitch McConnell, Ted Stevens, Norm Coleman, James M. Inhofe, Kay Bailey Hutchison.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. By unanimous consent, the mandatory quorum call has been waived.

The question is, Is it the sense of the Senate that debate on the pending committee substitute amendment to H.R. 4, an act to reauthorize and improve the program of block grants to States for temporary assistance for needy families, improve access to quality childcare, and for other purposes, shall be brought to a close?

The yeas and nays are mandatory under the rule.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. I announce that the Senator from Alaska (Ms. MURKOWSKI) is necessarily absent.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) is necessarily absent.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) would vote "nay."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 51, nays 47, as follows:

NOT VOTING—2

Kerry
Murkowski

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 51, the nays are 47. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected.

Mr. FRIST. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DASCHLE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

CONGRATULATING SENATOR ROBERT C. BYRD ON CASTING HIS 17,000TH VOTE

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to remark on a truly historic moment that just took place about 15 seconds ago, a moment we all witnessed which is special in United States history in a way we will shortly lay out.

Senator ROBERT BYRD is already recognized as an American icon. In 1917, he began life as a virtual orphan. His mom passed away when he was a year old. His aunt and uncle brought him to West Virginia to raise him on their own.

Hard working, enterprising, ROBERT BYRD made the most of every single opportunity along the way and rose to become the third longest serving Member of Congress in U.S. history.

Among his many distinctions, Senator BYRD has held more leadership positions in this body, the U.S. Senate, than any other Senator in American history.

Over the course of eight consecutive terms, Senator BYRD has cast more votes than any other Senator in the history of the Republic. Today, just a couple minutes ago, Senator BYRD cast his 17,000th vote in this Chamber. I applaud Senator BYRD for his commitment to public service. This vote is truly a milestone in his career and the history of the U.S. Senate.

Without question, when history is written, Senator BYRD will hold a prominent place as a Senate legend.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I join the majority leader and all the Members of our body in congratulating Senator BYRD on reaching this historic milestone. I thank him for his half century of service to the U.S. Congress. Seventeen thousand votes is an astonishing number. It is even more astonishing when you consider that Senator BYRD has now cast 652 more votes than the first runner-up, Senator Thurmond. He has served 2 years less than Senator Thurmond.

Here is another remarkable statistic: In the last 45 years in the Senate, ROBERT BYRD has voted on 98.72 percent of the questions put before this body. He has missed only about 1 percent of all votes cast over 45 years—the second highest percentage of all Senators who have cast 10,000 votes or more.

From July 25, 1984, through September 17, 1997—a period of more than 13 years—Senator BYRD did not miss one single vote. He cast 4,705 consecutive votes—the second highest consecutive vote total in Senate history. Of the 11,708 persons who have ever served in the U.S. Congress, only two have served longer than ROBERT C. BYRD. But what makes Senator BYRD's vote totals and voting percentages even more remarkable are some of the other achievements Senator BYRD has recorded over these last 45 years.

He is the first person ever to start and finish a law degree while serving in Congress. It took him 10 years. He graduated from American University Law School in 1963. President Kennedy was his commencement speaker.

In 1994, he fulfilled a lifelong ambition. He finally received his bachelor's degree from Marshall University summa cum laude—the first person in his family ever to go to college.

There are two reasons Senator BYRD has reached this historic 17,000-vote milestone. First, ROBERT C. BYRD believes, in his bones, if you have a job to do, you do it. He is a coal miner's son who has worked hard all of his life. He got his first job when he was 7, selling the Cincinnati Post. He has been a produce boy, a gas station attendant, a head butcher, and the owner of a small grocery store. He is a man who believes in earning his pay, who knows how it feels to fall asleep at night exhausted but proud for having met his responsibilities for 1 more day.

The other reason Senator BYRD has reached this milestone is because of his great love of West Virginia, of this Nation, and of the Senate.

Of course, the greatest love in Senator BYRD's life is his wife Erma. For the last 3 years, Mrs. Byrd's delicate health, and Senator BYRD's desire to be with her as much as possible, to support her, has made it even more difficult for Senator BYRD to answer every rollcall vote. Yet he has continued to do so.

We are privileged to work with him.

On this historic occasion, we congratulate him. And we thank ROBERT and Erma BYRD for all they have given this Senate and our Nation.

(Applause, Senators rising.)

Mr. BYRD. Thank you.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The senior Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, 17,000 votes ago, I achieved a dream. I stood on the floor of the U.S. Senate and prepared to cast my first vote as a Senator from the Mountain State of West Virginia. Seventeen thousand votes later, I still feel much the same. It is a great honor, a great privilege to serve the people in the Senate.

Ours is a glorious country. Its people are wise. They are brave. They are hard-working and fairminded.

Once it was possible for a poor young man with no important connections, with no PR firm behind him, with no fundraising apparatus racing at full tilt, to simply go out to the people, carrying his fiddle and having a mind full of poetry, and on the strength of his energy and his convictions, to be elected to the greatest deliberative body the world has ever known.

That time is light-years away from today's reality. Too often now in America it is the size of the pocketbook that elects public officials. I regret that change. It keeps people out of public service instead of welcoming them into public service.

This Senate is the forum which exists to welcome and to protect the airing of all points of view. Both sides of the aisle need to work together to ensure that the Senate will stay true to its constitutional purpose. We swear an oath before God and man to support and defend this Constitution. Many times I have sworn that oath before God and man to support the Constitution of the United States.

I have had a good run in this wonderful institution. And like Majorian, who, when he became Emperor of the Roman Empire in 457 AD said, "I still glory in the name of Senator."

My patient and devoted wife Erma, with whom I will celebrate a 67-year-long partnership 58 days from now, the Lord willing, deserves much of the credit for that good run. I also thank my talented staff for their tireless work and dedication.

No man is an island, and I have had the good fortune to have many steadfast friends and supporters over the years. To the people of West Virginia, I owe my everlasting gratitude. They have expressed their faith in me time and time again. I am proud to be their Senator, and I hope to continue to serve for a long while.

I thank my colleagues. They have been patient. They have known my shortcomings. I have said things from time to time that I regretted. We are all human. But my colleagues have been considerate of me, and I thank them.

Pericles, the brilliant Athenian statesman, gave mankind one of the greatest funeral orations ever made. This address was delivered in 431 BC as a memorial to the first Athenian soldier who fell in the Peloponnesian War. In this address, Pericles said:

It is greatness of soul alone that never grows old, nor is it wealth that delights in the latter stage of life as some give out, so much as honor.

And so it is honor itself that never grows old. I thank my colleagues for the honor they show today.

Finally, but most of all from Chronicles, 29th chapter, verses 11 and 12:

Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heavens and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all.

Both riches and honor come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.

(Applause, Senators rising.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alaska.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, the Senator from West Virginia honors us all with that last statement he made.

Over the years I have been here, it has been my privilege to travel with the Senator from West Virginia to many events. I want to recall one for the Senate that I am sure the Senator will remember.

We were in West Virginia with the British American Parliamentary Conference. One of our guests from Britain made the mistake of saying it was too bad that their American cousins did not know anything about British history.

My colleague was the host that evening. And making a closing statement for that dinner, Senator BYRD decided to show our British cousins his wealth of knowledge about the history of Britain and proceeded to name every monarch, every spouse, every person who had a personal relationship with every monarch, and a complete history of the monarchy of Great Britain.

Needless to say, when he finished, which was quite a few minutes later, the British stood and applauded politely, and we have never heard such a comment again from our British cousins. There have been many other occasions we have had together.

I wanted to say that one of the great joys of serving in the Senate is my being able to get to know my friend from West Virginia. We have had our disagreements, but that is natural because this aisle separates us once in a while. But nothing has separated ROBERT BYRD from each Senator in the Senate. He has been the most agreeable Senator, on a personal basis, that I have known in the Senate. I think every Senator will say the same thing.

He always has a smile. He always increases that smile if we remember to ask about Erma.

Mr. President, I join in the applause, but I think the Senate itself has been honored today to witness this historic mark in his career.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I wanted to say that last night I had the pleasure of going to the Smithsonian Institution and meeting members of the Baseball Hall of Fame. There were people there who were, to me—as a young boy, I wanted to be a baseball player and always listened to the game of the day. There were people there, including Gaylord Perry, Dave Winfield, Joe Morgan, Sandy Koufax, Stan Musial.

I have to say to my friend from West Virginia, as great an experience as that was for me visiting with those great athletes of yesteryear, that pales in comparison to the experiences I have had while serving with the “Babe Ruth” of the U.S. Senate.

When I was elected to this leadership job, Senator BYRD supported me. I wrote him a letter—and I am confident he remembers that like he does everything else—and I said I believed he was the Babe Ruth of the U.S. Senate. When I say that, he is a member of the hall of fame, of course, but the Babe Ruth in the Baseball Hall of Fame stands above all the rest. In the Senate, Senator ROBERT BYRD stands above all of us. I have a degree in history and I know something about it. I know we have great Senators here, but I have had the opportunity to serve with the greatest.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is recognized.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I rise for a moment to add my voice to those who praise Senator ROBERT C. BYRD. I think what every public servant deserves, and occasionally gets, is a recognition that his or her service is in fact profoundly appreciated. That is usually not the case. The American people are not as aware of what goes on in these Halls, or even in their own legislative halls, as they ought to be.

But I take special happiness out of this day for Senator BYRD because he has accomplished something that nobody else has with his 17,000th vote. He rose to cast his vote, as he always does. When somebody comes to greet him, argue with him, plead with him, and he is at his seat, he always rises, be that a man or a woman. He has brought, in my judgment, not only a tautness to the debates that we have in this Chamber, not always agreeing with the majority or with the minority, but he knows his mind and he knows his soul, and he knows his God. He does not deviate from that and he cares not who appreciates that or who doesn't.

In other words, Senator BYRD is a man who, over the years, through the crucible of tough experiences and steadfast devotion not only to his God but also to the great figure who is not here today, who is so much part of his life and who brings out even in saying her name a great emotion in me, and that is his absolutely wonderful, wonderful wife Erma, honors us by his service.

I was with him earlier this morning as he was talking to schoolteachers from all over the United States who are trying to get their students to write better. It is called the “writers project,” which he has been instrumental in doing. He talked to them of public service and the need for accuracy and being fair. What he was really saying is that doing something in your life which is not only important but which you give yourself to profoundly, completely, an utter devotion to duty, is what separates the great and the near great.

I am very proud to serve with Senator BYRD. We have served together for 20 years now and have known each other for close to 40 years. Our wives are good friends; we are good friends. I sit behind him in the seat that Senator Moynihan used to occupy. I enjoy seeing people coming up to him and making their case, which talks not only of his courtesy, because he is so often on the floor, but also of his power to get things done, which then makes me say that there is no possible way to describe, from the point of view of the Senators in my State of West Virginia, what he has meant, does mean, and will mean for that State.

West Virginia is a State that has always had to struggle. We have always had to keep pushing the rock uphill, not daring to take one hand off for fear that the rock may roll back over the top of us. It takes a tough person and a moral person and a determined person to fight the battles that are needed to be won for our people in West Virginia. That comes to Senator BYRD instinctively.

I am so proud of this day because I cannot help but feel that when Senator BYRD goes to bed tonight, he will have a strong and profound sense of satisfaction—not that he needs to feel that, but that will make me feel better if he does feel that, because he serves our State and our Nation as few people have in the history of our country.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida is recognized.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I join with our colleagues and just tell Senator BYRD what a mentor he has been to the newer Members of the Senate. There are moments and experiences here that one never, never will forget. I will never forget the first time, with somewhat trembling knees, I rose to give my first speech. In the course of that speech, I happened to mention it was my maiden speech in the Senate.

Of course, I was speaking to an empty Chamber, except for the Presiding Officer. All of a sudden, the doors swing open and in strides Senator BYRD. As I finished my remarks, Senator BYRD rose to his feet and said:

Will the Senator yield?

And then proceeded to give a history of the maiden speeches of the Senate. What a mark upon this junior Senator, what a pleasant memory that he is such a great mentor to all of us. We thank him.

I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, it is entirely appropriate for the Senate to pause for a few moments to recognize not only the record of 17,000 votes, but also the presence and continued service of a remarkable man who happens to be the senior Senator from West Virginia.

BOB BYRD is our Lou Gehrig the iron man of the Senate. For me, BOB BYRD personifies what our Founding Fathers were thinking about when they were thinking about a United States Senate. He brings the kind of qualities that the Founding Fathers believed were so important for service to the Nation.

When history records his remarkable service to the United States Senate, they will find there has been no one—no one—in this body who has defended the Constitution of the United States more vigorously, tenaciously, and with a greater understanding, awareness, and belief in its words.

There has been no one in history that has better understood the importance of the United States Senate and its role in our great democracy. BOB BYRD understands what our Founding Fathers intended, and because of his constant and persistent efforts, this institution is finer and all of us are finer Senators.

Senator BYRD, we are grateful for your service and this country is appreciative and grateful for your defense of the Constitution and for your service to this country. I am grateful to have you as a friend.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I add my voice as well to my seatmate, if I may. I sit in this chair by choice. Senator BYRD sits in his chair by choice as well, but he makes the choice before I do. I wanted to find out where he was going to sit so I could sit next to him. I did that because I wanted to sit next to the best, to learn everything I possibly could about the ability of this institution to provide the kind of leadership I think the country expects of us.

Several thoughts come to mind. This is a day of obvious significance in the number of votes that have been cast, 17,000, but it is far more important to talk about quality than quantity. Quantity is not an insignificant achievement, but the quality of my colleague and friend's service is what I think about when the name ROBERT C. BYRD comes to my mind.

I carry with me every single day, 7 days a week, a rather threadbare copy of the United States Constitution given to me many years ago—I can't even read it well now; it is so worn out—I may need a new copy—given to me by my seatmate, ROBERT C. BYRD. I revere it. I tell people why I carry it because it reminds me of the incredible gift given to me by the people of Connecticut to serve in this Chamber, to remind me of the importance of an oath we all made, and that is to do everything we can to preserve, protect, and defend the principles upon which this Nation was founded. ROBERT C. BYRD, in my mind, is the embodiment of that goal.

It has often been said that the man and the moment come together. I do not think it is an exaggeration at all to say to my friend from West Virginia that he would have been a great Senator at any moment. Some were right for the time. ROBERT C. BYRD, in my view, would have been right at any time. He would have been right at the founding of this country. He would have been in the leadership crafting this Constitution. He would have been right during the great conflict of civil war in this Nation. He would have been right at the great moments of international threat we faced in the 20th century. I cannot think of a single moment in this Nation's 220-plus year history where he would not have been a valuable asset to this country. Certainly today that is not any less true.

I join my colleagues in thanking the Senator from West Virginia for the privilege of serving with him. He has now had to endure two members of my family as colleagues. Senator BYRD was elected to the Senate in 1958 along with my father. He served with my father in the House. I have now had the privilege of serving with Senator BYRD for 24 years, twice the length of service of my father. That is an awful lot of time to put up with members of the Dodd family. We thank Senator BYRD for his endurance through all of that time.

There is no one I admire more, there is no one to whom I listen more closely and carefully when he speaks on any subject matter. I echo the comments of my colleague from Massachusetts. If I had to pick out any particular point of service for which I admire the Senator most, it is his unyielding defense of the Constitution. All matters come and go. We cast votes on such a variety of issues, but Senator BYRD's determination to defend and protect this document which serves as our rudder as we sail through the most difficult of waters is something that I admire beyond all else.

I join in this moment in saying: Thank you for your service, thank you for your friendship, and I look forward to many more years of sitting next to you on the floor of the Senate.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. DAYTON. Mr. President, I join with my more senior colleagues in paying my respects and tribute to the great Senator from West Virginia, Mr. BYRD. It is a mark of his greatness that he has had such a powerful effect on not only the most senior of his colleagues who have been here the longest, but also the more junior Members of the Senate, such as myself.

When I arrived here in January 2001, just a little over 3 years ago, I was one of 12 freshman Senators from both sides of the aisle. We were given many words of encouragement from our colleagues, but basically left to find our own way or flounder along the way. It was Senator BYRD who took it upon himself to convene tutorials with the 12 of us. We convened promptly at 4 o'clock in his office, and he shared with us his perspective on the Senate.

From the four volumes he has orated and published as the history of the U.S. Senate, as well as the volume he orated from his own direct knowledge and reading about the Roman Senate, there is no one who possesses more wisdom and a broader understanding of the historical role and the responsibility of this body and this great democracy and Republic.

Those of us who had the benefit of those tutorials learned more from those sessions about how to conduct ourselves in the Chamber where he has served with such greatness than from anything else.

When the time came for us to preside, as we took the majority, I had the opportunity, through many hours, to watch and listen to Senator BYRD, particularly in the fall of 2002 when we were debating the resolution to give the President authority to make the final decision on whether to commit this Nation to war in Iraq.

Senator BYRD was heroic in standing forth and taking a stand which I supported because of the compelling wisdom of his words and the power and the eloquence to remind us that we had a constitutional responsibility in this body which we were forsaking by abdicating that responsibility to the President.

I believe Senator BYRD received over 20,000 phone calls from his fellow citizens around the country. Back in my State of Minnesota, I heard time and again from those who were so admiring of his courage and his steadfastness as I was then, too. I learned more about the U.S. Constitution during that time than I had ever learned before in my life, and I learned more about the proper role of the Senate than I possibly could have learned through years of experience, just by having the benefit of serving with and listening to and learning from Senator ROBERT BYRD.

I am very proud to pay tribute to him today. He has been the most influential Member of this body in my development here, and I am grateful beyond words for the privilege of serving with him.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I, too, rise to bring the attention of the Senate to a historic occasion. Those who are witnessing this debate may not realize that they are seeing a moment in the history of the United States of America that is not likely to be repeated.

Our colleague, the distinguished and senior Senator from West Virginia, ROBERT C. BYRD, has just cast his 17,000th vote in this body. I do not rise today to bring any embarrassment to my colleague. I am honored to call him friend. I rise to congratulate and honor him, and to note the historical span of his service to our country.

On January 8, 1959, Senator BYRD cast his first vote in the Senate. Fittingly, it was a vote on Senate procedure. He has since become a master of the rules of the Senate. When Senator BYRD rises and raises a parliamentary point, a hush falls over this Chamber, respectful of the fact that this man from West Virginia knows more about the procedure and rules of the Senate than any person.

On April 27, 1990, Senator BYRD cast his 12,134th vote earning him the record for the greatest number of roll-call votes in Senate history.

On May 5, 1998, he became the first Senator in history to cast 15,000 votes.

Let us put this in historic context. When Senator BYRD cast his first vote, Senators John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson were in the Chamber with him and Richard Nixon was the Presiding Officer of the body. When he cast his first vote, Hawaii had not yet become a State and the United States had not yet launched a man into space. When he cast his first vote, a state-of-the-art computer would have taken up half the space of this Chamber and had roughly the same amount of computing power as today's Palm Pilot.

Senator BYRD has served with 11 Presidents—and I underline the word “with” because Senator BYRD makes it clear that he has never served under any President.

He brings to mind often the words of the Constitution which give equality to the branches of Government.

He has been a candidate for election. As he said, he stood before the bar of public opinion 11 different times, 8 times as a candidate for the Senate and 3 times as a candidate for the House. And he has never lost.

Senator BYRD has served in the Senate as majority leader and held more leadership positions in the Senate than any other Senator in the history of the United States. He has chaired the Senate Appropriations Committee, on which I am honored to serve, and currently serves as the panel's ranking member. He has earned his place as the unrivaled expert on Senate rules and he has become perhaps the most popular political figure in his home State of West Virginia. He was named “West Virginian of the Century” by the residents of his home State. What greater honor could they give him.

As of this Friday, Senator BYRD will have served, if my calculation is correct, 18,716 days in Congress, 51 years, 3 months, and 2 days. Of the 11,708 individuals who have served in Congress, only 2 have served longer: Carl Hayden of Arizona for 56 years and Representative Jamie Whitten of Mississippi for 53 years.

Senator BYRD will become the longest serving Member on June 11, 2006. He has cast more rollcall votes than any other Senator in history. Strom Thurmond ranks No. 2 with 16,348 votes.

We are all privileged to have served in this body. Few Senators in the history of this institution have had such a command of both the nature and nuance of Senate debate as ROBERT C. BYRD of West Virginia, and few, if any, spanning the entire history of this body have had such a reservoir of knowledge, from Roman and Greek history to the deliberations of the Founding Fathers to hundreds, maybe even thousands, of poems which Senator BYRD has committed to memory.

Perhaps it is through his love of poetry that I have gained a deeper understanding of my colleague. President Kennedy once said:

When power leads man toward arrogance, poetry reminds him of his limitations. When power narrows the areas of man's concern, poetry reminds him of the richness and diversity of his existence. When power corrupts, poetry cleanses, for art establishes the basic human truths which must serve as the touchstone of our judgment.

That is a magnificent quote which pays tribute to a man who has integrated poetry into his entire life. But if we were to end there when it comes to procedure and poetry, we would not tell the story of this great man's service.

His is not just poetry when it comes to service in the Senate. It is also powerful prose. It is not just his eloquence but his integrity. Those of us who serve with him know that during the most recent debate on the invasion of Iraq, one voice in the Senate was heard above all others. This man, after many years of service, has not forgotten his responsibility to this Nation and the people he represents. He stood up and took controversial, difficult positions and did them with the kind of force and power which won friends for him far and wide.

I have told this story before but it bears repeating. When I went to a Catholic parish in Chicago with my wife and we had come back from communion and were kneeling down, an elderly fellow walked up to me in the midst of the Iraqi debate and leaned over and said, "Stick with Senator BYRD."

I came back to tell him that. His fans are far and wide, in Chicago, West Virginia, and across the United States of America, because time and again he spoke the truth and did it in a way that touched the hearts of Americans far and wide.

He is an inspiration to all of us who have been honored to serve with him. He brings to this body the kind of decorum, the kind of integrity, and the kind of commitment to which all of us aspire.

For all of his great and varied achievements, Senator BYRD shows his dedication and humiliation not by wielding his power like a club but by performing the most basic requirement of a Senator more times than any other Senator in history. I wish to recognize and honor the senior Senator from West Virginia for the quality as well as for the quantity of his service. It is entirely fitting that this noted lover of history today makes history himself. My commendation and congratulations to ROBERT C. BYRD of West Virginia.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I rise to join so many of my colleagues and friends in paying tribute to the great Senator from West Virginia. As my friend from Illinois indicated, we are praising and honoring him today not just for the number of votes he has cast but for the courage of his votes. It is one thing to cast 17,000 votes; it is another to look at the quality and the integrity behind those votes.

So I join with my colleagues in saying thank you to Senator BYRD. I was proud to join with Senator BYRD as he spoke out on the Iraq resolution and what our role in the Senate should be and is.

I went home, as did my colleagues, and over and over again people asked me did I know Senator BYRD; did I work with Senator BYRD; listen to what he is saying because he is speaking for all of us.

I also thank Senator BYRD for helping me as one of the 12 Members who came in 2000. When we were in the majority, we had the opportunity to preside over the Senate, and I am very grateful for all I learned about the Senate, about the process, about the importance of being dutiful in our responsibilities, and also about the important role we play in governing our country. I will forever be grateful to Senator BYRD for the lessons that I have learned and continue to learn.

One of the most wonderful images I have of being in the Senate actually occurred during orientation when I was first elected and coming here in December of 2000. I had the opportunity to invite my son to join me in the Old Senate Chamber where we heard from Senator BYRD, some wonderful, eloquent words and stories from the early days in the Senate. It was captivating. It was inspirational. It was motivating. It was a wonderful opportunity for me to share with my son, the new venture I was undertaking and the responsibilities I was undertaking as a Senator from Michigan.

I thank the great Senator from West Virginia for his friendship, for his courage, for his role in the Senate in helping us to understand our responsibilities and our duties to the country.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Mr. President, I join with many colleagues who came to the Senate Chamber today to express appreciation and recognition of Senator ROBERT BYRD as today he cast his 17,000th vote representing the people of West Virginia.

I can hardly think of what more to say other than he has truly been an exemplary Member of this body and a pillar of this institution, someone we all respect. I only hope our votes can be cast as conscientiously as his have been all these many years. I join my colleagues in congratulating him today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ALEXANDER). The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I want to say a few words about our distinguished and beloved colleague, Senator BYRD, whose friendship I have treasured for many years—more than 20 years now. I seek and listen to what he says, to be aware of the knowledge he possesses about so many things, and the memories he carries.

When I first arrived here, I met Senator ROBERT C. BYRD and extended my wishes that we would have a chance to serve together—this is 20 years ago; and 20 years is a long time, except when it is compared to more than 40 years—and that he would continue to provide the kind of leadership and inspiration that he has for all of us for all these years.

We wish him well. We want to see him continue to provide the example he has shown all of us, with his dignity and intelligence and knowledge and awareness of the rules that govern this body of ours—as fractious as they have become in recent years. We always want to pay attention when Senator BYRD issues a view of the process that is developing, about where we ought to be, about the courtesies we should extend to one another.

I will never forget Senator BYRD, with his rage at one of the Senators who was addressing the President by his first name, saying: Where is he? Where is Bill? Why isn't Bill here? Senator BYRD stood up, with all his stature in front of him, saying: How dare you. How dare you call our President Bill. In all the years I have served with Republican Presidents, never, never would I dream of calling the President Ronald or George or otherwise.

With that little reminder, he brought us all back to a reasonable state of dignity and comity that we need to be reminded about on many occasions.

Very few have the knowledge stored in our being that Senator ROBERT C. BYRD has.

Again, when I first arrived in the Senate, I had not been in Government before, so it was all very complicated and perplexing. But I wanted to spend some time with Senator BYRD, and he was courteous and he did it. We sat in his office, talking about the background of our society and our country. He talked about the English Kings from the period somewhere maybe about the time of William the Conqueror, the 11th century, and he talked about how long each succeeding monarch served, the year that person took the office, and the year they left the office, what caused them to leave the office, who died, how they died, by assassination or otherwise, from the 11th century on up to contemporary times. You will hear Senator BYRD often quote from the early days of Roman and Greek civilization. It is remarkable.

I come out of the computer business. I think I can safely say that I have never met a computer the equal of ROBERT C. BYRD, to have the depth of knowledge that he has and to be able to call upon it at so many times.

I will bet that in the 17,000 votes ROBERT C. BYRD cast, he knows more about the votes he cast almost than any Senator who has been here just for 100 votes or 200 votes. He understood every one of them. He never cast a vote without thought.

Each of us has had the experience, I am sure, of disagreeing, perhaps, with one another, even with a distinguished leader such as Senator ROBERT C. BYRD, and have him disagree with knowledge and with experience and say: This is why I think you are wrong. You are my friend, FRANK, but I disagree with you on this, and I am going to vote the other way.

It was always with respect and friendship that these exchanges took place.

So we mark a historical moment. No one before has ever cast that many votes. As a matter of fact, very few have cast a number of votes that come anywhere close to the 17,000 mark. This is a record, as I think has been said by others, that will stand probably forever. It took ROBERT C. BYRD some eight terms to acquire the voting record that he has. When you know that person and you see the devotion and loyalty he brings to his family—he and his wife will celebrate their 67th anniversary, I believe. That is quite a tribute in a period like we now see in our country when the institution of marriage is not what it used to be. So we wish Mrs. Byrd, Erma Byrd, a return to better health—we know she has been having some difficult times these last few years—and for them to share many more good years together and for ROBERT C. BYRD to stand here as our example of what can be, as an example for children across this country.

If they read the history of ROBERT C. BYRD, they will see his growth from a poverty stricken, uneducated, simple family, to go on as he did to reach the level of responsibility, of importance that he achieved, and the contributions he made to country in so many ways, reminding us about our responsibility to avoid conflict wherever we can do it, but always sticking up for his State and constituents who sent him here.

I think I hold a voting record also. I think I am the only Senator on the books that ever, as a freshman, cast almost 7,000 votes. That, I think, is fairly remarkable. You have to discount the first 18 years I was here, but a freshman with 7,000 votes, it doesn't compare to Senator BYRD's record, no matter what.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I rise today to salute my senior colleague, Senator ROBERT C. BYRD of West Virginia. Today, the Senator passed a milestone that has never been passed before, and may never be passed again: he cast his 17,000th vote on the Senate floor. It's an amazing achievement. No other sitting Senator has cast more than 15,000 votes. Senator Thurmond, who is no longer with us, cast the next highest total of 16,348 votes.

Mr. President, Senator BYRD has had a long and distinguished career in the United States Senate. He was first elected to this body in 1958. Only Senator Thurmond served longer, but Senator BYRD may soon pass that record, too—he's only got two more years to go. He became the Democratic Leader in 1977, holding that position for six consecutive 2-year terms, three terms as majority leader, and three as minority leader. He also served as President pro tempore—third in line in the order of succession to the Presidency, after the Vice President and the Speaker of the House—from 1989 to 1995 and 2001 to 2003.

The Senator from West Virginia is also a master historian. His four-volume, 3,000 page history of the U.S. Senate has been called "the most ambitious study of the U.S. Senate in all of our history." He is a passionate advocate for understanding our history, not only among Senators, but for the entire country. In 2000, the Senator's efforts led to the creation of the Teaching American History Grant Program—commonly referred to as the Byrd grants—to encourage better teaching of American history in our schools. I was fortunate to follow his lead with a bill I introduced last year, the American History and Civics Education Act, which Senator BYRD co-sponsored. The Senate passed it unanimously last year, 91 to 0. I hope the House will act on it soon. I'm sure one reason the Senate was prepared to support such a bill is that we have all learned the value of our history from one of history's great teachers: Senator ROBERT C. BYRD.

I salute my colleague, the senior Senator from West Virginia, and wish him well as he sets a new record with each succeeding vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GRAMHAM of South Carolina). The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I join my colleagues today in congratulating my friend and colleague, my neighbor from West Virginia, for his great accomplishment today but, more importantly, for his great service in the Senate.

When I first came to the Senate, I did what many of my colleagues have done, and that is I paid a visit to my colleague from West Virginia. I went into his historic office. He was kind enough to give me the books he has written about the Senate and was kind enough to autograph his books. Those books will always be a great treasure for me to keep.

But they have not just been something that has been in my bookcase; they are something I can pull down to then read the history of the Senate. What wonderful books they are, what wonderful references, what wonderful stories they tell about the Senate. That is so because my colleague is not only a great Senator, he is a great historian. We are reminded of that many times when he comes to the Senate floor. Not only does he have a great institutional memory from his many years of the Senate, but because of his reading not only about the United States and the U.S. Senate, but because of his great love of history, he can put what we do in the United States in its historical perspective.

As the new Members of the Senate, we take turns presiding over the Senate. One of the great benefits of doing that is to sit in the Presiding Officer's chair, as my colleague is doing now, and we have the opportunity to listen to our colleagues. I have had the opportunity, many times, to listen to Senator BYRD.

I can remember many times listening to his speeches. Sometimes it was his great annual speech on Mother's Day, sometimes a speech on the U.S. Constitution, or a speech on whatever legislation is in front of us, or about the history of the Roman Senate or, as my colleague from Illinois has said, a speech about a pending resolution. It didn't matter what it was, it was always something for us to think about, always something for us to ponder and meditate on.

Senator BYRD, thank you for your service and thank you for causing us to think. Whether we agree with you or not on every matter, you always make us think. That is the job of the Senate. As you referred a moment ago to this great deliberative body, you make sure that we are that, you make sure we continue to be that great deliberative body. I thank you for that.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, will the Senator yield quite briefly?

Mr. DEWINE. Certainly, I yield.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I take a moment to thank my colleagues who have spoken. They have been so gracious. I shall never, never forget the beautiful words, the lovely phrases they have uttered here today. They have made this a very beautiful day. I know that my wife Erma has listened from home.

I thank each and all of these wonderful, wonderful friends. That is what they are, they are friends. I shall never forget them. I shall not name them. The RECORD already has done that.

I yield the floor and thank my friend from Ohio for his graciousness in yielding.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio is recognized.

Mr. DEWINE. I thank the Chair.

(The remarks of Mr. DEWINE pertaining to the introduction of S. 2270 are located in today's RECORD under "Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions.")

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GRAHAM of South Carolina). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant journal clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY AND INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT FOR EVERYONE ACT—Continued

NATIONAL PUBLIC RADIO

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, last week I took the floor of the Senate to note the decision which has been made by National Public Radio concerning the host of Morning Edition with Bob Edwards. It was announced in the Washington Post that National Public Radio management had decided after some 24 years to relieve Mr. EDWARDS of his responsibility as host of the morning show. There was not much given by way of explanation, and it was clear from comments by Bob Edwards that it wasn't his decision.

It has been interesting since I took the floor and noted my disappointment over that decision the response which I received from my colleagues in Congress. It turns out Members of Congress on both sides of the aisle feel as I do—that this decision by National Public Radio is the wrong decision; that Bob Edwards, who has been not only a host of this program but the most successful morning voice in America, is being moved away from this assignment in a situation and in a circumstance that is almost impossible to understand.

Many of my colleagues have come to me and asked, What can we do? Can we go after the appropriations of NPR? I don't recommend that at all. I think National Public Radio is such an important institution more than any single individual that we should do this in a positive and constructive fashion.

What I encourage my colleagues to do is to remember that National Public Radio is, in fact, public radio; that all of us who enjoy it so much, who rely on it so much, and who contribute to it from our own individual finances, have a responsibility if we disagree with this decision by the management. I have encouraged my friends and those who feel as I do to get onto their Internet and e-mail, and to e-mail NPR.org, to do it immediately and let them know that their decision to remove Bob Edwards at the end of this month of April is the wrong decision. I have done it myself.

I have received a reply from Mr. Kernis which, frankly, I find very troubling. When asked why they think this man who has become such an institution in America should be removed, the response is nothing short of gobbledygook. They talk about bringing someone who has depth and experience. But who else would you turn to rather than Bob Edwards?

I would like to make part of the RECORD at the end of my statement a series of columns and editorials from across the United States from those who enjoy Bob Edwards in the morning and can't imagine public radio without him. Some of these, starting with the Chicago Tribune, were published recently as the news reached that city of the decision by National Public Radio.

As they said in this editorial in the Chicago Tribune, people do not understand why this decision was made. Here is what they concluded in the Tribune editorial about Bob Edwards:

In contrast to their audience, though, NPR executives seem to have forgotten about the public part of their title. In commercial broadcasting, a beloved host who had presided over huge ratings gains would almost never be nudged aside. Public broadcasting is valuable precisely because it is relatively free from such worldly concerns. But it is also, effectively, a public trust, and for the public to continue to trust it, this institution needs to do a better job of explaining its momentous decisions. This is not the only newspaper, by far.

In the St. Louis area, Linda Ellerbee, known to many of us because of her news reporting and posting of programs wrote: "Time and Age: NPR Tossing Out Bob Edwards." Linda Ellerbee should know. She was moved away from a television network position because they thought for a woman she was too old. She says:

But we're not aging the way our parents did. We're reinventing the process. Besides, there are a lot of us out here.

The point she made in her article about Bob Edwards is at his advanced age of 56—which I still consider very young—he speaks not only to people of my generation but so many older and younger. If it is the marketing belief of NPR they need to have a new, fresh voice, they are missing the big picture.

For 24 years every morning when my clock radio goes on, I hear Bob Edwards. I know whether times are bad, dangerous, or peaceful. I can count on him. I have done it this morning. I have done it so many mornings. I cannot imagine "Morning Edition" without him.

There is also a comment from the Washington Post, Richard Cohen. He tells about the same experience.

Now the news from NPR is that Edwards will soon be gone.

He talked about the fact he may just decide to start listening to Mozart on disk, rather than turning on "Morning Edition." He says:

NPR Executive Vice President Ken Stern told the Washington Post that the firing of Edwards was part of a "natural evolution," that had "to do with the changing needs of our listeners." What "natural evolution"? What does that mean? And what is "changing needs"?

Mr. Cohen goes on to say to the Washington Post:

Listen, Ken, my needs haven't changed. I still want news in the morning. I still want smart features. I do not want interviews with airheaded celebrities a la Matt and Katie or, worse, interviews with the latest humorless person Donald Trump has just fired from "The Apprentice."

He concludes:

But the firing-cum-transfer of Edwards (he may become a senior correspondent) is nonetheless disquieting. Maybe my fear is misplaced and maybe the end of the Edwards era will turn out not to be a bad thing. Still, it will be jarring to wake up in the morning with a stranger.

He closes by saying:

Goodbye, Bob. Get some sleep. You've earned it.

Mr. Cohen may have given up, but I haven't. I still believe the people across America should be contacting National Public Radio, npr.org. Send them your e-mail that Bob Edwards, "Morning Edition" is important to you. As a Senator, as a citizen, he is important to me.

The San Diego Union-Tribune in an editorial entitled "NPR Show Is a Big Hit, So It Must Need Fixing?" by Robert Laurence:

This story makes no sense.

As such, it's the kind of story that can only happen in the topsy-turvy Orwellian world of public broadcasting.

It's this: The host of a hugely successful morning radio show, a show where ratings have done nothing but climb for years, a man whose skill as an interviewer is unexcelled in the world of broadcasting, whose very voice helps millions of Americans get their day grounded, is being evicted from a seat in the studio.

Mr. Laurence goes on to say:

That's Bob Edwards, since November 1979 the host of National Public Radio's "Morning Edition . . ."

He goes on to talk about the explanations from NPR management, explanations he and I both find wanting. And Scripps Howard, Bill Maxwell and the St. Petersburg Times, entitled "A Morning Voice That Will Be Missed:"

All good things must come to an end.

And so it is with the ouster of Bob Edwards . . .

To say that Edwards is the end of an era is an understatement.

He continues:

Thanks in large part to "Morning Edition," when I report to the St. Petersburg Times editorial board each morning at 9:30, I know what's going on in the Nation and the rest of the world.

Millions of us would say the same thing.

Columbus Dispatch, Tim Feran: "Shame On NPR For Axing Edwards Before Big Date."

The big date, of course, is the 25th anniversary on the air. I agree with Mr. Feran.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Not a Good Way To Start The Day," a title from Connie Schultz, a columnist. She writes:

The man I've been waking up with is leaving me.

She talks about her disappointment and how hard it is to understand why NPR is making this decision.

Turning to the Seattle Post Intelligencer, Bill Radke, a columnist, writes: "Mornings Without NPR's Colonel Bob."

He starts:

Bob Edwards has been canned, and there seem to be two types of people in the world: The ones saying, "You've ruined my life, Bob's life, and the lives of everyone I know," and the ones saying, "Who is Bob Edwards?" Those who did not listen to Bob Edwards may now never know. Those who do, understand full well.

The Hartford Courant, in Connecticut, by Jim Shea:

It's not often that you can use the words National Public Radio and stupid in the same sentence but such an occasion has arisen:

National Public Radio's decision to replace "Morning Edition" host Bob Edwards is just plain stupid. What are you bozos who run NPR thinking? You know, we've really got to do something about the fabulous ratings we have.

Bob Edwards is not just the bright, witty, urbane, insightful and immensely likable host of "Morning Edition," he is for the program's 13 million weekly listeners the voice of the morning.

There is something soothing, something comforting, something reassuring about stumbling from slumber into the gentle embrace of Edwards' mellifluous baritone that makes morning bearable.

He speaks for many people when he writes that.

Finally, on salon.com, Alexandra Marshall makes many of the same points about the importance of Bob Edwards' "Morning Edition."

Those who are following this debate may be puzzled as to why a Senator would stand up in this Chamber to make an issue over the replacement of a man who is, by all measures, just another voice in the morning. But Bob Edwards is not another voice in the morning. He is the voice we have counted on and the voice we rely on.

If he is as important to you as he is to so many of us, please, understand National Public Radio exists because of people like us who listen to it and contribute to it out of our own pockets, love it, and want it to continue to be the great institution which it is today. Those who are shareholders of National Public Radio by virtue of our contributions, if we disagree with this decision, have an obligation to tell the management right now.

I encourage those who feel as I do that the replacement of Bob Edwards is wrong, to do two things: First, go to your Internet, e-mail npr.org and let them know what you think; and second, call your local affiliate of the National Public Radio system and let them know this is a sad and sorry decision.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. SPECTER. I thank the Chair.

(The remarks of Mr. SPECTER pertaining to the submission of S. Res. 327 are located in today's RECORD under "Submission of Concurrent and Senate Resolutions.")

RECENT VIOLENCE IN IRAQ

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I would like to take a minute to express my outrage and the outrage of Americans across this country in seeing the mutilation and the horrible attack on the Americans who were serving, not in the military but serving their country nevertheless, and the gleeful crowd gathered around.

We have to remember that it was a relatively small group of people. But nevertheless, the deed was so horrendous that it is hard for those of us who live in a democratic environment, as we do, who live with the respect that we have for other human beings, to look at this and in any way understand what is happening.

So we send our condolences to those families who lost someone they cared about, and to lose them in some kind of atrocious assault we hope will serve as a reminder to all of us of what responsibility we took on when we entered Iraq and the things we should have tried to contemplate before we got to the point that we are.

One cannot criticize our military. I was in Iraq a couple weeks ago. Most of my colleagues have been there at one time or another to see the courage and the willingness to serve that we have with our wonderful young people there. I talked to them. I especially met with those service people who come from New Jersey, men and women. I was very impressed with the quality of their thinking, their education, their view of life and country.

I served in World War II. We were some 14 million in uniform. I enlisted when I was 18. I remember the associations and friendships I made in the small unit in which I served in Europe during the war. When I saw the young people who are serving us today, I was truly impressed with the quality of those who wore that uniform.

We now see the situation in Iraq is a very grim one. I am not sure that the turnover on July 1 to a ruling council, a governing counsel, can stem the tide of violence or reduce the volume of our responsibility. But I wish all of our people well and make a pledge here that I would like to carry back the message that I got from my conversations with some soldiers there.

I asked them to be frank with me and tell me what, if anything, they thought they needed. And they were reluctant at first. I asked whether the food was all right, the shelter was OK. Oh, yes.

But one young captain finally felt comfortable enough to speak. And he said: Yes, I will tell you what we could use, Senator.

He said: The flack jacket that is the best available out there is being worn by members of the coalition in some places, and we don't have those. They are lighter, they are more efficient, and I don't understand why we don't have them.

Fair enough. He said: You see this rifle?

I think it was an M-16, but they have changed considerably from the time I carried a weapon in World War II.

He said: I see members of the coalition with lighter, better aiming mechanisms than we have on these guns. They are easier to work with at any time. We don't have them, and I don't understand why.

When he talked about armored vehicles, he said they don't have enough of them. I was almost dumbstruck. I didn't know what to say because I know we have allocated lots and lots of funds. We have placed over $160 billion into the effort in Iraq, and we are about ready to place a lot more with a special allocation, a supplemental allotment. I asked our military leadership to tell us what it is that prevents us from delivering the kinds of tools, protections, and instruments that our people need to conduct their duty there.

I saw something in the paper last week that said much of the material we would like to have there is not sent because we don't have the transportation available. I think we ought to get after that problem. I pledge to do whatever I can to search out the reasons and make sure we expedite the process of getting our courageous service people, who serve us so well, the equipment and the support that is needed.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is recognized.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from New Jersey for his leadership on this and so many issues. He expresses the feelings I have heard from soldiers returning from Iraq who are in Walter Reed Hospital recuperating, who are still strong in spirit and still dedicated to our country and hoping that we will help them win this battle and let them come home safely. There is a lot more we can and should do. I thank the Senator from New Jersey for his leadership in this area.

DIETARY SUPPLEMENTS

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, there has been an issue I have worked on now for almost 2 years relative to dietary supplements in America. We passed a law called the Dietary Supplement and Health Education Act in 1994. In passage of that legislation, we attempted to establish a standard for the legal treatment and regulation of dietary supplements. They are known to many Americans. It is a multibillion-dollar industry.

There are many of us who take vitamins and minerals and believe they are good for our health. I took one this morning. I hope it helps me. I don't think it will hurt me. For a lot of Americans, it is something they rely on.

There is another category that goes beyond ordinary vitamins and minerals, which are products known as dietary supplements. In many respects, what they consist of are herbal extracts, so-called natural products that are put in combination and sold in stores with many claims about whether they can help you from a health viewpoint.

Most Americans who walk into a drugstore, pharmacy, or nutritional supplement store believe the products on the shelf being sold to them are, in fact, safe. They may believe they have been tested. They may believe the proper clinical evaluation has been done. They may believe the Government is monitoring whether there is something wrong with the drug that causes a bad health event. Those beliefs are right and true and accurate, when it comes to prescription drugs. They have to go through extensive testing before they are ever put on the market. The FDA and many agencies look at them carefully to make certain they are both safe and effective—in other words, that they will not harm you and, in fact, will do what they are supposed to do and help you. That happens for prescription drugs, and it is what happens to the key ingredients in over-the-counter drugs.

When you walk into a dietary supplement store, a health store, that is not the case at all. What you see on the shelves there are products which, by and large, have never, ever been tested. Never tested. The law we passed said the makers of those products, unlike the pharmaceutical companies that make prescription drugs and some over-the-counter drugs, have no responsibility to test their products for safety before they are sold to the public. In fact, the burden is shifted 180 degrees. The Food and Drug Administration of the Government has the burden to prove that what is sold on the shelf is unsafe.

Think about that for a moment. Think of the hundreds, thousands, tens of thousands or more dietary supplements for sale in the U.S., and you come to the obvious conclusion that there is no Government agency large enough to test every possible combination that can be included in a dietary supplement. So the simple fact is very few are tested.

This week, Consumer Reports magazine reported on the issue of dietary supplements. I think a lot of this magazine. I have subscribed to it over the years. I think what they present is done in a very dispassionate and objective fashion. In this issue, they identify the problem we face in America with dietary supplements. They note the fact that U.S. consumers, since passage of the law I mentioned earlier, have literally spent billions of dollars on dietary supplements. They say it is interesting that for 10 years, although the FDA had the authority to remove an unsafe dietary supplement from the shelf, they never did. I will quote:

Yet, until very recently, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration had not managed to remove a single dietary supplement from the market for safety reasons.

After seven years of trying, the agency announced a ban on the weight-loss aid ephedra in December of 2003. And in March 2004 it warned 23 companies to stop marketing the body-building supplement androstenedione (andro).

That is a steroid precursor. Here we have it on the books for 10 years, with thousands of products that fall under its purview, and only two have been removed. Frankly, what it comes down to is described later by Bruce Silverglade, legal director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a Washington, DC, consumer advocate group:

The standards for demonstrating a supplement is hazardous are so high that it can take the FDA years to build a case.

Years—while the product is still being sold. How many people at the FDA are responsible for monitoring dietary supplements, a multibillion-dollar industry, with thousands of products? Their supplement division consists of about 60 people with a budget of only $10 million to police a $19.4 billion-a-year industry.

Consumer Reports goes on to draw this comparison:

To regulate drugs, annual sales of which are 12 times the amount of supplement sales, the FDA has almost 43 times as much money and almost 48 times as many people.

So it is very clear this agency is not prepared and staffed and, frankly, doesn't have the authority to protect the American consumer. So what happens? People unsuspectingly go into these health food stores, vitamin stores, and see the dietary supplements with all sorts of claims on them; they buy them, they use them, and the consumers of America become the guinea pigs.

We are the ones who are testing these products to see if they are dangerous. You might say, if they are dangerous, if they hurt someone, clearly then the Government will take them off the shelf, right? No, I am sorry, that is not right because understand that the law we passed at the request of the industry does not require dietary supplement manufacturers to report to the Government when people are literally dying from the products they sell.

I am sure many people listening to this debate say that cannot be true. It is true.

Let me give a specific example. Metabolife International, a leading ephedra manufacturer, did not let the Food and Drug Administration know it had received 14,684 complaints of adverse events associated with ephedra products. But Metabolife 356, which you may remember, in the previous 5 years had received notice of 18 heart attacks, 26 strokes, 43 seizures, and 5 deaths. Under the law of the United States of America, Metabolife had no legal responsibility to tell the Government a product it was selling was killing people.

People listen to that and say that cannot be true, but it is. It is a fact.

When a Harris poll surveyed 1,000 Americans about what they thought the law was, they found 59 percent of them said they believe supplements must be approved by a Government agency before they can be sold. They went on to say 68 percent said the Government requires warning labels on a supplement's potential side effects or dangers, and 55 percent said supplement manufacturers cannot make safety claims without solid scientific support.

Sadly, every single response by the overwhelming majority of Americans was plain wrong. There is no Government regulation of the products, there is no requirement for warning labels, and these companies can make safety claims without solid scientific support. That is a fact.

It seems the Institute of Medicine has decided it is time for a change, a change I believe is long overdue. Today the Institute of Medicine released this report. It is a framework for evaluating the safety of dietary supplements. In the fall of 2000, the Food and Drug Administration contracted with the Institute of Medicine to develop a scientific framework for safety evaluation of dietary supplements within the confines of the law. They also asked them to test their framework on six commonly used dietary supplements. The report took more than a year longer to complete than was expected, but it is comprehensive and thorough. It contains many observations we need to scrutinize closely.

First, their framework depends on the collection of data that is not required to be turned over to the FDA by supplement manufacturers, namely adverse event reports.

The IOM report states that the first step in the process for reviewing safety is to look for signals of safety problems, including adverse events. What do I mean by an "adverse event"? Does it mean if you have an upset stomach from a vitamin you have to report it to the Food and Drug Administration? Does it mean if you get dizzy from taking any kind of supplement, from garlic to fish oil, you have to call the Food and Drug Administration? No.

What I believe the standard should be is serious adverse health events. If you pass out, have a stroke, or heart attack, or die—serious things that can occur.

Lest you think this is something that does not happen, let me tell you the story of a young man, 16 years old, who lived a few miles from my home in Springfield, IL. Sean Riggins of Lincoln, IL, a 16-year-old high school student, played on the football team. He had a big game coming up. He went over to the local gas station—gas station, mind you—and saw a product on the shelf called Yellow Jackets. It was an ephedra product. Yellow Jackets were supposed to give him energy. This man thought: I need energy; I am going to play football. He purchased this product over the counter at a gas station in Lincoln, IL, washed it down with a Mountain Dew, which happens to be loaded with caffeine, and started feeling sick. When he got to the football game, he didn't feel good at all. The next day, his mom and dad took him to the hospital, and later that morning he died from a dietary supplement with ephedra. Under the law as it is written, if the parents of Sean Riggin called the company that made Yellow Jackets and said, "Your product just killed my son," that company would not be required under law to even report that to the Government. That is not right.

The Institute of Medicine report we are looking at today recommends that that change. Metabolife misled the Government. Companies that make products such as Yellow Jacket sadly are not much better.

Let me tell you about another company called Rexall Sundown. It marketed an ephedra product called Metabolite described by the Government as having adverse event reports. In other words, people were getting sick who took this product. We heard about it and requested the company provide us with information about the adverse reports, about people getting sick after they took this product.

The response I received was truly astonishing. The company said Rexall Sundown was a new company and had never sold ephedra products. Therefore, it never had any adverse event reports in their possession. They used the oldest trick in the book to shield themselves from liability for the dangerous products they sold. They had dissolved their old company, started a new one with the same name, and tried to escape any liability for the life-threatening products they had been selling. We tried to get more information from them and failed, but we will continue that effort.

Let me also say to people who said, "Thank goodness, ephedra is off the market, so you can stop worrying," that is not the case. The same Consumer Reports magazine that is coming out has a table which I commend to everyone who takes dietary supplements. It is impossible to read this chart, I am sure, on television. I will summarize a few points of it for those who would like to understand what Consumer Reports, an objective magazine, says about 12 supplements. They said you should avoid these supplements.

A supplement that is "definitely hazardous" is aristolochic acid. This is something that is sold under a variety of names. They say it is a potent human carcinogen. It can cause cancer potentially, kidney failure, sometimes requiring transplant. The Food and Drug Administration warned consumers and the industry in April 2001. It has been banned in seven European countries and Egypt, Japan, and Venezuela. But it is still being sold in the United States. Aristolochic acid is also known as birthwort, snakeweed, sangree root, and so forth.

Then they list another group of "very likely hazardous" products banned in other countries where we have a warning from the FDA: Comfrey, which includes blackwort, bruisewort, and so many other herbal names.

Incidentally, let me say at this moment how difficult it is for consumers to follow this because they change the names on these bottles in the dietary supplement store, and you have no idea what you are buying. The Food and Drug Administration advised the industry take it off the market in July 2001, but it is still being sold. It creates abnormal liver function or damage, often irreversible, causing death.

Androstenedione, I mentioned this earlier. The FDA finally banned it in supplements.

Chaparral is another product which is sold under a variety of names. It causes abnormal liver function or damage, often irreversible. FDA warned consumers in December 1992.

Germander is another product banned in France and Germany.

Kava is an ingredient in a variety of products. FDA warned consumers in March 2002 to avoid it. It is banned in Canada, Germany, Singapore, South Africa, and Switzerland, but it can still be sold legally in the United States because the Food and Drug Administration does not have the power and the authority to police this kind of dangerous product.

Under "likely hazardous" products there is one I would like to speak to, bitter orange, citrus aurantium. You will find this in Metabolife Ultra. When they took ephedra out, they put bitter orange in, and there are a lot of other products, diet products, energy products. It can cause high blood pressure and increased risk of heart arrhythmia.

We wrote to seven companies that make supplements that contain citrus aurantium and asked them: What kind of tests did you engage in to determine whether citrus aurantium, which is now replacing ephedra, is safe? One of the CEOs wrote back and said: We have a scientific study to prove our product is safe. So we looked at the study. The study did not have anything to do with citrus aurantium or bitter orange. It was about the safety of using orange juice—orange juice—in drug metabolism studies.

We then contacted one of the scientists involved in this study and asked: Do you realize this company that is selling thousands of products worth millions of dollars is claiming your scientific study says citrus aurantium is safe?

This scientist came back to us and said: That is an improper use of that study to justify the sale of that product.

So there is no scientific basis for the safety that CEO asserted. These manufacturers are literally putting together dangerous and sometimes lethal combinations of chemicals and selling them under the banner of dietary supplements to unsuspecting American consumers.

For some consumers, it is a waste of money. For others, it is much more dangerous.

There are other products that are mentioned here. I am probably going to fail to pronounce many of them properly: organ/glandular extracts, Lobelia, Pennyroyal oil, Scullcap and Yohimbe. When one goes through these, they will find many of these have been banned in other countries.

One of the conclusions from the Institute of Medicine, after looking at dietary supplements, is unreasonable risk does not mean the Food and Drug Administration has to prove the supplement is harmful.

The report concludes, given the limited amount of data available, definitive statements judging safety of these products may be difficult to completely substantiate scientifically.

The committee determined that concluding a supplement presents an unreasonable risk does not require complete evidence a dietary supplement causes a serious adverse event. In other words, the unreasonable risk standard that is written in the DSHEA law is a standard which frankly is going to be a very difficult one for the FDA or others to prove.

So what they are suggesting at the Institute of Medicine is we look to a different and more reasonable standard. They also talk about premarket review of some of these products, which I think is something that needs to be done.

I particularly believe stimulants should be subject to premarket review so we have some testing to make sure they are safe so many of these products here, such as bitter orange, citrus aurantium, which cause an increase in blood pressure—and, frankly, I believe what they are suggesting in the Institute of Medicine report kind of parallels legislation which I have introduced—to try to bring some sanity to this industry.

This has been a battle which I have been engaged in for almost 2 years now. I know what happens when one takes on a giant industry in America, a multibillion-dollar dietary supplement industry. If one walks into most vitamin stores around America, they will find my name, not in a praiseworthy fashion. They are passing out leaflets saying: Write to DURBIN and tell him to stop taking away your vitamins and minerals.

It is a scare tactic. It is a scare tactic from an industry that should be running scared. There are good actors in this industry and there are bad actors, but unfortunately the bad actors are being protected by the good ones.

Right now I believe Americans should be able to buy vitamins and minerals which have been tested and proven, make their own choices about their own health, but I also believe this industry has a responsibility when it sells products that can be dangerous to Americans to do two things.

First, if they are selling stimulants they should be tested in advance so we do not have another ephedra which is going to take the life of an innocent young boy in Lincoln, IL, or a major league baseball player like Steve Bechler of the Baltimore Orioles.

Second, I believe all of these dietary supplement manufacturers should have a legal obligation to report to the Food and Drug Administration when people get seriously ill or die as a result of taking their products. I think that is the least we should demand.

I am happy to see the Institute of Medicine creating momentum for Congress to finally make a decision. I am happy to see the administration, after more than a year of urging, finally banning ephedra, but more has to be done. Today as we speak, innocent children and consumers across America are buying products which they presume to be safe and they are not.

We have an obligation to American consumers to set a standard of care so they know when they make a purchase, whether it is in a drugstore or in a vitamin store, they are buying a product that is more likely to help them than hurt them. Sadly, the DSHEA law which currently exists does not meet that standard.

I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. COLEMAN. I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business for up to 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

GOPHER WOMEN BASKETBALL AND HOCKEY

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, in these challenging times, it is always nice to rise to the floor of the Senate to speak about some good things, about the accomplishments of some of the folks from your State that elicit a great sense of pride.

Minnesota is the home to more than 15,000 lakes. It says on our license plates "10,000 Lakes," but there are more than 10,000 lakes. Judging from the performance of our homegrown college athletes this winter, there might be something very special in the water. I congratulate Coach Laura Halldorson and the University of Minnesota Golden Gophers Women's Ice-Hockey team, which claimed its first NCAA championship this Sunday with a convincing 6-to-2 victory over Harvard University.

Finishing with a record of 30 wins, 4 losses, and 2 ties, a conference championship, and the top seed in the NCAA tournament, the Gophers did what so many No. 1 seeds often fail to do, they finished the job and they brought home the hardware.

I think Americans love an underdog, but we also enjoy marveling at excellence, and the women Gopher hockey team achieved this and they deserve our congratulations, they deserve our plaudits.

I wish to highlight the recent progress of women's hockey for a moment.

Hockey is to Minnesota what basketball is to Indiana or football is to Texas. Minnesota has been the center of the hockey universe for almost 100 years. Until very recently, women's college hockey was dominated by Eastern schools. In fact, Augsburg College was the first Minnesota school to field a women's hockey team in 1995. I can proudly say that since the inception of a NCAA Division I National Championship in 2001, no school outside Minnesota has won the national title.

The first three tournaments were won by the University of Minnesota-Duluth, which I had the pleasure of meeting last year.

The hockey rinks of Minnesota—and almost every town has at least one—have always been full of young ring rats wearing hockey jerseys with the names of Minnesota legends such as Broten, Bonin, Pohl, and Gaborik. Today, however, it is as common to see young ring rats skating around the ice with ponytails coming out of their helmets. I got my 14-year-old daughter her first pair of Betty hockey skates this winter, and she uses them proudly. They have the ponytails coming out of their helmets. They are wearing names such as Brodt, Darwitz, Wendell, and Potter on their backs. Minnesota has always been the State of men's hockey. Now, thanks to the pioneers of women's hockey such as the women who just won the national championship, Minnesota can rightly claim to be the State of all ice hockey.

Switching from the hockey rink to the basketball gym, the story that has all of Minnesota abuzz right now is the Minnesota Golden Gophers women's basketball team's appearance in the NCAA Final Four. After earning a seventh seed in the regional tournament, Minnesota defeated the No. 3 seed, the No. 2 seed, and finally top-ranked Duke, 82 to 75, on Tuesday night. Prior to this year, the Gophers had never made it past the Sweet Sixteen in three previous NCAA tournaments. Now the Gophers will be the highest seed to play in a Final Four since No. 9 Arkansas in 1998. I believe they are the first No. 7 seed to play in the Final Four.

I had a chance to watch—not watch, I watched here in Washington—the game against UCLA with my daughter in Minnesota who, in addition to wanting to be a hockey player, wants to be a basketball player. On the phone, play by play, as we were talking about it, I just loved the sense of excitement.

I was unable to watch the game against Duke the other night; I had a speaking engagement at the time of the game. But I was anxious, when I checked my cell phone as soon as that speaking engagement was over, to hear first a message from my daughter, with just a couple of minutes left, that we were ahead and then this excited message that we won. We won. It is great to see young kids, young women look at other young women and look at their sense of accomplishment, athletic accomplishment and say, Boy, I would like to be like that. It is great to have role models, and we have them at the University of Minnesota now, led by second year coach Pam Borton and Most Valuable Player Lindsay Whalen, a young woman who broke her wrist and was out for a while and I believe the first game back in the tournament scored 31 points.

The Gopher women will face the University of Connecticut at 8:30 Minnesota time. I wish the team all the best of luck, and the thanks of millions of Minnesotans who will be glued to the television, cheering you on, including me and my daughter.

The University of Minnesota women's ice hockey and basketball teams have made all Minnesotans proud. A source of intense pride for all Minnesotans is that these championship teams are overwhelmingly comprised of Minnesota-grown young women. Eleven of the 14 players on the Gopher basketball team, and 12 out of 20 on the hockey team, are from Minnesota. These young women represent cities from corners of Minnesota, such as Fosston, Marshall, Stewartville, Moorhead, Hibbing, and the Twin Cities.

Congratulations to the University of Minnesota Golden Gophers women's ice hockey and women's basketball teams for their athletic success, and for, really, making all of Minnesota proud, doing such a fabulous job of representing Minnesota on the national stage.

Mr. President, I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CRAPO). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, in the last couple of hours since we had our vote today, I have been asked by a couple of press people who are lingering in the hallways about the issue of obstructionism. Apparently, there are some who suggest there is obstruction going on in the Senate.

It is interesting to me that there are charges of obstructionism to the Senate's business. We are not voting today, really. We voted once on a cloture vote. We did not vote yesterday. Apparently, we are not voting now until next Wednesday.

Why is that the case? Because there was an amendment offered to increase the minimum wage, and the majority party did not want to vote on the amendment.

It seems to me if there is obstruction around here, it is obstructing the ability to have a vote on an amendment to increase the minimum wage. The people at the bottom of the economic ladder in this country have not had an increase in the minimum wage for years. It is perfectly appropriate for us to consider that in the context of welfare reform.

So an amendment is offered; but because the majority does not want it to be voted on, business essentially is stopped dead on the floor, and there are no votes, and we are at parade rest for 4 or 5 days. If anybody is obstructing, I would say it is those who brought the welfare reform bill to the floor and then decided they did not want to vote on anything, and we go, day after day, with no votes. And those who create that situation now accuse others of obstructing.

I think it is a curious thing to do, but maybe there is a language here I have not yet learned and do not yet understand. But there is certainly no obstruction on the part of those of us who want to have a vote on the amendments we offered.

OUTSOURCING OF AMERICAN JOBS

Mr. President, we are going to be turning, we think, in the next week or two back to a piece of legislation that was on the floor of the Senate that was also pulled from consideration because they did not want a vote on an amendment that was pending. When that bill comes back that deals with the issue of tax incentives for foreign sales—when that bill comes back to the floor, I intend to offer an amendment dealing with an issue that has been discussed recently, and that is the movement of jobs from this country to overseas.

We talk a lot about the concern of the outsourcing of jobs. This country, as you know, has lost over 3 million jobs in recent years, the last 3 years or so, 3½ years, and we are now down a net roughly 2.5 million jobs. We gained a few jobs back, but we are about 2.5 million jobs less than we were 3½ years ago.

So the question is, will this economy create new jobs? We need them desperately. The other question is, why are we having policies in place that remain in place that actually incentivize the movement of jobs overseas?

Let me describe one of them I intend to fix with an amendment as soon as I have the ability to offer the amendment on the floor of the Senate.

Assume, for a moment, there are two businesses. Both produce garage door openers. They are both located in the United States. They both manufacture garage door openers, and they sell them in the United States. One of them decides they will move to China, so they move their plant to China. They fire their American workers. They hire workers in China. They make the same garage door opener in China and ship it back to our country.

There is one substantial difference now between those two firms, and that is the taxes they will pay on the profits they earn. The company that has moved to China to produce the product to ship back into this country will pay a lower U.S. income tax. In fact, they will largely pay no U.S. income tax.

We have a tax incentive in our law books that says: If you move your plant overseas and produce there for the purpose of shipping back into our country, we will give you a tax cut.

You talk about perversity, this is it. Our country says: We will reward you if you shut down your American company, your American business, move it to China, move it to another country, and ship the product back into our country.

Well, at a time when we are losing jobs and desperately need jobs in our country, the very least we should do—at least the baby step we ought to take—is to shut down the perverse incentive in our Tax Code that says: Ship your jobs overseas and we will give you a big break.

We will have an opportunity to vote on that. The Senate voted on that, actually, in an amendment I offered some years ago, and my amendment came up short. Perhaps having lost now 2.5 million net jobs in the last 3½ years, the Senate will come to a different conclusion. I hope that is the case because this issue of jobs is critically important.

TRADE AGREEMENTS

Mr. President, I have spoken often on the floor of the Senate about the subject of international trade. I will do so again briefly, just to say we have recently negotiated two free trade agreements, negotiated by the trade ambassador. I do not expect either, frankly, to come to the floor of the Senate this year. Why? Because I do not expect the administration, which negotiated these trade agreements, will want to have a debate on them: the Central American Free Trade Agreement and the Australian Free Trade Agreement. Why don't they want to have a debate on them? Because, like most recent trade agreements, they are not mutually beneficial; that is, beneficial to us and those with whom we negotiated the treaty. In most cases, they will end up costing this country lost jobs and large trade deficits.

I will not go into great discussion about the so-called CAFTA, Central American Free Trade Agreement, or to go back and talk about NAFTA, the North American Free Trade Agreement, both of which are terrible agreements, or the recent bilateral agreement we did with China, which is an awful agreement, or the agreement with Australia that really short-changes us in terms of what we should have required to have happen with state trading enterprises. I will not do that. But suffice it to say, I do not expect there to be brought to this floor a debate on this trade agreement by the administration because that is the last thing they want between now and this election, because it will be a significant debate about jobs and whether these trade agreements cost us jobs or gain jobs. The record is quite clear, we are losing jobs as a result of these many trade agreements.

We have the highest trade deficit in the history of this country, by far: a $470 billion trade deficit. Every single day—every single day—almost $1.5 billion in trade deficit; that is, goods we are importing in excess of goods we are exporting. Someday, someone has to pay the cost of that trade deficit.

Now let me describe my concern about this trade. I am not concerned about expanding trade. I happen to believe it is largely beneficial to expand trade. I think countries that engage in activities because of natural resources, and other things, where they have a natural advantage, that it makes sense for us to trade with them, and for those countries to trade with us in circumstances that are the reverse.

But that is not the case with most trade agreements today. In fact, the case is we have not a doctrine of comparative advantage, as Ricardo used to talk about nearly 200 years ago. The doctrine of comparative advantage is irrelevant. It is a natural advantage that becomes a political advantage by countries that create circumstances of production that are fundamentally unfair with respect to free trade.

An example: A country says: We will not allow workers to organize. If they try to organize, we will fire them. And, oh, by the way, we will not require the payment of any kind of a minimum wage. You can hire workers for 16 cents an hour, if you wish. And, by the way, there is no age issue with respect to child labor, so if you want to pay 16 cents an hour, and hire a 12-year-old kid to do it, that is fine as well. And, also, we will not require the workplace be safe. If you want to hire 12-year-olds, pay them 12 cents an hour, and put them in an unsafe workplace, that is all right, too. By the way, when you do it, and you have a 12-year-old working in an unsafe plant, working 12 hours a day, 7 days a week, you can dump the chemicals into the air and the water from that plant, and that is just fine as well.

Now if countries decide that is the condition of production in their country, and plants move to those countries to hire those workers so they can produce a product to ship back into our country, is that what we should aspire to have American workers compete with? The answer is, no, of course not. Yet that is exactly what is happening today. You think I am wrong? Check the facts. I am not saying in every factory they are hiring 12-year-olds, but I am saying it is happening in many parts of the world. I will give you one example I have used on the floor of the Senate previously to describe in more specific terms the way this works.

This is a picture of a Huffy bicycle. Most people know about Huffy bicycles—20 percent of the American marketplace. You can buy them at K-Mart, you can buy them at Wal-Mart, and you can buy them at Sears. Huffy bicycles used to be made in Ohio. They were made by workers who made $11 an hour. They would get up and go to their jobs. I am sure they were proud of their jobs. They worked $11-an-hour jobs in Ohio to make Huffy bicycles. Right between the handlebars and the front fender they had a little insignia, a little metal insignia of the American flag.

Well, Huffy bicycles are no longer made in America. They are now made in China. The workers who made Huffy bicycles in Ohio were fired because $11 an hour was too much to pay someone to make a bicycle. Huffy bicycles are now made in China by workers who work 7 days a week, 12 to 14 hours a day, and are paid 33 cents an hour. In fact, Huffy bicycles no longer have the decal of the American flag between the handlebar and the front fender. They have a decal of the globe, descriptive, it seems to me, of what is happening to the elements of production and the manufacturing base in this country.

The question is this: Is it fair competition to ask workers in Ohio, making $11 an hour, to compete with workers in China who work 7 days a week, and make 33 cents an hour? Does that represent fair competition? Is that what we aspire to do? Or is this driving to the bottom the wages of American workers? And is it exporting the manufacturing expertise and base of the U.S. economy?

Globalization has happened quickly. The rules of globalization have not kept pace. We know that we don't want the product of Chinese prison labor to come in and hang on a store shelf in an American store and represent that as fair competition. Most all in the Chamber would probably agree the product of Chinese prison labor ought not be sold in this country because it is not fair competition. But then what about someone in Indonesia who works for 16 cents an hour? Is that fair competition for an American worker? Should we aspire to have an American worker compete in a circumstance where someone works 12 hours a day, sleeps in a bunker, 12 to a room, works 7 days a week in a plant that is unsafe?

The question of outsourcing of American jobs and the question of what is fair trade are questions that this Congress ultimately will have to answer because, if not, we will see a continued exodus from this country of jobs.

The economists, the so-called big thinkers who wear small glasses, tell us we are only talking about the outsourcing of low-tech, low-skill, low-wage jobs. That is absolutely untrue, flat out false. If those economists are still giving opinions and still making money, they should not be. I won't name the economists, but the economists who told us what would happen with the United States-Mexico trade agreement who were dead, flat out wrong. They said with that agreement we will import from Mexico the product of low-skilled, low-wage labor, and we will, therefore, benefit from that. It won't cost us high-skill, high-wage labor in the United States.

That is not true. The three largest exports from Mexico are automobiles, automobile parts, and electronics—the product of high-skilled labor. It has cost dearly American jobs.

There are so many elements to this that almost defy description. Part of it is the start of this process, when we negotiate the trade agreement. Let me give you one of the most idiotic provisions in an agreement I have ever seen. It was done a couple years ago. I have no idea which unnamed and unseen negotiator negotiated this, but we negotiated a bilateral trade agreement with China. And we have with China a very large trade deficit, now nearly $130 billion a year. So this is what our side agreed to: we will put a 2.5-percent tariff on Chinese automobiles shipped to the United States, and the Chinese will impose a tariff 10 times higher on any U.S. cars that we aspire to sell in China.

How would one come to that agreement with a country with whom we have such a large trade deficit? I have no idea. It is fundamentally incompetent to negotiate treaties that so undermine the basic manufacturing interests of our country.

Another example of automobiles—I don't come from a State that produces automobiles—is the country of Korea. I have a chart that shows what is happening with Korea. We import a substantial number of cars from Korea. Most people know the names of those cars. They buy those cars. We have ships coming across the ocean loaded with Korean cars. In fact, in a recent year, we had 618,000 Korean cars shipped in the U.S. marketplace for sale. Do you know how many cars we sold in Korea? Two thousand eight hundred. So there were 618,000 cars coming from Korea to the United States and 2,800 cars from the United States to Korea.

Why is that the case? Is it because Korean consumers don't want to buy American cars? No. It is because the Korean government has put up barrier after barrier to try to stop such sales. That is why you have a ratio of 217 to 1 Korean cars sold in the United States to U.S. cars sold in Korea. Why do we put up with it? It is because this country lacks the backbone and the spine and the will to demand fair trade and stand up for our products. If our producers can't compete, shame on us. Then we lose. But requiring our producers to compete when the game is rigged, saying our producers ought to compete, when foreign markets are closed to us, is fundamentally wrong. Yet that is what is happening. Japan, Europe, Korea, China—you can go right down the list.

I have mentioned a number of times that we have a trade regime in this country and people who work in that area seem to lack the stiff backbone that is necessary to stand up for our own economic interests. There is no evidence that we ever get tough with anybody, no matter the circumstances, because most of our trade policy is mushy-headed, foreign policy rather than sound, sensible economic policy.

We had a dispute with Europe on about beef trade, because Europe will not allow U.S. beef into its market. The WTO, for a change, ruled that the United States was right, and that we could retaliate on Europe for blocking our exports. And what do we do? We put tariffs on Roquefort cheese, goose liver, and truffles. That is going to scare the devil out of somebody, scare them with tariffs on Roquefort cheese, goose liver, and truffles, won't it?

Our country's trade officials don't have the foggiest idea how to deal with trade problems, whether it is standing up for beef interests in this country or standing up for manufacturers or the interests of workers. Our trade officials simply have been AWOL.

There is much to talk about with respect to international trade and jobs. The discussion about all of this relates to whether we have a job base to allow those who aspire to go to work to find a job. We have seen 2.5 million fewer jobs now than 3½ years ago, and at least a part of that is because we are outsourcing and seeing jobs move from this country to other countries.

At least two of the reasons for that are, one, we have a perverse Tax Code that actually rewards companies that move their jobs out of this country, and we ought to do something about that. And, second, we have basically incompetent trade agreements that fail to stand up for this country's economic interests.

My hope is that we could have a debate on trade in the Senate this year. It appears to me we are going to have a debate on virtually nothing. The minute someone offers an amendment, the others pack up their duffel bags and leave town. I don't understand it. Day after day we have no votes. Why? Because someone dared come to the floor to say, after 6 or 8 years, maybe we should have an increase in the minimum wage.

What does that do? It fills up airplanes leaving Washington, DC, because nobody wants to vote. And while they are out of town, they tell the press that those who offered the amendment are obstructionists, forgetting, of course, that the obstruction is really the refusal to give a vote to those who offered a very sensible amendment to the bill.

Most of us came here because we want to do serious things about serious issues. It would be good if, in the interest of this country, we could, in a spirit of some cooperation, decide here is the legislation we want on the floor, offer your amendments, have reasonable time agreements, have votes, and move on. Whatever the will of the Senate is, that is what we ought to do.

But instead, especially recently, we have seen a regrettable situation of the Senate deciding, if there is a controversial amendment that is offered, the majority doesn't like it, we will just stop working.

There is a lot to do. This country has an economy that regrettably at this point, while producing some growth, is not producing jobs. I just finished reading an article by an economist from the Reagan administration, Paul Craig Roberts, who was one of the architects of the economic strategy back in the 1980s. Paul Craig Roberts has it about right. He said this may well be an economic recovery without new jobs—a jobless recovery. And if that is the case, we are in trouble.

We need to search for ways to begin to create these jobs. If we have a recovery and no new jobs being created, we face some pretty difficult times. The American people want to go to work. These kids coming out of college want jobs. They want opportunity and hope. They want a good future. You do that by having an economy that produces jobs. There is no social program we discuss in the Congress that is as important or as productive as a good job that pays well.

That is what allows people to have a good life, provide for their family, and do the things they want to do. So the question for us is, what happened here? Why the disconnect? Why is an economy that is growing not producing jobs?

One answer is that we are seeing jobs moving to Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, China, Mexico—you name it. They are leaving. As they leave, a part of that departure is to be rewarded with a reverse tax cut, a tax incentive that says we will reward you while you leave.

We ought to close that now. We ought to go back and look at some of these trade agreements and decide whether it is in this country's interests not to be protectionist but to demand that the rules of trade be fair. If we are unwilling to do that, we are not going to see the creation of the kind of jobs that are necessary to restore the 2½ millions jobs that were lost and provide the additional jobs an increase in population requires year by year.

Mr. President, there are no votes today, tomorrow, Monday, or Tuesday. I guess the Senate comes back with perhaps a vote on Wednesday. I hope that perhaps we can start over and decide to treat seriously those things that are serious. There is such a tendency here to treat lightly those things that are serious and treat seriously those things that should be treated lightly. We never get to where we should be with respect to the interests of this country.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant journal clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. DOLE). Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Louisiana.

GET OUTDOORS ACT

Ms. LANDRIEU. Madam President, I rise with my colleague from Tennessee, to recognize the introduction of legislation in the House of Representatives today by Congressmen DON YOUNG of Alaska and GEORGE MILLER of California. The Get Outdoors Act is similar to an effort that many of us in the House and Senate were involved in during the 106th Congress.

I am particularly pleased to be joined by Senator ALEXANDER to announce our intention to introduce similar legislation in the Senate in the coming weeks.

The principles and concepts within this legislation from the 106th Congress were then and continue today to be one of the most significant conservation efforts ever considered by Congress. Our goal is to provide a steady, reliable stream of revenue to fund some of the most urgent conservation needs in the country.

The Get Outdoors Act, or GO Act, as the House bill will be referred to, is almost identical to the legislation considered by the House and Senate in the 106th Congress. That legislation had overwhelming bipartisan support. It was a landmark, multi-year commitment to conservation programs benefiting all 50 States.

The legislation we will be introducing uses a conservation royalty earned from the production of oil and gas off the Outer Continental Shelf for the protection and enhancement of our natural and cultural heritage, threatened coastal areas and wildlife habitat. It also reinvests in our local communities and provides for our children and grandchildren through enhanced outdoor recreational activities.

By enacting this legislation, we can ensure that we are making the most significant commitment of resources to conservation ever and ensure a positive legacy of protecting and enhancing cultural, natural, and recreational resources for Americans today and in the future.

As many of our colleagues will remember, during the 106th Congress the House of Representatives passed almost identical legislation by a vote of 315 to 102 and the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources reported a similar version that had the support of both the Chairman and Ranking Member.

In addition, in September of 2000, a bipartisan group of 63 Senators sent a letter to the majority and minority leaders indicating their support to bring the bill to the floor. The effort was supported by Governors, Mayors and a coalition of over 5,000 organizations from throughout the country.

Unfortunately, despite that tremendous and unprecedented network of people who came together in support of the legislation, our efforts were cut short before a Bill could be signed into law. Instead a commitment was made by those who opposed the legislation to guarantee funding for these programs each year through the appropriation process.

However, as we have painfully witnessed since then, that commitment has not been honored. What has happened is exactly what those of us who initiated the effort always anticipated. Each of these significant programs has been shortchanged and a number of them have left out altogether or forced to compete with each other for scarce resources. So, today, the House has taken a great step to introduce similar legislation. The principle of the bill Senator ALEXANDER and I will soon introduce provides a reliable, significant and steady stream of revenue for the urgent conservation and outdoor recreation needs of our rapidly growing cities.

If we were to look at a map of the country and put lights where most of the population is, we would see a bright ring around the country because two-thirds of our population reside within 50 miles of our coasts. As a Senator from a coastal State, I understand the pressures that confront many of our coastal communities.

Today, with the price of oil near a 13-year high we should channel some of those revenues and re-invest them in our natural resources.

Some of the programs in the legislation we plan to introduce will include: impact assistance, coastal conservation and fishery enhancement for all coastal States and eligible local governments and to mitigate the various impacts of producing States that serve as the "platform" for the crucial development of Federal offshore energy resources from the Outer Continental Shelf. It does not reward drilling, but it does acknowledge the impacts to and the contributions of States that are providing the energy to run the country; flexible and stable funding for the State and Federal sides of the Land and Water Conservation Fund while protecting the rights of private property owners and with a particular emphasis on alleviating the maintenance backlog confronting our national parks; wildlife conservation, education and restoration through the successful program of Pittman-Robertson; urban parks and recreation recovery to rehabilitate and develop recreation programs, sites and facilities enabling cities and towns to focus on enhancing the quality of life for populations within our more densely inhabited areas by providing more green-spaces, more playgrounds and ball fields for our youth and the parents and community leaders that support them; historic preservation programs, including full funding of grants to the States, maintaining the National Register of Historic Places and administering the numerous historic preservation programs that are crucial to remember our proud past and fully funding the Payment In Lieu of Taxes program, or PILT, in order to compensate local governments, predominantly out west, for losses to their tax bases because the Federal Government owns so much land in a number of those States.

While we confront the challenges of a war, budget deficits and a struggling economy, I believe it would be wise and we would show good stewardship to take this opportunity to set aside a small portion of the oil and gas royalties to our States and localities for initiatives such as outdoor spaces or recreation facilities where our children can play. The essence of this legislation, the American Outdoors Act, is to take the proceeds from a non-renewable resource for the purpose of reinvesting a portion of these revenues in the conservation and enhancement of our renewable resources.

We wanted to come to the floor today to share these ideas with our colleagues, to encourage their input and ask them to be a part of this unique conservation effort.

I would also like to add how much I appreciate the leadership of Senator ALEXANDER. I think we will make a great team and thank him for his cosponsorship as we attempt to move this legislation through the process.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Madam President, the Presiding Officer and I are new Members of the Senate, but we learn our lessons pretty quickly. One of the things you learn here is if you want to have an impact in the Senate, you have to put a focus on something you care about and then keep after it.

The Senator from Louisiana has done that. In her first term here she focused on the great American outdoors. Working with others, she came pretty close to passing an important piece of legislation 3 years ago.

There were some problems in it for Members of the Senate. It is my goal, working with her this year, and we hope with many others of our colleagues on the Energy and Natural Resources Committee and others of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle, to solve those problems and come up with legislation that represents the conservation majority, the huge conservation majority that exists in the United States of America.

The conservation majority of this country does not have a line down the middle with chairs on each side. It exists on both sides of every aisle and has broad support. We are good legislators, and if we are as good as we hope we are, we will be able to work and represent what our constituents would like us to do. So it is a privilege for me to work with Senator LANDRIEU. We both serve on the Energy and Natural Resources Committee. We are fortunate under Chairman PETE DOMENICI and ranking member JEFF BINGAMAN that we, most of the time, are able to work in a bipartisan way. So we are off to a good start in terms of fashioning a piece of legislation that will gain the support of our colleagues.

We are deliberately today not offering legislation. We want to discuss it first with members of our committee. We want to discuss it next with others, such as the Presiding Officer of the Senate, who has a long interest in conservation matters. We want her ideas and those of others. Then, perhaps in 3 weeks, after the recess, we will be able to come forward with a piece of legislation that has broad bipartisan support.

As the Senator from Louisiana said, this morning Congressman YOUNG of Alaska and GEORGE MILLER of California introduced the GO Act, the Get Outdoors Act of 2004. I believe they used it to emphasize we might do some work on this obesity problem that is really worrying us, in terms of health, if more of us spend a little more time walking outdoors, playing outdoors, and taking advantage of our country.

As the Senator from Louisiana said, the bill therefore will provide, I believe, about $3 billion in guaranteed annual funding for outdoor recreation purposes. It would be paid for, as she described, by what I think of as a conservation royalty. This is the way I think of it. It is a royalty on the revenues from oil and gas drilling on offshore Federal lands. After the royalties are paid to the landowner and after the royalties are paid to the State, this conservation royalty would be paid to a trust fund which would then spend the money for the benefit of conservation. Then, after that, the rest of the Federal revenues would go into the regular Federal appropriations process.

That is the way I like to think about it and I hope that is the way a majority of the Members of the Senate will want to think about it as well.

As the Senator said, we will be discussing these concepts that she so well outlined with our colleagues. And we hope they will join us as cosponsors. As she said, our bill will be similar to that which was introduced this morning in the House of Representatives, but it will not be the same.

In addition, it will be similar to the so-called CARA legislation that Senator LANDRIEU and many others worked hard on 3 years ago, but it will not be the same. There are some lessons that we need to learn from what happened 3 years ago.

For example, the cost of the Senate legislation may not be as much as the cost of the legislation offered in the House. That is yet to be determined.

In addition, as the Senator said, we intend to discuss with our colleagues whether States should have the option, for example, of spending the Federal share of the Land and Water Conservation Fund for maintenance of Federal lands rather than for acquisition.

I have learned over the years that there is a big difference of opinion between Senators from the West and Senators from the East about the acquisition of Federal lands. In North Carolina and Tennessee, we don't have much Federal land. So a lot of us—even many of us conservative Republicans—would be glad to have a little more. Out West there are a lot of people who think the Federal Government not only has enough but it has too much, and they don't want to see legislation that would acquire more.

We need to take that into account as we develop a piece of legislation that will represent the conservation majority but do it with respect for those States that are already largely owned by the Federal Government.

Our legislation, like that proposed in the House, will ensure that State and Federal parts of the Land and Water Conservation Fund will fulfill the intention that Congress originally envisioned. It will provide for wildlife conservation. That will benefit hunters and fishermen. There are more hunters and fish people with hunting and fishing licenses in Tennessee than there are people who vote. I am not sure that is a statistic to admire, but it is a fact, and it is one to which I pay attention. Bird watchers and all Americans who enjoy outdoor recreation will benefit from this legislation. It will provide funds to establish city parks so the children in and around our metropolitan areas can have decent, clean places to play; so families can have decent places to go; and so senior Americans can have decent, safe places to walk.

Someone once said Italy has its art, England has its history, and the United States has the Great American Outdoors. Walt Whitman wrote, "If you would understand me, go to the heights or watershores."

Our magnificent land, as much as our love for liberty, is at the core of the American character. It has inspired our pioneer spirit, our resourcefulness, and our generosity. Its greatness has fueled our individualism and optimism and has made us believe that anything is possible. It has influenced our music, literature, science, and language. It has served as the training ground of athletes and philosophers, of poets and defenders of American ideals.

That is why there is a conservation majority—a large conservation majority—in the United States of America.

That is why so many of us, as the Senator from Louisiana said, feel a responsibility in our generation to ensure to the next generation the inspiration of the dignity of the outdoors, its power, its elemental freedom; the opportunity to participate in the challenges of its discovery and personal involvement; and the fulfillment that is to be found in the endless opportunities for physical release and spiritual release.

Some of the words I just used came from the preamble of President Ronald Reagan's Commission on American Outdoors, which I chaired in 1985 and 1986.

In 1985, President Reagan asked a group of us—I was then the Governor of Tennessee—to look ahead for a generation and see what needed to be done for Americans to have appropriate places to go and what they wanted to do outdoors.

Our report, issued in 1987—very nearly a generation ago—recommended that we light a prairie fire of action to protect what was important to us in the American outdoors and to build for the future. We focused on the importance of a higher outdoors ethic, suggested an "outdoor corps" to improve recreational facilities. We examined the role of voluntarism. We pointed out that the park most people like is the park closest to where they live and how important it is, therefore, to have urban parks as well as great national parks. We warned of how the liability crisis and runaway lawsuits threatened our outdoor activities and called for a new institution or set of institutions to train leadership for outdoor recreation.

We formed State commissions, such as Tennesseans Outdoors, which went to work with the same objectives in our own State that we had in our national Commission.

We envisioned a network of greenways, scenic byways, and shorelines. Most of the action we suggested was not from Washington, DC, but was community by community by community.

But we also acknowledged the important role the Federal Government has to play in providing outdoor recreation opportunities. Of course, we must have clean air and clean water, and we must protect and enhance recreation opportunities on Federal lands and waters.

Almost all of us on the Commission called for the creation of a $1 billion fund to fully fund the Land and Water Conservation Fund—both the State share and the Federal share. This is a way of balancing our need for more oil and gas with our need for recreational opportunities in the outdoors.

As I mentioned earlier, I think of these annual payments from the revenues derived from offshore drilling for oil and gas on Federal land as a royalty payment. Pay the owner a royalty, pay the State its royalty, then pay a conservation royalty for the use of that resource. Then the rest of those revenues go into the Federal Treasury to be appropriated. Pay a $3 billion annual conservation royalty—that is the number that the House bill uses—before it ever gets to the Federal appropriations process. Then appropriate the rest.

I believe this legislation will have broad bipartisan support in the Senate.

I look forward to working with Senator LANDRIEU, Chairman DOMENICI, with our colleagues on the Energy and Natural Resources Committee, and with all of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle to fashion legislation that is good legislation, that represents the overwhelming conservation majority in the United States of America, and which can pass the Senate and the House of Representatives this year.

I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Madam President, I commend my colleague, the Senator from Tennessee, for his leadership—as I said, for not just this year and the years he has been in the Senate but for his years of service in Tennessee, and as Chairman of this important Commission that outlined some of the principles we are talking about and searching for solutions to today; and for his eloquence in reminding us that even more than good stewardship is required.

One particularly fresh idea that he has brought to this effort is the conservation royalty.

I think we can begin to see that the companies are not only paying a royalty to the Government, but they are paying a royalty to future generations through conservation. I think it is royalty they would gladly pay. We are not asking them to pay more than they are today. But a portion of what they pay today.

I thank the Senator for his leadership, and I look forward to getting, as we said, ideas from our colleagues, taking it to the Energy Committee and developing broad bipartisan support. Even in these days of tight budgets, we can think about setting aside a portion of these revenues which are not insignificant. As you know, last year we generated $6 billion off the coast primarily of Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, and Alabama, while still honoring the moratorium that is in place along the western coasts the eastern coasts and Florida. Even honoring the moratorium in place, we still were able to generate billions of dollars. Hopefully through this legislation we can dedicate that conservation royalty, a portion, to the worthy causes.

I thank the Senator.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Louisiana.

Her comments make me think of this report. Let me hold this up. So staff will not worry, I will not ask to put this in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. There is a summary I will bring to the Senate when we introduce the bill. This is the report of President Reagan's Commission on Americans Outdoors, published in 1987. It is a very good resource and backup for many of the ideas we envision being part of this legislation.

I learned very quickly as Chairman of this Commission that most of the decisions we have to deal with in environmental and conservation matters involve balance. Senator LANDRIEU and I know, because of our service on the Energy and Natural Resources Committee, as we work hard to try to develop a national energy policy, that we are having a difficult time as a country compromising, creating balance between our need to produce and our need to conserve.

I certainly do not want to draw into this discussion all of those arguments. I will say very little more about it except it would be nice to find in this contentious Presidential year, in this time when we have so much disagreement about energy production and conservation, one area where we could show we are skilled enough as legislators to properly represent the huge conservation majority in the United States.

Most Americans, as President Reagan's Commission thought and almost all Members thought, of course, we have to drill for oil and gas; otherwise our natural gas prices are going through the roof; our jobs will be in Mexico; our lights will be out. Of course we have to do that.

Is that an insult to the environment? Yes, it is. What do we do about it? Shut down the wells? No, one thing we can do is take some of that money—actually a lot of this money—and pay a conservation royalty, compensate for that by creating a conservation benefit on the other side. This idea of the land and water conservation fund has been endorsed by politicians of both parties for a long time. What we are trying to do today is assure a steady stream of revenue to the State and Federal side of the conservation fund, plus a number of other conservation areas, in a way that respects each of our States. We can do it. There is enough of a majority; we can do that.

President Reagan's Commission on Americans Outdoors from 1985, 1986, and 1987, and the work that Senator LANDRIEU and the majority in both Houses did, form a wonderful beginning. We will see in the next few weeks if we are wise enough to take that to a successful conclusion.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ALEXANDER). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Carolina.

Mrs. DOLE. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

FALLUJAH DEATHS

Mrs. DOLE. Mr. President, I watched with horror yesterday as the media displayed the images of crowded streets, in Fallujah—and burning bodies in the center of that horrific celebration. In the middle of that city that is part of the volatile Sunni Triangle, four Americans were attacked, executed, and then burned as a mob of Iraqis danced around the corpses.

I found it hard to believe I was watching a news program, given that the scene playing out before my eyes looked far more like a gruesome movie than tragic reality.

Sadly, it was a reality—and that reality continues today. Families have been notified that their loved ones were among the four casualties and are mourning the loss of these brave souls.

My home state of North Carolina grieves today as well. The four men who were brutally assassinated yesterday were employees from Blackwater Security Consulting, based in a city in northeastern North Carolina. Preliminary reports tell us that three had been Navy SEALs and one had been an Army Ranger.

The four contractors were stationed in Fallujah to provide a convoy of security—the very purpose of their presence was to protect the lives of Iraqi men and women and they in turn were subjected to such barbaric and despicable acts.

Yesterday's attack on these innocent men only further illustrates the evil influence Saddam Hussein still has over so many Iraqis. We are told that the 150,000 residents of Fallujah are being held captive by a brutal regime that wants nothing more than to return to the past days of tyrannical rule and streets of violence. The perpetrators of these ghastly acts hate freedom, loathe democracy and wish to turn back the clock—it is important to say now more than ever that we will not let this happen.

Mr. President, the horrific slaughters yesterday will not weaken the American resolve to bring order, democracy, and peace to this war torn nation. The criminal who orchestrated these murders are few—and the Iraqis who stand firm against such violence are the men and women we are seeking to serve as the Coalitional Provisional Authority acts to establish stability in the middle of chaos.

As peace and order are brought to all regions of Iraq, may justice arrive alongside them. It is my sincere hope that those responsible for these attacks will not escape punishment. Let our response be swift and just.

While I wish there were more I could offer to the families who grieve the horrific loss of their loved ones, my condolences and my prayers are all I have. My heart aches for the tears of so many—and my earnest prayer is that we see the end of these tragedies as brave Americans continue their work in Iraq. I deeply believe in their mission and in the cause of democracy, freedom, and peace.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. DOLE). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CRAIG. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CRAIG. I ask unanimous consent to speak for not more than 15 minutes as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ENERGY PRICES

Mr. CRAIG. Madam President, I have spoken in the last 3 days about the current price crisis this country is experiencing with the critical resource energy. The American consumer is going to the pump in their local community today to refuel their car and paying record high prices; in fact, the highest ever recorded on average in our history. I would hope they are beginning to ask the question why, why is this happening and why am I having to pay another $5 or $6 per tank of gas, an average of maybe $15 or $20 or $30 a month more.

In fact, I and the chairman of the Energy Committee, PETE DOMENICI, and others, held a press conference to speak to the issue of energy and why the Senate was not yet debating a comprehensive energy bill that is ready for us to debate once again and vote on.

At that time I mentioned the average consumer today will pay, as an individual, $300 or $400 more a year for the price of energy, and collectively, as a family, they may well pay more than that. When you consider their electrical bills and space heater bills, the average family is going to pay considerably more this year. That is money that won't come as a result of having a pay raise and, therefore, having the money to offset those costs. Those are dollars and cents that are going to come directly out of the family budget this year. It will have a substantial impact on that family's ability to do what they did a year ago, whether it was providing food for the table, clothes for their children, or maybe the family vacation, or the recreational value they place on a certain activity that would cost them a certain amount of energy.

I mentioned some days ago that I think probably families are already, if they own a motor home, recalculating whether they will actually be able to take that home and go someplace in the country this summer because of the potential cost, additional cost that 15 or 20 cents on a gallon of gas will mean this year. Those are all very real issues and some that clearly this Senate ought to address.

I have said for that average consumer who is asking the question why, I have an answer. The answer is that the Senate of the United States has refused to bring out and pass and set on our President's desk a comprehensive energy bill that addresses those and other issues that in the long term will get us back into the business of producing energy for our country and becoming less dependent on foreign supplies and, therefore, certainly dependent upon ourselves more than others. It is an important issue that we have before us today.

We have even seen it now break into Presidential politics, as Senator KERRY speaks of ways he can propose to bring down those prices. I have noticed he has not talked about production. He has not talked about increasing production. So there are going to be a lot of schemes. I use the word "scheme" because some are scheming at this moment as to how they might turn this to their political advantage, tragically enough; that is, the price of energy at this moment.

Why don't they just stop and ask the Senate why they can't pass a comprehensive national energy policy for our country? We have been 14 years without any new directions or new ideas as it relates to energy production, and it is clearly time we speak to that. There is a proposal that has just been brought forth. It is called the Gasoline Free Market Competition Act of 2003. Each time we see something like this as an idea, it is important that we put it in the right context. Each time a government agency investigates gasoline prices—and there have been 29 such investigations by Federal and State agencies over the past several decades—the findings literally have been all the same. The market controls the price of energy, not some unscrupulous producer. It is the market forces that ultimately produce the price at the pump.

The purpose for antitrust law is to protect the interests of the consuming public, not to increase the profit of any level or type of distributions, which is what happens in the legislation I have mentioned, which is S. 1731. That particular legislation would try to dictate refiners' distribution practices. I don't think our Government ought to ever get into the micromanagement of a marketplace. Our goal—and it always should be our goal—is to create transparency in the markets so all of the parties involved can understand them.

As noted in a recent economic study on "The Economics of Gasoline Retailing," a Dr. Andrew Kleit, professor of energy and environmental economics at Penn State University, puts it this way:

There is a difference between protecting competition and protecting competitors. Protecting competition means moving to provide consumers with the lowest sustainable prices, not protecting the profits of any level of production or any individual firm.

Professor Kleit's analysis shows that eliminating the ability of refiners to restrict where their brands can be distributed, as proposed in S. 1737, would likely reduce refiners' investment in distribution outlets and ultimately harm consumers.

From a competitive point of view, Professor Kleit says, "these calls [for this type of distribution concepts in legislation] are [clearly] misguided."

The strategy at issue is the result of competition between various forms of distribution in gasoline marketing. This competition promotes efficiencies which benefit consumers by bringing products to market for less cost. My fear is S. 1737 would not protect competition, only some of the competitors.

That is clearly where we ought not be going. But what I think S. 1737 really does is it tries to speak to a market today that is a product of Government interference in the past. By that I mean standards and new standards that do not allow the normal marketplace to flow and that, ultimately, confuse the process and create dislocations, whereas a more free market approach certainly would allow that to happen.

As we have seen in recent years, the Federal Trade Commission has carefully studied many of the proposals about mergers within the industry. In many instances, the FTC has required companies to sell assets to new competitors as these mergers occur. Let me give some examples.

For example, the Exxon Mobil merger in 1999 resulted in the largest retail divestiture in FTC history—the sale or assignment of approximately 2,431 Exxon Mobil gas stations in the Northeast and mid-Atlantic, some 1,740; California stations, some 360; Texas stations, 319; and in Guam, 12; and the sale of Exxon refineries in California, terminals, a pipeline and other assets.

So my point is, while we may try to micromanage and use that as an excuse or an attempt to help the marketplace, what the FTC has done relating to these mergers has in part done that. In other words, we have given them the authority to do so.

Similarly, when British Petroleum merged with Amoco in 1998, they agreed to make certain divestitures to free up more than 1,600 gas stations in 30 markets in order to satisfy FTC concerns that their merger would substantially lessen competition in certain wholesale gasoline markets.

Let's stop passing the buck on energy prices.

Let's stop attempting to tinker with the energy bill and apply untested concepts and theories in the hope that we can create the perfect bill while our citizens are being crushed by high energy prices.

Let's pass the energy bill and implement the energy policies included in that bipartisan piece of legislation.

Let's stop the partisan rancor and do what our constituents sent us here to do—protect their jobs, protect their quality of life, and protect their security by passing this energy bill.

While many Senators may come to the floor well meaning in the next several months to find some political safe haven in which to address the issue of high energy prices, there really are not any. Nobody is scheming today. Nobody is glutting the marketplace. The reality is a problem of supply and demand. While I am quite sure you will have some State attorneys general out there calling for investigations, the problem is supply and demand. It clearly is that, and there is no other argument that can really fit or begin to explain why we have record high gas prices.

This Senate needs to pass a comprehensive energy bill, and we have one. It is ready to come to the floor. We are being denied that opportunity to bring it to the floor. All I am saying is use due caution as it relates to all kinds of new ways to argue the problem in the marketplace. But when you don't have enough supply of product or crude to go around, when you have world demands and us now depending on a world market for our supply of crude, we have a problem. This Senate refuses to address that problem.

I hope in the coming days as gas prices continue to spike, consumers will ask the question why, and turn to the Senate and say very simply: Do something. Pass a national energy policy. Put it on the President's desk and allow this country to get back into the business of production and meeting the supply to the market, instead of trying to find a scheme or another excuse that will only be a short, limited political ground on which to stand.

I believe there is no place to hide today and no Senator can have that opportunity. The vote has been on the record. Let's change the record and improve the record by the passage of a national energy policy that will once again put our country in the business of energy production.

JOB CRISIS AND INDIFFERENCE TO WORKING FAMILIES

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, in the last 3 years, America has lost nearly 3 million private-sector jobs, including nearly 2.9 million good manufacturing jobs.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says there are 8.2 million Americans out of work today.

But that doesn't include the millions of "discouraged workers" who have stopped looking for jobs. And it doesn't include millions more who are underemployed.

All together, nearly 15 million American workers today are unemployed, underemployed, or have given up looking for work.

A month ago, the President's Council of Economic Advisors released its annual report on the economy. It predicted that the economy would create 3.8 million new jobs this year.

The President's own Labor and Commerce secretaries refused to endorse that prediction. Then the President himself backed away from those numbers.

After 3 years of promising jobs that never materialized, the Bush administration won't even predict anymore how many jobs their policies will create.

Last month, the economy added only 21,000 new jobs—every one of them in government. 21,000 new jobs. That is one job for every 389 Americans who need jobs.

All over America, people who have lost jobs are draining their savings accounts, tapping their 401(k)s, and running up expensive credit card debt to try to make ends meet.

The average length of unemployment is at a 20-year high.

When people finally find work, it often involves a substantial cut in pay. Jobs in growing industries pay, on average, 21 percent less than the jobs in industries that are shrinking.

We have a jobs crisis in this country. And it is not just unemployed workers who are feeling the pain.

With wages stagnant or falling, and health care and child care costs rising, many parents are working longer and harder than ever—and it's still not enough.

Consumer debt is at an all-time high. Home mortgage foreclosures, car reposessions, and credit card debt are all at record levels.

Millions and millions of American families are just one health crisis, one pink slip, or one bad break away from financial disaster.

You would never know any of this to look at the agenda of the Bush administration and Congressional Republicans.

The President and Congressional Republicans tell us, "don't worry, the economy is getting stronger."

Getting stronger for whom?

Not the millions of Americans who are unemployed and underemployed. Not the workers whose jobs are being shipped overseas with help—help—from this administration.

Not the 43 million Americans who can't afford health insurance and are living with the daily dread that one serious illness or accident could put them in a financial hole they will never dig their way out of.

America's families need jobs. And workers who have lost their jobs need help until they get back on their feet.

They need unemployment insurance, job training, and health care until they can find their next job.

Yet, this week, instead of just ignoring the economic stress so many American families are under, the Bush administration is knowingly, deliberately, increasing that stress.

Yesterday, the Federal unemployment insurance program expired.

Despite repeated Democratic efforts to extend the program, the Bush administration and Congressional Republicans have refused.

As a result, over one million workers have seen their unemployment benefits expire over the past 3 months, and nearly one million more will see their benefits expire in the next 3 months.

Last week, the President's Commerce Secretary said President Bush would sign an extension of the Federal unemployment program if Congress passed it.

So I urge President Bush to use his powers of persuasion to convince the Members of his own party to extend unemployment benefits.

It is wrong to punish workers who can't find jobs in a jobless recovery.

There is something else the President should do.

President Bush should make it clear that he will not strip overtime pay protections from one American worker. Not one.

Any day now, the Labor Department is expected to issue new regulations that could deny 8 million American workers their right to overtime pay. Those regulations were expected to be released yesterday, but they have now been delayed for some reason.

Bipartisan majorities in the House and the Senate voted last year to overturn the Bush regulations stripping workers of their overtime protections.

But the White House worked behind closed doors with Republican leaders in Congress to push the regulations through anyway.

If they have their way, up to 8 million workers—including firefighters, nurses, store supervisors and others—will lose their overtime pay.

Overtime pay isn't for luxuries; it is essential family income that's needed to pay mortgages, tuition, grocery bills, utility bills, health insurance premiums, and prescription drug costs.

For eligible workers, overtime pay makes up, on average, 25 percent of their income.

Last week, Republican leaders in the Senate actually pulled the JOBS bill to avoid voting on a Democratic amendment that would have preserved the overtime rights of American workers.

The Bush administration would rather force American companies to pay tariffs on the goods they sell in Europe than protect the overtime pay of American workers.

That shows how deeply out of touch this administration and its allies in Congress are with the real needs of average working Americans.

There are other signs as well. Two days ago, the Senate voted overwhelmingly to increase child-care funding in the welfare bill so that mothers who are moving from welfare to work won't have to leave their children home alone or with strangers.

Even though States are slashing funding for child care, the Bush administration insisted that no more money for child care is needed. If their view prevails, 450,000 children would be forced out of child care. That is how out of touch they are with this economy.

This administration has also refused, repeatedly, to raise the minimum wage.

It has fought to deny the earned income tax credit for low-income parents—at the same time it insists on more and bigger tax cuts for the wealthiest one percent.

The President's economic advisors even suggested re-classifying Burger

King jobs as manufacturing jobs to try to disguise how many manufacturing jobs America is losing.

I have some advice for them: Forget about creating better-sounding statistics and figure out how to create better-paying jobs here in America.

Millions of Americans are hurting and need help.

I urge the President and the members of his administration, and Republican leaders in Congress, to listen to them and extend the federal unemployment insurance payments, stop this effort to deny working people overtime pay, work with us in a bipartisan way to create and keep good jobs here in America and make affordable health care and child care available for working families.

VIOLENCE IN FALLUJAH

Mr. President, today, I offer my condolences to the families of the nine Americans who lost their lives in Iraq yesterday.

Five Marines were killed in the most deadly car bombing our forces in Iraq have yet seen in the 11 months since the fall of the Saddam Hussein regime.

In addition, yesterday four private security contractors were attacked and brutally killed by a mob in Fallujah.

The barbarity of these acts is shocking, and it reminds us of the courage of the men and women—both civilian and military—serving in Iraq, working to bring freedom to the Iraqi people.

Every day, our soldiers and the private contractors engaged in the work of serving our military and rebuilding Iraq face the fear of violence.

Yet every day, they go about their work with skill and resolve because they understand that their efforts are building a safer Iraq, and a more secure Middle East.

The cost to our Nation has been profound.

Six hundred American service men and women have lost their lives since the beginning of hostilities.

Over 3,000 soldiers have been wounded.

Just over the weekend, in fact, a young man from my hometown of Aberdeen, SD, Sergeant Sean Lessin, sustained a severe head injury in the course of his duties in Iraq.

Sgt. Lessin is a member of the 147th Field Artillery Unit and is now receiving treatment at the U.S. Military Combat Support Hospital in Baghdad.

Our thoughts and prayers go out to Sgt. Lessin and his wife Jessica in Aberdeen.

Someone once wrote that "True heroism is remarkably sober, very undramatic. It is not the urge to surpass all others at whatever cost, but the urge to serve others at whatever cost."

The Americans who lost their lives yesterday—indeed, all those serving their Nation in Iraq—are true heroes.

At times such as these, when our Nation faces great challenges, the loss of such heroes is particularly painful, because they are so rare, and so important.

To the families of those killed, we offer our deepest condolences and our unbounded thanks for the sacrifice your loved ones have made.

To the men and women still serving in Iraq, you have the thanks and admiration of your Nation.

We recognize the escalating violence you face, and we will spare no effort to ensure that you have every tool, every resource, every possible advantage we can offer to help you complete your work and return home safely to your loved ones.

America will not be intimidated by barbaric acts whose only goal is to spread fear and chaos throughout Iraq.

Yesterday's events will only serve to strengthen America's resolve and seal America's unity.

The brave people who lost their lives did not die in vain.

Americans stand together today and always to finish the work we started and bring peace and democracy to the citizens of Iraq.

I yield the floor.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the Senator WYDEN's amendment to the PRIDE Act that provides States the option to extend current TANF waivers and create additional waiver authority.

Virginia has been a leader in many important national reform movements throughout the history of our country. In February of 1995, during my tenure as Governor of the Commonwealth, Virginia enacted one of the most principled, tough, comprehensive welfare reform measures in the United States. It was a tough fight to get this measure passed by a Democrat led General Assembly.

Many other States enacted successful reforms and our approach and that of Wisconsin and Massachusetts served as a model for the entire Nation and encouraged self-sufficiency, the dignity of work and the pride of independence rather than dependence.

The "Virginia Independence Program" transformed an outdated welfare system that was failing taxpayers, sapping initiative from welfare recipients, and breaking up families. I have had many former welfare recipients thank me for ending the downward cycle of dependency and despair.

Unlike the Federal work requirement outlined in the 1996 law, able-bodied recipients in Virginia were required work within 90 days, the State had a 2-year limit on benefits, with transition assistance in the third year and promoted individual responsibility by allowing no increase in State benefits for recipients who have more children while receiving welfare.

Vital reforms were made for children. Virginia ended the marriage penalty, increased enforcement of child support by suspending professional and driver's licenses for "deadbeat" parents, required mothers to identify the father to receive benefits, or receive no benefits—this led to 99 percent identification and more child support.

Finally, the law required that minor-age mothers having children while on welfare must live with a parent or guardian and stay in school, more commonly referred to as "Learnfare".

These reforms resulted in a 60 percent decrease in welfare rolls, and saved more than $357 million in taxpayer funds in Virginia which were used for other priorities in education and law enforcement. Ultimately, I measure our success not by how many people are receiving welfare checks, but rather by how many people are leading independent, self-reliant lives.

Virginia's trailblazing welfare reform has been extremely successful in setting the stage for Federal welfare overhaul, significant declines in welfare roles nationwide, and increasing the number of former welfare recipients getting back to work. Virginia's waiver from Federal law has enabled much of the success in requiring able-bodied men and women to work for their benefits.

With the passage of the Federal welfare reform in the fall of 1996, Congress intended to give the States flexibility with the law. Flexibility through these waivers has allowed States the ability to develop innovative programs that best serve their citizens. Fifteen other States opted for waivers. Indeed, Virginia has far exceeded the goal of the Federal welfare legislation offering Virginians the best tools to provide for themselves and their families.

As of June 2003, Virginia's welfare waiver expired. It is imperative that the PRIDE Act, a continuation of welfare reform started in 1996, include waivers for States that have taken the initiative to make comprehensive welfare reforms. We need to ensure that States can continue to encourage independence through work, promote families and marriage and guarantee child-support enforcement.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment so that States can maintain these positive results and successful welfare reforms.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the extension of the temporary extended unemployment compensation program, which expires today. I support this effort because, in my view, we still face an extremely serious problem of unemployment in the United States, specifically as it relates to the number of workers who have exhausted their unemployment insurance benefits and are still unable to find work.

The Democrats have tried to extend this program through unanimous consent at least a dozen times this winter and the effort has been rejected by Republican leadership every time. We tried in February of this year. We tried in January of this year. And we tried a number of times in November 2003. Each time the other side of the aisle said the program was no longer needed. Even worse, they said that extension of the program would only give incentives to workers to stay home instead of look for work. This is a very different view of American workers than I have.

According to the latest data from the Department of Labor, between December and February there will be at least 781,000 workers that will have exhausted their regular State benefits and will go without additional Federal unemployment assistance. Based on extrapolations from that analysis, the Center for Budget and Policy Priorities argues that with each week that goes by, another 80,000 workers will be added to this list. In no other comparable data on record has there been this many "exhaustees."

In my State of New Mexico, it is estimated that 4,300 workers have exhausted their benefits from December 2003 through March 2004. Through September 2004, it is estimated that 7,200 workers will have exhausted their benefits. In a State where the most recent unemployment rate is 5.7 percent and jobs are very difficult to come by, this is hardly an encouraging figure.

The Bush administration has argued that extension of the TEUC program is not necessary because the unemployment rate is low and the economy is growing. They suggested again and again that we are on the verge of an economic recovery and jobs are being created. I respectfully disagree.

In 2001, the Bush administration claimed that their tax cuts would create at least 800,000 jobs by 2002. That did not happen. In 2002, the Bush administration claimed that 3 million jobs would be created in 2003. That did not happen. In February, the Bush administration claimed in their economic report that 2.6 million jobs will be created in 2004, but everyone in the administration quickly backed away from that number. No one truly believes that this will happen.

Given the lack of coherent or comprehensive policy proposals by the administration, I say it is time we in Congress act to address job creation and help the victims of their failed policies. Extending the temporary emergency unemployment compensation program is, in my view, the least we can do for Americans that have been attempting to find work but cannot do so. As a practical matter, this means workers can continue to get unemployment insurance benefits while they continue to search for work.

So I want to add my voice to the others today and say that we must pass this legislation before it expires. American workers deserve to be dealt with in a fair and equitable manner, especially in this time of need. They need a lifeline, and it is up to us to provide it.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to a period of morning business with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2003

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about the need for hate crimes legislation. On May 1, 2003, Senator KENNEDY and I introduced the Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act, a bill that would add new categories to current hate crimes law, sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

On July 4, 2000, an 18-year-old Brooklyn man was charged with allegedly slashing three men and threatening the life of another because he believed the men to be gay.

I believe that Government's first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act is a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

DECRYING THE ETHNIC VIOLENCE IN KOSOVO

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I rise today to condemn in the strongest possible terms the violence 2 weeks ago in Kosovo, which claimed the lives of 20 persons, injured more than 600 others, displaced more than 4,000 individuals, destroyed more than 500 homes, and destroyed or damaged more than 30 churches and monasteries.

In a reversal of the brutal murders and ethnic cleansing carried out in 1998 and 1999 against Kosovar Albanians by the forces of former Serbian strongman Slobodan Milosevic, the perpetrators of this violence were the former victims—the ethnic Albanians. Their principal targets were Kosovo Serbs, although Ashkali and other minorities in the province also suffered.

There is no way to gloss over or disguise these events: They are a disaster of the first magnitude. Five years ago last week, I submitted the resolution that was adopted by this body, authorizing military action against the Milosevic government in order to rescue the persecuted Kosovar Albanians. Over the subsequent eleven weeks the United States and its allies successfully waged an air war, which resulted in the withdrawal of Serbian forces from Kosovo. A United Nations Security Council Resolution created a protectorate administered by the United Nations Interim Administration in Kosovo—known popularly by its acronym UNMIK—under the military protection of NATO's Kosovo Force or KFOR.

Since the summer of 1999 the international community, working through these civilian and military structures, has attempted to pacify and stabilize the situation, rebuild the shattered infrastructure, and help guide the embittered and traumatized population toward eventual democratic self-rule. Resolution of Kosovo's final status was understandably deferred until significant progress was achieved.

From thousands of miles away it is difficult to appreciate the scope of the effort that the international community has devoted to Kosovo. I might offer a very personal example. My older son, Beau, served for nearly a year in UNMIK as a lawyer, helping the Kosovars to build a legal system that would impartially dispense justice to all inhabitants of the province. Tens of thousands of other Americans, together with citizens of dozens of other countries, have similarly worked in civilian and military capacities for the last five years.

Although there has, in fact, been considerable progress in several areas, the recent violence graphically demonstrates that, on the whole, the effort is in danger of failing. The economy is in sad shape with more than half the population unemployed. Kosovar Albanians complain that the lack of action on final status has choked off any significant direct foreign investment, which is the sine qua non for economic development. But it would be irresponsible to move to final status before stability and democracy have been achieved—as clearly they have not yet been.

So where do we go from here? Kosovo is a complex problem, for which there are no simple answers. In fact, every policy in the short run carries significant downside potential. Nonetheless, we must immediately take several steps.

First of all, through KFOR and UNMIK, we must make it unmistakably clear to all the citizens of Kosovo that the violence must cease completely.

Second, all citizens of Kosovo must cooperate with KFOR, UNMIK, and the Kosovo police in identifying for prosecution the perpetrators of violence and the destruction of property.

Third, all displaced persons and refugees must be returned to their former towns and villages, guaranteed their personal safety, and granted assistance to rebuild their homes as speedily as possible. In this regard, I am encouraged by the commitment made by the Kosovo Assembly to establish a fund for the reconstruction of homes, churches, and other property destroyed during the March attacks.

Fourth, the United Nations should undertake a review of the structure and organization of UNMIK.

Fifth, the authorities in Pristina and Belgrade should reinvigorate and intensify their dialogue.

A resolution submitted by my good friend from Ohio, Senator VOINOVICH, and of which I am an original co-sponsor, makes many of these points.

I would add a few more important policy recommendations.

The so-called “benchmarks” established by UNMIK must be reviewed. I have supported the policy of “standards before status” whereby Kosovo must fulfill rigorous goals before the province’s final status is considered. I still believe that, in general, this is the correct course. The precipitous calls by some people for abandonment of the benchmarks and rapid independence for Kosovo would, I believe, be a cure worse than the disease. The international community simply cannot reward murder and violence. “Riots before status” is not the answer.

Nonetheless, I believe that the UNMIK benchmarks have been too elaborately constructed. Few countries could completely fulfill their requirements. In the wake of the violence, the benchmarks should be streamlined and prioritized, with emphasis given to personal security, minority rights, and some kind of decentralization of government, although not the apartheid-like “cantonization” being demanded by politicians in Serbia.

If by the middle of 2005 the benchmarks on personal security and minority rights can be completely fulfilled, and significant progress made on the other benchmarks, then discussion of final status for Kosovo can begin.

We should do our best to strengthen the moderates in Kosovo and Serbia, but there are, unfortunately, very few such “good guys” on the political scene in Pristina and Belgrade. Short-term political expediency seems to trump principle, despite the occasional lofty sounding speeches. Most Kosovar Albanian leaders hesitated before publicly condemning the ethnic violence, Prime Minister Rexhepi being a very positive and conspicuous exception. General Ceku’s call for restraint on the part of members of the Kosovo Protection Corps was also helpful. In the future, all Kosovar leaders must get the message that rewards will flow to those who genuinely try to build a peaceful, democratic, multi-ethnic society.

It would be easier to be sympathetic to the cries from Belgrade to defend and give special rights to the Kosovo Serbs if Serbian politicians had not been so demagogically nationalistic in the weeks and months prior to the violence. The new Serbian Government led by Prime Minister Kostunica seems hell-bent on insulting the very international community that it needs for support in the Kosovo question, and in other matters.

Above all, the Kostunica administration has repeatedly thumbed its nose at the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia. In a speech in late February, Kostunica himself candidly explained: “This country is not a simple deliverer of human goods to The Hague tribunal.” No political campaign can justify this kind of know-nothing jingoism.

Then just last Tuesday the Serbian Parliament outdid even Kostunica’s blustering when it voted by a wide margin to pay all Serbian war crimes indictees at ICTY “compensation for lost salaries, plus help for spouses, siblings, parents, and children for flight and hotel costs, telephone and mail bills, visa fees, and legal charges.” The measure was supported by deputies from the parties of ultra-nationalist Vojislav Seselj and of Milosevic. Both these gentlemen, of course, are currently residing in prison in The Hague. The party of Prime Minister Kostunica joined in voting for this measure, which, were it not so grotesque, might almost be labeled comic opera.

As long as up to 16 indictees, including three former Serbian generals, are openly living in Serbia, and the “butcher of Bosnia,” former General Ratko Mladic, is also probably there, the Serbian Government cannot expect much international support. The U.S. Government has just announced that it is suspending all economic assistance not used for democratizing purposes because of Belgrade’s unsatisfactory level of compliance with ICTY, and until it cooperates fully, Serbia will not be allowed to join NATO’s Partnership for Peace.

We can take some solace in the opposition to the Serbian Parliament’s resolution by a few smaller parties, including that of Defense Minister Boris Tadic, a genuine democrat and man of principle. During the Kosovo violence, Tadic, who has carried out a vigorous reform of the Serbian military and security services, proved that he has instituted civilian control by keeping the lid on hotheads calling for intervention, reportedly in cooperation with U.S. Admiral Gregory Johnson, NATO’s AFSOUTH Commander. There is a chance that later this year Mr. Tadic may run for President of Serbia against a candidate of Seselj’s party.

In order to get Kosovo back onto the right path, the U.S. Government must alter its policy. And make no mistake about it: Kosovo matters. It matters to the people of Kosovo. It matters to the people of Serbia. It matters to the stability of the entire area of the former Yugoslavia. It matters to the Balkans, since Serbia is the key to regional stability, and because the fate of Kosovo directly impacts ethnic Albanians in neighboring Albania, in the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, in southern Serbia, and in Montenegro. In that context, Kosovo matters to the security of all of Europe and, hence, to the security of the United States of America.

One thing is crystal clear: the Bush administration can no longer afford to relegate Kosovo, Serbia and Montenegro, and Macedonia to the back burner of its international concerns. The administration has been living in an ideologically driven dreamworld in which victory in the Balkans was prematurely declared in order to get on with perceived higher priorities like national missile defense.

Lest anyone think I am criticizing the focus on the war on terrorism in Central Asia and the Middle East, I am not. As early as the fall 2000 election campaign—nearly one year before the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001—Presidential candidate George W. Bush announced that he would unilaterally withdraw U.S. ground forces from the NATO-led peacekeeping operations in Bosnia and Kosovo. His future National Security Advisor Dr. Rice echoed this misguided notion in a newspaper interview. The following spring, Defense Secretary Rumsfeld, flying in the face of all objective evidence, declared that the problem of Bosnia had been settled three or four years earlier. Even in this body resolutions for withdrawal of U.S. forces were periodically submitted, but, I am happy to say, rejected.

Now we are waging war, attempting to quell resistance movements in Afghanistan and Iraq. We all know that our armed forces are stretched perilously thin, and obviously some troop adjustments have had to be made. U.S. forces in Bosnia have been reduced to little more than one thousand, or about 5 percent of their initial strength. Later this year NATO will turn over command of SFOR to the European Union, although some American troops will remain at our base in Tuzla, at the request of the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Let me repeat that for my colleagues: the Government of Bosnia and Herzegovina, with the representatives of all three major groups—the Bosnian Muslims, Serbs, and Croats—concurring, requested that American troops stay on in Bosnia after the EU takes command of the peacekeeping force. The fact is that the United States has stature unequalled in that part of the world perhaps even higher in Kosovo than in Bosnia.

As in SFOR, we have drastically reduced our troop strength in KFOR. Given the events of the past few weeks, we dare not reduce it further. KFOR troops played a key role in quelling the Kosovo violence. I am told that of the various national contingents, American KFOR troops especially distinguished themselves.

Further proof of the Bush administration's downgrading the importance of the region was its abolishing the position of Special Coordinator for the Balkans. This position should be reinstated and filled by a senior career diplomat with extensive experience in Balkan affairs.

This new Special Coordinator should immediately engage the political leadership in Pristina and Belgrade in serious dialogue. I do not want to prejudge what the final international legal status of Kosovo will be, although I cannot imagine that Kosovo will ever revert to direct control from Belgrade. Whatever the end result, direct negotiations between Pristina and Belgrade must be an integral part of the process. No other path would stand the test of time.

The United States was Serbia's ally in two world wars in the first half of the twentieth century. The United States is revered by Kosovar Albanians as their savior from the recent tyranny of Slobodan Milosevic. We have earned a credibility that no other country, or group of countries, possesses.

This administration should utilize this unique position, in coordination with other members of the contact group, to jumpstart the process of creating a safe, prosperous, democratic, multi-ethnic Kosovo.

GREY BERETS RISKED ALL IN IRAQ WAR

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, we have all heard the expression that "knowledge is power." At no time is this more true than when we are at war. Our military uses satellites, reconnaissance aircraft, remote sensing devices, and long-range patrols to learn where the enemy is, what he is doing, and how we can kill him.

But there is another type of knowledge which is just as essential if we are to be successful in combat. The side which knows and understands the weather the best has a large advantage.

Now, I know some may reply that we do not need to be concerned about the weather. We have smart bombs, stealth fighters and guided missiles. We have sensing devices which let us see in the darkness. But despite this high technology, we still have to give Mother Nature her due. Rain, clouds and low visibility can still ground aircraft or hamper operations. High temperatures affect men and equipment. Dust storms can rapidly render sophisticated machines and electronics unusable.

Our troops faced many weather extremes as we prepared for the start of Operation Iraqi Freedom a year ago. Extreme heat, thunderstorms, and dust storms all threatened operations. To learn more about Iraq's weather and to gather the data necessary to predict, if possible, weather patterns in that country, a group of brave meteorologists dropped behind enemy lines. They fed their information to the Air Force's 28th Operational Weather Squadron, known as "The Hub."

As detailed in a special being carried by the Weather Channel, the United States Air Force dropped its Special Operations Forces Weathermen, known as the "Grey Berets," behind enemy lines weeks before the beginning of armed conflict. The Grey Berets took exceptional risks to gather the data necessary for our Army, Navy and Air Force to conduct operations. For example, 5 days before the land invasion started, Grey Beret Sgt Charles Rushing waded ashore to gather information on fog, surf, and currents to enable a helicopter assault team to successfully seize key Iraqi refineries on the Al-Faw peninsula before Iraqi troops blew them up.

After the war began, the Hub reported on the biggest dust storm to hit the region in 30 years. The storm, covering over 300 miles, shredded tents and clogged engines and lungs. To the north, the storm created other problems, by dumping snow and sleet on Bashur Airport, the target of the most ambitious combat paratroop assault since World War II. The 173d Airborne brigade was flying toward a mountainous drop zone while Cpt John Roberts, chief Grey Beret weather forecaster, had to make a call on whether the weather would lift long enough for 1,000 paratroopers to safely make their jump.

The actions and decisions of these two men are just two examples where our Grey Berets helped ensure the success of our troops. There are many, many more.

Mr. President, I commend the Grey Berets for their heroism and professionalism and their contributions to our armed services. I also thank the Weather Channel for bringing their achievements to wider public notice.

S. 275, THE PROFESSIONAL BOXING AMENDMENTS ACT

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I am pleased that the Senate has agreed by unanimous consent to pass S. 275, the Professional Boxing Amendments Act of 2004 (Act). I would like to thank the bill's cosponsors, Senators STEVENS, DORGAN, and REID for their commitment to professional boxing and the warriors who sustain the sport.

This amendment is designed to strengthen existing Federal boxing laws by making uniform certain health and safety standards, establishing a centralized medical registry to be used by local commissions to protect boxers, reducing arbitrary practices of sanctioning organizations, and providing uniformity in ranking criteria and contractual guidelines. It also would establish a Federal entity, the United States Boxing Commission—USBC—to promulgate minimum uniform standards for professional boxing and enforce Federal boxing laws.

Over the past 7 years, the Commerce Committee has taken action to address the problems that plague the sport of professional boxing. The committee has already developed two Federal boxing laws that have been enacted, the Professional Boxing Safety Act of 1996, and the Muhammad Ali Boxing Reform Act of 2000. These laws established minimum uniform standards to improve the health and safety of boxers, and to better protect them from the often coercive, exploitative, and unethical business practices of promoters, managers, and sanctioning organizations. While these laws have had a positive impact on professional boxing, the sport remains beset by a variety of problems, some beyond the scope of local regulation.

Promoters continue to steal fighters from each other, sanctioning organizations make unmerited ratings changes without offering adequate explanations, promoters refuse to pay fighters who have put their lives on the line, local boxing commissions fail to ensure the protection of boxers' health and safety, boxers are contractually and financially exploited, and the list continues. Most recently, we have learned of a federal law enforcement investigation that reportedly may yield a dozen or more indictments for charges of fight fixing.

All too often my office receives a call from a parent whose child was killed in a match asking why proper medical or safety precautions were not taken by the local commission with jurisdiction, or from a boxer who has worked tirelessly to escape poverty, only to find themselves subject to the exploitation of the unscrupulous few who control the sport.

Professional boxing is the only major sport in the United States that does not have a strong, centralized association or league to establish and enforce uniform rules and practices. There is no widely established union of boxers, no collective body of promoters or managers, and no consistent level of regulation among state and tribal commissions. Due to the lack of uniform business practices or ethical standards, the sport of boxing has suffered from the physical and financial exploitation of its athletes.

The General Accounting Office confirmed in a July 2003 report on professional boxing regulation that, because professional boxing is regulated predominantly on a state-by-state basis, there is a varying degree of oversight depending on the resources and priorities of each state or tribal commission. The report also indicates that the lack of consistency in compliance with Federal boxing law among state and tribal commissions "does not provide adequate assurance that professional boxers are receiving the minimum protections established in Federal law."

The consequences of this vacuum of effective public or private oversight has led to decades of scandals, controversies, unethical practices, and far too many unnecessary deaths in professional boxing. Yet another tragic, but precise example, of poor local regulation occurred just last year in Utah where a 35-year-old boxer collapsed and died in a boxing ring. The young man should never have been allowed to participate in the bout given that he had suffered 25 consecutive losses over a three-year period leading up to the fight, including a loss only one month earlier to the same opponent against whom he was fighting when he died. While tragic in its own right, this is merely one in a seemingly endless series of incidents that continue to occur as a direct result of inadequate state regulation.

This measure would improve existing boxing law, and also establish the USBC. The primary functions of the commission would be to protect the health, safety, and general interests of boxers. More specifically, the USBC would, among other things: administer Federal boxing laws and coordinate with other federal agencies to ensure that these laws are enforced; oversee all professional boxing matches in the United States; and work with the boxing industry and local commissions to improve the status and standards of the sport. The USBC also would maintain a centralized database of medical and statistical information pertaining to boxers in the United States that would be used confidentially by local commissions in making licensing decisions.

There has been quite a bit of confusion among local boxing commissions regarding the effect that this bill would have on them. Let me be clear. The purpose of the USBC would not be intended to micro-manage boxing by interfering with the daily operations of local boxing commissions. Instead, the USBC would work in consultation with local commissions, and only exercise its authority should reasonable grounds exist for intervention.

The problems that plague the sport of professional boxing compromise the safety of boxers and undermine the credibility of the sport in the public's view. This bill is urgently needed to provide a realistic approach to curbing such problems.

Mr. DORGAN. I am pleased to support with my colleague, Senator MCCAIN, the Professional Boxing Amendments Act of 2003.

This is an issue that we have now been examining for some time, and I am pleased that the Senate is moving this legislation forward.

The Senate Commerce Committee had the opportunity over the past years to spend time with figures such as Roy Jones Junior, Muhammad Ali, Bert Sugar, Lou Dibella, and Bernard Hopkins, and we heard some things that caused great concern.

I grew up as a boxing fan who wants to see the sport succeed, but I have worried about how the sport is doing, and I believe this legislation will take an important step.

Professional boxing is the only major sport in the United States that does not have a strong, centralized association or league to establish and enforce uniform rules and practices for its participants. There is no union, no organization that polices promoters or managers, and unfortunately no consistent level of state regulation among the state athletic commissions.

Part of the problem is the alphabet soup of 29 sanctioning bodies—all with different titles and rankings—and another part is a lack of faith that anyone, not the state commissions, managers or promoters are on the up and up.

I believe that a system based on state commissions alone just takes us to the lowest common denominator. We are in desperate need of some basic national standards and uniform enforcement.

There continue to be stories about how some people are exploiting the patchwork of federal and state boxing regulations to the detriment of boxers and their fans.

This manipulation is often tolerated, or tacitly permitted by the state boxing commissions, and too often current laws are rarely enforced by the state attorneys general, or the U.S. Attorney's office who are too busy or just not interested.

This bill will create a United States Boxing Commission to oversee the sport. The federal Commission would have the responsibility to license promoters, managers, and sanctioning organizations. The Commission would be able to keep things in line by revoking or suspending licenses as situations warrant.

It is imperative that we establish this federal mechanism in order to protect not only the boxers, but also the overall integrity of the sport.

QUESTIONS ABOUT IRAQ AID REQUEST

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I want to discuss an issue concerning U.S. efforts to rebuild Iraq. Before I begin, however, I want to again recognize the bravery and sacrifices that are being made every day by Americans and Iraqis, and especially those who have been killed or wounded. There have been, almost daily, horrific, cowardly acts of terrorism, increasingly aimed at citizens. The appalling attacks this week, where the bodies of Americans were dragged through the streets, disgust and deeply sadden us all. My deepest condolences go out to the families and friends of those who have died.

Yesterday, the Inspector General of the Coalition Provisional Authority, CPA-IG, issued his first report on the reconstruction efforts in Iraq. I want to remind people that it was Senator FEINGOLD, and later in the process, Senator STEVENS, not the Bush administration, who worked hard to establish the CPA-IG office during the debate on the Iraq supplemental. I had the privilege of working with Senator FEINGOLD to help draft some of the provisions of his amendment, and he, along with Senators STEVENS, are to be commended for their leadership on this issue.

Page 33 of the CPA-IG's report contains a table, and I ask unanimous consent that it be printed in the RECORD following my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, so ordered.

(See exhibit 1).

Mr. LEAHY. The information it contains concerns me, as it should every Senator. It shows that, as of February 29, 2004, nearly 4 months after President Bush signed the Iraq supplemental into law, only $900 million of the $18.4 billion appropriated for reconstruction programs has been obligated, less than 5 percent.

At a time when security is the most critical issue in Iraq, sadly demonstrated by this week's tragic attacks in which nine Americans were killed, the administration has obligated only $292 million of the $3.24 billion for "security and law enforcement," less than 10 percent of the total appropriated. This is money that is supposed to go for training a new Iraqi army and police force to reduce the risks to American soldiers and civilians working in Iraq. On top of this, only $25 million for "justice, public safety, and civil society" has been obligated. This is less than 3 percent of the $1 billion appropriated.

Not one dime of the $1.85 billion appropriated in the supplemental has been obligated for "health care," "private sector development," "roads, bridges and construction," and "transportation and telecommunications."

It would be one thing if the administration had warned us they were going to have trouble spending the $18 billion, but they said the opposite. They told us these funds were urgent. It was "an emergency." The money had to be appropriated immediately, and not one dime less than the amount requested. There was no time for Congress to carefully consider this legislation. It had to be rammed through as fast as possible.

The administration resisted accountability for how it would spend these billions and billions of dollars, and that fact was, and is, a major concern that many in the Senate have had about that supplemental appropriations bill.

In a letter to Congress on September 17, 2003, the President stated: "This request reflects urgent and essential requirements. I ask the Congress to appropriate the funds as requested, and promptly return the bill to me for signature."

Ambassador Bremer testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on September 24, 2003: "No one part of this $87 billion supplemental is dispensable, and no part is more important than the others . . . This is a carefully considered, integrated request. This request is urgent. The urgency of military operations is self-evident. The funds for nonmilitary action in Iraq are equally urgent. Unless this supplemental passes quickly, Iraqis face an indefinite period with blackouts eight hours a day. The link to the safety of our troops is indirect but no less real."

I would point out to Ambassador Bremer, who I respect a great deal, that less than 8 percent of the funds for "electricity" have been obligated. That is $428 million out of $5.6 billion.

I could go on, but by now the point is clear: If every dime of the $18 billion was so necessary, as a lump sum, to pay for the reconstruction of Iraq this year, why then has so little been obligated nearly 4 months after the President signed the bill?

I did not vote for the $18 billion and at the time I discussed my reasons in detail. But one of the reasons was that it was obvious that the White House was asking for far more than they could effectively use this year because they did not want to revisit this issue in an election year. They did not want to have to defend this controversial program again in the court of public opinion. They did not want the accountability that should accompany the spending of such large sums.

This is one Senator who does not believe we should spend billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money without proper accountability. We all knew we would have to spend billions to help rebuild Iraq. But the issue was how many billions, over what period of time, and how to pay for it in a time of rising deficits. Back when we were asked to vote on the supplemental, I urged, as did others, that because the situation in Iraq was, and is, so unpredictable, that we appropriate only as much as could be effectively used. I said that we should then revisit the issue this year, see how the funds were being used, make any necessary adjustments to the reconstruction program, count what other nations were contributing, and then decide how much additional U.S. funding this year would be needed to fill gaps in resources.

But the White House would have none of that. The President insisted on getting every dime up front, paid for by increasing the deficit rather than reducing the President's tax cut for the wealthiest Americans, even though, as the CPA-IG and OMB reports clearly show, they cannot possibly spend it all this year. They probably will not be able to spend half of it. All that talk about how this had to be done in the blink of an eye and without adequate checks and balances was baloney.

Congress received some of the first indications that the administration was going to have trouble handling all of this money when the Office of Management and Budget published a plan, on January 5, 2004, that projected CPA spending at a modest $1.4 billion by the end of the first quarter. The CPA-IG report confirms that the administration is having difficulty handling all of this money, as many of us predicted.

We all want this money spent wisely, and no one wants any administration to spend money for the sake of spending money. Also, this is not to take anything away from the brave men and women who are working so hard, under extremely difficult conditions, to rebuild Iraq.

But the issue exposed by this report is not the administration's spending rate in Iraq. The issue it exposes is the administration's credibility. It seems self-evident that a large portion of the money was not as urgently needed as administration officials insisted at the time, or the CPA, as press reports have suggested, is tied up in bureaucratic knots and is not able to move fast enough to rebuild Iraq. I submit that the answer is both of the above, but I will let the numbers speak for themselves.

Perhaps we will see a large ramping up of spending in the second quarter, as the administration suggests it will do according to OMB's spending plan. Perhaps the administration can provide a good explanation for why these projects have proceeded so slowly. But regardless, it is clear that Congress could, and I believe should, have appropriated only a portion of the money last year. There is plenty of opportunity to act on another supplemental this year, instead of frittering away the Senate's time on hot-button political issues designed to score points in an election year.

I believe the Congress can encourage the administration to do better in Iraq, shaping a more effective strategy in the process. This Vermonter believes that more debate, more transparency, and even a dose of frugality, especially when it comes to spending $18 billion of the taxpayers' money would be a good thing.

I yield the floor.

EXHIBIT 1

The CPA has allocated $7.9 billion of the $18.4 billion. Additionally, the CPA has established a $4 billion reserve. Table 8 below contains more detail on program status.

INTERNATIONAL ATOMIC ENERGY AGENCY SAFEGUARDS AGREEMENT

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate the Senate for ratifying the International Atomic Energy Agency—IAEA—Safeguards Agreement by unanimous consent last night.

The Additional Protocol will augment the IAEA's safeguards monitoring system and provide early warning about illicit nuclear weapons-related activities under the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty.

By acting swiftly to ratify the treaty, the United States Senate has sent a clear signal to the international community that the United States is committed to not only maintaining a leadership role in the effort to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons but also to work closely with other nations in that endeavor.

We know that we cannot go it alone and we will need the help of our friends and allies.

In addition, the Additional Protocol will strengthen the IAEA in its work in dealing with nuclear programs in Iran, Libya and elsewhere and encourage other countries to ratify their own additional protocols.

Clearly, there is much work to be done and the international community will face additional challenges in the near future. Nevertheless, I am pleased that the United States Senate has taken this important step to protect our citizens and our national security interests.

STOCK OPTION ACCOUNTING REFORM ACT

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I rise in support of S. 1890, the Stock Option Accounting Reform Act. I am pleased to cosponsor this important legislation, and I applaud the distinguished Senator from Wyoming, Senator ENZI, and the distinguished Democratic whip for their leadership.

I urge all my colleagues to pay close attention to this legislation, and to join those of us who believe that the mandatory expensing of stock options would harm American companies, and more importantly, harm American workers who benefit from the issuance of stock options from their employers.

The Financial Accounting Standards Board—FASB—may soon take action that would require public companies to record employee stock options as an expense. This will unequivocally impede economic growth and stifle the economic recovery of our high-tech sector as well as other industries.

As a result of FASB's proposal, companies will take a massive earnings charge based on stock option "costs". Just as we hope to turn the corner, the tech industry will be disproportionately hit with phantom costs that will undermine general investor confidence in the tech recovery.

Expensing will destroy our partnership culture of distributing stock options to our entire workforce. We know from empirical research that broad-based employee ownership delivers higher returns to shareholders, greater productivity, and increased returns on equity.

In addition, small companies and start-ups, which depend on employee stock options to attract the smartest and brightest, will be dealt a detrimental blow. The costs associated with the implementation of this new rule will inhibit small business growth. In a time when the United States is struggling to keep more jobs in America, this proposal undermines U.S. competitiveness.

Talented and skilled U.S. workers will be forced to look to our competitors, countries such as Taiwan and Singapore, for high paying technology based employment.

It is imperative that the United States retains its status as a global technology leader. Innovation and hard work are two basic fundamentals that founded our country. Broad based employee stock options provide incentives for workers to work harder, promote savings and serve as an incentive for creating new ideas, which ultimately promotes economic growth.

I commend my colleagues for introducing this important piece of legislation, and it is my hope that you will join me in voting in favor of S. 1890.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, our worse fears about FASB's seemingly predetermined crusade against stock options have unfortunately proven true. As expected, FASB has released a proposed expensing rule for stock options that is a lose-lose for individual investors and the American economy.

Trial lawyers are gearing up for the biggest windfall of the 21st Century. They will be the only winners in this misguided action. FASB's proposed rule would allow companies to either use Black Scholes or a Binomial method to expense options. Both are flawed models and will yield very different and certainly inaccurate results.

There is no question that market capital will be destroyed when these flawed numbers hit financial statements. Because companies have to choose the method they use to expense, and the inputs that feed into that flawed model, they will most certainly be barraged by class action lawsuits from greedy trial lawyers who will exploit the difficult decisions that FASB is going to force companies to make.

Ironically, despite FASB's stated goal of improving information for investors, individual investors will now have absolutely no ability to make meaningful comparisons between companies. Different companies using different flawed valuation models will confuse and mislead the very people FASB purports to help.

Our technology sector is on the cusp of recovery. We cannot afford to let bad accounting destroy jobs and cripple our global competitiveness. There are bigger picture issues here that FASB is neither tasked with examining, nor equipped to look at. That is the responsibility of the Congress and Administration.

This move represents a tremendous threat to our global competitiveness. Communist China has, as a part of their 5 year plan, the use of stock options. They are setting out to duplicate the success of our very own Silicon Valley and stock options are at the very heart of the Chinese government plan.

This is not about executive compensation. That is a separate and distinct issue. WorldCom and Enron had nothing to do with stock options. In fact, the Enzi-Baker bill says go ahead and expense for the top 5 executives. This is about small businesses and rank and file workers and preserving their ability to use this powerful tool for innovation and growth. This is about preserving broad-based employee stock ownership plans.

Make no mistake about it. If FASB's rule goes into effect, rank and file workers are the ones that will suffer. We need to support policies that create jobs and wealth for Americans, not destroy them.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, yesterday the Financial Accounting Standards Board, FASB, released an exposure draft of a rule that will require companies to treat employee stock options as an accounting expense. I find this proposal fundamentally flawed for a number of reasons and urge my colleagues to support legislation to prevent this from becoming a reality.

During my time as Governor of Virginia, I witnessed unparalleled growth in the technology sector of my State's economy. Many new and exciting businesses brought their products, services, and, most importantly, jobs to Virginia.

Many of these technology companies that located to Virginia were small "start-ups" with little more than a good idea and the willingness to take a risk for the hope of reward later. These technology companies contributed greatly to the tremendous economic expansion witnessed during the 1990s.

However, technology companies were able to attract and retain top talent and key directors without having to raise large amounts of capital by granting employee stock options. In the end, shareholders and employees won. Employee stock options granted by many technology companies were awarded broadly to employees not only to give them an ownership interest in the company, but also to better align the interests of employees and shareholders.

I think employee ownership and incentives are great. It is desirable to have motivated employees caring about the success of their company. Broad-based employee stock options give employees—from the newly graduated worker to the experienced CEO—ownership in the company. Indeed, a well-respected technology CEO has said that employees with stock options are like homeowners, whereas those without stock options are like renters—there is a difference in the attitude, commitment and level of entrepreneurial spirit. The proposed FASB action will destroy our partnership culture of distributing stock options to the entire workforce of a company. Broad-based employee ownership delivers higher returns to shareholders, greater productivity, increased return on equity, and higher returns on assets.

Unfortunately, the unelected officials of the Financial Accounting Standards Board want to bring this era to an end. In their effort to treat employee stock options as an accounting expense, they are disregarding three fundamental issues. First, employee options are not freely tradable. How do you value something that has no market? How do you put a price on something if it is not for sale? The answer is that you cannot. There is no accurate way to value these options without an open market.

Second, employee stock options are subject to lengthy vesting periods—typically between 4 or 5 years. If the employee changes jobs before the options vest, they are forfeited.

Finally, employee stock options will be exercised only if the stock price rises above the strike price. How does one predict future stock prices with any degree of certainty? There are entire industries dedicated to such a practice, yet I am unaware of anyone who is able to predict with absolute certainty what a stock price will be over a given length of time.

This news is sure to be greeted with joy by our competitors in the Pacific Rim. Entrepreneurs in Taiwan, Singapore and China will not just continue to focus on software development or gene sequencing there. They will create global competitors there which will be listed on those stock markets. They will be free to offer stock options without the burden of expensing and our most talented people will flock there, just as they flocked to the Silicon Valley and Virginia when our technology industries were built.

I find it distressing that a communist country, the People's Republic of China, has companies attracting entrepreneurial people and customers with stock options. Meanwhile, here in America an unelected, prejudicial board wishes to stop such employee ownership, motivation and success to Americans. This proposal will harm the ability of innovative American companies to successfully compete.

Despite the issues I have discussed, FASB is determined to make fundamentally flawed assumptions about future stock price and employment trends. What is more, according to a Bear Stearns report, there will be a 44-percent decline in NASDAQ 100 companies' profits if they would have been required to expense employee stock options in 2003.

I hope my colleagues are aware of the issues and risks posed by moving forward with this flawed proposal. At this time, we need to embrace efforts to keep people working and our economy growing. If FASB is allowed to proceed, the economic effects will be disastrous.

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE JOHN R. LEWIS

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, 5 years ago Salisbury University, which is located in the town of Salisbury on Maryland's Eastern Shore, established PACE, the Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement. PACE has a dual mission: to serve the communities of the Eastern Shore, using campus resources, faculty-student research teams and off-campus opportunities like internships and a voter registration drive to promote responsible citizenship and good government; and to promote the active engagement of students in civic affairs. For Salisbury Professors Harry Basehart, of the political science department, and Francis

Kane, of the philosophy department, who together founded PACE and serve as its co-directors, this is a personal mission as well.

Among PACE's many programs is an annual lecture series that brings to the campus distinguished guests to speak on issues of public life, especially issues that most concern Salisbury's students. The speaker this year, on March 29, was Congressman JOHN R. LEWIS, who represents Georgia's 5th Congressional District and is serving his ninth term.

It is fair to say that in all his life from his childhood in rural Troy, AL, through his years as a student leader in the civil rights movement, to his dedicated service in the Congress Congressman LEWIS has never known a day of lassitude, apathy or indifference. He spoke to Salisbury's students from the perspective of his own student years, and I have rarely seen an audience listen with such focused intensity.

As it happens, I was born and raised in Salisbury. I was deeply honored to have the opportunity to introduce Congressman LEWIS to the Salisbury community, and I ask unanimous consent to print my introductory remarks in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

INTRODUCTION FOR CONGRESSMAN JOHN R. LEWIS, PACE LECTURE, SALISBURY UNIVERSITY

(By Senator Paul S. Sarbanes)

It is pleasure to return to the campus of Salisbury University. As many of you know, coming to Salisbury is as always coming home. My parents had come to this country as immigrants from Greece and they settled in Salisbury. I grew up here and went to Wicomico County's public schools. Lifelong convictions and aspirations first took shape in Salisbury.

Today it is a special pleasure to be here, because I have the signal honor and privilege of introducing my congressional friend and colleague, John R. Lewis, as the third speaker in the annual lecture series sponsored by PACE, this University's Institute for Public Affairs and Civic Engagement.

The purpose of the lecture series is to bring distinguished public figures to the campus to speak on issues of public life. That certainly describes Congressman Lewis, who is serving his ninth term in the House of Representatives as the representative of Georgia's 5th congressional district, which includes the city of Atlanta. Congressman Lewis sits on the Ways and Means and Budget Committees, both with critically important jurisdictions. He is universally respected as a legislator. Most recently he guided to enactment legislation to establish a new National Museum of African American History and Culture. The Museum will take its rightful place among our nation's great Smithsonian Institutions on the Mall.

But as many of you surely know—as I hope all of you know—Congressman Lewis's distinguished record in the House of Representatives is but one part of what makes him so special as this year's PACE lecturer.

When PACE was established 5 years ago, its founders Professors Harry Basehart and Fran Kane said their objective was "to save the next generation from the enervating winds of political apathy and cynicism and to play a part in a revival of civil engagement among our students." Through its many programs, including this lectureship, that is precisely what PACE does.

I think it is fair to say that there has not been a single day in John Lewis's remarkable life which has been marked by cynicism, apathy or disengagement. For the full story, I commend to you his absolutely gripping memoir, Walking with the Wind. But I want to say a few words about it.

In his memoir, Congressman Lewis tells us that his engagement began as he watched the bus boycott in Montgomery, AL, 50 miles from his home in rural Troy. Martin Luther King put words into action, he says, "in a way that set the course of my life from that point on. . . . With all that I have experienced in the past half century, I can still say without question that the Montgomery bus boycott changed my life more than any other event before or since."

John Lewis was then 15 years old. He was setting out on a long and dangerous road with twists and turns, on a journey demanding inexhaustible supplies of moral and also physical courage.

Today we call that road the Civil Rights Movement. It is central to understanding the history of our country in the past 50 years.

Seen from another perspective, the Movement is the story of John Lewis's life, as he has lived it day by day.

In 1957, John Lewis managed to get to college in Nashville on a full scholarship. There he became a leader in the student sit-in movement, which challenged the laws that allowed African Americans to spend their money shopping in Nashville's stores but forbade them to sit at the lunch counters. David Halberstam has observed that the students had much in the way of ideals and convictions, but they had no protection—"no police force, no judges, no cops, no money."

John Lewis went to jail for sitting down—the first of some 40 times he was to go to jail. Three months later, the lunch counters "served food to black customers for the first time in the city's history."

John Lewis went on the Freedom Rides, which tested the Supreme Court ruling that all vestiges of segregation in interstate travel had to end. As he observes in his memoir, "Issuing the decision was one thing, of course. Carrying it out, as I would soon learn firsthand, was another."

He rode the first bus, which traveled from Washington, DC, to Mississippi. He can recount for you better than I how many times he was beaten and jailed in the course of that ride. The violence that the Freedom Riders encountered was for most Americans unimaginable.

In the summer of 1961, when the ride ended, John Lewis was 21 years old.

There is not enough time today to do justice to that ride, or John Lewis's years as chairman of SNCC, the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, or his speech on the Mall in Washington in 1963. But in this election year I want to comment on the events that took place in Selma, AL, on March 7, 1965. They have gone down in our history as "Bloody Sunday."

On that day several hundred Americans set out to march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama's capital. Their purpose was to press for the right to vote, a right denied to African Americans. The unarmed marchers were brutally attacked by a "human wave" of "troopers and possemen." John Lewis was among many beaten unconscious.

Bloody Sunday shocked the Nation. Five months later the historic Voting Rights Act of 1965 was signed into law—a direct consequence of the horrific attack at Selma. In the words of Taylor Branch, "The powerful new law broke decades of impediment and heartache."

On Bloody Sunday, every marcher's life was on the line—for the right to vote.

I ask you to reflect on the events at Selma and their meaning for our Nation, and on November 2—Election Day 2004—to exercise your priceless citizen's right vote.

From the beginning our Nation has lived by certain abiding principles. These were set out more than 60 years ago by the distinguished Swedish sociologist Gunnar Myrdal, in his landmark study of race and America democracy, An American Dilemma. He called this "The American Creed." Here are his words: "It is the current in the structure of this great and disparate nation . . . encompassing our 'ideals of the essential dignity of the individual human being, of the fundamental equality of all men (and women), and of certain inalienable rights to freedom, justice, and a fair opportunity.' These ideals are 'written into the Declaration of Independence, the Preamble of the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and into the constitutions of the several states.'"

For much of its history our Nation failed to live up to the principles it espoused. It has been John Lewis's lifelong mission to end the terrible contradiction that once assured these rights to some of our people while cruelly denying them to others. He has led and inspired generations of Americans to make our Nation a better place for all our people. He has an incredible story to tell. It is a privilege to have Congressman Lewis on the Salisbury campus today, and I am honored to introduce him.

CAPT JOHN LAWRENCE FROM, JR.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, recently I heard about CAPT John Lawrence From, Jr. in McLean, VA, a retired Navy nuclear submarine captain, who lived next door to Jim Rosser and his wife, Nicki Watts. They told me that he had died of pneumonia at Arlington Hospital at the age of 82. Retired Air Force Colonel Watts sent me material about him, and I would like to include it in the RECORD. Sometimes obituaries are so cold and give so little about somebody's life that I wanted the Senate to pause and think of Captain From.

Captain From not only served in the Pacific during World War II, but also commanded the first Polaris missile nuclear submarine. The Pacific Theater tours were dangerous, extraordinarily uncomfortable, and extremely necessary to our efforts to win World War II.

People get mentioned on this floor for many things, but I agree with Colonel Watts that Captain From should receive recognition here.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD some material I have about him.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

John Lawrence From, Jr. (Larry), 82, a retired Navy nuclear submarine captain, died March 19, 2004, of pneumonia at Arlington Hospital. He had lived in McLean, VA, since 1972.

Captain From, a native of Norfolk, VA, was a 1943 graduate (class of 1944) of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, MD.

He served in the Pacific Theater during WWII, making six submarine war patrols. After the war, he commanded a diesel-electric submarine, and in the 1960s commanded the first Polaris missile nuclear submarine, the USS George Washington III (SSBN 598), and later the Ulysses S. Grant. (Larry was pictured on the cover of LIFE magazine's March 22, 1963 issue as the first Polaris captain.) He retired in late 1972 at the conclusion of his last assignment as Commanding Officer, Naval Submarine Base, Pearl Harbor.

Captain From was a graduate of the Naval War College in Newport, RI, and the National War College in Washington, DC. He received a master's degree in international affairs from George Washington University.

His service awards included the Legion of Merit with Gold Star (second award), the Joint Service Commendation Medal, and the Navy Commendation Medal with Combat "V". Submarines, while he served in them, were awarded the Presidential Unit Citation and Navy Unit Commendation.

In the late 1960s, he was instrumental in establishing, developing, and maintaining a Boy Scout Troop in the Chesterbrook Woods community of McLean.

After retiring from the Navy, Larry worked for nearly 12 years at Science Applications International Corporation as Vice President of research and development, and provided the Navy with state-of-the-art underwater tracking systems based on advanced signal processing techniques.

Larry was a parishioner of St. John's Catholic Church in McLean, and his faith was like the submarines he served: silent but deep. He was committed to serving the Lord and his lovely wife, Mary Jane, whom he loved so devoutly and cared for for so many years. Through it all, he remained a tower of strength, always to be commended and remembered.

Survivors include his wife of 58 years, Mary Jane; three children, Deborah J. Fletcher of Mill Valley, CA, Tina L. Egge of Fredericksburg, VA, and Michael E. From of Seattle, WA; and three grandsons, Kyle Egge, and Christopher and Patrick From. He is also survived by his brother, William From, and sister, Mary Elizabeth Troxell.

Larry was interred at Arlington Cemetery on March 30th.

TRIBUTE TO COLONEL DEBORAH A. GUSTKE

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, I would like to recognize a great American and a true military hero who has honorably served our country for 32 years in the Army and Army Nurse Corps: Colonel Deborah A. Gustke. Colonel Gustke has a true passion for nursing and served in a variety of clinical nursing and leadership positions at various Army medical facilities including Fort Benning, GA, Tripler Army Medical Center, Hawaii, and Fort Hood, TX. Her tremendous leadership skills led to her selection as a nurse recruiter and subsequent selection for long-term civilian schooling to obtain an advanced degree as an oncology clinical nurse specialist. Colonel Gustke served with distinction in a series of senior leadership positions as chief nurse at Fort Knox, KY, Fort Rucker, AL, and at Fort Bliss, TX, and as the Army Nurse Corps personnel proponent staff officer. In every circumstance, Colonel Gustke was recognized for her clinical excellence and stellar leadership.

In 2000, Colonel Gustke was appointed the Assistant Chief of the Army Nurse Corps. As assistant chief, Colonel Gustke developed and implemented policies and procedures that affected nearly 35,000 nursing personnel throughout the Army. Collaborating with senior Army and Department of Defense organizations, she worked to successfully obtain direct hire authority, thereby dramatically reducing the hiring time for civilian nurses. She spearheaded several recruitment and retention initiatives, including the $18 million Health Professional Loan Repayment Program, the critical skills retention bonus, and increased capacity for the Army Enlisted Commissioning Program. Her efforts decreased the impact of the national nursing shortage on the Army. In addition, she implemented the recognition of the advanced practice nurse role for the Army Medical Department. As chair of the Federal Nursing Service Council, she sponsored the development of a Federal nursing research model that focused on improving soldier readiness and patient-care outcomes.

Colonel Gustke's accomplishments are eloquent testimony to her talent, dedication, loyalty, and determination in ensuring that the best possible nursing care is always available to our soldiers, their family members and our deserving retirees. Colonel Gustke has established a legacy of superior performance to be emulated by all, which reflects greatly on herself, the United States Army, the Department of Defense, and the United States of America. I extend my deepest appreciation on behalf of a grateful Nation for her dedicated service. Congratulations to Colonel Gustke. I wish her Godspeed.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

AMERICAN LEGACY FOUNDATION

• Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I wanted to take a moment today to speak about the American Legacy Foundation. This foundation celebrated its 5th anniversary this past month, and I wanted to express my continued support for the foundation in the future.

This foundation, formed under the master settlement agreement reached with big tobacco, has worked tirelessly over the last 5 years on its mission to build a world where young people reject tobacco and anyone can quit.

We know that tobacco is still the leading cause of preventable death in this country. Forty-seven million Americans smoke, and 400,000 people a year die because of it. Smokers have a one in three chance of dying from smoking-related conditions.

Even more alarming, every day, 3,000 children under age 18 start smoking, of which 1,000 will ultimately die of smoking related diseases. Almost 90 percent of adult smokers started using tobacco at or before age 18; the average youth smoker begins at age 13 and becomes a daily smoker by age 14½.

The American Legacy Foundation, through its highly effective public awareness campaign truth® alone, has helped reduce youth smoking rates to a 28-year historic low. I have heard from young people in my home state of Iowa who say that seeing the truth® television and magazine advertisements have affected their decisions about tobacco. The foundation also has a number of successful cessation programs in operation across the country.

The American Legacy Foundation clearly still has work to do. Educating American young people about the harmful effects of smoking is not merely a 5-year long task. Yet this year, the foundation received its last payment from the master settlement agreement. Without increased resources, the important work of the American Legacy Foundation cannot continue.

I ask that my colleagues to join with me in recognizing the achievements of the American Legacy Foundation and in pledging our support for the important work they do educating our nation about the dangers of tobacco use.●

DANA CORPORATION'S 100TH ANNIVERSARY

● Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the Dana Corporation, a fine Ohio company celebrating a very important milestone—100 years of quality service as one of the world's chief automotive suppliers. The Dana Corporation, headquartered in Toledo, OH, develops automotive parts and systems that have truly revolutionized the automotive industry.

I would like to take just a few moments to tell my colleagues in the Senate about this Ohio company and how much of an impact it has made in my home State. Back in early 1904, a young engineering student named Clarence Spicer received a patent for developing the first feasible universal joint to power an automobile. With this one invention, Clarence Spicer forever changed the way automobiles operated by changing the drive mechanism from chain to joint operated. It was from these early insights and humble circumstances that the Dana Corporation was born.

The company gained standing and financial prosperity under the leadership of businessman, attorney, politician, and financier, Charles Dana. Under his leadership, the company began to grow in technology, production, and geographic reach. Today, the Dana Corporation employs at least 28,000 Americans. In Ohio, alone, the company employs 3,151 people in 22 different facilities. They are world renowned for their research and production of drive shafts and axles; engine cradles, full-body frames, brake and chassis products, including suspensions and steering products; heat exchangers, valves, and coolers; and bearings and sealing products. Their dedication and insight have helped move some of history's greatest vehicles—from the Model T and World War II-era Jeep to London taxicabs, 18-wheel rigs, giant earth-moving machines, and every car on the NASCAR racing circuit.

I commend the Dana Corporation for its century of success and wish the company and all of its employees continued success in producing and manufacturing high-quality automotive supplies.●

IN MEMORY OF REVEREND JIMMY WATERS

● Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, for most of his 83 years, the Reverend Jimmy Waters made a significant impact on the lives of many Georgians. The former pastor of Macon's Mabel White Memorial Baptist Church and Tattnall Square Baptist Church has spent, as he said, a great deal of time battling fires. For more than 55 years, he was chaplain of the Macon-Bibb County Fire Department assisting the men who fought physical fires. For nearly 60 years, he was also an ordained minister, fighting, as he said, the hell fire that threatens men's souls.

In addition to presiding over the growth of Mabel White from 800 members to over 3,900, he served as chaplain to the Macon Police Department, the Bibb County Sheriff's Office, the Georgia State Patrol, and the Georgia bureau of Investigation. He was also named lifetime chaplain of the Georgia Peace Officers Association, which awarded the first Jimmy Waters Scholarship in his honor to a University of Georgia criminal justice student.

Reverend Waters was a graduate of Mercer University, where he entered the ministry while he was still a freshman and earned both his bachelor's and doctorate degrees. As a loving father and husband, he raised three daughters with his wife, the former Annette Burton of Crawfordville. His family often sang with him as he conducted religious services in churches located as far away as Israel and Italy.

Reverend Waters was not the type of Christian who kept his lamp under a bushel. He and his siblings sang gospel music on Atlanta's WSB radio station in the 1930s. In addition to his duties as pastor, he initiated televised services from Mabel White, and later began broadcasts of "The Victory Hour." After he retired from Mabel White in 1977, he devoted his efforts to Jimmy Waters Ministries, which spread the Gospel through radio, television, and evangelism. As religious director for WMAZ radio and television in Macon, he recorded over 25,000 broadcasts at home and abroad until he stopped in 2003. He also served as co-host for many fundraising telethons for Macon's WMAZ-TV in support of the Muscular Dystrophy Association, the Children's Miracle Network and Cerebral Palsy.

Dr. Waters was often recognized for his work, serving as President of the Georgia Baptist Convention from 1974–1976 and as Chairman of the Southern Baptist Convention's Radio and Television Commission from 1977–1978. In all of the many positions he accepted, he brought energy and integrity to the job.

That inner fire that he brought to his work is the reason why so many of us will miss Reverend Jimmy Waters. He was a great American and my good friend.●

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. BOND (for himself and Ms. MIKULSKI):

S. 2269. A bill to improve environmental enforcement and security; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I am delighted to join with my friend and colleague Senator MIKULSKI to introduce today the Environmental Enforcement and Security Act (EESA) of 2004. This bill will increase substantially enforcement of our Nation's environmental laws, increase environmentally related homeland security, and further protect our Nation's water supply from terrorist attack.

Our families and environment deserve communities free from intentional violators of environmental laws and terrorists who would attack our drinking water supplies.

With this dramatic new commitment to environmental enforcement and drinking water security, we will tell those who would intentionally harm us that we are coming after them.

The environment and health of our communities need vigorous prosecution of intentional violations of our Nation's environmental laws. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Criminal Enforcement program investigates the most significant and egregious violators of environmental laws that pose a significant threat to human health and the environment. However, the number of EPA Criminal Enforcement Special Agents has remained constant for the last several years.

In addition, in our post-9/11 world, EPA Special Agents are needed for homeland security duties to detect, investigate and respond to terrorist threats involving chemical or biological hazards.

EPA Special Agents support the Department of Homeland Security, Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Department of Justice. EPA Special Agents are members of FBI Counter-Terrorism Response Teams and Evidence Response Teams.

However, with this new post-9/11 need to respond to the threat of terrorism, some are concerned that environmental violations may not be receiving the attention they deserve. A recent report by the EPA Inspector General, an internal review by the EPA Enforcement and Compliance Assurance program, and various media accounts tell how EPA needs more resources to meet both its environmental and homeland security duties.

Our bill responds to these calls with a dramatic new commitment to EPA's enforcement program. My bill will put 50 new EPA Criminal Enforcement Special Agents on the environmental beat. EESA will also provide for 80 Special Agents to support homeland security duties.

With our bill, we will no longer need to make a choice between protecting our homeland and protecting our environment.

With our bill, those who would intentionally hurt our families and communities through environmental harm will know that we are sending the manpower and resources needed to come after them.

We are also sending local communities new funding to protect our drinking water supplies. Every family and every business needs clean and safe drinking water. Every mother needs to know that when she turns on the tap in her kitchen sink, clean and safe water will come out.

That is why our bill devotes $100 million for additional drinking water security protections. EESA will send grant funds directly to water systems to protect against terrorist attack with fencing, intruder detection, access control and water monitoring. The need is great, but the federal government will attempt to do its share.

Our bill will also enhance EPA's ability to protect the environment and human health in several other ways. EESA will double the number of enforcement trainers and triple EPA's enforcement training budget. EESA funds will train Federal, State and local inspectors, law enforcement agents and prosecutors with the training they need to pursue environmental violations.

Our bill will also improve the environment by doubling compliance assistance funds to fill gaps in enforcement coverage, reach regulated facilities not visited by inspectors, and help the regulated community, especially small businesses, to understand EPA's complex and extensive regulatory requirements.

Our bill will also make EPA's enforcement actions more efficient and targeted by fully funding a strategic enforcement targeting program. EESA will enhance EPA's ability to target its enforcement actions to where the environment needs them most. Strategic targeting will also improve EPA's ability to identify and respond to increased noncompliance with environmental laws.

Our Nation's environmental laws exist to protect our families, our communities and our natural resources. Those who would intentionally violate our environmental laws deserve the full force of the government to stop them.

Our families and communities also deserve our most vigorous efforts to protect them from the specter of terror. Chemical and biological threats represent one of the most sinister means for men to terrorize each other.

We will send our homeland security agencies the environmental expertise and personnel they need to confront these threats.

We will also send our local communities new help for additional drinking water security protections.

Our environment deserves no less, our families deserve no less. I urge my colleagues to support passage and funding of the Environmental Enforcement and Security Act of 2004.

By Mr. DEWINE (for himself, Mr. KOHL, Mr. GRASSLEY, Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. SPECTER, Mr. FEINGOLD, Mr. LEAHY, and Mr. COLEMAN):

S. 2270. A bill to amend the Sherman Act to make oil-producing and exporting cartels illegal; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I wish to talk this afternoon about a bill that my colleagues, Senator KOHL, Senator GRASSLEY, Senator FEINGOLD, Senator SPECTER, Senator SCHUMER, Senator LEAHY, Senator COLEMAN, and I are introducing, which is called the No Oil Producing and Exporting Cartels Act of 2004. We are introducing this bill to address the longstanding problem of foreign governments acting in the commercial arena to fix, allocate, and establish production and price levels of petroleum products.

Every consumer in America knows that gasoline prices have reached record highs over the last couple of weeks. The national average has reached a new record high for self-serve unleaded gas. That is approximately $1.80 per gallon. But over the last week in my home State of Ohio gas prices have been even higher. In Marietta, gas was $1.84; in Cleveland, $1.86; in Columbus, it topped out at $1.88 in some stations. Many analysts predict that prices could get as high as $2 per gallon, or higher, by the summer.

This is of particular interest to me because Ohio and the Midwestern States always seem to be hit especially hard by gas prices spikes. These spikes are acutely painful to persons who commute long distances and to those who live on fixed incomes such as the elderly.

What is the cause? Certainly there are many causes, but as we might expect, there are a number of factors at play. But there is surprising agreement among industry experts about the primary cause of high gas prices and that is the increase in imported crude oil prices.

We also know the biggest factor in setting crude oil prices is OPEC. The unacceptably high price of imported crude oil is a direct result of collusive agreements among OPEC nations to maintain the price of oil.

Despite the fact that gasoline prices are going through the roof, OPEC members met yesterday in Austria and decided to cut the output of oil even further. We have been through this process more than enough to know what that means for the American consumer. When demand is high and supplies are cut, that obviously means higher prices. That is exactly what OPEC did to us yesterday. It ripped off American consumers by raising gas prices even more.

this is an outrage. In fact, OPEC is probably the most notorious example of an illegal cartel in the world today, even at a time when it is widely understood that such conduct is counterproductive and ill-suited for our global economy. Supreme Court Justice Scalia in a recent case described collusion among competitors as "the supreme evil of antitrust." Nation after nation has adopted antitrust enforcement principles that recognize the illegality of price fixing and output restrictions among competitors. In 1998, the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, then composed of twenty-nine member nations, issued a formal recommendation denouncing price fixing. OPEC's continued actions, in ongoing defiance of American and international antitrust principles, should not be tolerated.

Until now, however, OPEC has effectively received special treatment under U.S. antitrust laws—despite the fact that oil is a commodity that touches the lives of nearly every American consumer. It is time that we take steps to assure that oil is subject to the principles of the free market. The bill that we are introducing today would do just that and help in the fight to lower gas prices.

Senator KOHL and I have introduced this bill twice before—in 2000 and 2001. It is an idea whose time has come. The purpose of our NOPEC bill is simple—it would treat OPEC like any other cartel. If OPEC were a group of private companies colluding on prices, the executives could be prosecuted and sent to jail, and the firms would pay millions of dollars in fines or maybe even billions in fines. Unfortunately, however, for years enforcement has been constrained by two related court opinions.

In 1979, a Federal District Court found that OPEC's price-setting decisions were "governmental" acts and accordingly that they were given sovereignty status and protected by the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act. Subsequently, in 1981, a Federal Court of Appeals declined to consider the appeal of that antitrust case based on the so-called "act of state" doctrine.

NOPEC would effectively reverse these decisions by making it clear that OPEC's activities are not protected by sovereign immunity and that the Federal courts should not decline to hear such a case based on the "act of state" doctrine. As a result, under NOPEC, the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission could bring a legal antitrust enforcement action against foreign states engaging in the restraint of trade regarding oil and other petroleum products. Simply put, NOPEC assures that our U.S. antitrust agencies have jurisdiction and authority to bring such cases.

We don't intend to give up the fight for lower gasoline prices. Today, I want the members of OPEC to hear a message loud and clear—we won't quit fighting for American consumers. When OPEC wants to do business with America, it must abide by our antitrust laws.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2270

Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, in recent weeks, consumers all across the Nation have watched gas prices rise, seemingly without any end in sight. On March 24, U.S. gasoline prices reached a record high average of $ 1.74 a gallon. And, if consumers weren't paying enough already, just yesterday the OPEC nations decided to cut production by a million barrels a day, an action sure to drive prices even higher. Such blatantly anti-competitive action by the oil cartel violates the most basic principles of fair competition and free markets and should not be tolerated. It is for this reason that I rise today, with my colleagues Senators DEWINE, SPECTER, LEAHY, FEINGOLD, SCHUMER, COLEMAN and GRASSLEY, to reintroduce the “No Oil Producing and Exporting Cartels Act” (“NOPEC”). This legislation is identical to our NOPEC bill introduced in the last two Congresses, a bill which passed the Judiciary Committee unanimously in 2000.

Real people suffer real consequences every day in our nation because of OPEC's actions. Rising gas prices are a silent tax that takes hard-earned money away from Americans every time they visit the gas pump. Higher oil prices drive up the cost of transportation, harming thousands of companies throughout the economy from trucking to aviation. And those costs are passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices for manufactured goods. Higher oil prices mean higher heating oil and electricity costs. Anyone who has gone through a Midwest winter or a deep South summer can tell you about the tremendous personal costs associated with higher home heating or cooling bills.

We have all heard many explanations offered for rising energy prices. Some say that the oil companies are gouging consumers. Some blame disruptions in supply. Others point to the EPA requirement mandating use of a new and more expensive type of “reformulated” gas in the Midwest or other “boutique” fuels around the country. Some even claim that refiners and distributors have illegally fixed prices. On this issue, Senator DEWINE and I have asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate these allegations. As a result of our inquiries, the FTC has put a task force in place to find out if those allegations were true. While we continue to urge the FTC to be vigilant, the FTC has to date found no evidence of illegal domestic price fixing as a cause of higher gas prices.

But one cause of these escalating prices is indisputable: the price fixing conspiracy of the OPEC nations. For years, this conspiracy has unfairly driven up the cost of imported crude oil to satisfy the greed of the oil exporters. We have long decried OPEC, but, sadly, no one in government has yet tried to take any action. NOPEC will, for the first time, establish clearly and plainly that when a group of competing oil producers like the OPEC nations act together to restrict supply or set prices, they are violating U.S. law. It will authorize the Attorney General or FTC to file suit under the antitrust laws for redress. Our bill will also make plain that the nations of OPEC cannot hide behind the doctrines of “Sovereign Immunity” or “Act of State” to escape the reach of American justice.

The most fundamental principle of a free market is that competitors cannot be permitted to conspire to limit supply or fix price. There can be no free market without this foundation. And we should not permit any nation to flout this fundamental principle.

Some critics of this legislation have argued that suing OPEC will not work or that threatening suit will hurt more than help. I disagree. Our NOPEC legislation will, for the first time, enable our authorities to take legal action to combat the illegitimate price-fixing conspiracy of the oil cartel. It will, at a minimum, have a real deterrent effect on nations that seek to join forces to fix oil prices to the detriment of consumers. This legislation will be the first real weapon the U.S. government has ever had to deter OPEC from its seemingly endless cycle of price increases.

There is nothing remarkable about applying U.S. antitrust law overseas. Our government has not hesitated to do so when faced with clear evidence of anti-competitive conduct that harms

American consumers. A few years ago, for example, the Justice Department secured record fines totaling $725 million against German and Swiss companies engaged in a price fixing conspiracy to raise and fix the price of vitamins sold in the United States and elsewhere. Their behavior harmed consumers by raising the prices consumers paid for vitamins every day and plainly needed to be addressed. As this and other cases show, the mere fact that the conspirators are foreign nations is no basis to shield them from violating these most basic standards of fair economic behavior.

Even under current law, there is no doubt that the actions of the international oil cartel would be in gross violation of antitrust law if engaged in by private companies. If OPEC were a group of international private companies rather than foreign governments, their actions would be nothing more than an illegal price fixing scheme. But OPEC members have used the shield of “sovereign immunity” to escape accountability for their price-fixing. The Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, though, already recognizes that the “commercial” activity of nations is not protected by sovereign immunity. And it is hard to imagine an activity that is more obviously commercial than selling oil for profit, as the OPEC nations do. Our legislation will correct one erroneous twenty-year-old lower federal court decision and establish that sovereign immunity doctrine will not divest a U.S. court from jurisdiction to hear a lawsuit alleging that members of the oil cartel are violating antitrust law.

In the last few weeks, I have grown more certain than ever that this legislation is necessary. Between OPEC's decision yesterday to cut oil production and the FTC's conclusion for the last several years that there is no illegal conduct by domestic companies responsible for rising gas prices, I am convinced that we need to take action, and take action now, before the damage spreads too far.

For these reasons, I urge that my colleagues support this bill so that our nation will finally have an effective means to combat this selfish conspiracy of oil-rich nations.

By Mr. DURBIN (for himself, Mr. LAUTENBERG, Mr. CORZINE, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mrs. BOXER):

S. 2271. A bill to establish national standards for discharges from cruise vessels into the waters of the United States, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, today I am introducing the Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2004. I am proud to be joined by Senators LAUTENBERG, CORZINE, FEINSTEIN, KENNEDY and BOXER in offering this legislation. I also am honored to be working with Congressman FARR, who is leading companion legislation in the House and is a co-chair of the House Oceans Caucus.

America's oceans span nearly 4.5 million square miles, an area 23 percent larger than the nation's land area. They are a resource for travel, commerce, recreation and the global ecosystem. They comprise 70 percent of our planet.

We cannot continue to take this vast resource for granted. The Pew Commission found in June 2003 that our oceans are in crisis. The report cites five priorities: implementing a sustainable national ocean policy; coordinating the governance of ocean resources; reorienting our fisheries policy to emphasize sustainability; protecting ocean habitat and managing coastal development; and controlling the sources of pollution threatening our marine ecosystems. Today I want to concentrate on the fifth priority: controlling pollution.

With growing amounts of pollution caused by human activity, we are significantly degrading the marine environment. According to the EPA, pollution has rendered 44 percent of tested estuaries and 12 percent of ocean shoreline miles unfit for swimming, fishing or supporting aquatic life. The Coast Guard estimates that marine debris is responsible for the deaths of more than 1 million birds and 100,000 marine mammals each year. About 90 percent of Florida's coral reefs are believed to be dead or dying.

We have taken some actions to protect our oceans, but we still have a long way to go. We need to improve enforcement of our existing environmental protection laws, but we also need to update them to accommodate for the changing times.

Specifically, we need to address pollution from passenger cruise ships. The cruise line industry has grown significantly over the past 34 years. In 1970, cruise ships carried 500,000 passengers in the United States. In 2002, the cruise line industry carried 6.5 million passengers in about 150 ships in the United States, and that number has continued to grow.

In addition to a tremendous increase in the number of passengers, cruise ships themselves have grown. Today the average cruise vessel accommodates 3,100 passengers and crew. Carnival recently built the largest passenger ship in the world, the Queen Mary 2: it's 1,132 feet long, which is more than twice as long as the Washington Monument is tall; it is 236 feet high, about the height of a 23-story building; and it weighs about 151,400 long tons, the rough equivalent of 390 fully loaded 747 jets.

According to the EPA, a typical 3,000 passenger cruise ship each week generates 210,000 gallons of sewage; 1 million gallons of gray water, including runoff from baths, laundry machines and dishwashers; and 37,000 gallons of oily bilge water. Ships of the size of cruise vessels today, which generate the amount of waste of today, did not exist when the Clean Water Act and other environmental laws were written in the 1970s. Therefore, our laws regarding cruise ships are grossly inadequate.

My colleagues may be shocked to learn that it is legal to dump raw sewage 3 miles from shore; and it is legal to dump sewage within 3 miles so long as it is run through a machine, which complies with a standard that is over 20 years old and which is never rigorously tested once installed. Also it is legal to dump gray water—which can contain harmful toxins and nutrients—anywhere in the ocean. Only Alaskan waters are protected by strong federal legislation enacted in 2000 that regulates sewage and graywater.

The legislation I am introducing today, the Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2004, would draw from key provisions of the federal law in place in Alaska and the Clean Water Act. This bill would: first, create a no discharge zone that would prevent dumping of sewage, graywater and oily bilge water within 12 miles of shore—to protect our coasts and estuaries; second, apply the current Alaskan standards to sewage and graywater discharges outside of 12 miles from shore; third, allow the Coast Guard and EPA to jointly issue discharge requirements based on the best available technology, with the goal of zero pollutants by 2015; and finally, strengthen enforcement.

Studies show that the Alaskan standards, which our bills applies to the rest of the country, can be achieved. Indeed, ships that have been upgraded to treat sewage and graywater with modern technology are easily meeting or exceeding standards for such constituents as fecal coliform and chlorine.

Not only is this bill technologically feasible: it is affordable. The cost to upgrade each ship will be more than $3 million. To put this into context, Carnival Cruise Lines just spent $800 million to build the new Queen Mary 2, and earned $6.7 billion in revenues last year.

The Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2004 is a reasonable approach to an urgent problem. I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.

By Mr. BINGAMAN (for himself and Mr. SMITH):

S. 2272. A bill to amend title XIX of the Social Security Act to expand the pediatric vaccine distribution program to include coverage for children administered a vaccine at a public health clinic or Indian clinic, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, in conjunction with Senator SMITH, I am introducing the "Children's Vaccine Access Act of 2004." This legislation makes three changes to the Vaccines for Children program with the intent of expanding access and the delivery of vaccines to our Nation's children. This legislation is supported by the Administration and included in the Administration's budget as recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, or CDC.

First, the legislation expands access to the Vaccines for Children, or VFC, program for children whose private health insurance does not cover immunizations by allowing children to receive their VFC vaccines at State and local public health clinics. Currently, underinsured children must go to specially designated Federal Qualified Health Centers or rural health centers to receive VFC vaccines. Consequently, our bill expands the number of access points at which children can get the vaccines they need.

According to the CDC, there are approximately 3,000 Federally Qualified Health Centers enrolled in VFC, compared with approximately 7,000 health department clinics. As the CDC notes, "Increasing access points for VFC eligible underinsured children will allow those who may have been previously denied immunizations at public health clinics to be vaccinated with the full series of routinely administered vaccines."

Second, the bill seeks to restore the tetanus and diphtheria vaccines to the VFC program by lifting the 1993 price caps that were in use prior to enactment of the VFC program. The price caps are so low that, for example, the tetanus booster vaccine was unfortunately dropped from VFC coverage when no vaccine manufacturer would bid on the contract at the 1993-imposed price cap levels.

CDC estimates that over 200,000 additional children would be served through VFC with these two changes.

And finally, the bill includes new authorizing language to allow the CDC to sell the VFC purchased stockpile vaccines to its grantees or back to manufacturers for use in the private sector in the event that the stockpiled vaccines are needed by non VFC-eligible children.

Immunizations are critical to both children's health and the public health care system. The VFC program began on October 1, 1994, to improve vaccine availability to children nationwide by providing vaccines free-of-charge to Medicaid-eligible, uninsured, underinsured, American Indian, or Alaska Native children through both public and private providers. The VFC program automatically covers vaccines recommended by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices, or ACIP, and approved by the CDC.

VFC has had an enormous impact on improving the immunization rates among our Nation's children. According to the Children's Defense Fund, "Between 1993 and 1999, there was nearly a 20 percent increase in the number of fully immunized two year-olds."

However, the goal of achieving a 90 percent immunization coverage rate, with the complete series of recommended vaccines, has still not been achieved. According to the National Immunization Survey (NIS), the nationwide vaccination coverage levels among children 19–35 months of age for the 4:3:1:3:3 series of childhood immunizations was 74.8 percent in 2002. Unfortunately, the immunization rate in New Mexico was just 64.6 percent in 2002 and second worst in the Nation to only Colorado. To address that problem, in December 2001, I requested the CDC to work with the State of New Mexico on improving its immunization rate and a number of positive developments have taken place, including the creation of an Immunization Task Force at the state level and the passage of legislation to create an immunization registry by the New Mexico Legislature this past month.

It is my belief that the strides the Nation and New Mexico continue to make to further improve the childhood immunization rate is assisted by this legislation. I would like to thank the CDC for their fine work on the VFC program and their assistance with this legislation and in its assistance directly to the State of New Mexico. I would also like to thank Senator SMITH for his dedication and support for this initiative to improve the health of our Nation's children.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. MCCAIN (for himself, Mr. HOLLINGS, Ms. SNOWE, Mr. KENNEDY, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, Mr. BIDEN, Mr. CARPER, and Mr. LAUTENBERG):

S. 2273. A bill to provide increased rail transportation security; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I am joined by Senator HOLLINGS and other members of the Senate Commerce Committee in introducing the Rail Security Act of 2004.

The recent attacks on Madrid’s commuter rail system demonstrated all too vividly that our own transit system, Amtrak, and the freight railroads could be vulnerable to terrorist attack. Only modest resources have been dedicated to rail security since the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on the United States, and efforts to address rail security remain fragmented. The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has not completed a vulnerability assessment for the rail system, nor is there an integrated security plan that reflects the unique characteristics of passenger and freight rail operations.

The legislation we are introducing today would authorize resources to ensure rail transportation security receives a high priority in our efforts to secure our country from terrorism. The legislation directs DHS to complete a vulnerability assessment for the rail system and make recommendations for addressing security weaknesses within 180 days of enactment. It also authorizes funding to address long-standing fire and life safety needs for several tunnels along the Northeast Corridor, and authorizes appropriations to meet immediate security needs for intercity and freight rail transportation. Further, as recommended by the General Accounting Office, the proposal requires DHS to sign a memorandum of agreement with the Department of Transportation to make clear each department’s roles and responsibilities with respect to rail security.

The freight railroads, individual commuter authorities, and Amtrak have, on their own initiative, completed risk assessments and taken steps to safeguard passengers, facilities, and cargo. These efforts, accomplished at a very small cost to the federal government, have helped make our rail system safer. The legislation introduced today will augment these efforts and bring these individual initiatives together in a coordinated rail security program.

More than 2 years ago, in the aftermath of the September 11th attacks, the Commerce Committee reported rail security legislation but unfortunately that proposal was not adopted by the full Senate. The Commerce Committee will meet in the coming weeks to consider this legislation and it is my hope that the proposal will be acted upon quickly by the full Senate.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

“(b) CONTENTS OF PLANS.—The plan to be submitted by Amtrak under subsection (a) shall include, at a minimum, the following:

“(1) A process by which Amtrak will maintain and provide to the National Transportation Safety Board, immediately upon request, a list (which is based on the best available information at the time of the request) of the names of the passengers aboard the train (whether or not such names have been verified), and will periodically update the list. The plan shall include a procedure, with respect to unreserved trains and passengers not holding reservations on other trains, for Amtrak to use reasonable efforts to ascertain the number and names of passengers aboard a train involved in an accident.

“(2) A plan for creating and publicizing a reliable, toll-free telephone number within 4 hours after such an accident occurs, and for providing staff, to handle calls from the families of the passengers.

“(3) A process for notifying the families of the passengers, before providing any public notice of the names of the passengers, by suitably trained individuals.

“(4) A process for providing the notice described in paragraph (2) to the family of a passenger as soon as Amtrak has verified that the passenger was aboard the train (whether or not the names of all of the passengers have been verified).

“(5) A process by which the family of each passenger will be consulted about the disposition of all remains and personal effects of the passenger within Amtrak’s control; that any possession of the passenger within Amtrak’s control will be returned to the family unless the possession is needed for the accident investigation or any criminal investigation; and that any unclaimed possession of a passenger within Amtrak’s control will be retained by the rail passenger carrier for at least 18 months.

“(6) A process by which the treatment of the families of nonrevenue passengers will be the same as the treatment of the families of revenue passengers.

“(7) An assurance that Amtrak will provide adequate training to its employees and agents to meet the needs of survivors and family members following an accident.

“(c) USE OF INFORMATION.—The National Transportation Safety Board and Amtrak may not release to any person information on a list obtained under subsection (b)(1) but may provide information on the list about a passenger to the family of the passenger to the extent that the Board or Amtrak considers appropriate.

“(d) LIMITATION ON LIABILITY.—Amtrak shall not be liable for damages in any action brought in a Federal or State court arising out of the performance of Amtrak in preparing or providing a passenger list, or in providing information concerning a train reservation, pursuant to a plan submitted by Amtrak under subsection (b), unless such liability was caused by Amtrak’s conduct.

“(e) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section may be construed as limiting the actions that Amtrak may take, or the obligations that Amtrak may have, in providing assistance to the families of passengers involved in a rail passenger accident.

“(f) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation for the use of Amtrak $500,000 for fiscal year 2005 to carry out this section. Amounts appropriated pursuant to this subsection shall remain available until expended.”.

By Ms. LANDRIEU:

S. 2274. A bill to expand and improve retired pay, burial, education, and other mobilization benefits for members of the National Guard and Reserves who are called or ordered to active duty, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Mr. President, I rise to introduce and send to the desk the 21st Century Citizen Soldier Benefits Act which I introduce on behalf of myself.

I thought I would take a moment this afternoon to outline the framework and the context of this bill because it has to do with our Armed Forces. It has to do with a very important component of our Armed Forces, which is our Guard and Reserve units, part of our total force, a very important part of that total force as I hope to outline.

This is an attempt to put before the Senate and the Congress a comprehensive bill—one that I find and I know people in Louisiana across party lines and in very energetic and enthusiastic ways support because the need is so great—to support our men and women in uniform, particularly our Guard and Reserve components.

If the war on terror is teaching us anything—and we are learning some tough lessons each and every day as we move forward through this war—we all know we cannot defend this Nation adequately without the strength provided by our National Guard and Reserves.

Since 9/11 when this country was attacked, the first time in this large measure since the attack on Pearl Harbor many years ago, over 355,000 guardsmen and reservists have been mobilized.

To give a grasp of that number, our Navy today, arguably the most powerful in the world, has 375,000 sailors. So in 2½ years, we have called up almost enough guardsmen and reservists to man every ship in the United States Navy. That is a lot of manpower and a lot of womanpower, and they deserve our very best effort. They are not just backfilling for Active Forces. They are serving on the front lines, as we have seen today how brutal those front lines can be. They are being wounded and killed just like our Active Forces. In fact, 97 of the 600 deaths in Iraq have been Guard and Reserve deaths.

Today 176,000 citizen soldiers wear the uniform full time, and that number, as I will show, is growing exponentially. By May 1, 40 percent of the troops in Iraq will be members of the National Guard and Reserve. These are men and women who have full-time jobs, who are coaches, small business owners, policemen, firemen, State workers, and waiters and waitresses in our restaurants. They hold many jobs, but they are then called up. They take off their daily dress clothes and put on the uniform and go to the front lines to protect us.

In Louisiana, and I know this is true in Texas, thousands of men and women have been called up.

We have 3,051 reservists on active duty right now. Over 6,000 Louisiana reservists have been activated since 9/11. For many, their activation periods have unfortunately lasted, because of the demand on our troops, sometimes in excess of 18 months to 24 months. The 528th Engineering Battalion from Monroe, LA, recently deployed to Afghanistan, 500 Louisianans on their way serving already. Marine Reserve Company B of Bossier City, 150 Marines have just been put on alert for mobilization. Company B has already been mobilized before.

Last month, the Department of Defense put another 18,000 National Guardsmen on alert status, including 3,800 members from Louisiana's 256th Separate Infantry Brigade. I will be visiting their leaders on Monday, in Lafayette, LA, and be visiting with their families to talk about the separation that is going to occur and how we are doing as a nation, as a State, and as a community, to help them through this difficult time as they help, protect, and give us their very best in this war effort.

The National Guard and Reserve, as I said, make up now 45 percent of our forces. We simply cannot fight without them. Yet as I am going to explain, the benefits, their pensions, their compensation, their GI benefits, their retirement benefits, and even their burial benefits do not match with their level of service and do not match with the contribution they are, in fact, making.

I understand why because when the framework for the Guard and Reserves was initially put together, they were thought of as sort of a backup, as a filler.

They do other things as well other than, of course, fighting wars. They help our States mobilize at times of national and natural disasters. So I am clear, as are many of us, about why initially, as the Guard and Reserve was created and the framework developed, those rules and regulations were put into place back in the 1940s, in the 1960s, and in the 1970s.

In 2004, the times are different. The demands are great and they are meeting this challenge. As a Congress we need to meet them more than halfway.

Nearly 35,000 have been mobilized more than once. Imagine returning from Afghanistan, reuniting with your family, getting your business restarted, getting back into the desk you left before you went to serve, only to be told to get ready because you are leaving in another few months, get ready to ship out again.

We have a retention and recruiting crisis looming on the horizon. I would like to show the number of troops, reservists, who have been called up from 1953 through 1989, through the Berlin crisis of 1961, through the Cuban missile crisis, and the Vietnam war, we called up a total of 199,877, about 200,000, through all of this, three times in 40 years. Since 1990, in the last 14 years, we have called up 634,984—the Persian Gulf war, the intervention in Haiti, Bosnian peacekeeping, Operation Southern Watch, the Kosovo conflict, now our ongoing war on terrorism, which has many fronts, primarily in Afghanistan and in Iraq. That is unprecedented in terms of our recent history.

The question to us should be: Are we doing what we should as we are increasing our military budget substantially? I, for one, have supported each and every increase and almost argued in many instances for more money going to our military. What portion of that increase is going to the Guard and Reserve to make sure their pensions are intact, that when they retire their compensation is fair, that their families are cared for at least at a decent and adequate level while they serve us so magnificently and so beautifully? So we can see we are calling more and more on our Guard and Reserve.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD an excellent article that appeared in the Washington Post in January of this year by Mr. Vernon Loeb, a very excellent staff writer.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Washington Post, Jan. 21, 2004]
ARMY RESERVE CHIEF FEARS RETENTION CRISIS

(By Vernon Loeb)

The head of the Army Reserve said yesterday that the 205,000-soldier force must guard against a potential crisis in its ability to retain troops, saying serious problems are being "masked" temporarily because reservists are barred from leaving the military while their units are mobilized in Iraq.

Lt. Gen. James R. Helmly said his staff is working on an overhaul of the reserve aimed in part at treating soldiers better and being more honest with them about how long they're likely to be deployed. Helmly said the reserve force bureaucracy bungled the mobilization of soldiers for the war in Iraq, and gave them a "pipe dream" instead of honest information about how long they might have to remain there.

"This is the first extended-duration war our Nation has fought with an all-volunteer force," said Helmly. "We must be sensitive to that. And we must apply proactive, preventive measures to prevent a recruiting-retention crisis."

Helmly said his staff is engaged in an overhaul of the reserve aimed at turning the Army's part-time soldiers into a top-flight fighting force that can handle the strains of the global war on terrorism. In a Pentagon briefing for defense reporters, Helmly outlined an array of planned changes and bluntly described the force he took over in May 2002 as being dominated by bureaucrats who often ignored soldiers' needs.

In a recent memo, Helmly said, he told his subordinates that he was "really tired of going to see our reserve soldiers [and finding] they're short such simple things as goggles. It's about damn time you listen to your lawyers less and your conscience more. That will probably get me in trouble. But I told them, I want this stuff fixed."

Reservists in Iraq have long complained about having to spend a year there with inadequate equipment, including a lack of body armor.

Most reservists went to Iraq last year on year-long mobilizations, with a belief that they would be required to spend only 6 months in the country. But they were abruptly informed in September that they would have to spend 12 months in Iraq, pushing the total length of many reservists' mobilizations to 16 months or longer.

Analysts inside and outside the military say these long overseas mobilizations could have the effect of driving reservists out of the military in droves once they begin returning from Iraq over the next several months. After that, the service will lift the "stop-loss" provisions that prohibit soldiers from quitting the reserve when their hitch is up.

Helmly said he has not been surprised by such criticism. "The [Iraq] mobilization was so fraught with friction that it really put a bad taste in a lot of people's mouths," he said. "We had about 10,000 who had less than 5 days' notice that they were going to be mobilized. Then we had about 8,000 who were mobilized, got trained up, and never deployed."

"No sooner do the statues of Saddam Hussein start tumbling down, then the guidance was, start planning to demobilize everybody," Helmly said, only to find in July that a growing insurgency required remobilizing 4,000 to 5,000 of the 8,000 that were initially mobilized but never deployed.

"One lesson I have certainly learned . . . it is imperative that we communicate with our soldiers and their families in advance, and that we not set false expectations," Helmly said.

To that end, Helmly said, a "major order culture change" is taking place in the reserve so that reservists know, upon joining, that they will be called up to active duty for between 9 and 12 months every 4 to 5 years.

As part of that change, he said, the current total of 2,091 reserve units will be reduced significantly so that every unit—typically a support company of about 150 soldiers—is manned, equipped and ready to go to war, if necessary.

Currently, 226,000 soldiers would be necessary to man all those units. But the Army Reserve is only authorized by Congress to have 205,000 soldiers, Helmly said, and at any given time, only between 160,000 and 175,000 of them are available for mobilization.

"We will in fact inactivate units beginning next year specifically to harvest the strength so we can man fully our remaining units," Helmly said, adding that maintenance and "water support" units will be reduced in favor of more military police, civil affairs and heavy truck transport detachments.

"I'm often asked by families, how do you know you'll be able to recruit for this force?" Helmly said. "There are no knows; we're treading new virgin territory here. But most of our people will respond well to the initiatives we're putting forward. They don't wish to be part of a second-class team."

Ms. LANDRIEU. According to this reporter:

The head of the Army Reserve said yesterday that the 205,000-soldier force must guard against a potential crisis in its ability to retain troops, saying serious problems are being "masked" temporarily because reservists are barred from leaving the military while their units are mobilized in Iraq.

He goes on to say:

Lieutenant General Helmly told his subordinates that he was "really tired of going to see our reserve soldiers [and finding] they're short such simple things as goggles. It's about damn time you listen to your lawyers less and your conscience more. They will probably get me in trouble. But I told them, I want this stuff fixed."

Not only are these men and women being called up in unprecedented numbers, not only are they being prevented from leaving, which is masking a potential readiness crisis, but they are also not being provided with some of the basic tools, equipment, and body armor that they need to protect themselves; therefore, contributing to a state of unease.

Not that these guardsmen and reservists are not patriotic, not that they would not walk across hot coals, and in many instances they do every day to protect us, but we should at least be able to take these modest steps to make sure we are strengthening them and honoring their service to us.

The operations in Iraq, Afghanistan, and Kosovo are ongoing, with no end in sight. We do not know if emergent threats around the world will become real and embroil us in yet other military operations, partially because our Active Forces are stretched so thin we need to call up our Guard and Reserve, and yet because of this we could face a retention crisis.

As I said, the deployments are lengthy, the benefits and legal protections are not sufficient in many instances, and the equipment is lacking. So let us hope we can take steps through this legislation and others to fix this situation.

I hope the bill I offer today and sponsor today—and I look forward to many cosponsors joining on this bill—will improve the Guard and Reserve benefits, and legal protections. As I said, we are calling it the 21st Century Citizen Soldier Benefit Act.

We have had two major changes or improvements to the Guard and Reserve framework, one in 1940 and one in 1994. It is time, 10 years later, this year, 2004, with the unprecedented nature of their service, to step up this framework of support for our Guard and Reserve. It is time for Congress, in my opinion, to take a comprehensive look at the benefits and protections afforded to the members of the Guard and Reserve.

We have not done so since 1994. It is time that we do this. My bill does it in several ways.

First, we call for equal benefits for equal service in the area of burial benefits, for activated Guard and Reserve should be the same as Active Duty. Guardsmen and Reservists cannot be buried in national cemeteries unless they are killed in action. Think about that. A man or a woman serves not just for 6 months, but maybe 2 years, comes home, is called back to go again, dodges the bullets, gets past the landmines, perhaps is seriously injured but escapes unscathed and comes home after serving valiantly, and then is denied burial benefits because they were not "killed in action." I think because of what they have done, it is time for us to give them the right opportunities for burial in our national cemeteries if they are serving the time that our Active Duty serve, with all the dignity that they would deserve in such a situation.

The bill does not authorize every member of the Guard and Reserve to these burial rights, but it is inconceivable why someone who fought overseas for our Nation cannot be buried with his or her comrades simply because one soldier was in the Reserve and one soldier was active—fighting side by side, same foxhole, same patrol, same landmine but yet not the same burial ground.

No. 2, we hope in this bill that guardsmen and reservists activated for 2 years should have active duty GI bill benefits—the GI bill, which is probably one of the best pieces of legislation this Congress has ever passed, it is referred to hundreds of times in speeches on and off the floor, and is one of the bills Americans generally know about, quote, and can say what it does. It has enabled millions of American troops to enroll in college when they returned from World War II. The GI bill created a bedrock of middle-class Americans. It was one of the cornerstones that helped us build the middle class, and it ushered in 50 years of unprecedented economic growth. Why? Because when people get good training and good education, their earning potential goes up and the contribution they can make to their community rises in a significant way.

Today, members of the Active-Duty Forces receive more in GI benefits than the Guard and Reserve personnel, and if the Guard and Reserve personnel weren't contributing in equal ways to our active duty, I would not be here arguing for them, but they are contributing in equal ways, putting their lives in danger. Our bill will allow them to participate more equally in the GI benefits.

The third part of this bill would seek to create parity between Reserve components and Active Duty in terms of their retirement age. Right now, Active Duty can leave the military once they serve 20 years. We think that is a great benefit. It is one of the attractions to the military service. Many of our military men and women serve honorably for 20 years and then retire to go off and have yet a second and third career, as lifespans continue to increase. We are proud of that. We believe and know they contribute in many ways even past their service.

But Guard and Reserve today cannot collect retirement until 60 years of age.

This bill would reduce it to 55 years and end what is an unjust situation and help them. Hopefully it will address part of this retention issue by making these benefits more generous.

The fourth and I think one of the most important issues this bill seeks to address is ending the pay gap faced by guardsmen and reservists. Mr. President, I don't know if in Texas you have had a lot of people complain to you about this, but I sure have had people in Louisiana come up and say to me, Senator, I can't possibly understand how we would ask someone to put on their uniform, go to Iraq, and take a 40-percent, 30-percent, or 20-percent cut in pay, to put their life on the line while we enjoy all the benefits staying home here in a safe place here on the homefront. It is not that we have not had challenges right here on the homefront, but not to the same degree and intensity as we are finding on the front lines of the battlefield.

Yet the fact is, because there is no tax credit in our law right now and because it is not mandatory for employers—or the Federal Government, I might add, which is something Senator DURBIN and I have worked very hard on together—to maintain their salaries at the level before they leave, some of these guardsmen and reservists are actually taking a 30-percent or 40-percent cut in pay to serve us and to keep us safe. That means while they are making the sacrifice on the battlefield, which many of these men and women are willing to make, we are asking their spouses and their children to give up the car, sell the house, give up their college fund, and it is simply not fair in a country that has the resources we have. In this Congress we want to give tax credits to everybody in the world for everything under the sun. I don't know how we can't find the few hundreds of millions of dollars that it would take to give this tax credit to allow people to serve in the Guard and Reserve and just maintain their salary level while they serve so it doesn't put their families in jeopardy.

I am going to go visit our troops in Lafayette on Monday. I know the community comes together. I know the women, many of them, join together for bake sales and help out and pay each other's car payments. Sometimes the community pulls together to pay the mortgage on the house. I think that is wonderful and it is the good old American spirit. But I don't know if it is necessary, not when we are giving out tax credits to companies that are taking jobs overseas, not when we are giving out tax credits to people who make millions and are not putting on the uniform. The least we can do is help our businesses to write off what they would have as a voluntary compensation package to maintain this salary level for the men and women serving overseas to minimize the sacrifice made by their families here at home. It would also require the Federal Government to step up to the plate and, as one of the largest employers in the Nation, to make sure those salaries are compensated.

Let me share stories, one or two, from these families. There was an April 22, 2003 article from USA Today that I will ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From USA Today, Apr. 22, 2003]

RESERVISTS UNDER ECONOMIC FIRE

WASHINGTON.—Drastic pay cuts. Bankruptcy. Foreclosed homes. They aren't exactly the kind of challenges that members of America's military reserves signed up for when they volunteered to serve their country.

But for many, the biggest threat to the home front isn't Saddam Hussein or Osama bin Laden. It's the bill collector.

Four in 10 members of the National Guard or reserves lose money when they leave their civilian jobs for active duty, according to a Pentagon survey taken in 2000. Of 1.2 million members, 223,000 are on active duty around the world.

Concern is growing in Congress, and several lawmakers in both parties have introduced legislation to ease the families' burden.

Janet Wright says she "sat down and cried" when she realized how little money she and her children, Adelia, 5, and Carolyn, 2, would have to live on when her husband was sent to the Middle East. In his civilian job with an environmental cleanup company, Russell Wright makes $60,000 a year—twice what he'll be paid as a sergeant in the Marine Forces Reserve. Back in Hammond, La., his wife, who doesn't have a paying job, is pouring the kids more water and less milk. She is trying to accelerate Carolyn's potty training schedule to save on diapers.

She doesn't know how long she'll have to pinch pennies. Like his fellow reservists, Russell Wright has been called up for one year. He could be sent home sooner, or the military could exercise its option to extend his tour of duty for a second year. Even so, Janet Wright considers her family lucky: She can still pay the mortgage, and the children's pediatrician accepts Tricare, the military health plan.

Ray Korizon, a 23-year veteran with the Air Force Reserve and an employee of the Federal Aviation Administration, says his income will also be cut in half if his unit ships out. Korizon, who lives in Schaumburg, Ill., knows the financial costs of doing his patriotic duty from bitter experience. Before the Persian Gulf War in 1991, he owned a Chicago construction company with 26 employees. He was sent overseas for six months and lost the business.

Still, he never considered leaving the reserve. Korizon says he enjoys the work and the camaraderie. But he worries about whether his two kids can continue to see the same doctor when he shifts to military health coverage. "It's hard to go out and do the job you want to do when you're worried about things back home," he says.

Once regarded as "weekend warriors," they have become an integral part of U.S. battle plans. Call-ups have been longer and more frequent.

"The last time you'd see this type of mobilization activity was during World War II," says Maj. Charles Kohler of the Maryland National Guard. Of the Maryland Guard's 8,000 members, 3,500 are on active duty. Kohler knows several who are in serious financial trouble. One had to file for bankruptcy after a yearlong deployment, during which his take-home pay fell by two-thirds.

Stories like that are the result of a shift in military policy. Since the end of the Cold War, the ranks of the full-time military have been reduced by one-third. The Pentagon has increasingly relied on the nation's part-time soldiers. More than 525,000 members of the Guards and reserves have been mobilized in the 12 years since the Persian Gulf War. For the previous 36 years, the figure was 199,877.

The end of fighting in Iraq isn't likely to lessen the pressure on the Guard and reserves. They'll stay on with the regular military in a peacekeeping role. Nobody knows how long, but in Bosnia, Guard members and reservists are on duty seven years after the mission began.

Korizon, who maintains avionics systems on C-130 cargo planes, has been told his Milwaukee-based reserve unit may be called up for humanitarian missions.

Some of the specialists who are in the greatest demand—physicians and experts in biological and chemical agents—command six-figure salaries in civilian life. The average pay for a midlevel officer is $50,000 to $55,000.

"They were prepared to be called up. They were prepared to serve their country," Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., says. "They were not prepared to be part of a regular force and be away from home 200 to 300 days a year."

Concerns are growing on Capitol Hill. As the nation's reliance on the Guard and reserves has increased, "funding for training and benefits simply have not kept up," says Republican Sen. Saxby Chambliss of Georgia, a member of the Armed Services Committee.

The General Accounting Office, Congress' auditing arm, is studying pay and benefits for Guard members and reservists. A report is due in September. Meanwhile, members of Congress are pushing several bills to ease the burden.

Closing the pay gap. Some employers make up the difference in salary for reservists on active duty. But many, including the federal government, do not. A bill sponsored by Democratic Sens. Mikulski, Dick Durbin of Illinois and Mary Landrieu of Louisiana would require the federal government to make up lost pay. Landrieu is doing that for one legislative aide who has been called up for active duty.

She has also introduced a bill to give private employers a 50% tax credit if they subsidize reservists' salaries.

Closing the health gap. Once on active duty, reservists, Guard members and their families are covered by Tricare.

But for the 75% of reserve and Guard families living more than 50 miles from military treatment facilities, finding physicians who participate in Tricare can be difficult.

A measure sponsored by Sen. Mike DeWine, a Republican from Ohio, would give reservists and Guard members the option of making Tricare their regular insurer or having the federal government pay premiums for their civilian health insurance while they are on active duty. Several senior Democrats, including Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle of South Dakota and Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, support the idea.

Keeping creditors at bay. The Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act caps interest rates on mortgages, car payments and other debts owed by military personnel at 6% while they are on active duty. But Sen. Lindsey Graham, a South Carolina Republican who is the Senate's only reservist, says the act doesn't apply to debts that are held in the name of a spouse who is not a member of the military. He plans to introduce legislation to cover spouses.

Despite a groundswell of support for troops, none of the bills is assured of passage. There's concern among some administration officials about the cost of some of the proposals. In addition, some at the Pentagon think morale would be hurt if some reservists end up with higher incomes than their counterparts in the regular ranks.

Ms. LANDRIEU. It starts:

Drastic pay cuts. Bankruptcy. Foreclosed homes. They aren't exactly the kind of challenges that members of America's military reserves signed up for when they volunteered to serve their country. But for many, the biggest threat to the home front isn't Saddam Hussein or Osama bin Laden. It's the bill collector.

And that is a shame. I think the two enemies mentioned before the bill collector are people we need to actually be focusing our attention on, bringing them to justice in one case and finding them in the other. I don't think our troops need to be worried about bill collectors back home, but that is the position we have them in because we have not acted, will not act, refuse to act in the face of giving everybody else tax credits, but we can't seem to find room in the budget for these 634,000 of our bravest.

I want to say for the record, in Louisiana, Janet Wright's husband Russell is in the Marine Reserves. He made $60,000 a year. Russell was activated. He will only make $30,000. Mrs. Wright says she started putting water in her children's cereal and hopes her daughter can be quickly potty trained to save on diapers. Mrs. Wright has to count every penny.

This family is from Hammond, La. I just don't think this is right. I think we can do something about it, and this bill attempts to do that. A 50-percent tax credit to those employers to continue to pay their salaries to fill this pay gap is part of this bill.

One other point of the bill, and then a short conclusion. We put a cap on interest rates. Many of us have loans out for a variety of different purposes—automobiles, perhaps some business loans that have been made for our businesses, obviously mortgages. We put in an interest rate cap so when you are deployed, you don't have to pay more than a 6-percent rate. When rates were 20 percent and 25 percent, that made a lot of sense and it was a great benefit. But as rates are relatively low today, this bill would make a modest change to either have it at 6 percent or prime plus 1. Again, it is not a huge amount of money, but it could potentially save a family a few hundred dollars a year. It is the least we can do as part of trying to help them make ends meet while their primary breadwinner in most cases is the one deployed.

As Congress works to best give our military the tools they need to succeed in the 21st century, we must reinforce and increase the benefits and protections for our Reserves. We have asked so much of them, and they have met every challenge with excellence. As we saw unfolding on our television screens yesterday and today, we couldn't ask them to do more. The least we can do is to look at the package of benefits, upgrade it where we can, make sacrifices in other areas of our budget, and fund them first. They are the ones who are protecting us at this time. When we can provide greater legal protections to ease the stress on the homefront, we must, when and where we can. Failure to act will just exacerbate retention challenges. It will undermine our efforts to succeed in our war on terror.

I introduce this bill today. I hope we can have a speedy hearing.

I ask my colleagues to join me in sponsoring this bill so we can have a great bipartisan effort. There are many other things we can do so the Guard and Reserve really know we appreciate them, because we just do not take pictures with them but we actually put them in our budget.

I yield the floor.

By Ms. MIKULSKI (for herself, Mr. SPECTER, Mrs. MURRAY, Mrs. CLINTON, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. DASCHLE, and Mr. DAYTON):

S. 2275. A bill to amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (6 U.S.C. 101 et seq.) to provide for homeland security assistance for high-risk nonprofit organizations, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, today I rise on behalf of myself and Senators SPECTER, MURRAY, CLINTON, LANDRIEU, DAYTON, SCHUMER, DASCHLE and LIEBERMAN, to introduce the High-Risk Non-Profit Security and Safety Enhancement Act of 2004. This bill provides homeland security assistance for high-risk non-profits to protect them against foreign terrorist attacks. This legislation is critical to help protect the "soft targets" of terrorism all over the United States.

We are all aware of recent terrorist attacks in the United States, Spain, Germany, Iraq, Tunisia, Kenya, Morocco and Turkey. These attacks by Al Qaeda on an international Red Cross building, synagogues, train stations, hotels, airports, restaurants, night clubs, and cultural centers, show its willingness to attack "soft targets" of all types in order to conduct its campaign of terror.

I want to make sure that our communities are protected and the buildings where citizens live, learn and work are as secure as possible to safeguard American lives from a potential terrorist attack. Local communities are on the front lines in our war against terrorism. This Congress must do its share to make sure that they do not have to bear the full cost of this war. This bill helps us do that by providing funds for security enhancements in buildings that Americans visit everyday and by providing local law enforcement with added support for the costs they incur in helping to guard these local buildings and community centers.

Specifically, this legislation will provide up to $100 million in assistance to 501(c)(3) organizations demonstrating a high risk of terrorist attack based upon very specific standards. Organizations wishing to receive security enhancements under this Act must demonstrate that they have experienced specific threats by international terrorist organizations, there were prior attacks against similarly situated organizations, there is vulnerability of the specific site, the symbolic value of the site as a highly recognized American Institution, or that they have a specific role in responding to terrorist attacks.

This bill allows the Department of Homeland Security to contract for security enhancements to help these high-risk non-profit organizations. These funds can only be used for security enhancements, such as concrete barriers, and "hardening" of windows and doors, as well as technical assistance to assess needs, develop plans, and train personnel. Funding under this Act can never be used for enhancements that would only be reasonably necessary to protect from neighborhood crime.

This bill also helps our vital first responders, those who are on the front-line everyday helping to protect these "soft targets." These men and women have the responsibility for protecting institutions against the possibility of terrorist attack, while they are also responding to the public safety needs of the entire community. By authorizing $50 million in grant funds for local police departments, this bill provides real relief to local law enforcement who bear the growing costs associated with providing heightened security to high-risk non-profits.

As a Nation our priority in fighting the war on terror is to be able to better detect, prevent and respond to acts of terrorism. This bill gets us one step closer to meeting those goals by helping vulnerable targets better detect and prevent terrorist attacks and by making sure that if terror strikes one of these facilities, security and safety measures are in place to protect the lives of those inside and around these buildings.

Nothing the Senate does is more important than providing America security and Americans safety. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation because it does exactly that. It makes sure that there is added security for these "soft targets" that Americans visit everyday and it adds funding to support the local police, fire and rescue workers who are the first responders when there is a threat to one of these organizations. In the battle to protect our Nation from terrorist attacks, we must be sure to provide assistance to these high-risk non-profit organizations that provide vital health, social, cultural, and educational services to the American people.

I know others share my concerns about protecting these "soft targets" in our war against terrorism and that is why the United Jewish Communities, the American Red Cross, United Way, the American Hospital Association, the American Association of Museums, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU), American Jewish Congress, the Theatre Communications Group, and the YMCA of the USA are all united in supporting this legislation.

This bill not only supports homeland security, it supports hometown security, making our communities stronger and safer, and I encourage my colleagues to join me in supporting this legislation and ask unanimous consent to print in the RECORD a letter from organizations supporting this effort and I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

COALITION FOR THE HIGH-RISK NON-PROFIT SECURITY ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 2004, MARCH 29, 2004.

DEAR MEMBER OF CONGRESS: Before the recess—We are requesting that you sign-on as a co-sponsor of the High-Risk Non-Profit Security Enhancement Act of 2004, legislation to provide for homeland security assistance for high-risk non-profits to protect them against foreign terrorist attacks. The legislative language is attached to this e-mail.

As leaders of our nation's non-profit sector, we firmly believe there is a compelling public interest in protecting high-risk non-profit institutions from terrorist attacks that would disrupt the vital health, social, educational and spiritual services they provide to the American people, and threaten the lives and well-being of American citizens who operate, utilize, and live or work in proximity to such institutions.

The risk to such institutions since 9/11 is clear. Al Qaeda's willingness to attack targets of all types has been made readily apparent with attacks in the United States, Spain, Germany, Iraq, Tunisia, Kenya, Morocco, and Turkey, including an international Red Cross building, synagogues, train stations, hotels, airports, restaurants, night clubs, and cultural centers.

This legislation would authorize the Secretary of Homeland Security to make available in FY 2005 up to $100 million in assistance to 501(c)(3) organizations demonstrating a high risk of terrorist attack based upon: specific threats of international terrorist organizations, prior attacks against similarly situated organizations; the vulnerability of the specific site; the symbolic value of the site as a highly recognized American institution; or the role of the institution in responding to terrorist attacks. Federal loan guarantees would also be available to make loans accessible on favorable terms. Funds would be allocated by a new office in the Department of Homeland Security dedicated to working with high-risk non-profits nationwide.

The authorized amount of grants—$100 million—is a fraction of the assessed needs of high-risk non-profits, which is well in excess of $1 billion. However, in view of current budgetary constraints, supporters of this legislation have proposed a modest level of Federal assistance.

Applicant organizations would submit requests to state homeland security authorities that would identify and prioritize high-risk institutions. Qualifying requests would be forwarded to the Secretary of Homeland Security who would allocate resources based on risk—maximizing the number of institutions receiving security enhancements and technical assistance. Payments would be made directly to contractors.

Security enhancements would include items directly related to the international terrorist threat, such as concrete barriers, and “hardening” of windows and doors, as well as technical assistance to assess needs, develop plans, and train personnel. Funds could not be used for security equipment that would reasonably be necessary for protection from neighborhood crime.

The bill also authorizes $50 million for local police departments to provide additional security in areas where there is a high concentration of high-risk non-profits.

“Sec. 1810. Authorization of appropriations and loan guarantees.”

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I seek recognition today to introduce the High-Risk Non-Profit Security Enhancement Act of 2004 together with my colleague Senator MIKULSKI. Since 9/11, al-Qaida has attacked a series of so-called “soft targets” around the globe including hotels, synagogues, social centers and facilities of the Red Cross. This grim reality is forcing such soft targets here in the United States to confront the need for very expensive security enhancements to their facilities. This legislation will help non-profit organizations—those soft targets least able to afford these security enhancements—to do the work that they need to do such as the building of concrete barriers and the “hardening” of windows and doors.

On February 11, 2003, CIA Director George Tenet provided the following testimony to the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence:

Until al-Qaida finds an opportunity for the big attack, it will try to maintain its operational tempo by striking “softer” targets. And what I mean by “softer,” Mr. Chairman, are simply targets al-Qaida planners may view as less well protected. . . . Al-Qaida has also sharpened its focus on our Allies in Europe and on operations against Israeli and Jewish targets.

Also on February 11, 2003, FBI Director Robert S. Mueller testified as follows before the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence:

Multiple small-scale attacks against soft targets—such as banks, shopping malls, supermarkets, apartment buildings, schools and universities, houses of worship and places of recreation and entertainment—would be easier to execute and would minimize the need to communicate with the central leadership, lowering the risks of detection.

The record has sadly confirmed the words of Directors Tenet and Mueller. Al-Qaida has been responsible for a series of attacks against soft targets including numerous synagogues, A Red Cross building, train stations, hotels airports, restaurants and night clubs. These targets have been in countries throughout the world including Spain, Germany, Iraq, Tunisia, Kenya, Morocco and Turkey.

In the face of this very real terrorist threat, these soft targets have an obligation to take the necessary steps to better protect themselves and all who visit their facilities. These additional security measures place an especially heavy burden upon non-profit corporations with limited resources. Effective security measures do not come cheap.

This legislation would authorize the Secretary of Homeland Security to make available in FY 2005 up to $100 million in assistance to non profits which demonstrate a high risk of terrorist attack. In choosing which projects to fund, the secretary will give preference to those non profit organizations he determines to be at the greatest risk of international terrorist attack based upon the following criteria:

(1) Specific threats of international terrorist organizations; (2) Prior attacks against similarly situated organizations; (3) The vulnerability of the specific site; (4) The symbolic value of the site as a highly recognized American institution; or (5) The role of the institution in responding to terrorist attacks.

Applicant organizations would submit request to state homeland security authorities that would identify and prioritize high-risk institutions. Qualifying requests would be forwarded to the Secretary of Homeland Security who would allocate resources based on his assessment of the risk. Payments would be made from the Department of Homeland security directly to the contractors who will do the work.

For those programs that do not get their security projects funded, Federal loan guarantees would also be available so that they can take out loans on favorable terms. The bill also authorizes $50 million for local police departments to provide additional security in areas where there is a high concentration of high-risk non-profits.

Mr. President, the threat of terrorism is placing an enormous burden on non-profit organizations that face a higher risk of terror attack due to their affiliation of function. This bill is an important step towards helping these non-profits meet these new and expensive security needs. It is my hope that my colleagues will join me in addressing this overlooked front in the war on terror.

By Mrs. BOXER:

S. 2276. A bill to allow the Secretary of Homeland Security to make grants to Amtrak, other rail carriers, and providers of mass transportation for improvements to the security of our Nation's rail and mass transportation system; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, two and a half years ago, the United States was caught unprepared when it came to aviation security. The results were devastating.

Since then, we have greatly improved our aviation security, and we have begun to improve our port security. We have a long way to go in both of these areas.

But, we have a longer way to go to secure our rail system—both passenger, freight, and local transit.

In October 2001, the Commerce Committee passed a rail security bill to authorize $1.77 billion over two years for Amtrak. We knew that the United States must not be caught off-guard when it comes to our passenger and freight rail systems.

Unfortunately, the bill never became law.

And, now, we have received another warning. In March, terrorists blew up commuter trains in Madrid killing nearly 200 people and injuring 1,400. We must heed this warning and address the vulnerability of America's rail systems. We must act now.

Today, I am introducing legislation that will authorize funding for more police, canine dogs, and surveillance equipment on Amtrak and local transit systems. The bill will authorize $500 million per year for five years. One-third of the funding will be spent on Amtrak based on passenger ridership and the remainder of the funding will be spent on securing rail and transit.

This is important for the entire nation, but it is especially important for California. California has the second highest Amtrak ridership in the country. Almost 9 million passenger trips began or ended in California during fiscal year 2003. Amtrak operates an average of 68 intercity and 300 commuter trains per day in California.

The freight rail system is also important for goods movement. California's ports receive over 40 percent of all of the goods that are shipped into the United States. Many of the imports are shipped by rail through California and to the rest of the nation. If there were a terrorist attack, the impact on our economy would be devastating.

Finally, local communities throughout California have mass transit systems. For example, Muni, in San Francisco, is the 7th largest transit system in the nation. There is light rail in Los Angeles, Sacramento, and San Diego. Livermore Amador Valley Transit Authority has buses that go directly to Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, which has weapons research.

It is vitally important to ensure that our nation's entire transportation system is secure. It is time we stopped ignoring our rail systems.

By Mr. MCCAIN:

S. 2277. A bill to amend the Act of November 2, 1966 (80 Stat. 1112), to allow binding arbitration clauses to be included in all contracts affecting the land within the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Reservation; to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, today I am introducing legislation to provide a technical correction that would once again allow binding arbitration clauses to be included in all contracts affecting the land within the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community (SRPMIC). A companion bill is being introduced today by Congressman HAYWORTH.

The SRPMIC located in Scottsdale, AZ, one of the most diversified economic development portfolios in Indian country. Blessed with a prime location in metropolitan Phoenix, the Tribe has nearly a dozen business enterprises including a sand and gravel operation, a cement company, two golf courses, and a shopping center. The tribe wants to continue diversifying their economy in the hopes of becoming economically self-sufficient. This legislation is intended to help them achieve this goal.

This bill would make technical corrections to title 215, U.S. Code, Section 416a(c) relating to “binding arbitration of disputes.” Recently, in an effort to consolidate and streamline various rules, regulations, and laws, some sections of Title 25, U.S. Code, Section 81 were repealed that affected the Bureau of Indian Affairs. An unintended consequence of this consolidation was that the definition for leases, which included sublease, substitute lease, and master lease, was altered. Simply put, this legislation would reinstate the prior definition for leases on the reservation to include subleases, substitute leases, and master leases. Without this clarification, the tribe fears that potential tenants may be leery to invest on tribal land.

This legislation may seem minor, but it would go a long way toward helping the SRPMIC achieve the economic self-sufficiency it is working toward. Therefore, I urge my colleagues to support this legislation and work for its speedy passage.

By Mr. HOLLINGS (for himself, Mr. MCCAIN, and Mr. BREAUX):

S. 2279. A bill to amend title 46, United States Code, with respect to maritime transportation security, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, less than 1 year ago, we wrapped up work on the port security bill that was signed into law as the Maritime Security Act of 2002, MTSA. That act mandated and outlined changes that are needed to shore up security in our ports, and established for the first time a system to coordinate, plan and implement port security at U.S. seaports. While this was landmark legislation, much still needs to be done with respect to the implementation of the requirements mandated by this law.

I am very dissatisfied with the current Administration's disinterest in paying for port security, and would point out that we are approaching a crisis, as Federal mandates are being rolled out for security without Federal support. I have tried over and over to focus the attention of the Administration on this crucial need and pushed to no avail in the Senate to get the resources necessary to address this problem. But to date, I have gotten little support. In addition to appropriating much needed funds for port security, it has become apparent that keeping up with security needs at our ports is an ever evolving task, and that we may have to refocus our efforts and push harder to ensure that we coordinate our policies and maximize the limited resources that we have in this area.

Today, in order to keep up with these needs, I am introducing the "Maritime Transportation Security Act of 2004", along with Senator MCCAIN, and Senator BREAUX. I am pleased to have worked on this with Senator MCCAIN, the Chairman of our Committee, as I often remark, while he has no coastline, he has worked with those of us who do have ports to work on these crucial port security issues. I am also pleased to introduce this legislation with Senator BREAUX, for he has truly been one of the leading advocates of the importance of maritime shipping and the merchant marine in the U.S. Senate. He has done invaluable work for us on the Commerce Committee, and is a true expert in the field. He will be sorely missed for his expertise on all maritime issues, although I am sure, that in the future, he will still be the Captain of some small boat, yacht, or maybe even a ship.

Even though the Coast Guard, Customs and other agencies charged with the implementation of these measures have aggressively taken initial steps necessary to set up our future structure for seaport security there is still much to do, and effective action needs to occur to help coordinate and crystallize security policies and objectives. The Maritime Transportation Security Act of 2004 would attempt to mandate a coordinated Federal approach to several areas of concern in port security. It would also attempt to set performance standards for certain areas in port security and add a few enhancements to last year's legislation. Most importantly the bill would require a user fee to be established to help pay for the port security mandates.

Specifically, this bill would impose in rem liability to secure payment of penalties and fines under the Act and to help ensure compliance with the security requirements imposed by the MTSA. The bill would also include provisions to increase security in water-side cargo areas, and ensure that cargo contents of imported marine cargo containers would be required to be cleared within 5 days of entering a U.S. port, or alternatively removed after 5 days without being cleared, to a regulated warehouse where it would be opened and reviewed to verify its contents. This would in no way change any claim to possession of the goods. Importantly, the bill would require DHS to evaluate the policies and practices of sealing empty containers. According to the Federal Maritime Commission, over 4 million containers were imported into the United States empty. At a recent hearing, a representative from the ILWU longshoremen's union pointed out that treatment of empties and the sealing practices of these containers varied from locale to locale. This bill would require an analysis of current practices at U.S. ports in order to determine what steps need to occur in order to make sure that the transport of empty containers does not present a threat of terrorism, and whether a Federal policy is justified in this area.

The bill would require the Administration to produce a coordinated plan for collecting, analyzing, and disseminating maritime intelligence information collected by Federal agencies on ships, cargo, crew members and passengers. This intelligence is used to determine which ships, cargo, or crew warrant further inspection. This section of the bill requires further development of a maritime intelligence system to collect and analyze information concerning the crew, passengers and cargoes carried on vessels operating in waters under the jurisdiction of the United States. This mandate essentially restates existing law since it appears that the agencies have actually grown further apart since the passage of the Maritime Transportation Security Act. The provision in this bill would require a plan on how the Administration will coordinate collection and analysis of maritime information, and how agency personnel might be co-located to maximize resources and coordinate analysis. This plan must also indicate when long range vessel tracking will be integrated into this intelligence information. Additionally, the plan would require the government to analyze private sector resources to evaluate how they could be used to help monitor and differentiate legitimate moves of trade from those actions and players that are more suppositious. The Federal Government does not have a lot of experience monitoring commercial maritime activity, and I believe they will have to employ private sector expertise to assist in this endeavor.

The report shall also consider the abilities of the Department of Navy to collect and analyze commercial maritime information. The U.S. Navy probably has the most resources dedicated to the evaluation of commercial shipping activities, but are precluded from sharing this information. In light of our need for better information on commercial shipping, this policy has to be reevaluated. A maritime intelligence system needs to be set up to work together so that Federal agencies, State, local and the private sector can coordinate their law enforcement activities. Maritime intelligence on commercial ocean shipping is currently gathered by the Coast Guard, Customs, INS, and other agencies such as the Federal Maritime Commission under separate systems. Only the Coast Guard and the Navy currently work together. We lag far behind in this area, and each agency is operating independent of others. We are not getting the full picture of what is happening out there. It is crucial that we have the best information available so that we can target our relatively limited resources with maximum efficiency. Further, the information has to be disseminated in a fashion to maximize its utility, while still protecting that information which needs to be kept confidential. Collection and analysis of commercial maritime information is a key element of our port security that needs more focus and has to be addressed if we are to adequately protect our Nation.

Importantly, the bill will require the Administration to come up with cargo security plans to evaluate targeting systems to determine whether they are effective in deterring and protecting against potential acts of terrorism from cargo. In the event that targeting is inadequate protection, DHS would be required to increase the amount of cargo being non-intrusively inspected or x-rayed by two over the next year. The bill would also require the consolidation of intermodal cargo security programs that have the same security goals while establishing criteria and performance goals for these security programs, which are currently operating completely independent of each other, and require certain other cargo security program enhancements. Voluntary cargo security programs are not the answer to the important problem of securing our Nation from terrorist attacks. Firm standards and goals must be in place to ensure that items that we know we don't want in marine containers are not actually in marine containers. The legislation will also require a report on the amount of actual inspections that are being done at foreign seaports.

While the Container Security Initiative was rolled out with great fanfare to work with foreign ports to inspect cargo before they get to U.S. ports, the question remains whether we are actually getting much bang for the buck. The fundamental question that needs to be addressed is whether foreign nations have been willing to use their security screening equipment for our benefit, and to what degree have they been willing to screen cargo for the benefit of our Nation. The legislation will require a report to determine whether this program needs adjustment, or is a cost-effective measure to ensure safe cargo movements into the U.S., and to update us on the progress in the installation of a system of radiation detection at U.S. ports.

Additionally, this legislation will redirect our efforts to help ensure that we can verify that security is in place to prevent an act of terrorism, and not place us in a position of having to rely on documentation and the attestations or documentation of third parties in order to determine whether we need to take actions to protect the public. The Administration has not even started to implement the certification program required to certify "secure systems of transportation," 46 U.S.C. 70116, and they must get going on this vital initiative. Otherwise, it would only take one good liar to breach our system of defense. Although I understand we cannot inspect every piece of cargo, we have a credible system in place to actively increase cargo inspections, and implement a system that would ultimately allow us to reopen U.S. ports to commerce, in the event of an attack.

Additionally, the bill also would require a report from the Coast Guard on the benefits of utilizing joint operational centers at United States seaports to implement area security plans. This report should incorporate lessons learned from the three centers that have already been established, such as "Operation SeaHawk" in Charleston, SC, and consider which security programs could be effectively fused into these joint operational centers. The Commandant of the Coast Guard would be required by this bill to report on the effectiveness of these centers for port security and determine if it would be beneficial and cost effective to establish centers in additional areas that pose a significant security risk, and to utilize them to implement area security plans.

The bill will also make sure that port security grants are reviewed and approved, as was mandated under the terms of the MTSA, and all grants are subject to the review of the Coast Guard Captain of the Port, the regional Maritime Administration representative, and other Transportation Security Administration security officials as well as other DHS security experts, before the grants are approved. This grant program is not open-ended, it is intended to help the private sector and State and municipal governments achieve compliance with Federally approved facility plans and area maritime security plans, and the changes to the statute will ensure that the grant program operates the way we intended it to operate.

The bill also requires the Maritime Administration and the State Department to evaluate existing foreign assistance programs to determine whether the existing aid programs can be utilized to help foreign nations achieve compliance with the international standard set for port security. The MTSA requires the Coast Guard to set up a mechanism to review the practices of foreign ports to ensure that they have implemented adequate security measures, and ultimately, they can take steps that would result in the closure of commerce from ports in non-compliance with international security standards. It is in the best interests of everyone potentially impacted by such a policy implication, if we review our foreign aid programs to determine whether aid can be used to implement the necessary security measures.

The bill also requires the Maritime Administration to work with the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, FLETC, and other DHS port security agencies such as TSA, Coast Guard and Customs to determine how to supplement their training programs to include a greater familiarization with commercial maritime practices. Port security law enforcement is much different in the aftermath of September 11, and officials involved in regulation and policing shipping will now have to approach it from a different perspective, and to be able to identify anomalies and irregularities, in order to best focus our limited police resources over an immense volume of trade. It is my understanding that the Maritime Administration has been utilizing resources at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy and working with FLETC to formalize port security training. I think that this change will help our Federal agencies bolster their existing training programs, and achieve a greater understanding of potential security issues that could arise, and will be a healthy addition to work already done by the Maritime Administration and FLETC.

The bill rewrites the DHS mandate to conduct research and development, and would require the Science Directorate within DHS to be more accountable to Congress for those actions they are taking to develop the types of technology necessary to address security at our seaports. Importantly, the bill also requires the Coast Guard to evaluate the security risks and policies very carefully of nuclear facilities on or adjacent to navigable waterways to ensure that we have security policies in place to prevent acts of terrorism from occurring from on or under navigable waterways. Most nuclear facilities are on or adjacent to navigable waterways, and I want the Coast Guard to exercise the highest degree of security in their treatment of these facilities and the threat posed as a result of maritime commerce or the proximity to navigable waterways.

Most importantly, this bill attempts to address the fundamental issue that will face the nation as we implement the MTSA—will sufficient funding be in place to assure that our ports and agencies will robustly pursue security, or we will have to rely on sham security programs, or efforts severely restricted by funding that result in de minimus or desultory security efforts. When the Senate and House conferred on the port security bill in the fall of 2002, the Senate conferees insisted on establishing direct funding for port security programs through a user fee, identical to the airline security fee, which would help defray the significant costs for the new port security mandates. The Administration declined to dedicate any resources for port security, and they declined to support the Senate's user fee. Unable to reach agreement with the House conferees and the Administration, I agreed to authorize just the necessary funds, but the President was required by law to report to Congress within 6 months on a funding proposal to assist States and their ports in complying with security mandates for Federal security plans. That report has never been prepared and is 9 months overdue.

When the President's budget for FY 2004 came out, after the U.S. Coast Guard had estimated that it would take $7.4 billion of funding in order to comply with the port security requirements, there was no funding for port authority compliance in that year's budget resolution. I offered an amendment to the FY 2004 Budget Resolution which was unanimously accepted to add $1 billion to help defray the first year costs of port security—ultimately it was dropped from Conference. Two weeks later, the President was presented with a direct opportunity to fund port security programs: Congressional consideration of his emergency supplemental appropriations bill to pay for the war in Iraq and bolster homeland security. Again, the Administration funding request included no funding for port authorities to help them comply with the Federal mandate, so I offered an amendment to add $1 billion to the supplemental specifically to help ports meet the new security mandates. Despite unanimous approval in the Senate 3 weeks earlier, the amendment was opposed by the Administration and defeated on the Senate floor on a straight party line vote.

Last year, I made another effort to address the port security funding inadequacies during consideration of the FY 2004 Homeland Security Appropriations bill. Again, the Administration proposed no funding for port security grants in their 2004 request, so I offered an amendment to the bill to direct $300 million specifically to port security grants without increasing the overall cost of the bill. The Administration opposed the funding increase, and the amendment was defeated largely along party lines with only three Republicans supporting the amendment.

Until this year's budget the President has not requested one dime specifically for port security. He has opposed efforts to mandate the funds be raised from the users of the system, and this year's budget request is for only $46 million. Despite opposition from the White House, Congress has directed appropriations that have resulted in grants of $450 million to ports to help ensure compliance with the Federal security mandates, and so I know that this issue is an area of major concern. Ultimately, the funding issues must be addressed, and this bill proposes a user fee to pay for the costs of compliance of port security. I had considered the possibility of authorizing the Administration to either generate funds for port security via a user fee, or alternatively mandate that funds be directly transferred from funds collected by Customs duties, but because of jurisdictional issues determined not to do so. The maritime industry supports this approach, and I am not opposed to this approach, but want only to ensure, that one way or another, we have the necessary funding in place to set up the system of port security that this nation deserves. Simply put, there is just too much at stake to hope that security emerges.

This bill seeks to continue the work to correct the security and terrorism prevention needs at our maritime borders. There is much to be done and there is a continued need for government and industry cooperation. This bill works on some of that need, yet the major need is funding for port security, which I hope that we will be able to address in the Senate very soon.

I ask unanimous consent the text of the bill to be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 327—PROVIDING FOR A PROTOCOL FOR NONPARTISAN CONFIRMATION OF JUDICIAL NOMINEES

Mr. SPECTER submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Rules and Administration:

S. RES. 327

Whereas, judicial nominations have long been the subject of controversy and delay in the United States Senate;

Whereas, in the past the controversy over judicial nominees has occurred when different political parties control the White House and the Senate;

Whereas, in the current Congress, even though the White House and the Senate are controlled by the same party, the controversy over judicial nominees continues and has reached a crisis point;

Whereas, during the current Administration there have for the first time been Senate filibusters of nominees to the U.S. Circuit Courts of Appeal;

Whereas, the White House has made recess appointments of two of these filibustered nominees;

Whereas, the minority party has taken the position that further Senate confirmations of the President's judicial nominees would be blocked unless the White House gives assurances that it will no longer make such recess appointments.

Resolved,

SECTION 1. PROTOCOL FOR NONPARTISAN CONFIRMATION OF JUDICIAL NOMINEES.

(a) TIMETABLES.—

(1) COMMITTEE TIMETABLES.—The Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, in collaboration with the Ranking Member, shall—

(A) establish a timetable for hearings for nominees to the United States district courts, courts of appeal, and Supreme Court, to occur within 30 days after the names of such nominees have been submitted to the Senate by the President; and

(B) establish a timetable for action by the full Committee to occur within 30 days after the hearings, and for reporting out nominees to the full Senate.

(2) SENATE TIMETABLES.—The Majority Leader shall establish a timetable for action by the full Senate to occur within 30 days after the Committee on the Judiciary has reported out the nominations.

(b) EXTENSION OF TIMETABLES.—

(1) COMMITTEE EXTENSIONS.—The Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, with notice to the Ranking Member, may extend by a period not to exceed 30 days, the time for action by the Committee for cause, such as the need for more investigation or additional hearings.

(2) SENATE EXTENSIONS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Majority Leader, with notice to the Minority Leader, may extend by a period not to exceed 30 days, the time for floor action for cause, such as the need for more investigation or additional hearings.

(B) RECESS PERIOD.—Any day of a recess period of the Senate shall not be included in the extension period described under subparagraph (A).

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I have sought recognition to submit a resolution providing for a protocol for the nonpartisan confirmation of judicial nominees. We have come to a crisis situation in the Senate on the confirmation of Federal judges. This has been a highly controversial subject since the beginning of the Republic. There have been controversies from time to time, pitched debates in the Senate Chamber, nominees confirmed and some nominees rejected.

The current controversies focused significantly in the last 2 years of President Reagan's Presidency when the Democrats won control of the Senate in the 1986 elections. For the last 2 years of President Reagan's tenure, the Presidential appointments were slowed down. The same thing happened during the 4 years of President George Herbert Walker Bush. When President Clinton was elected, and we had a Democrat in the White House, when we Republicans gained control of the Senate in the 1994 elections, President Clinton's nominations were slowed down. Pretty much a tit-for-tat situation.

Now that we have had both the Presidency and the Senate under Republican stewardship, the controversy has reached a new level where for the first time in the history of the Republic, court of appeals nominees have been filibustered. The responsibility of the President has been to use his constitutional authority for interim appointments. Those two interim appointments have been roundly criticized by the Democrats.

And the position has been stated on the other side of the aisle that there will be no more confirmations of Federal judges until there is a commitment, an indication, or some statement, or some understanding that the interim appointments will no longer be made.

My State of Pennsylvania is very severely impacted by this controversy. We have a nomination pending before the Senate of a distinguished Federal judge, Judge Van Antwerpen, who is ready for confirmation. The Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit is badly understaffed. We have some five nominees for the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania awaiting confirmation. There again, the courts are in need of the services of these prospective Federal judges.

The resolution, which I am submitting today, is a protocol which would call for a hearing in the Judiciary Committee 30 days after a President submits a nomination; 30 days later, a vote by the committee; 30 days after that, floor action in the Senate; 30 days after that, a decision on the outcome.

It is true there would not be the opportunity for filibuster, but the Republic has survived for more than 200 years before the filibuster was used. There was one illustration where there was a filibuster for a Supreme Court nominee, but that is really irrelevant to the kinds of controversies we have now, or the situation we are in at the present time.

Beyond my State of Pennsylvania, there are other States, other circuits, having judicial crises, and we ought to take the Federal judicial nominating confirmation process out of the politicization course, and we ought to try to work this through.

It may be that, in August, when there is some uncertainty as to who will occupy the White House and which party will control the Senate, that some accommodation can be reached. But right now litigants are being denied the prompt disposition of their cases. It is a well-known maxim that justice delayed is justice denied. It is my hope that we could find an accommodation somewhere here to do the people's business.

It is well known that partisanship is at a very high level in the Congress today—in the House of Representatives, where there is a narrow margin for the Republicans; and the partisanship here in the Senate, where there is a 51-49 majority for the Republicans.

But we ought to establish a protocol. We ought to establish a procedure. The protocol I am proposing is not in concrete. I am prepared to discuss it to find ways of working it out.

I had thought of putting in a provision that if it was a party line vote in the Judiciary Committee, even though there was not a majority in favor of sending a nominee to the floor, but a party line vote, that it come to the floor. I have decided to omit that.

I had thought about putting a provision in that if the Supreme Court nominee did not have a majority, the nominee would come to the floor in any event. And I have omitted that.

Twice in the past 14 years, nominees have come to the floor of the Senate for the Supreme Court of the United States without having a majority vote in the Judiciary Committee. But both times—one a 5-to-8 vote, the nominee came to the floor; another time, on a 7-7 tie, there was a 13-1 vote to send the nominee to the floor. And I have decided, in the interest of avoiding a controversy, to omit that.

But I ask my colleagues to review this resolution for a protocol and to see if we cannot find some way to confirm Federal judges without figuring out whose ox is being gored.

Whereas the imprisoned political opponents of Castro include librarians, journalists, poets, and others who have supported the Varela Project, which seeks to bring free speech, open elections, and democracy to Cuba;

Whereas Fidel Castro seized the opportunity to expand his brutal oppression of the people of Cuba while the attention of the United States and other nations around the world was focused on the war in Iraq;

Whereas the failure to condemn the Government of Cuba's continued political repression of democracy activists will further undermine the opportunity for freedom on the island; and

Whereas the international community missed an opportunity to speak against such brutal repression in a meaningful manner during the 59th Session of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights held in Geneva, Switzerland, from March 17, 2003, through April 23, 2003; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) reaffirms—

(A) Senate Resolution 272, 107th Congress, unanimously agreed to June 10, 2002, calling for, among other things, amnesty for all political prisoners in Cuba;

(B) Senate Resolution 97, 108th Congress, unanimously agreed to April 7, 2003, condemning the crackdown on democracy activists in Cuba; and

(C) Senate Resolution 62, 108th Congress, unanimously agreed to June 27, 2003, calling upon the Organization of American States Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, the European Union, and human rights activists throughout the world to take certain actions in regard to the human rights situation in Cuba;

(2) calls on the Government of Cuba to immediately release individuals imprisoned for political purposes;

(3) praises the bravery of those Cubans who, because they practiced free speech and signed the Varela Project petition, have been targeted in this most recent government crackdown;

(4) calls on foreign governments to—

(A) increase the pressure on the Government of Cuba to improve its record on human rights in Cuba; and

(B) invite civil society leaders and democracy activists in Cuba to official events;

(5) calls upon the 60th Session of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights in Geneva from March 15, 2004, to April 23, 2004, to—

(A) condemn Cuba for its human rights abuses; and

(B) demand that inspectors from the International Commission of the Red Cross be allowed to visit and inspect the conditions of prisons to assess for the international community the extent of human rights abuses and the current situation in Cuba; and

(6) urges the President to direct United States Representatives at the 60th Session of the Commission on Human Rights to make the strong condemnation of the human rights situation in Cuba a top priority.

SEC. —10. AMENDMENT OF 1986 CODE.

Except as otherwise expressly provided, whenever in this subtitle an amendment or repeal is expressed in terms of an amendment to, or repeal of, a section or other provision, the reference shall be considered to be made to a section or other provision of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

SEC. —11. CLARIFICATION OF ECONOMIC SUBSTANCE DOCTRINE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 7701 is amended by redesignating subsection (n) as subsection (o) and by inserting after subsection (m) the following new subsection:

“(n) CLARIFICATION OF ECONOMIC SUBSTANCE DOCTRINE; ETC.—

“(1) GENERAL RULES.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In any case in which a court determines that the economic substance doctrine is relevant for purposes of this title to a transaction (or series of transactions), such transaction (or series of transactions) shall have economic substance only if the requirements of this paragraph are met.

“(B) DEFINITION OF ECONOMIC SUBSTANCE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A transaction has economic substance only if—

“(I) the transaction changes in a meaningful way (apart from Federal tax effects) the taxpayer’s economic position, and “(II) the taxpayer has a substantial nontax purpose for entering into such transaction and the transaction is a reasonable means of accomplishing such purpose.

In applying subclause (II), a purpose of achieving a financial accounting benefit shall not be taken into account in determining whether a transaction has a substantial nontax purpose if the origin of such financial accounting benefit is a reduction of income tax.

“(ii) SPECIAL RULE WHERE TAXPAYER RELIES ON PROFIT POTENTIAL.—A transaction shall not be treated as having economic substance by reason of having a potential for profit unless—

“(I) the present value of the reasonably expected pre-tax profit from the transaction is substantial in relation to the present value of the expected net tax benefits that would be allowed if the transaction were respected, and “(II) the reasonably expected pre-tax profit from the transaction exceeds a risk-free rate of return.

“(C) TREATMENT OF FEES AND FOREIGN TAXES.—Fees and other transaction expenses and foreign taxes shall be taken into account as expenses in determining pre-tax profit under subparagraph (B)(ii).

“(2) SPECIAL RULES FOR TRANSACTIONS WITH TAX-INDIFFERENT PARTIES.—

“(A) SPECIAL RULES FOR FINANCING TRANSACTIONS.—The form of a transaction which is in substance the borrowing of money or the acquisition of financial capital directly or indirectly from a tax-indifferent party shall not be respected if the present value of the deductions to be claimed with respect to the transaction is substantially in excess of the present value of the anticipated economic returns of the person lending the money or providing the financial capital. A public offering shall be treated as a borrowing, or an acquisition of financial capital, from a tax-indifferent party if it is reasonably expected that at least 50 percent of the offering will be placed with tax-indifferent parties.

“(B) ARTIFICIAL INCOME SHIFTING AND BASIS ADJUSTMENTS.—The form of a transaction with a tax-indifferent party shall not be respected if—

“(i) it results in an allocation of income or gain to the tax-indifferent party in excess of such party’s economic income or gain, or “(ii) it results in a basis adjustment or shifting of basis on account of overstating the income or gain of the tax-indifferent party.

“(3) DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this subsection—

“(A) ECONOMIC SUBSTANCE DOCTRINE.—The term ‘economic substance doctrine’ means the common law doctrine under which tax benefits under subtitle A with respect to a transaction are not allowable if the transaction does not have economic substance or lacks a business purpose.

“(B) TAX-INDIFFERENT PARTY.—The term ‘tax-indifferent party’ means any person or entity not subject to tax imposed by subtitle A. A person shall be treated as a tax-indifferent party with respect to a transaction if the items taken into account with respect to the transaction have no substantial impact on such person’s liability under subtitle A.

“(C) EXCEPTION FOR PERSONAL TRANSACTIONS OF INDIVIDUALS.—In the case of an individual, this subsection shall apply only to transactions entered into in connection with a trade or business or an activity engaged in for the production of income.

“(D) TREATMENT OF LESSORS.—In applying paragraph (1)(B)(ii) to the lessor of tangible property subject to a lease—

“(i) the expected net tax benefits with respect to the leased property shall not include the benefits of—

“(I) depreciation,

“(II) any tax credit, or

“(III) any other deduction as provided in guidance by the Secretary, and “(ii) subclause (II) of paragraph (1)(B)(ii) shall be disregarded in determining whether any of such benefits are allowable.

“(4) OTHER COMMON LAW DOCTRINES NOT AFFECTED.—Except as specifically provided in this subsection, the provisions of this subsection shall not be construed as altering or supplanting any other rule of law, and the requirements of this subsection shall be construed as being in addition to any such other rule of law.

“(5) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this subsection. Such regulations may include exemptions from the application of this subsection.”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to transactions entered into after the date of the enactment of this Act.

“(2) DISCRETION.—The exercise of authority under paragraph (1) shall be at the sole discretion of the Commissioner and may be delegated only to the head of the Office of Tax Shelter Analysis. The Commissioner, in the Commissioner’s sole discretion, may establish a procedure to determine if a penalty should be referred to the Commissioner or the head of such Office for a determination under paragraph (1).

“(3) NO APPEAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any determination under this subsection may not be reviewed in any administrative or judicial proceeding.

“(4) RECORDS.—If a penalty is rescinded under paragraph (1), the Commissioner shall place in the file in the Office of the Commissioner the opinion of the Commissioner or the head of the Office of Tax Shelter Analysis with respect to the determination, including—

“(B) the reasons for the rescission, and

“(C) the amount of the penalty rescinded.

“(B) a description of each penalty rescinded under this subsection and the reasons therefor.

“(e) PENALTY REPORTED TO SEC.—In the case of a person—

“(1) which is required to file periodic reports under section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or is required to be consolidated with another person for purposes of such reports, and

“(C) is required to pay a penalty under section 6662B with respect to any noneconomic substance transaction, the requirement to pay such penalty shall be disclosed in such reports filed by such person for such periods as the Secretary shall specify. Failure to make a disclosure in accordance with the preceding sentence shall be treated as a failure to which the penalty under subsection (b)(2) applies.

“(f) COORDINATION WITH OTHER PENALTIES.—The penalty imposed by this section is in addition to any penalty imposed under this title.”.

(b) DISCLOSURE BY SECRETARY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 6103 is amended by redesignating subsection (q) as subsection (r) and by inserting after subsection (p) the following new subsection:

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘reportable transaction understatement’ means the sum of—

“(A) the product of—

“(i) the amount of the increase (if any) in taxable income which results from a difference between the proper tax treatment of an item to which this section applies and the taxpayer’s treatment of such item (as shown on the taxpayer’s return of tax), and

“(ii) the highest rate of tax imposed by section 1 (section 11 in the case of a taxpayer which is a corporation), and

“(B) the amount of the decrease (if any) in the aggregate amount of credits determined under subtitle A which results from a difference between the taxpayer’s treatment of an item to which this section applies (as shown on the taxpayer’s return of tax) and the proper tax treatment of such item.

For purposes of subparagraph (A), any reduction of the excess of deductions allowed for the taxable year over gross income for such year, and any reduction in the amount of capital losses which would (without regard to section 1211) be allowed for such year, shall be treated as an increase in taxable income.

If such a letter is provided to the taxpayer, only the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may compromise all or any portion of such penalty.

“(ii) relates solely to the taxpayer’s chances of success on the merits of such treatment and does not take into account the possibility that a return will not be audited, such treatment will not be raised on audit, or such treatment will be resolved through settlement if it is raised.

“(B) CERTAIN OPINIONS MAY NOT BE RELIED UPON.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—An opinion of a tax advisor may not be relied upon to establish the reasonable belief of a taxpayer if—

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. FRIST. I ask unanimous consent the joint resolution be read a third time and passed, the preamble be agreed to, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The joint resolution (S.J. Res. 28) was read the third time and passed.

The preamble was agreed to.

The joint resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S.J. RES. 28

Whereas June 6, 2004, marks the 60th anniversary of D-Day, the first day of the Allied landing at Normandy during World War II by American, British, and Canadian troops;

Whereas the D-Day landing, known as Operation Overlord, was the most extensive amphibious operation ever to occur, involving on the first day of the operation 5,000 naval vessels, more than 11,000 sorties by Allied aircraft, and 153,000 members of the Allied Expeditionary Force;

Whereas the bravery and sacrifices of the Allied troops at 5 separate Normandy beaches and numerous paratrooper and glider landing zones began what Allied Supreme Commander Dwight D. Eisenhower called a "Crusade in Europe" to end Nazi tyranny and restore freedom and human dignity to millions of people;

Whereas that great assault by sea and air marked the beginning of the end of Hitler's ambition for world domination;

Whereas American troops suffered over 6,500 casualties on D-Day; and

Whereas the people of the United States should honor the valor and sacrifices of their fellow countrymen, both living and dead, who fought that day for liberty and the cause of freedom in Europe: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That Congress—

(1) recognizes the 60th anniversary of the Allied landing at Normandy during World War II; and

(2) requests the President to issue a proclamation calling on the people of the United States to observe the anniversary with appropriate ceremonies and programs to honor the sacrifices of their fellow countrymen to liberate Europe.

TEMPORARY EXTENSION OF PROGRAMS UNDER SMALL BUSINESS ACT AND SMALL BUSINESS EXTENSION ACT OF 1958

Mr. FRIST. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of H.R. 4062, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the bill by title.

A bill (H.R. 4062) to provide for an additional temporary extension of programs under the Small Business Act and the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 through June 4, 2004, and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. SNOWE. Mr. President, I rise to support passage of H.R. 4062, a bill that provides needed improvements to the Small Business Administration's largest business loan program, the "Section 7(a)" program, at no additional cost to the Government.

The SBA's 7(a) loan program has proven that a small amount of government backing can greatly enhance private-sector financing for small businesses, and that the economic benefits reverberate throughout the economy at large. Small businesses create almost 75 percent of the net new jobs in the economy. The 7(a) program harnesses this power and has helped small businesses to create or retain nearly 2 million more jobs in the last five years.

The program is so popular among small businesses that demand for program funds in the first few months of fiscal year 2004 suggests that requests for the entire year would far out-pace its available budget. As a result, in January 2004, the SBA shut the program down, and then re-opened it with a loan cap of $750,000—only 37.5 percent of the $2 million maximum previously available. Faced with these restrictions, small businesses have urged Congress and the administration to improve funding opportunities for the rest of 2004.

Together with my fellow Senators, colleagues in the House, and a large coalition of small businesses and lenders, we have worked for several months to construct a way to improve the program by allowing lenders to help alleviate the funding shortfall. This plan would benefit small businesses and lenders by allowing loans larger than $750,000, and by allowing "piggyback" loans, or by allowing financing packages with several portions. And again, we could do this without increasing Government expenditures.

The bill would achieve these goals in three ways. First, lenders would return to the SBA a 0.25 percent, or one-quarter of one percent, fee on new loans under $150,000. Lenders are currently permitted to retain this amount from a borrower fee, of 1 percent, that lenders already collect and pass on to the SBA. For loans larger than $150,000, lenders already must pass the entire borrower fee on to the SBA; this change would make the treatment the same for all loan sizes. This proposal was first made by the SBA, as part of a larger plan the SBA submitted to Congress this year.

Second, a lender fee on new loans would be increased from 0.25 percent, one-quarter of one percent, to 0.36 percent. This fee cannot be passed on to small businesses.

Third, lenders would be permitted to provide small businesses with "piggyback" financing packages that include a 7(a) loan portion and a non-7(a), strictly commercial portion, if the lenders paid the normal fees on the 7(a) loan portion and a 0.70 percent fee on the non-7(a) portion. Prior to January 2004, the SBA permitted this type of financing, but without receiving any fee income for the non-7(a) portion, and without an upper limit on the total financing. H.R. 4062 prohibits the non-7(a) portion of the financing from being larger than the 7(a) loan.

The bill also extends to June 4, 2004, the authorization for several SBA programs that would otherwise expire on April 2, 2004, including the Preferred Surety Bond Program, the Small Disadvantaged Business Program, and the SBA's co-sponsorship authority. Finally, the bill extends to September 30, 2004, the authorization for the SBA's Certified Development Company program, also known as the 504 Loan Program.

H.R. 4062 is very similar to legislation which I introduced in the Senate on March 10, S. 2193, the "Small Business Loan Revitalization Act of 2004," which I was joined in sponsoring by 18 fellow Senators. That legislation was the result of months of hard work and negotiations with fellow Senators, colleagues in the House, small businesses, lenders, and the administration. I regret that S. 2193's provisions, such as its lower fees for lenders, and the increased debenture sizes for the 504 Loan Program which I recently added by amendment, are not being enacted today, but I am pleased that, according to the Small Business Administration's projections, H.R. 4062 at least achieves the goal of allowing the 7(a) program to operate without restriction through the remainder of this fiscal year.

ORDERS FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 2,

Mr. FRIST. I ask unanimous consent when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until 9 a.m. on Friday, April 2nd. I further ask that following the prayer and pledge, the morning hour be deemed expired, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and the Senate then begin a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. FRIST. Tomorrow the Senate will be in session for the transaction of routine morning business. There will be no rollcall votes during Friday's session. The next rollcall vote will occur on Wednesday of next week. I will have more to say on that in the morning.

Next week, there are a number of issues that may be addressed. There is an important medical liability bill being introduced by Senator GREGG and others, Pregnancy and Trauma Care Access Protection Act of 2004. That bill deserves to be debated and voted on. We will try to schedule that bill for next week. I will continue to hold out hope that we will be able to finish the JOBS bill, which is the FSC/ETI bill.

Senators have come to the floor over the course of the last several weeks discussing the importance of this bill. Yet we have been unable to vote on the legislation as the WTO sanctions continue each day. In fact, today, since this is 1 month after the sanctions began, the sanctions were increased by $40 million. We must move expeditiously on that bill. It is a priority for the Senate. We will have an opportunity next week to speak on this bill.

The pension reform conference report is another piece of legislation that should be moved expeditiously. The House may act on that conference report later this evening or on Friday. I will be talking to my colleagues about scheduling that conference report for Senate action.

Finally, the conferees on the budget resolution continue to meet and it is important to address the budget conference report as soon as that does become available. Having said that, we have a lot of work to do and not a lot of time to do it. We will be working each day next week with an effort to schedule the above-mentioned items throughout.

In addition, next week we have accommodated Members' schedules for the observance of Passover. I will have more to say on the specific schedule for rollcall votes on Wednesday, April 7. However, we will have no vote prior to 2:15 on that day on Wednesday.

ORDER FOR ADJOURNMENT

MR. FRIST. If there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order, following the completion of the remarks of Senator DAYTON and following the remarks of Senator SARBANES, each for up to 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

VOTING TO HELP THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Mr. DAYTON. Mr. President, I am troubled by some of the comments made earlier as we debated whether to continue with this bill before us. In particular, one of the leaders on the other side of the aisle is quoted in today's paper as saying—this a direct quote—"Why put our Members through the whole litany of Democratic political votes for no discernible gain?"

I am amazed at the implication these amendments we in the Democratic caucus are trying in vain to have voted upon by the Senate are political votes. I am even more astonished it could be said they are for no discernible gain.

For whose gain are we talking? Not, perhaps, for Republican Members of the Senate. But that is not the purpose of our amendments. These are amendments to benefit the American people.

We are talking about extending unemployment benefits for the over 1.1 million Americans who have exhausted those benefits since December of last year. The Children's Defense Fund, originators of the No Child Left Behind concept, are committed to seeing it carried out and have estimated 622,000 American children live in families whose parents have exhausted their unemployment benefits. They estimate each of those families loses an average of $1,100 a month in income when their unemployment benefits run out. It drives over a third of them below the poverty level. Over two-thirds of those families lose their health care coverage.

No discernible gain from a vote on extending unemployment benefits? Perhaps not to the Republican caucus. But it would surely make a huge difference to 1.1 million American adults and their 622,000 children.

No discernible gain to a vote on protecting overtime pay for some 8 million Americans who stand to lose those benefits through the unilateral action of the Secretary of Labor? These are not idle political gestures. These are real decisions affecting the lives of millions of Americans.

It may be inconvenient for some Members to vote on them, but that is our responsibility in this body.

EDUCATION FUNDING

As another illustration of how these votes and these decisions really do affect people's lives, about a month ago we were holding rollcall votes regarding the budget resolution for the next fiscal year, and just about that same time the Secretary of Education was in my State of Minnesota, where he met with educators and with State officials, and with, evidently, some of the Members of the Minnesota congressional delegation on the other side of the aisle—I was not invited to either of those meetings, which seemed a shame since they were being billed as non-political meetings, but, nevertheless, they did occur—and at that meeting—again, I was not invited, so I was not there—according to the reports of those who attended, the Secretary assured these Minnesota educators that No Child Left Behind is adequately funded.

Well, there had been rumors that there were going to be cutbacks affecting Minnesota in the title I program, which is the major source of funds under the so-called No Child Left Behind. So the Minnesota educators were temporarily relieved by that, until just a few weeks later—scarcely a month later, in fact—when the actual title I allocations for the next fiscal year, 2005, became known.

Lo and behold, Minnesota will experience a reduction of over $2.5 million. Only two States in the Nation are going to experience cuts in title I funding from the year 2004 to the next year, 2005: Massachusetts and Minnesota.

Now, I am not running for President or anything else, for that matter, this year, so I am shocked that Minnesota would be paired with Massachusetts as being the only two States to be cut back in title I dollars at the same time we are experiencing an increase in the children who are eligible for title I funding. As that reduction gets spread across our school districts, some of the consequences are very severe. Quite a number of districts will be taken off of title I funding whatsoever. They will not be able to serve any of the children in those school districts who are eligible, individually, for title I.

One of the school districts, Anoka-Hennepin, is going to experience a 40-percent reduction in funding for title I programs at the same time the number of children eligible for title I is going up.

Now, how can we say that there is no child going to be left behind under this program, and that it is adequately funded, when a school district such as that is going to experience a 40-percent reduction in funding? How is it that two States in the Nation—Massachusetts and Minnesota—are going to see a reduction in funding while the overall program nationwide is going to receive a $1 billion increase?

Why are we being punished? Why are we being penalized? Why are we being singled out for those reductions? Why does the Secretary of Education come to our State one month earlier and assure our educators that there is plenty of money, that these reductions are not going to take place, when either he did not know—in which case he was unbelievably ill-informed—or he knew and did not speak honestly to our educators? And either one of those I find enormously reprehensible.

Mr. President, $2,727,000 is a huge loss in money for the disadvantaged children of the State of Minnesota, meaning that less than half—less than half—of all the children in my State who are eligible for title I funding are actually going to get services provided to them. And that is no child left behind? That is a fraud. That is adequate funding for No Child Left Behind? That is a lie. That is a lie.

In this room I have heard it said several times: There is plenty of money for title I. There is plenty of money for No Child Left Behind. Not for Minnesota. We were underfunded before, and it is being cut back now. We are one of two States being cut. I ask the Secretary of Education: I want to know why. Come back to Minnesota, Mr. Secretary, now that you have the facts, evidently. Come back to Minnesota and meet with those educators and tell them why, why our money is being cut back.

The chairman of the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee has stood on this floor—and I have had this debate with him; he is not here presently, but I look forward to that opportunity again in the future—saying there is additional money available to the States under No Child Left Behind. In fact, there is so much additional money that some States don't know what to do with it all.

Well, I can see why that distinguished Senator made that statement, because in his home State, over the last 5 years, they have experienced a 44-percent increase in funding under title I. In this next year, they are going to receive an increase of almost the same $2.5 million which Minnesota is going to lose. They will receive an 8.1-percent increase in title I funding, whereas we will experience a reduction of over $2,727,000.

So I guess for some States this is a good deal because they are getting more money. I am glad they are, if they have that additional need. But the State of Minnesota has the additional need, also. More children are coming in from all over the world; children who need English second-language skills; children who are without any education from countries that have been war ravaged for years; children coming from other States with educational achievement levels grades behind the students in Minnesota.

We cannot offer the services they are entitled to under Federal law that existed before No Child Left Behind? We cannot offer the services that were promised to them and to us as a condition for voting in favor of No Child Left Behind? I voted against that, I will confess, as did my colleague at the time in the Senate. Maybe that is why Minnesota is being singled out and punished. I do not know. I do not understand why, except that I know the two Senators from Massachusetts—one is the ranking member of the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee, and he certainly made a commitment to this program at the time because he was assured there was going to be full funding; the other Senator, of course, is now the Democratic candidate for President of the United States. I find it really not coincidental that is one of the two States that is singled out to be cut back in funds.

But I do not understand why Minnesota—why Minnesota—is suffering accordingly. It is wrong. It is wrong to be cutting back funds when you are saying to the American people that no child is going to be left behind and then you turn around and make that a lie. It is wrong. It is unfair to the State of Minnesota.

Mr. Secretary of Education, you owe it to our State to come back and explain to our educators why it is that they are going to have to do more with less next year. Why is it that we are one of two States being cut back?

I am deeply offended. On behalf of the people of Minnesota, I am enraged that we are being treated in this unfair way—and on behalf, most of all, of the children in the State of Minnesota who are not going to be receiving the special services to which they are entitled. We are going to force cutbacks in educational services affecting all of our schoolchildren. They are being left behind, Mr. Secretary. Mr. President, they are being left behind. What are you going to do about it?

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from Maryland is recognized for up to 10 minutes.

CONGRATULATING SENATOR ROBERT C. BYRD

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, earlier in the day, a number of my colleagues took the floor to pay tribute and respect to my dear friend and colleague, Senator BYRD. I was unable to be here because I was involved in a markup of legislation. I want to take a few moments now, as we bring the day's business to a close, to pay tribute to my very good friend on the occasion of his 17,000th vote in the Senate, an all-time record.

The distinguished Senator from West Virginia has given this Nation and his beloved State of West Virginia the very best in public service. The civility, the intelligence, the commitment, and dedication that Senator BYRD brings to this body commands the respect and admiration of every Member of the Senate. That has been expressed from time to time by many of us in this Chamber.

The vote today is but one of many milestones for Senator BYRD, but it does offer all of us the opportunity to reflect upon his very special place in the Senate.

Senator BYRD often refers to the Senate as a "pillar of the Constitution." I think it is fair to refer to Senator BYRD as a "pillar of the Senate." The Senator's dedication to this body and its history—he has written, after all, the definitive history of the U.S. Senate—its customs and its procedures are unequalled by any other Member I have known. And his dedication to the Senate ranks with his dedication to the country, to the State of West Virginia, and to the Constitution.

As this body's indisputable expert on parliamentary procedure, it is only fitting that Senator BYRD's first vote, the first of the 17,000 votes that we celebrate today, was cast on January 8, 1959, and was procedural in nature. That vote began, of course, a legacy of extraordinary leadership and service in this body.

The able Senator from West Virginia has not only employed his mastery of how the Senate functions effectively in floor debates, but he has used it to pass on and protect and perfect the spirit of this body which he has called "the cornerstone of our constitutional system."

Given this incredible record of service and experience, Senator BYRD now, I think fairly, stands as both the intellect and the conscience of this Chamber. He constantly reminds us of the fundamentals of our democracy and the role the Framers of our Constitution envisioned for the legislative branch.

No Member of the U.S. Congress has a deeper understanding of the Constitution and of the Legislature's vital function as a guardian of our fundamental national document.

It is because of this institutional knowledge, his devotion to the Senate's distinguishing characteristics, and his devotion to the civility that has customarily underpinned the interaction of the Members of this body that in times of severe national crisis, and on occasion constitutional crisis when the Senate is faced with the most difficult of choices, Members from both sides of the aisle have sought the leadership of Senator ROBERT C. BYRD of West Virginia.

I consider it a singular honor to serve with him in the Senate. I congratulate him on casting his 17,000th vote, and I look forward to seeing him cast many more.

I yield the floor.
